Mr. MAHANY. Do you want to find out from me which it is?

Mr. STIEFEL. The euphemism would be for further study.

Mr. MAHANY. I would say that the committee would like to study it a little further so that, perhaps, it might be indicated that they would like to have Members of the Senate also put in a class with the judges.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 141 (Pink), on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 144, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), entitled "The Vehicle Code," further regulating pedestrians' right of way upon highways in business or residence districts.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I intend to cast a negative vote on this bill.

I feel that the law in negligence now takes care of the situation whereby it is within the right of a jury to determine whether one, as a pedestrian, traversing the highway is guilty of contributory negligence. I feel that there are situations which arise where a pedestrian would or would not be guilty of such negligence. I feel that there are various situations or cases which would alter the case.

I think for us to legislate negligence here in this situation may at some time deprive some citizen who is a pedestrian, who may be injured, of some right in court.

Therefore, Mr. President, I say let us leave the law as it is, and let a jury determine whether or not a pedestrian has been negligent.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I want to tell the Members of the Senate how it came about that I sponsored this piece of legislation.

When I was out to the West Coast last August, I found that the taxicab drivers were very careful about pedestrians. When they approached a crosswalk, every taxicab in which I rode stopped to let the pedestrians get across. I said to the taxicab driver, "This seems to be a bit different than what we experience in the eastern States. It seems that it is open season for all pedestrians when taxicabs move down on them." He said, "Out here, all of us know that the pedestrian has the right of way and we respect it. If we do not respect the right of way of a pedestrian when he is going across on a crosswalk, then we are in trouble."

I wonder how many of you have had the same experience as I have had when you have gone from Capitol Park over to the Penn-Harris Hotel. You really do not know whether or not you are going to get across. Those motorists are moving down on you from every direction. I had one autoist almost run me down when I had the light with me, about a year ago. Although he stopped and apologized, if he had hit me my estate might have been able to recover, but I do not think I would have.

Mr. President, I think this bill definitely protects the pedestrian. You would not have so many accidents if this bill becomes law.

Today, when you have a green light in your favor and you are going across a crosswalk, so many cars today will not respect your right of way when they are moving around the corner from the right of you. In other words, when you are going across a crosswalk and you have the green light and a car is making the turn, which also has the green light, the car will move ahead and you must step back or else be run down by the car.

Therefore, Mr. President, it was with the purpose of protecting the right of way of pedestrians that I put this bill in. I feel that if we, all of us, understand, both the driver and the pedestrian, that the pedestrian has the right of way on crosswalks when he has the light in his favor, then certainly we are going to reduce the number of accidents and we are going to reduce the number of close escapes which seem to be the case at the present time.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, as Senator Mahany knows, being a member of the legal profession, we do have a law now which gives the right of way to the pedestrian at an intersection. The situation which Senator Mahany described, if such a law as we now have before us would go into effect, it would not change the situation one bit from what it is today.

As I said, at a crosswalk, where it is controlled by a traffic light with traffic going in the same direction, the pedestrian has the right of way. If an automobile driver does not respect that and, thereby, causes damage, the law— of course, after you are gone, that is not going to do any good; yet, it will not do any good if you have this act—says that you still have the right of damages for anyone who does not obey that law.

What you are going to do by passing this bill is to confuse the law on contributory negligence to the point where a jury, then, will not know where they stand. I say, let us leave the law as it is now.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I read this bill over carefully and I have had similar experiences as Senator Mahany. I was also out on the West Coast and I marveled at the fact that vehicles and taxicab drivers, especially, recognize the rights of the pedestrians. I think this is a good safety measure and I am going to vote for this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting against this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 3, TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Resolution, Serial No. 3.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

DIRECTING THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE RISING COSTS OF RECORDING LEGAL DOCUMENTS

In the Senate, January 22, 1957.

It has come to the attention of the Senate that the cost of recording deeds, papers for estates, and all other legal documents has been steadily rising.

It is contended, that these costs in the Commonwealth are much higher than in most other states of the Union.

The matter of rising costs of recording legal documents constitutes a great burden upon the ability of small estates and less affluent persons to pay; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Local Government Commission be directed to make a thorough study and investigation on the problem of rising costs of recording legal documents. The Commission should compare the costs of administering comparable recording services in other states and should consider the impact that these costs have upon smaller estates and persons in lower income brackets, and be it further

Resolved, That the Local Government Commission submit a report to His Excellency the Governor and to the Senate of its findings and recommendations, with drafts of legislation necessary to carry these recommendations into effect.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 3, ADOPTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 105, TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 105,

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY AND INVESTIGATE THE PENNSYLVANIA MORTGAGE SYSTEM

In the Senate, January 28, 1957.

Due to economic changes, the raising of the standards of living and the facility of financing the purchase of property for business and dwelling purposes, each year untold thousands of deeds and mortgages are left for recording with the Recorder of Deeds of the several counties of this Commonwealth.

As a result of the recording of this vast number of deeds and mortgages, the various offices of the Recorder of Deeds are being filled to capacity.

Our Legislature saw fit years ago to enact legislation providing for a short "form" deed which was designed to conserve space in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

Many states have appropriate legislation, which provide a title abstract system and the incorporation of descriptions in conveyance which result in shorter deeds and mortgages.

Attorneys at law, financing institutions, public officials and the general public would be greatly benefited by legislation that would simplyfy the conveyancing and mortgaging of property; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate:

1. The various types of "short form mortgages" and the integration thereof into the Pennsylvania system of mortgaging property;

2. The establishment of abstract of title systems with respect to the ownership and conveyancing of property together with methods whereby descriptions of property may be incorporated into deeds and mortgages by reference to prior deeds; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 105, ADOPTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

DECLARING THE TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO THE COMMONWEALTH MENTAL HEALTH RESEARCH FOUNDATION TO BE CONTRARY TO THE LEGISLATIVE INTENT OF APPROPRIATION ACT No. 146-A

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. PECHAN and BERGER offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, February 18, 1957.

Whereas, The General Assembly by Act No. 146-A, approved the first day of June, 1956, appropriated to the Department of Welfare the sum of $143,500,000.00 "for the payment of salaries, wages or other compensation of the superintendents and other employes, for the payment of general expenses, supplies and printing, for repairs, alterations and improvements to plant and equipment, for improvements to lands, for the purchase of equipment, furniture and furnishings, for expenses of the boards of trustees and incidental expenses and for all other expenses of maintenance and operation necessary for the proper conduct of the work of the Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute"; and

Whereas, It is reported that the Secretary of Welfare proposes to pay the sum of $250,000.00 out of the aforesaid appropriation to the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation for research and training to be undertaken by the Foundation; and

Whereas, The language of the appropriation act does not authorize any such transfer of state funds to said foundation; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby declares such a transfer of funds to be unauthorized by law and contrary to legislative intent as expressed in the Appropriation Act No. 146-A.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I suggest, since this resolution covers such a very important subject, that the resolution be sent to the Committee on Rules. Therefore, I object to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT. There being objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution, the resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. YOSKO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, a story appeared in one of the Philadelphia newspapers over the week end on the question of the Department of Public Instruction employing a number of consultants, fees paid, and the type of work they were supposed to have performed. Some of these consultants come from the area which I represent. They were interviewed by a reporter from one of our newspapers back home, the Allentown Call-Chronicle, and there seems to be a difference in the amount that was paid to some of these educators and the amount indicated in the newspaper story.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am going to read the story which has some quotes from the people who are involved, not for the purpose of either defending or condemning the method by which these consultants were employed. I am not condemning nor defending the fees which were paid or the services they rendered, but I am simply trying to clarify the situation because I do not think it is fair to say that these people received a certain sum of money if they did not actually receive it. I think, in that case, it would reflect on their characters.

My resolution, Mr. President, after I read the newspaper story, will call for the Superintendent of Public Instruction to submit to the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations a statement of the persons employed as consultants, the total amount paid to each, a description of the type of work they were employed to do, and the time spent on the assignment.

I now read from the Sunday Call-Chronicle of February 17. The title of the article is:

"Educators Deny Fees Exorbitant.

"Prominent Lehigh Valley educators who have served as part-time consultants with the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction last night denied that they were paid exorbitant fees for their services.

"In answer to a story in a Philadelphia newspaper that consultants had been paid fees that ranged as high as $100 a day plus expenses, area educators mentioned, stated either that they had received nothing but expense money or nothing at all.

"The Philadelphia story reports that the State Senate had started an investigation of the Department of Public Instruction practice of hiring these consultants.

"Listed among the consultants and the salary they allegedly received were:

"Dr. Harold Thomas, Lehigh University, $50 a day for 15 days; Wray H. Congdon, dean of students at Lehigh, $50 a day for 30 days; Thomas W. Watkins, superintendent of Southern Lehigh Schools, $50 a day for 20 days; Dr. George C. Ackerlund, Lehigh University, $50 a day for 30 days, and John S. Cartwright, superintendent of Allentown schools, $50 a day for 30 days.

"Dr. Thomas said he had served only one day in an advisory capacity and that for this service he had, up to now, received nothing but expense money for his single trip to Harrisburg. He said payment for his services had never been mentioned. The head of Lehigh's Department of Education, Dr. Thomas, said he served as consultant in revision of the state curriculum.

"Dr. Ackerlund could not be reached for comment last evening, but Dr. Thomas, for whom he works at Lehigh, denied that Ackerlund had been away from Lehigh for the 30 days mentioned in the Philadelphia story.

" 'He was not away from Lehigh on this type of business more than a day at a time for not more than three times,' Dr. Thomas said. 'I couldn't spare him for the time he was allegedly in Harrisburg.'

"Superintendent Cartwright said that since last summer he had spent three days in Harrisburg as a consultant on curriculum and reorganization of the State Department of Public Instruction.

" 'I received a total of $50 for those three days. That was for driving my car to Harrisburg, for staying at a hotel one night during that time and other expenses incidental to the trips. The expenses were figured on a mileage basis.'

"Superintendent Watkins reported he had received no money for any services to the state and up to now had spent no time in Harrisburg.

"Watkins said that about a year ago when Dr. Charles Boehm became state superintendent of public instruction, he had received an original request asking if he could assist the department. He said he answered the letter, telling Dr. Boehm that he had the approval of the Southern Lehigh School Board to serve without any compensation to himself.

" 'That was the last I heard of it until I received a letter dated Feb. 3, reporting that a meeting was scheduled in Harrisburg Feb. 25.

" 'That's all there is to it as far as I'm concerned. Nothing was mentioned about salary, nor was there any specific assignment given me.'

"Dean Congdon said that the Philadelphia story was incorrect in saying that he was aiding in curriculum revision. He said that he did serve five days and received $50 a day for studying the state's higher education setup. He visited five teachers' colleges in the area, spending a day at each one. As far as he knows, he says, that is the end of his assignment. He says he started last December on an 'open assignment' and knows nothing about 30 days.

"The story quotes Donald B. Moore, administrative officer for the Department of Public Instruction as saying such fees as were allegedly paid were legal.

" 'Some time ago, when the department budget became tight, we decided we could save money by bringing in high-level people at fees for a limited period rather than hiring them on a regular salary,' Moore was quoted as saying.

"He also was quoted as saying that the department felt 'employes of public schools could be hired in this capacity because the state gives each district a lump reimbursement which we do not consider a direct payment toward the salaries of local district employes.'

"Approximately 50 consultants were listed, including some educational leaders from Penn State, New York University, Columbia, Westminster College, Syracuse and University of Illinois."

Mr. President, I repeat that in order to get a true statement of the issue involved and to get a clarification so that no one is embarrassed, I am presenting this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING CERTAIN PAYROLL INFORMATION FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Boehm, Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction, submit to the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, on or before February 25, 1957, a statement of persons employed as consultants, the total amount paid to each, and a description of the type and time spent on the assignment given to such consultants.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

In the Senate, February 18, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 25, 1957 at three o'clock p. m., E.S.T.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 25, 1957 at four-thirty o'clock p. m., E.S.T.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, two weeks ago, a highly irritated gentleman contacted my office here in Harrisburg with an urgent message. Unfortunately, I was on this floor and could not be reached. However, the caller left a message and, in an apparent threat, he asked my secretary to tell me to go easy in investigating what appears to be a host of parasites on the public payroll. This caller, identifying himself as James Macry of Beaver County, was spurred into making the call by a news story which appeared in a Pittsburgh newspaper.

The news story also brought other responses. Alert, indignant citizens wrote letters, called me by telephone, reporting several instances on the part of State jobholders. They, too, seemed to think we were investigating. I was not investigating. It was a story that was in the newspaper and the reporter quoted me as saying that I thought it should be looked into.

However, Mr. President, after that story appeared in the newspaper, as I said, a great many people called me and gave me information.

All of us have taken notice of recent actions and statements made by the Governor. It seems that at long last he may be starting to clean up his Administration. When I say he is cleaning up his administration, I mean that if there are parasites on the payroll, he is just as responsible as anybody else in having them on that payroll. It is his Administration and if he is going to clean up, if there is anything to clean up—I am not a judge; I am not going to be the prosecutor and the jury. I am just going to tell what citizens think about certain people who hold dual jobs.

I want to tell the Governor that I, on this side of the Senate, will be glad to help. If there are persons getting paid for something which they do not do, I think they should be removed from the payrolls and I will help him if I can. However, up until this moment, I am not investigating. I am just going to give you some facts as I have them.

Mr. President, it seems to me that we, on this side of the Senate, should properly encourage the Governor to carry out his announced policies. I would not openly suggest that the Governor is merely giving lip service to good intentions. I feel that he can be spurred on by what encouragement and assistance we may be able to lend.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would like to bring to the attention of the Administration, and this Senate, some reports given to me by conscientious citizens who want to see State employees earn their day's pay by doing a full day's work.

Again, I want to reiterate that I am not saying that these people are guilty. However, I have checked the facts which I am giving you and, as best I can ascertain, they are true. For instance, we have a fellow who is doing double duty, known as Orlando Capretto, of Vandergrift, Pennsylvania. He is employed full time at the United States Steel Company plant in Vandergrift. He is a hardy individual and he also manages to draw $3,560 annually as a result of being appointed to serve the Commonwealth as a Claims Adjuster for the State Fund. Capretto, a councilman in Vandergrift's sixth ward, is reportedly in disfavor among his fellow Democrats who are disgruntled to see a man serve as a steel employee, State employee and councilman.

Then we have Anthony Dzikowski—D-z-i-k-o-w-s-k-i—of Ambridge, Pennsylvania, who is making hay while the sun shines. In a manner which remains unexplained, he receives payment for holding two full time jobs. One job is with the Spang-Chalfont Company, in Ambridge, where he reportedly earns $8,000 annually. Apparently, this requires little attendance at the place of business, for Mr. Dzikowski manages to serve the people of Pennsylvania as a Safety Inspector in the State Insurance Fund. For this, he receives $3,925 each year. These salaries would give Mr. Dzikowski about forty-eight dollars a day.

The fellow I spoke to you about a little while ago, James Macry, has many talents. He is an unusual man. Mr. Macry is an employee of the Inheritance Tax Division. That is one phase of his daily life. He also holds down a full time job at the Townsend Nails Corporation establishment in Fallston, Pennsylvania. A civic-minded gentleman, he serves the Democratic organization of Beaver County as its secretary. Apparently, Mr. Macry feels that his positions give him considerable influence and, undoubtedly, they do in certain quarters.

As I stated awhile ago, on February 5, 1957, an irritated gentleman, identifying himself as Mr. Macry—I do not know whether it was Mr. Macry; he did not talk to me—telephoned the office of Senator Albert Pechan. Mr. Macry had heard that Senator Pechan was looking into the matter of certain political elements which are milking the public payroll. Unable to contact me personally, he left word for me to go easy in investigative work. He added that he was Sam Neff's campaign manager. Mr. Neff, of course, is "Mr. Democrat" of Beaver County and appears to carry considerable weight in high administrative circles.

Here is an invisible man. A mystery at present surrounds the circumstances of a gentleman named Clyde M. Titler of Brownsville, Pennsylvania. Mr. Titler, reportedly a Railway Brotherhood official, is said to be employed in Greensburg in the State Workmen's Insurance Fund office. He was appointed November 1, 1955. Sources tell us that Mr. Titler has not reported for work for some time and that his checks have been mailed to him. The district manager, a commendable fellow, is said to have written officials in Harrisburg complaining of the unexplained absence and refusing to accept liability for checks mailed to him.

Here is a triple threat burgess. Our Commonwealth has a unique burgess who, it seems, must work twenty-four hours each day. He is either sacrificing his health or his principles, according to reports given to us.

Burgess James L. Bruno, of Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, serves his community for $2,500 annually. Since this does not require his full time, he manages to serve as a foreman at J. & L. Steel. Possibly inspired by his success in handling these two jobs, he spurs himself onward and serves the Commonwealth as a Safety Inspector for the State Workmen's Insurance Fund at a salary of $3,925.

Assuming that his task as burgess requires some time, that he puts in eight hours daily as a steel plant employee, and that Governor Leader has him working another eight-hour day for the State, we wonder just how Mr. Bruno manages to live up to all of his obligations and yet retain his health. We would caution him against such overexertion, with the thought in mind that such action might lead to a physical breakdown, in which case Mr. Bruno would undoubtedly be one seeking certain welfare assistance from the State. We would caution Mr. Bruno and Governor Leader to conserve such talented manpower as Mr. Bruno.

Each day, Joseph A. Belcastro, of West Aliquippa, punches the time clock at a mill job at 3:00 p. m. Prior to this routine task, he apparently leads a hectic daily life.

Mr. Belcastro is also employed by the State at $3,666 annually, as a Professional License Investigator. The only comment we have to make concerning this situation is to express concern for citizens who apparently are being dragged from their beds in the wee hours of the night for the purpose of having their licenses inspected.

I have another gentleman here by the name of Frankie Lombardo, of Monessen, who leads a band to entertain customers in an establishment known as the Twin Coaches, each night until 2:00 a. m. When I say each night until 2:00 a. m., that is the information that I have. However, I talked to a gentleman just a little while ago and he said that he only played there on week ends. I am not going to say what I have written here; I am just going to say this. I do not want to do the gentleman any injustice However, I do want to say that when the name was given to us, it was given to us under the name of Frankie Barr, and we were to find that he is no relative of Senator Joe Barr. It seems, however, that Mr. Barr was not on the payroll, but further inquiries told us that Frankie Barr is employed by the State as Frank Lombardo. Frankie Barr, who has the band at the Twin Coaches, and Frank Lombardo, of Monessen, Pennsylvania, are one and the same person.

It seems that Mr. Lombardo holds down a full time Statejob as Automobile Equipment Inspector in the Department of Property and Supplies. For this he receives $4,329 annually. He has been a State employee since April 25, 1955. A report from Westmoreland County says that no one seems to know when he works at the State job. To hear him lead his band, visit Twin Coaches—I am giving him a plug now—on Route 51, Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, there are ten or fifteen more that I have not fully completed. I do not want to bring their names out here on the floor, but they are available to the Governor if he is sincere about what he wants to do, and I am here to help him.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, when I was a little boy, I read a story about Rip Van Winkle. Rip slept for twenty years and suddenly awakened and found that the whole world had changed.

My good friends on the Republican side slept for sixteen full years under four Republican Governor's and all of a sudden they found out that the practices they had enjoyed for sixteen years were suddenly very bad.

There is not a job filled in the State of Pennsylvania that was not filled by a Republican prior to the Administration of George Leader and taken, by and large I would say, by about the same caliber of persons.

I am torn here today between two emotions. One is an emotion that I have always tried to follow, and that is to do the best that I can for all of the people that I can. In this group of people, I consider the little defenseless persons to be just as important as those who have all of the means at their command to defend themselves.

I do not know the circumstances surrounding the man whom Senator Pechan is talking about. I know one of them. Knowing him personally for a number of years, I intend to state for the record this man's case, since he is not here to defend himself.

I resent with every fiber of my body the classification of this gentleman as a parasite. He is a man with a rather large family, as families go. It is much larger than mine, and I found it rather a problem during my lifetime to raise two children according to the standards that I would like to raise them by and to give to them the things that I would like for them to have.

I have been on the other side of this fence, and I would like to call your attention to a man that I knew very intimately, who worked for fifty-five years on two jobs. He worked from the time he came to America as a young immigrant boy, at the age of sixteen, by day at whatever job he could get and by night as a barber. That little barber shop was the only parlor that we knew for all of my young lifetime, until I grew up and got married. My father was the only barber in three coal mining towns in the very county that Senator Pechan comes from and the county that I was born in. I would like to have him go back to that county and ask about my father among those who still know him, and find out whether he in any way neglected his family or his duties in the mines, in the pits, and the shops while he was raising a family and working from the time he came home at night until way into the night as the town barber.

Later on when we moved to the city of Jeannette, he became a worker in the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, but he still had that revolving chair in our only parlor, in which he barbered every night of his life and every Sunday of his life. I do not remember eating a Sunday dinner with my father sitting at the table throughout all these years. He worked at two jobs.

Some of the greatest men in American history, as I have known American history, have never been satisfied with toiling at one particular job. They worked wherever they could, to do whatever they could in order that they could give their families the little extras that are needed sometimes in order to provide that which a family man believes his family needs.

I am not going to protect, nor will I ever protect, any body that is proven to be a drone, but I will stand up in the defense of citizens of this State who are called parasites without investigation or without any proof whatsoever that I know of.

I say to you that Frankie Barr, whose real name is Frank Lombardo—yes, Frankie Barr is a name. It is name well-known in Pennsylvania in the days gone by as a wonderful orchestra leader, and he is still hanging on to an orchestra that plays at nights in a bar or any place that will give them a job, and particularly of late at the Twin Coaches in western Pennsylvania. His entire orchestra is made up of men who work in the shops and the mills and factories of Westmoreland County, and at night go to work so that you and I may be entertained. Those of us who can afford the entertainment pay for it, and they work and see to it that we are entertained for a few dollars a night.

I have a telegram here and I would like to read it to the Members of this Assembly. Under dateline of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, February 16, by L. R. Lindgren, appearing in the Pittsburgh Press, the following:

"Five more cases of double jobs in which State employees also have outside work will be disclosed on the floor of the Senate Monday. The expose will be made by Senator Albert R. Pechan of Ford City, Republican, and Assistant Majority Leader. I ask you, as my Senator, if my activities as a band leader, accepting only engagements from 9:30 at night to 1:00 a. m. in the morning, conflict with my State duties from 8:30 in the morning to 5:00 in the afternoon. My annual earnings as a band leader do not exceed $1,800 a year. Can Senator Pechan exist on such an annual income?

"If this is considered to be a conflict of interest, I shall submit my resignation to my superiors at once. Please advise."

Signed, "Frank Lombardo."

The way the words were twisted around here on the floor, you would think that the man was operating under an alias. No, he has a name like many authors have names, and actors have names and bandleaders all over this Country have names. I can name you, offhand, a half dozen well-known bandleaders who have never operated under their given and Christian names, because in this business of entertainment it is oftentimes proper, and probably beneficial to them financially, to take another name in order that it may be more attractive to the listening and entertained public.

I say to all of you that I also checked with the Secretary of Property and Supplies, a man in whom I have a great deal of confidence, Senator John Rice, and here is what he wrote to me this afternoon, or rather sent a note to me this afternoon:

"Secretary Rice called on Frank Lombardo. He has a $4,329 job in Property and Supplies as Automotive Inspector for western Pennsylvania. He was transferred from the Department of Labor and Industry on December 14, 1956 to Property and Supplies."

The Secretary is getting a written report from his supervisor, and that report indicates, from telephone conversation, that since he has had the job of Automotive Inspector, the only engagements he takes are for week ends. He works the required number of specified hours for the State of Pennsylvania. This has been checked and verified.

Now, Senator Pechan, all I can say to you is this; that before you put that man's name out into the public where it can be ridiculed by people who do not think about the damage that can be inflicted by ruining a man's good name, you could have checked as much as I did. You could have asked whether this man was a parasite. You could have asked whether or not he was receiving money for something that he was not doing, for some services he was not rendering.

In so far as what the Governor is doing, there is not a man on this side that will impeed the Governor one inch in his strides to make this government of Pennsylvania a better government as he sees it, and I am sure that he will eliminate not only the jobholders, but I am sure that with the help of the Democratic side, he will eliminate the parasitic jobs which, in the main, are the cause of any parasites being on the payroll prior to this Administration or even since if there are such.

I refuse to admit that Frankie Barr is a parasite. I refuse to admit that any person that tries to help his family by taking more than one job, if he can handle them, is a parasite. I refuse to admit that any person has not the right, under our great democratic form of government, to try to better himself and to try to provide, perhaps, for his family some education that he himself could not attain.

I was one of the unfortunate ones that had to quit school when I was in the eighth grade, because there were were too many mouths in our family to feed and my father, working night and day, could not provide the necessary funds for education. That is why I have here on my desk a bill, which I intend to introduce and ask cooperation on the other side for co-sponsorship, setting up in this State a higher education assistance authority, with the right to take moneys from whatever sources that can be provided to loan to worthy students in order that they can acquire an education.

Does any man in this room think that I did not want a higher education? Does any man think that there are thousands of young men in this United States, and in Pennsylvania, who do not want a higher education? Do you think that eighty per cent of the youngsters who graduate from the high schools of Pennsylvania want to quit school? No, and I did not want to quit school either. I would have loved to have gone on to school and on to higher education because all my life, up until this time and from that time until this, I have always regretted that I have not been cloaked with the sanctity that comes, in talking about knowledge, when you can hide behind a Master's Degree or some other degree. Those of us who have tried to self-educate ourselves have no standing whatsoever in the field of intelligence, as it were.

I want to say that there are a lot of men in this country of ours and in the State of Pennsylvania who can qualify for one job and if they can handle another job on the outside, so long as it does not interfere with the services they are bound by duty to give to the Commonwealth, I see nothing wrong with it. There is nothing wrong with the professors and the college men who come here to the State if they can provide some needed service to the State of Pennsylvania, and give it at the time the service is rendered and be paid for those services, if they render the services.

There is not any difference in my mind between a lawyer who is on the payroll of the Commonwealth, making anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000 a year and maintaining his law practice back home, and a young man who works in a job for the Commonwealth and then works at night, while the rest of us are playing or sleeping, in order to earn extra money for his family. I cannot see any conflict of interest.

A man working in a line that he knows and, incidentally, you might have found that out if you would have investigated. All of Frank Lombardo's mature life, he has been in the automobile business and he is in the automotive inspection equipment department of the Commonwealth. I see nothing more that would qualify him for that job than the training that he has had throughout his lifetime.

That is just one of the incidents. I do not know how many innocent people are being hurt by this kind of business that is being pulled here in the State by going to the newspapers with a story and immediately branding these men as being parasites or drones. They are not all drones and they are not all parasites, and maybe none of them are for all I know. I hesitate to say that any of them are. I believe that we owe something to the people of this Commonwealth and when I say people, it is all inclusive. It is people, whether they dig ditches, whether they work for the State of Pennsylvania, whether they are bandleaders, whether they are Senators, whether they are doctors, or dentists or educators. To me there is no difference, and in the eyes of God there is no difference in all men. Maybe some of us are not as smart as others, but all of us are entitled to the dignities and the rights which accrue to our citizenship as men of this great country.

I want to say to the Members of this Senate that I do not know what prompted this particular release. I do not know whether some newspaper needed a story or some writer wanted one. I do not know about that, but I do know that there are also newspapermen who have more than one job, because I have known some of them in my time and I still know some of them.

There are many persons who work at more than one thing. I doubt if there is a Member of this Senate that tries to exist on the $6,000 a year that we recently received as the salary and expense account for remuneration as Members of this Senate. I think there might be some Members of this Senate who are working for corporations, working for their own law firms, working in their own dental office, working in their own public accountancy or working for other people. I doubt if your employers feel that they are being cheated because of the fact that you devote a couple of days a week to the work of the Commonwealth, and I doubt if the Commonwealth can say that it is cheated of you giving the best of your time.

How many of us devote a great many more hours to the business of being Senator than just those hours which we spend upon the floor of this Senate? How many of us attend meetings of all types of committees out home at all hours of the day and night, and Sundays and any other day of the week? I do not believe that I have ever sat down to a Sunday dinner without being interrupted either by a telephone call or visitors, pertaining to business that belongs to the State Senate of Pennsylvania and to the Commonwealth. All of us are harassed time in and time out again by people who have problems, but remember this. When we ask people to vote for us—and I emphasize people—we do not ask them what they do for a living or how they do it. We try to receive every vote that we can from any citizen qualified to vote.

I go beyond that as an individual. It has always been my philosophy that if I can ask that man for a vote before election day, that man has a right to ask me for any kind of a favor that he feels can help him in his own business or in his own way of life any time after election day. I do not close the door on any person that has been good to me. I live by a simple creed. I live by the creed that every man that treats me right is all right in my book and what he does to another is his and that person's business.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I want to speak now as the Democratic State Chairman and not just as the Senator from the Forty-third District.

I was away, as you probably know, for approximately three weeks, and I did read some insinuating articles in the newspapers that Barr knew that the heat was going to go on at the Capitol and he ducked.

Well, Mr. President, that is not the truth, and I think every Member of the Senate knows it. They know that my in-laws have a place in Florida at the Flamingo Hotel, a cottage, and they divide their time among their six children. The schedule was made out late last fall as to when I was to go with my family to Florida, and I want to get that on the record.

I want to say to Senator Pechan that I have always bewared of Greeks bearing false gifts; that he is going to help us clean this situation up. I thank you, but I think we are fully capable of doing it ourselves. I do not like to be as personal as this, but I think you are guilty of McCarthyism. You have made these people guilty by association.

I want to say to you further, Al Pechan, that you could have gone to each and any one of their superiors and received their work sheet, and determined if these people were doing a job. If they were not, you probably could have done a service by having them eliminated from the payroll, but if they are doing their job, they should not have their names bandied about in the public print.

I think that all of us know there is a great legal staff here on the hill. Some may say it is no good, some say it is mediocre, some say it is fine. I am no judge of lawyers and I am not a good judge of dentists either, but I do know this. You cannot get a lawyer to come up here and work on this Hill and give up his solicitorship of a borough or township back home, and I do not expect them to as long as they do a job for the Commonwealth.

I think also that any man who gives the Commonwealth forty hours time a week, that is all that is expected of him and, by golly, I do not give a darn if he works around the clock. Some people have more vitality than others. I know in my job I almost have to work around the clock, but I do that because I get compensation other than what I get here in the Senate, and the people of the Democratic Party in the State expect me to deliver to them.

I presume with this fellow, Barr, because he has taken a name like a newspaperman takes a pen name, the reason his name is bandied around is because it is Barr. I think that man has been unduly criticized in the newspapers and probably the people back in his locality, as you probably know, will look at him with rather a fishy eye.

I think these things are wrong, and if you have any further names like this, I think you will do yourself a favor, your party a favor, and the people a favor if you would go to their superiors. If you want to go to their superiors, I will go with you and give them their names and we will find out if they are drones, because I am for eliminating them just as fast you are.

Mr. MAHANY. I note that the curfew has tolled the knell of parting day and, therefore, I would now like to move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. McMENAMIN. I think we are making a mountain out of a molehill but if I could just have a minute, I would like to ask my good friend, Al Pechan, the Senator from Armstrong County, for a little help.

Al, you fellows had sixteen years to find out about these gravy jobs and you seem to be able to put your fingers on them pretty quickly. Now we have not been able to get any in my county and I wish you would give me a list of them. I do not know whether they are all named Barr or they are all going to Westmoreland County or what, but if you help me out, maybe I can get a few of my relations on the payroll, if you will tell me where these jobs are.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, February 19, 1957, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:12 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Tuesday, February 19, 1957, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, February 18, 1957

The House met at 5:30 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Dr. Roy E. Manne, Pastor of the South Avenue Methodist Church, Wilkinsburg, Pa., guest of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Spray, guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, we thank Thee that Thou dost require so much of us. Thou dost not deal with us as though we were incompetent, but as if we were greatly competent for greater things. Thou dost want us to love Thee. Thou dost want us to love the world—to plough the world's fields and dig the world's gardens. We thank Thee that men may put their hands in the hands of God and become mighty. We thank Thee that Thou hast plenty of room for plenty of workmen, and that Thy job is not yet done. There are still shavings on Thy workbench; there are still boards to be smoothed; there are anvils to be hammered on; there are instruments yet to be shaped. And here we are! May we not fail Thee, for in failing Thee, we fail ourselves. May the spirit of Thy wisdom and goodness hover over this assembly in its deliberations. May every individual member be worthy of the responsibility that is his. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. TOLL, GOLDSTEIN, GELFAND and WELSH. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 31.

In the House of Representatives, February 13, 1957.

Whereas; the Joint Resolution now before the Congress of the United States relating to problems in the Middle East is known as the Eisenhower Doctrine; and

Whereas; the Joint Resolution has passed the House and is now being considered by the United States Senate; and

Whereas; the Joint Resolution has not included provisions to eliminate discrimination by some Middle East countries against Americans of Jewish Faith; and

Whereas; American tourists of the Jewish Faith are not granted passport to countries in the Near East because of the opposition of the Arab countries; and

Whereas; American Air Force personnel of Jewish Faith are not permitted on the Dharan Air Base because of Arabian opposition; and

Whereas; shipments by American export firms cannot be approved for Arabian countries unless the firms are certified to be free of owners or stockholders of Jewish Faith; and

Whereas; such discrimination of American citizens by the Arabian countries has also extended in many instances to American citizens of Catholic Faith; and

Whereas; the approval of the Arabian attitude tends to divide American citizens into two classes and tends to sacrifice the things we believe in to the interest of of appeasement; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), that the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania be requested to urge the Senate to adopt an amendment to the Eisenhower Doctrine as follows:

"Furthermore, it is the sense of the Congress, pending a more complete survey of United States policy in the Middle East, that it should be the aim of the United States policy to prevent indirect as well as overt Communist aggression in the area and accordingly to prevent further Communist penetration in the Mid East by seeking to cure the causes of present disturbed conditions in that area, including such matters as a) lack of assurance of uninterrupted use of the Suez Canal without discrimination by the shipping of all nations b) the lack of effective arrangments to protect the states of the area against aggression by their neighbors; c) the economic and social warfare currently being carried on against Israel and against Americans and others of Jewish faith, and d) the traffic in arms to the areas; provided that the authority herein granted shall be carried to the greatest extent deemed practicable to the President through the United Nations or by any other multi-national means;" and be it further

Resolved: that copies of this Resolution be fowarded to both members of the U. S. Senate representing the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

REPORT OF THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 288, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways to construct a toll free tunnel between the Fort Pitt Bridge and the Saw Mill Run Interchange of the Parkway-West.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate any one of the sponsors of this bill before it passes second reading.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EWING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, this House Bill 288, Printer's No. 43, is a bill purporting to authorize the Department of Highways to do certain things.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny when bids will be opened for the construction of this particular tunnel?

Mr. EWING. I understand, Mr. Speaker, they are going to ask for bids on this tunnel sometime in the early part of March.

Mr. ANDREWS. A further question Mr. Speaker. If this project has proceeded to the point where bids will be asked for during the early part of March, why are we acting on this bill authorizing something to be done which has already been authorized?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, we are of the opinion, since the legislation was passed back in 1953 creating the Tunnel Commission, it is necessary to have an act to repeal that Commission and give the authority to the Highway Department under Bill 288 to go ahead with the work. We had legislation introduced last session to do this very thing before the Federal Government passed the road program financing bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. A further question. Do I understand that anyone connected with the Highway Department, or with this administration, in the absence of enabling legislation has projected a major project to the point where bids are about to be asked for?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, the Governor made a statement, I think it was back in October—I do not know whether he got a ruling from the Attorney General or not—that he could do this on his own. We are of the opinion that he cannot.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am very glad to have the gentleman make that answer, but if they are of the opinion that this cannot be done and it has already been done, that is, the plans and specifications have been drawn and the Department of Highways has authorized this work, which it is authorized to do under the basic Highway Code of this Commonwealth, I still do not understand why, except for the purpose of somebody getting his name in the paper, this bill should have been introduced.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, that was not the intent at all. We had these bills introduced in the last session to abolish the Tunnel Commission, and as I stated before, we were out of session last May, then the Federal Act I think was passed sometime in July to take care of the situation as far as the expenditures and their portion of the money to be expended on the tunnel were concerned. Of course, the Governor came out in the newspapers and said he had the authority to do that on his own and we feel that he does not have the authority to do it.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

I would just like to conclude with one observation, if the Highway Department without authority has authorized a project involving the expenditure of millions of dollars, something should be done in the direction of impeaching the Highway Department. If the Highway Department is correct, then this legislation is absolutely unnecessary and I suggest it has been drawn for the purpose, simply, of a little helpful publicity.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, all we are trying to do with this bill is make it legal. That is all.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth sections and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 322, entitled:

An Act making certain bridges in the Commonwealth toll free; providing for the payment of certain bond issues; requiring the Department of Highways to sell certain property and appropriating the proceeds of sale thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the matter I am going to talk about is of great interest to every employe in this Commonwealth and is, of course, of interest to students of government and to the people of Pennsylvania generally.

I am referring to the statement of the Governor made last week that by executive order he would establish a certain large number of job classifications in this Commonwealth within the cassified service. In other words, he would establish civil service for a large number of positions which are presently not covered through, as I say, an executive order.

My comment on this particular move is that up until now we have had the spoils system in Pennsylvania. That is to say, when Governor Leader became Governor there were, I will not say, "wholesale firing," but there has been a gradual and systematic replacement of Republicans by Democrats pretty generally throughout the departments.

It is true there are still a number of holdover Republicans throughout the state service, but by and large I believe you can say that many skilled employes in the classifications of engineers, doctors, lawyers, chemists surveyors, laboratory technicians, superintendents and skilled employes, who have devoted a greater part of their working lives to the Commonwealth, have been relieved of their jobs.

The Governor has now, shall we say, gotten religion along this line, and after he has very comfortably placed into these jobs what we might call deserving Democrats he is freezing them into their jobs. As I understand it the way he plans to do it is to give the particular employe a qualifying examination and, if that particular present employe proves to be qualified, he is the one who will be certified as being the person entitled to that particular position.

I might say we deplore a procedure of that kind. I have been sitting on a committee which has been studying this very thing and it is true that throughout the Commonwealth there are certain technical employes who are willing to devote themselves to governmental service who should have job protection. That goes without saying.

Even in the last session in 1953 there were various bills put in to eastablish a classified service which, as we look back now, should have been passed. I am thinking particularly of the bill for the Highway Department where if we had passed the bill, large numbers of skilled, able workers in that Department would have been saved from the axe, shall I say. I am thinking now of the surveyors, crewmen, surveying crews and numerous draftsmen throughout the several departments.

I have said on this Floor that the reason there is the lag in highway building, the reason for the large sum of money presently in the Motor License Fund, which I understand is the highest amount of money in peacetime history for this time of the year is because of the inability of the State—and I am not blaming anybody—to secure the type of personnel that has left the service either by being discharged or because of fear of being discharged. That is the type of person which you just cannot get today in the open market, and this is causing a great lull, shall I say, in the activities of our Highway Department. All you have to do is take a drive through Pennsylvania and notice the roads, and it is a self-evident fact.

Now, here is what should be done. If this executive order is to stand, immediately a competitive examination should be given so that those who formerly held these positions, who are skilled, who are able and know how to do the job and who have devoted practically all their lives to governmental service should be given an opportunity to take this examination the same as the present employes. Then the marks should be graded in a fair and impartial manner, and let the chips fall where they may. If this former employe scores high in the examination, regardless of his politics, he should be reinstated and given the job.

That is the way we on this side feel about it. We know that in the last month or so since the administration was planning on putting in this civil service there have been wholesale discharges of some very able people around this state. Some have come to my attention and it would be interesting to know just how many able people have been relieved of their jobs in the last two months in anticipation of this executive order by the Governor.

I realize that if we return to power two years from now a new Governor could, by executive order, upset what this Governor has done. But, if they are going to put civil service in where it should be, in these technical positions, in order for it to receive full faith and credit by succeeding administrations it should be done now on a fair, sound, equitable and impartial basis. That is all we are asking at this time.

If we find that only a qualifying examination is given to present employes so as to freeze them into the jobs, you are going to see legislation next session which will rip out the whole shebang.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I desire, first of all, to say that I am in general agreement with what the Majority Leader says about competitive examinations.

I would also very much like to have for my perusal a list of the eminently qualified expert employes or servants of the Commonwealth who during the last year have been asked to resign or have been fired.

But I rise primarily to say to this House that at the last session I sponsored a bill which at that time I pointed out would do in an orderly public way just exactly what His Excellency, the Governor has done. The bill I sponsored would have given every employe now in the public service who was unjustly discharged a public hearing. We had a fair, square bill which would have met all of the objections and all of the objectives to which the Majority Leader has now professed his adherence. That bill was tossed contemptuously aside by the majority side of the House, or rather, not by the majority side of the House, but because there were a few disaffected ones on our side of the House it was unanimously decided, I was told, by the minority caucus that there were no votes for the bill.

I am again calling attention to the fact that the bill turned down at the last session would have met the objections which the Majority Leader has voiced.

Further, I am in general agreement with the idea that those who pass a qualifying examination should later be subjected to a competitive examination.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. RAGOT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform our Majority Leader, since he says there are some cases which have been brought to his attention where this relieving of state employes has taken place, that I had a case where a man had been in the employ of the state for five and a half years, with established merit rating reports every six months, which I have examined and which were found to be satisfactory. The gentleman in question took a qualifying examination, there were 89 persons who took the examination for Sanitary No. 1 in the Health Department. He was No. 14 out of the 89, with a 93 average. Last month he received his notice and he is no longer an employe of the state.

I am still investigating the case and if there is any further news on it I will be very glad to inform the Members.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, after listening to the remarks of the Majority Leader, I now think I have heard every conceivable shade of opinion on this subject.

Not too long ago I read in the public Press that there were some vehement protests being made by certain Members of the General Assembly about the then proposed Governor's executive order giving some security of tenure to the people who are working for the state in technical positions.

Those who believe strongly in the spoils system will not like even what is being done now. Those who do not like the spoils system would certainly favor this step being taken by the Governor as a means of getting and holding people who are qualified and able to fill these jobs properly.

All of us have opinions, I suppose, between one extreme and the other. Some of us would like to see all of these positions under civil service by law, so that another administration would not mean removal of many people from their jobs. Others of us would like to see the spoils system as it has worked in the past. Most of us understand that to mean that when you find a qualified person you give him a job, if he happens to belong to your party, and kick somebody out who belongs to the other party. But you should have qualified personnel.

I think this administration has found it increasingly difficult to hold qualified people who have been working for the state, perhaps a short time, perhaps a long time, because they have no security of tenure whatsoever.

I would like to remind the majority side today that when Governor James was elected in 1938 he came in as Governor and just went through this state with a very big scythe and cut out every Democrat he could lay his hands on. Were they qualified? I dare say many of them were. Did he put qualified people in all those jobs? I dare say in many cases he did not. So there you have it. You have a Republican Governor doing the same thing you are now complaining about.

We did replace many Republican jobholders. I dare say there are more who will be replaced before Governor Leader leaves office. I know many Democrats who have a rightful complaint that people from their districts cannot get a job with the state because the Governor has not seen willing to fire more Republicans faster than he has.

I think this a good move in the right direction for the Governor to do what he is doing. If he gives only a qualifying examination to determine whether the present jobholders are qualified to hold their jobs and finds through that examination that they are qualified, then he should close the door and say, "This is the man we are keeping as long as I am Governor." I dare say you will be doing the same thing some day in the very distant future when you get a Governor.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am not concerned about Governor James' Administration and his firing of Democrats. What I am concerned about is Governor Leader firing the Democrats. I think if we can remedy that, why, I will certainly be in favor of a good bill.

I heard Mr. Andrews make a statement about a bill he introduced last year and I recall quite clearly that when he introduced the bill, and I say this facetiously, he hid behind the Speaker's rostrum and when he did condescend to come down to explain it, he quite readily admitted that it was a lawyer's bill, meaning that it was unintelligible to most everybody in the House.

Further, he said at the time that he put the bill on the calendar just as a feeler, to see how the House felt about it in general, that he had no reason to believe it would be passed.

He said further he hoped the Members would not question him too much because he did not really understand too much about the bill himself.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of a good civil service bill, a bill that is not only understandable to the lawyers of the House, who constitute a very small minority of the entire membership, but a bill that is understandable to everyone. I think there is no question about it, both sides agree, that we need some security to protect those men who qualify as technical men or professional men in this Commonwealth. I think some day we must have it because we just do not have the workers, but I certainly think we ought to have a bill which everyone understands.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1957. No. 15.

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 19, 1957

The Senate met at 1:30 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DUNCAN K. MacPHERSON, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Mechanicsburg, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty and everlasting God, Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns and the round ocean, and the living air and the blue sky, and in the heart and mind of men, grant now Thy blessing upon the assemblying together of these Thy servants of the Senate.

Thou knowest, our Father in Heaven, the pressures which are brought to bear upon them from without and from within to sacrifice principle, to choose the easy road, to make the cheap compromise. Do Thou, therefore, defend and support them by Thy grace and grant unto them, our Father in Heaven, the assurance of Thy presence with them until again they hear the voice of the man of the ages, the Lord of Eternity, calling to them, "Follow me." In that following, may they find their deepest joy and their most abiding satisfaction.

We pray that Thou wilt teach us most of all our kinship with Thee, until we learn that nothing can hold us down to any poorer estate than that which we choose for ourselves. So redeem us of Thy mercy through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. RUTH, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, the bill I am about to present deals with a historical site in Fayette County. It is known as Bowman's Castle.

Unlike so many historical sites in the United States, no claim has ever been made that George Washington slept at Bowman's Castle, but the 166-year-old castle has nevertheless looked down from its high place atop Front Street, in Brownsville, upon the place beneath and watched a heap of history pass by.

She has watched French, Indians, pioneers, Union men, doughboys and GI's march off to war. She has listened to the tall tales of the coarse-tongued pioneers who once bargained at a trading post within her walls and the shrill voices of modern day bobby-soxers at the Front Street School. The castle has sniffed the smell of gun powder, and the passing pack horses and the gasoline from sleek cars of the atomic era.

She has seen Brownsville in its prouder days when industry so flourished in the area its residents bragged that Pittsburgh would never amount to anything because it was too close to Brownsville, and she now looks down on a present day community where too many mines have closed and too many men with solemn faces stand in line at the unemployment office nearby.

In deed, even if George Washington did not sleep in one of Bowman's four-poster beds, some historical or civic group could do worse than consult the Bowman heirs about making a historic shrine of old Bowman's Castle. The castle is older than Friendship Hill, potentially as attractive as Albert Gallatin's home and, certainly, a site worthy of remembrance of Pennsylvania history.

Constructed in 1789, the castle still wears a proud look which gives it the majesty of a Rhine castle and the mature beauty of a fargone day.

In the winter months, when frosty winds blow against her somber walls, the castle looks almost half-haunted as she peers from behind her massive protective stones. Many a passerby in the dark winter evenings must wonder if the castle isn't a model for the eerie Charles Addams cartoons of the New Yorker magazine.

And even in the happier fall season when some of the Monongahela River fog falls protectively around the castle's shoulders, the place still looks like something out of Bronte's "Wuthering Heights." A drawbridge falling from her front doorstep, and a parade of knights from her innards, certainly wouldn't look out of place.

Summer Look.

But in the summer, the castle seems to smile her best smile. As nature shakes off the effects of the long winter's nap, the trees push forth green buds and the castle awakens.

What is inside the castle's omnious brownstone, jagged-glass topped walls? To find out, this reporter decided to take a look around and separate legends and rumors from the facts. He came out three hours later with visions of powdered wigs, horse drawn carriages and knee britches. But more than that, he saw a home filled with a heap-of-livin' that it takes to make a house a home.

First of all, contrary to local legend, there are no underground secret tunnels leading into the castle. The tunnel entrance in the wall underneath the North Side firehouse has nothing whatsoever to do with Bowman's castle.

And secondly, despite the fact the castle was built long ago, it is still a very liveable place and has all the comforts of a modern home; electric lights, plumbing, refrigeration, etc. But modernity is something that was, of course, grafted onto the castle, for in truth the castle belongs to another day.

The three eight-foot grandfather clocks, all brought over from England and all stopped now, set the tone for the feeling that time has literally and figuratively stopped in the castle. But nevertheless, outside the time pieces, the house is very much alive and lived in by Mrs. Charles Bowman, a woman companion and a maid. There are twenty-two rooms in the old place and most of the ceilings are fifteen feet high. One hallway is over 70 feet long.

Family Portrait.

On most of the walls in the downstairs rooms, somber looking men with beards peer down from large portraits to scrutenize all visitors. These large, fine paintings were done by itinerant painters of members of the Bowman family. A portrait of Jacob Bowman, builder of the house, looks remarkably like Andrew Jackson, although Mr. Bowman might very much resent the comparison as Bowman was a Whig and Jackson a Democrat. And Bowman served as postmaster in Brownsville for thirty-four years only to have the position go to another when Jackson came into office.

Most of the furniture is a fine stained mahogany Chippendale, and there is a marble-mantled fireplace and fine glass chandelier in just about every room. You can sit in the Bowman sitting room, relax in a high-back leather rocking chair, and look around a room that has not been changed in over 100 years. A copper kettle still hangs by the fire, ready for use by some pioneer woman. The Bowman family crest and motto, "Neither rashly or hastily," is carved into the wood above the fireplace. Three pieces of tapestry, woven during the long winter nights by the skillful hands of pioneer women in 1798, are framed and hang on the wall; and nearby a 20-point moose head looks stonily at the furniture. The solid pieces, obviously built by the finest craftsmen, would make any museum curator or antique collector envious.

One of the downstairs rooms boasts two statues of carrara marble. One of the four-foot pieces is of a Grecian figure and was brought over from Venice, Italy. The other is a replica of the Marble Faun, an Italian statue much admired by Nathaniel Hawthorne, early American novelist. Hawthorne later wrote a novel titled the "Marble Faun."

Vast Library.

But more than anything else, the over 13,000 books and magazines in the home reflect the culture and learning of the Bowman family. There are bound copies of the Atlantic Monthly from 1865; Scribners since 1877; Godey's Ladies Book issues since 1864; and Harper's first edition of 1850 to the present. The books on literature, philosophy, religion, law, economics, music and architecture were obviously selected by men and women with inquisitive minds and love for classical learnings. The old adage has it that "you know a man by the books he reads." Reflections from this library show the Bowman's would have been interesting people to have known. Here was a family that would not have been satisfied with some 21-inch screen television monster dominating the conversation in the home. Judging from their books, the Bowman front room must have been a lively place where the fine art of conversation was spiced with learned and scholarly talk. With the many books, perhaps the wintry evenings weren't so long after all.

To reach the upstairs in the Bowman house, you go up a long circular stairway while you contemplate the high ceiling in the hallway, which is a painter's nightmare.

Four-Poster.

Several of the bedrooms still have Louis XIV four-poster beds with the drawing curtain around them, and a high canopy over the bed. Near the bed is the old marble wash stand, pitcher, shaving mug and, of course, the inevitable bedchamber jar. A bed-warmer gadget, which was filled with hot charcoal, is also nearby; there is a spinet in one room. Three bathrooms are also in the upstairs.

Along the giant hallway between the bedrooms is a balcony that opens out to a spectacular sight of the entire valley, from bend to bend in the river; Lock Five to Albany. A Hollywood director could shoot the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet on the porch without having to change one bit of the background.

In the tower room is a studio where men of the Bowman family made their offices.

Outside the castle is a well-kept garden, shady trees, a small greenhouse and a stable.

Most people dream of owning a castle in Spain, but Mrs. Charles Bowman has her castle in Brownsville overlooking the Monongahela River and she wouldn't trade it for a castle anywhere.

No wonder, the 166-year-old Bowman Castle is as beautiful as any dreamer could ever want and the romantic place is filled with rich memories and history. Constructed in 1789 by her late husband's great grandfather, the castle has always been the home of Bowman heirs.

Mrs. Bowman moved into the castle when she was married in 1897 and has called the place home ever since. Her husband and his father, and her two children, were born and reared here. The laughter and tears of the best years of her life went into this place which is so full of the heap-of-livin' it takes to make a house a home.

"I have lived in Italy and Germany and traveled over most of Europe," says Mrs. Bowman, "but this castle remains the place I prefer to all others in the world."

Mr. President, the bill which I am about to present, on behalf of Senator Stiefel, Senator Chapman, Senator Kalman and myself, will authorize the Department of Property and Supplies, with the approval of the Governor, to acquire Bowman's Castle.

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby declares such a transfer of funds to be unauthorized by law and contrary to legislative intent as expressed in the Appropriation Act No. 146-A.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SILVERT. Senator Mahany, I did not get the import of this resolution. Would you mind explaining what it is about?

Mr. MAHANY. I would very much like to and I was about to.

Last Session, we were importuned to pass a piece of legislation which set up a foundation under the Commonwealth. I think it was called the Comonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation. We were told at the time when we acted upon this legislation that the Ford Foundation and other foundations throughout the Country would like to make grants to a foundation set up by the State of Pennsylvania. This foundation could be used as a vehicle to receive these grants, which could be used for various health research purposes and so forth.

At no time did any Member of the Legislature understand that this Comonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation would be used to receive moneys from the Commonwealth. We thought that these moneys would be received from outside sources. Therefore, a week or so ago, we were more or less amazed to find that Secretary Shapiro was planning to appropriate from his department the sum of $250,000 to this Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation which we had set up. I understand that the Auditor General and the State Treasurer objected to this appropriation because they thought that it was illegal to make it.

Then, Secretary Shapiro received an opinion from the Attorney General's Office which stated that it was their opinion that they could make this appropriation to the foundation, because they said the act setting up the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation had stated that this foundation could receive money from any source.

However, Mr. President, as you know, if Secretary Shapiro would make a check out, payable to the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation, and it would be approved by the Auditor General and paid by the State Treasurer, there would be no accounting for this money. The foundation, as I understand it, could use the money for whatever purpose it saw fit. The Auditor General could not find out whether or not the money had been used legally; he could not check into what had been done with the money. In other words, the State would have no control over it in any manner whatsoever.

Therefore, Mr. President, we felt that we should at least call to the attention of Secretary Shapiro and the Attorney General's Office that it was not our intent, when we passed this Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation Act that this particular foundation should receive moneys from the Commonwealth but would be limited to the receiving of moneys from sources other than the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, at the last Session I believe I voted against the general appropriation for the Department of Welfare because I said that, in my opinion, I did not have any confidence that the Secretary of Welfare could handle public funds either wisely or well.

Nothing has happened in the interval to cause me to change my mind. I certainly commend the Auditor General and the State Treasurer for their prompt action in this regard, and I hope that they continue to keep a very close eye on the Department of Welfare.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the Rules Committee was unanimous in its decision to report this resolution to the floor. One of the specific reasons that we thought it was best to have this resolution passed—and we so advised the Members of the Senate, on both sides—is that when we are asked for an apporpriation by a department, we believe that that department is asking for specific appropriations for specific purposes.

There was nothing in the appropriation message from the Secretary of Welfare which would lead us to believe that a quarter of a million dollars was going to be taken from the general appropriation of the Department of Welfare and handed over to an authority or a commission or a board which is outside of the jurisdiction and control of either the Legislature or the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth.

He says, at this point, that he wants a quarter of a million dollars. It is not a question of whether it is a quarter of a million dollars, $50,000, $5.00 or $5,000,000. We appropriated to that department approximately $221,000,000 last year. We will appropriate this year, if the request of the department is met, $241,000,000. Anything which that Mental Health Foundation can do, anything within its power, the scope of its activities are covered by the Department, itself. If it is research, the department has a right to spend money for research under the appropriations we give it directly through the department. If Secretary Shapiro feels that $250,000 is needed for certain expenditures, he has the right to proceed and spend that money under the jurisdiction of his office appropriation. However, none of us believes that we should appropriate in a lump sum to the Secretary of Welfare, and he would have the right to take that money and put it into a foundation and allow that foundation to do the spending. It is a very serious thing in my mind. It may start a development of foundations of all kinds. It may start us onto the road of uncontrolled spending through departmental foundations.

We thought then, and we were told and all of us believed, that this foundation was being set up so that it could receive private grants from foundations like the Ford Foundation, as Senator Mahany so well put it, or other public-spirited groups, and that they could then take the money and spend it for research nad other activities which would, in effect, save the Commonwealth money. It does not save the Commonwealth money. It does not save the Commonwealth money if we appropriate to the Department of Welfare and the Secretary takes the money out and gives it to a foundation, whose books are not audited by our own Auditor General of the Commonwealth, and we have no check on the expenditure whatsoever. We have no control over how it is being spent.

Mr. President, I want to say that this is not a matter of political thinking. This is strictly a matter of responsibility of this Legislature to the people of the Commonwealth. I hope that it will be unanimously passed by this Senate.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I would like to be further informed as to the makeup of this foundation. I would like to know who is at the head of it, how it functions and so forth. We are just discussing this blindly. I would like to know more about this foundation.

If the Majority Leader is in a position to inform me, I would appreciate it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the Majority Floor Leader in a position to answer the inquiry?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am unable to tell you who is the head of the foundation. The act setting it up provided that it would be an instrumentality of the Commonwealth. However, as I said before, when we enacted this legislation at the last Session of the Legislature, we were told that the reason they wanted this legislation was to set up a foundation which could receive gifts from such sources as the Ford Foundation and other foundations which might be used to give money to our Commonwealth Foundation. I understand that they would use this money then to do the various things which are set forth in the act.

However, Mr. President, I do not believe that any of us here thought that the Commonwealth's moneys would be used and given to this foundation to be used for these purposes.

Due to the fact that it was not our intent at the time to use this foundation for that purpose, we are presenting this resolution to call to the attention of the Secretary of Welfare and also to the Attorney General's office that it was not our intent that this foundation should be used for this purpose, and we do not want any of the Commonwealth's moneys to be given to it.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it was my privilege last Friday to attend a conference, held in the city of Pittsburgh and sponsored by several of the outstanding civic organizations of that community, relative to mental health. It was an all day conference on mental health and was attended by the outstanding people of the community who are interested in this problem of mental health.

At that conference was one of the finest outpourings of citizenry that we have ever had. They anticipated a turnout of approximately 300 and when the meeting was held, there were almost 700 people in attendance. Everybody was impressed with the advance which was being made in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in this field of mental health.

I do not know what this foundation is and it may not need our help. However, I think it is too important a matter to just gloss over a resolution such as we have here today. A great step, as I said, has been made toward a great advance in this Commonwealth in the treatment of mental health.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would ask that on such an important matter as this that consideration of this resolution go over until our next meeting, next Monday, to give those of us who are very much interested in the problem of mental health an opportunity to find out whether or not we would be doing the right thing by passing this resolution.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would at this time object to the consideration of the resolution.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39 of the Senate be suspended so that we may take action on this resolution because unless we do act on it today, it might very well be, under the Attorney General's opinion, that Secretary Shapiro will immediately start the wheels of progress to get this money over to the foundation. I think we should let him know that we do not want him to do that.

Now if the Senator can in some way, at least, keep us in status quo until we act on it, why we might consider it. However, I do not understand that Secretary Shapiro will leave time go by without trying to get this money over to this foundation. Regardless of the fine purposes of the foundation, and all that Senator Schmidt has brought out, I feel that we ought to take action on this because I do not believe it was the intent of any of us to use Commonwealth moneys for this purpose.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order that there be no misunderstanding, the proposition proposed by the Majority Leader is valid.

I believe, and I want it clearly understood, that when I voted for the foundation bill last year—I think I was one of the sponsors—I was never under the impression that the Secretary of Welfare would be able to reach into State-made appropriations and provide money for the operation of this foundation. It was clearly explained to me before the bill was introduced, and on the floor, if you will read the record, you will find that I stated that the purpose of the foundation bill was to create a foundation that would be able to receive moneys from outside sources; that there was no such law in Pennsylvania; and that we had no way that we could receive moneys from the Ford Foundation or any other public foundations devoted to the interest of mental health or any other subject.

Therefore, the bill was passed specifically to receive moneys from outside sources. There was nothing in the title which would in any way indicate that we were voting for legislation that would enable the secretary of any department to receive moneys through appropriation for purposes other than those covered by the appropriation.

I do not know anything about the Attorney General's opinion, but when this Legislature voted for an appropriation for the Department of Welfare, so much was put up for mental health, so much was put up for administrative and so much was put up for the other department functions. There was nothing in that budget that said we were going to give $250,000 to a foundation. Therefore, he cannot spend that money out of the appropriated funds that he asked for through the legislative appropriation committees, because he did not ask for it.

Now if in this budget Senator Shapiro feels that $500,000 or $1,000,000 should be put into the budget for expenditure by this foundation and we pass that appropriation, then he is within the rights of his position to spend that money. However, we did not give him $250,000. Where is he going to get the $250,000 unless he takes it from some specific need that he said was in the Department when he asked for the appropriation? It leads one to believe that either he has $250,000 that is not required for the necessary uses of the department or he is going to rob one section of the appropriation bill to put it into this foundation.

We have no control over the expenditure of the money; we have no control over the audit of the money; and I personally would not vote for allowing the spending of this money because I would be then not telling the truth to this Body when I stood up before the Body and said that this bill was being passed to receive money from outside sources.

Now I venture that if the Legislature had felt it was passing a bill that would allow the Secretary of Welfare to take an unlimited amount of money out of appropriations and turn it over to this particular foundation, many Members of this Senate would not have voted for it. I know I would not have voted for it, and I do not know whether the gentleman from Allegheny would have voted for it.

We are not trying to impede the so-called great strides in mental health, but we have a legal obligation and a duty to the people of Pennsylvania, and that legal obligation is that when we make appropriations, we are supposed to make them for the specific needs of the Commonwealth. I cannot understand how a specific need was there last year for $250,000 in the appropriation bill and now, all of a sudden, he does not need the $250,000 for the purposes that the Legislature appropriated the money and he is going to put it into some outside source.

I second the motion to set aside the necessary rule.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, first in answer to the explanation that the Majority Leader has given for the haste in passing this resolution today, I feel quite certain that what is going on here on the floor is very well known by the Secretary of Welfare, and that he will not take advantage of any situation which may arise by reason of the fact that we would postpone action on this resolution until next Monday.

I may assure the Majority Leader, and anybody else on the floor, that I am not in collusion with anyone connected with the Department of Welfare in my stand that I am taking here on the floor. In fact, I knew nothing about what this resolution contained until it was read, after having been favorably reported from committee.

I do say this, in reply to the Leader on my side, that the act as passed must give the Secretary of Welfare the legal right to do what he is doing, because the Attorney General has written an opinion, as I am told.

Now I do not say that the Secretary of Welfare should go ahead and make that payment inasmuch as this question has come up on the floor, but I do say that in deference to this mental health program, which is one of the greatest strides that this Legislature has ever taken—the Governor of this Commonwealth can take great pride in his mental health program and I can tell you that the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are becoming cognizant of what this mental health program means —and since we have in many other instances given grants-in-aid, it would not be wrong for the Secretary of Welfare to make this appropriation.

I do not say that he should. I merely want to have an opportunity, and I think every Member of this Body should have that opportunity, to weigh this matter and see what is actually involved and see whether or not the Secretary of Welfare is correct in what he plans to do.

For that reason, I ask that we do not act this hastily by suspending the rule, and let us give this the normal course of treatment that we give other resolutions which appear on this floor.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, no one in the Senate is trying to interfere with the mental health program, but we do have an Administrative Code in this State in which it says that every fund in the State shall be audited.

Now we surely give money to hospital "X" and Home "X," but it is still audited by the Auditor General. There is no way that you can audit this foundation's books. We cannot walk into any foundation and say, "We want to audit your books." That is the question in my mind.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I think we ought to vote on this today, and nip this practice in the bud before it goes any further. If this sort of thing is allowed to go on, it will not be long before millions are being channeled out of State funds into things of this nature and outside the control of the Auditor General or any other public auditor.

I am also wondering why the budget was padded by this amount of money, and why the specific purpose for which it was intended to be used was not set forth in the budget, and I wonder how much more fat there was in this Welfare budget.

I am also wondering why this resolution does not go further and suggest the exploration of the possibilities of surcharging the Secretary for any waste of funds.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, there has been mentioned the fact that we make grants to institutions where the Auditor General has a right to go in and make an audit to see that the money is properly spent. We also make appropriations to organizations that we have no control over. We make appropriations to the fire department, for instance, here in Harrisburg for the protection of the Capitol here. We make them in many instances where the Auditor General does not go in and make an audit.

Now, as I say, I have not said on this floor that I will finally support or oppose this resolution. I am asking merely the right to inquire as to whether or not the proposed action on the part of the Secretary of Welfare is worthwhile. If I feel after the investigation that it is not, I will vote in favor of the resolution. Nevertheless, at least give me that courtesy and give any other Member of this Senate the same courtesy. The house is not burning down, and you can rest assured that the Secretary of Welfare will not go ahead and make this expenditure in the interim between now and next Monday.

You will have other situations that may arise and others of you will want the same opportunity to make inquiry.

I will say that this particular situation involves a most worth-while cause and should not be sloughed off this hurriedly.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred):

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The negative roll will stand as verified.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, in order that a rule be suspended, what is the vote that is required?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A constitutional majority of twenty-six votes.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SCHMIDT, and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 15, ADOPTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the clerk.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, as much as I do not like to make this statement, I am going to make it. Regardless of what the content of the resolution is, not being fully aware of the full implication of the resolution and the affect that it might have on the program or if I voted in favor of it, I might in some way do harm to the mental health program of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I shall cast my vote in the negative.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, corroborating what was just said by Senator Schimdt, I think that the technical difculties in this matter could be overcome by proper adjustments. The only effect it can possibly have, in my opinion, is that it is going to delay a worthy program.

Therefore, Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting against this resolution.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, in view of the undue haste in revoking rules and passing this resolution, I desire to vote "no."

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want it very clearly understood, by those who are trying to get into the record something which, in my opinion, is not true, that no man in this room to my knowledge who votes for this resolution is in any way impending the so-called program for mental health. The proof of that is that every person in this room voted for approximately $143,000,000 for an appropriation to the mental health program. I dare say that most of us stand ready at this moment to vote for any legitimate increase for a mental health program.

Mr. President, I refuse to have my vote, at this time, interpreted as a vote against a mental health program. This is a vote, in my opinion, to keep constitutional government within the confines of the Constitution and the rules of procedure of this State.

I do not know whether or not Senator Schimdt voted for this bill last year. I do not know that he understood that he was opening up a way in which we could ciphon out regularly made appropriations into a body which has absolutely nothing to do with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It cannot be attached to the State because if it is attached to the State, then it is not legally set up to receive foundation gifts. Therefore, it had to be divorced completely from the Commonwealth and that is why the bill was written that way.

I want to say right now that everything which this foundation can do by way of research, by way of training, by way of programing, by way of employment or in any other method of operation, Senator Sharpiro can do under the act which created the Department of Welfare. He can spend $250,000 to do exactly the things he wants the foundation to do.

The question in my mind is that if the Department of Welfare is capable of doing it, then why turn it over to the foundation? I refuse to admit that my vote here is a vote against the mental health program.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I repeat, again, not being familiar with the purposes of the foundation and the functionings of the foundation, when I speak in favor of an appropriation to that foundation or against it, I do not have the information on which to base my conclusions.

However, Mr. President, I do say this. It is possible that such a foundation may be an organization that can do a good piece of public relations work for the mental health program here in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Last Friday, at the meeting in Pittsburgh, what I saw convinced me that all of these organizations, combined, are dong something which is worth-while for Pennsylvania and all of its citizens.

As I said, this foundation may be doing that type of work. It may have been responsible for having gathered together in our community close to 700 people who took a full day from their every-day duties to participate in a mental health program. If that type of organization needs a grant-in-aid, I say that in line with the $140,000,000 or $150,000,000 which this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is spending now biennially on its mental health program, an appropriation of a quarter of a million dollars to a foundation that might be doing a good piece of public relations work in Pennsylvania would be a very good investment. That is my supposition; that that is what they are doing. If they are doing it, I want to help out. However, I still say that you have made it impossible for me to vote any other way than in opposition to this resolution by having forced me to cast my vote here today without knowing anything about this foundation.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I believe that Senator Schmidt has lost track of the issue.

It is not whether this foundation is a good foundation or whether they are spending money wisely. The whole issue here is whether or not Secretary Shapiro may use Commonwealth moneys to contribute or appropriate to this foundation when he did not even have the money in his budget, and at no time has he implied, either directly or indirectly, to us that he was going to use the money for this purpose.

We might get up here and state that the National Foundation for Tuberculosis is a good organization, too. However, I do not believe that Senator Schmidt would countenance it if Secretary Shapiro would buy $250,000 worth of Christmas Seals. This is about the same idea.

We are not attacking this foundation in any way whatsoever. However, we are saying to Secretary Shapiro that it is our impression that we at no time intended that he should spend Commonwealth moneys to appropriate to this particular foundation. That is the whole issue.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I think the issue is crystal clear. I believe everyone here is for mental health and I presume, likewise, for the dial telephone.

The only issue involved in this resolution, as Senator Dent and Senator Mahany have stated, is the preservation of the sanctity of the Pennsylvania Constitution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SCHMIDT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—31

Barr,	Flack,	McGinnis,	Taylor,
Berger,	Harney,	McMenamin,	Van Sant,
Blass,	Hays,	Miller,	Walker,
Chapman,	Kessler,	Murray,	Watkins,
Dent,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Pechan,	Whalley,
Derk,	Kromer,	Propert,	Yosko,
Ehrgood,	Madigan,	Ruth,	Fleming,
Elliott,	Mahany,	Scott,	Presiding Officer

NAYS—6

Donolow,	Schmidt,	Stiefel,	Weiner,
Mullin,	Silvert,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. YOSKO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I believe everybody who is in this Senate is familiar with my activities on behalf of mental health since I have been a Member of the Senate.

I voted for the resolution because I do not remember any item in the budget, at the last Session of the Legislature, which empowered the Secretary of Welfare to take from his appropriation and make a donation to any foundation.

Today is February 19th. This biennium will end on May 31, 1957. Very shortly I am assuming that the Appropriations Committee, which is now conducting hearings on the budget, will call in the Welfare Department. I would suggest to Secretary Shapiro that if he wants a sum of money to donate to any foundation, including the one we discussed here today, he should come to the Appropriations Committee with an itemized statement, indicating the amount of money that he wants and show us exactly how it is going to be spent. I believe if Secretary Shapiro does that and can prove to this Senate that the money will be spent wisely and justly, and in the best interest of a future mental health program, I do not think he will have too much trouble getting the money.

However, Mr. President, I do not believe that we should permit any department head to take the law into his own hands, especially with funds we appropriate to him for a specific purpose, and divert that money for other purposes. The money which we appropriated to the Department of Welfare, as well as to other departments, was appropriated for the operation of the bureaus and institutions, if any, under the jurisdiction of those departments. Since this foundation is not now a board, commission, bureau or department of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in my opinion the action taken here today was proper and it will serve notice on the departments that they must come before the Legislature and get an appropriation for a specific purpose and use the money for that purpose.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, it seems that the other day the Judiciary Committee of the Philadelphia Bar Association approved seven members of the Philadelphia Bar, and recommended them to the Governor, I understand, to fill the vacancy due to the death of the late Judge Leonard Propper.

Now we, as Senators in this body, are always interested in recommendations made to the Governor on behalf of filling any sort of vacancy inasmuch as it becomes our obligation to approve these recommendations if the Governor should so accept them and they are sent here for such approval.

I read in the newspaper this morning, Mr. President, that Wilbur Hamilton, the head of the Republican Party in Philadelphia, who by the way I am very fond of and feel that although we disagree politically, I find him a gentleman in every respect, charged that the A.D.A. pressured the Judiciary Committee of the Bar in accepting these approvals which were sent to the Governor.

Of course, this is an alarming situation. The head of the Bar in Philadelphia, the Attorney General, Thomas McBride, has an unimpeached reputation. The members of the committee are outstanding attorneys in Philadelphia, and their reputations are unimpeached and those they recommended are people of outstanding reputations.

Mr. President, I am alarmed at this report, because I must admit that I heard the same story come out of that committee. I understand that the committee is composed of twenty-one members, and last Friday when the committee considered whom they should approve and submit to the Governor to be approved to sit on the bench of this great Commonwealth, only fifteen members appeared, and only eleven votes were necessary to fill such an important position.

Since that time, I have heard other alarming reports. May I say that I am not a candidate for this office, I could not be selected under our Constitution if I were and so, therefore, I have no ax to grind. I have no candidate and I am not a candidate myself.

However, I have learned the following. I learned that a tremendous amount of outside pressure was exerted upon the members of that Judiciary Committee of the Philadelphia Bar to approve certain of these members. So great was the pressure that one of the members told me it disgusted him at heart to feel that a body of that type, who are supposed to be above both political parties, was so pressured by judges and other outside forces.

I also learned that one of the members selected and recommended was a member of the Progressive Party in 1948 and campaigned actively for the election of Mr. Wallace for President on the Progressive ticket, and that person was recommended as a probable selection.

One of the members lives outside the city of Philadelphia, if you please, Mr. President, and still is living outside the city of Philadelphia, votes outside the city of Philadelphia, and he was recommended for appointment to this position dealing with the people and the city of Philadelphia.

Last, but not least, another recommendation that went to the Governor, which I understand is looked upon with great acceptance, is that of a person who just moved into the city of Philadelphia about two months ago in order to qualify for such an appointment.

Now, Mr. President, both political parties are accused by certain forces in civic life of being too political, and when we select someone they call them "politicians," and it seems to be the trend in modern life that if the Republican or Democratic Party recommends a candidate, it is looked upon with frowns. Yet, we find in an impartial body, if this be true, one of the most disgraceful exhibitions taking place in selecting seven so-called impartial persons for the Governor to select from.

I want to make this clear. I know that Edward A. Kallich, on that list, is a fine and outstanding lawyer and a good lawyer. I know that E. Allen Doty is an outstanding lawyer, and a good lawyer, and either one of them would make a very fine and outstanding judge. I am not challenging that phase of the list. However, I am bringing attention to the method which was used to compile this list, and he who exerted greater force, greater political pressure among the Bar, his name appeared on that list.

Now, Mr. President, I should think at this time that if any of these names are selected by His Excellency the Governor, who may not be aware of what took place behind closed doors, and if any one of these names is sent over here for that appointment, I think it would behoove us to make a thorough investigation of both Mr. Hamilton's charge and the others that have been brought to my attention before we approve anyone for this vacancy.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, February 25, 1957, at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. KOPRIVER, JR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 4:10 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time, until Monday, February 25, 1957, at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The House met at 1:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Dr. Roy E. Manne, Pastor of the South Avenue Methodist Church, Wilkinsburg, Pa., guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, we are glad that Thou hast made us factors efficient, significant in the world's arithmetic. We are grateful to feel that the world needs us to walk on its crowded streets, and to mix our blood and brains with its policies and potencies.

Bless us, we beseech Thee, with the spirit of high adventure. Save us from our timidities and fears. Give us courage to stand for something, lest we fall for everything. Give us great thoughts, noble aspirations, pure and heroic impulses.

Sprinkle the hearts of those assembled here with the breath of Thy wisdom and Thy goodness. Always, may humility triumph over pride; charity over envy and malice; loyalty to what is right and just over partisanship. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. JOHNSON, RIGBY, BOWER and VAUGHAN. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 32.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1957.

The problems of older workers have become a serious threat to the well being of our economy. In many instances, men and women forty years of age are considered too old for new employment. One reason for this discrimination is the high cost of including persons over forty years of age in pension plans.

It is the duty of government to serve its citizens by solving those problems which individual citizens or groups of citizens cannot themselves solve. The high cost to workers and industry in planning pension systems for various groups has recently reached an all time high. This is frequently due to a lack in continuity of persons in a particular system which has been established. The worker in particular, often suffers. If he loses his rights in one retirement system, he must seek to establish rights in another system. This can only be done at a cost which he cannot personally assume or at an overburdening expense to the industry which would otherwise seek his services and make use of skills which the worker has acquired through many years of experience. Overcoming this problem will do much to aid our economy by lessening costs to employers, protecting and continuing acquired rights of individual workers, lessening costs to the public by helping attain a full employment which distributes tax costs among greater numbers of taxpayers, and enables individual employes to transfer from one industry to another where their talents and experience will lead to greater present remuneration without the sacrifice of greater pension system payments and expenses, and without loss in future retirement benefits at that age when productive labor is no longer possible and the cost of living remains high; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate methods and ways of establishing a Statewide retirement or pension system to cover and benefit all persons working in Pennsylvania, which will include an actuarily sound basis of contribution by employers and employes, and which will guarantee adequate payments to employes despite changes in costs of living; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. REIDENBACH, TOLL, AUSTIN M.
LEE and AMARANDO. RESOLUTION No. 33.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1957.

The City of Philadelphia was shocked in the passing of one of its distinguished jurists on February 5, 1957.

Leonard Michael Propper, Judge of the Municipal Court died at the age of forty-four.

Judge Propper was educated in Philadelphia where he attended the Roxborough High School, the University of Pennsylvania and the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Judge Propper practiced law in the City of Philadelphia; served as Deputy Attorney-General for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; served as Assistant District Attorney for the County of Philadelphia; appointed Judge of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia by the Governor, and was elected in 1953 to a ten year term as Judge of the Municipal Court by the people of Philadelphia.

Judge Proper devoted most of his life to the welfare of juveniles and was nationally known for his work on the problems of juvenile delinquency; he was a member of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Council of Juvenile Court Judges and a member of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare's Citizens Advisory Committee on Mental Deficiency; he was active in the affairs of many Civic, Community and religious organizations.

Judge Propper, young in years, but aged in experience, will be remembered for his record of accomplishments in the juvenile field; for his untiring devotion to duty, and for his personality which endeared him to all; he won the respect, confidence and affection of those who attended the Courts, as well as the thousands of others in the Commonwealth and elsewhere with whom he came in contact.

His passing is a great loss to the Commonwealth and to the City which he served so unselfishly; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives extend their sympathies to his wife and children in their hour of loss and bereavement; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to his widow and children.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. LOPRESTI. RESOLUTION No. 34.

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1957.

Serious consideration is being given to the acceptance of Federal funds to liquidate the bonded indebtedness of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, the construction of the Keystone Shortway and the freeing of toll roads.

Whether or not the freeing of the turnpike would enure to the benefit of the citizenry of this Commonwealth with Federal aid is a matter of great concern.

The General Assembly requires for its use comprehensive factual information concerning this consideration; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Highways be requested to report to the House of Representatives information with respect to:

(1) The amount proposed to be expended by the Federal government to make our turnpikes a part of the Federal highway system.

(2) Federal contributions, if any, proposed to be made in the future for maintenance and repair of these highways.

(3) What the effect of federalizing of certain Pennsylvania highways would be on existing State highways and the future expansion and maintenance of the State highway system.

(4) The ultimate cost to the Commonwealth if the toll roads are freed and whether or not additional revenue in the form of additional taxes would be required to maintain and repair the toll roads after they become free, and be it further

Resolved, That this report, together with any other information the Secretary of Highways deems pertinent be prepared for delivery to the House of Representatives within two weeks after this resolution is adopted.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 130, entitled:

An Act providing for the reassessment of properties for tax purposes where new improvements have been made and the addition thereof to existing tax duplicates of political subdivisions.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to interrogate either one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Ashton, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ASHTON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that this bill affects major improvements made during the year and provides for reassesment of such major improvements dating back to the first day of the month in which such improvements were made?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not correct.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain the nature of this bill and show in what way I am incorrect in my statement?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the tax goes back to the date of assessment, not to the date of completion of the building.

Mr. SHERMAN. That is not what I said, Mr. Speaker. Does the assessment not go back to the first day of the month in which the improvements were made?

Mr. ASHTON. No, Mr. Speaker, it goes back to the first day of the month in which the assessment is made, not the improvement.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, is not the assessment made after the improvements are made?

Mr. ASHTON. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. When the assessment is made, to what day does it go back?

Mr. ASHTON. To the first of the month in which the assessment is made.

Mr. SHERMAN. Is it not true that the amount of such improvement is not considered in determining whether or not the so-called major improvement was made?

Mr. ASHTON. Will the gentleman repeat that, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SHERMAN. Is it not true that the amount of such improvement is not even considered in determining whether or not a so-called major improvement was made?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I should think that the amount of the assessment would depend on the assessor.

Mr. SHERMAN. In other words, as far as whether or not it is a major improvement, am I correct that it is absolutely up to the assessor to determine whether an improvement made is a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. I think all assessing officers have that discretion, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. Therefore, do I understand the gentleman's answer is, yes, they are to adjust, that it is absolutely up to the assessor to determine whether or not the so-called improvement is a major improvement and should be assessed?

Mr. ASHTON. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. If I replace, Mr. Speaker, all my electrical fixtures in the house with new fixtures of $2,500 value, and in so doing have to replaster part of the walls or to repair the damage done, is that considered a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I should consider that a major repair, I do not know what the assessor would think.

Mr. SHERMAN. Would the gentleman as a cosponsor of the bill consider that a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. No, not a major improvement, a major repair.

Mr. SHERMAN. Therefore, under this bill the gentleman would not consider it a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. Not if the lights and the plaster that were replaced were substantially the same as the ones that were worn out.

Mr. SHERMAN. Therefore, am I correct in saying that if I had to install six extra fixtures than I had before and spend $2,000 for those extra fixtures, it would then be considered a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. A major improvement, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. If I only spent $300 for those same fixtures and did the same work, would that be a major improvement, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, that would be a $300 improvement.

Mr. SHERMAN. If I create a partition, along the line of your last reasoning and answer, and as a result that partition in my house makes two rooms out of one room and I spend $75 in doing so, because under present conditions you can have an ordinary wallboard or plaster partition making two rooms out of one, is it not true that the assessor has a right, although I spend only $75, to consider that a major improvement and say that my house has been improved in value to the extent of $2,000?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I am not a tax assessor, but I have great confidence in most assessors.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think my question has been answered. May I ask for the gentleman's opinion as a cosponsor of this bill whether or not the matter of major improvement then will depend on the amount involved in the major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I did not understand that question. Maybe the gentleman will repeat it?

Mr. SHERMAN. Is it a so-called new improvement? Under this bill the only improvement that can be assessed, am I correct, is a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. The bill says major improvement.

Mr. SHERMAN. Therefore, does it make a difference if I partition my house and it costs me only $75, or $100, or $200, in order to create a partition as a result of which there is an extra room added to my house, and the value of the house in the opinion of the assessor alone is increased, to the extent of $2,000, does he have a right to consider that a major improvement of $2,000?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is dealing in trivialities. I doubt if there were a $75 partition put in a house somewhere that the assessor would ever see it.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, does it depend on whether the assessor sees the major improvement in order to determine whether an assessment should be had?

Mr. ASHTON. The assessment shall be had whenever the taxing authority requests an assessment.

Mr. SHERMAN. In other words, Mr. Speaker, do you mean to say if I intend to have an improvement made that I am to hide it from the assessor because he may think there is a $2,000 increase in the value of the house even though I spend $200 on that improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I believe in most localities if any considerable alteration or improvement is to be made in a building a building permit has to be secured.

Mr. SHERMAN. Let us take another instance Mr. Speaker. In the event I have an overhang awning on the outside of my property, the front of the property, so that the assessor if he is conscientious in his duties should ordinarily see it, and the cost is only approximately $100, but because the assessor believes it is a major improvement which has increased the value of my house by $2,000, would not the assessor have the right to add a $2,000 additional assessment to the value of my house?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the taxpayer always has the right to appeal the assessment if he thinks the assessor is not doing his duty properly.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that is not a sufficient answer, but I wil go into the next question along the same line.

Do you not know that in the absence of an abuse of discretion and on appeal by a small taxpayer, or any taxpayer, that the assessor would be upheld in his assessment?

Mr. ASHTON. I do not know that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. If I may, I will take another instance. If I make what is termed a "Dutch hall" out of my dining room and it costs about $150, and the assessor happens to come into the house and says that it has a value of $2,000, or $1,500, instead of $150, is there anything in the bill to determine whether it is or is not a major improvement?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the taxpayer always has the right of appeal.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I feel sorry for the poor taxpayer.

Another question. To put it more specifically along the same line, is there anything in the bill, outside of a costly appeal by the taxpayer, in the absence of abuse of discretion on the part of the assessor to prevent the assessor from assessing the property in any manner that he sees fit?

Mr. ASHTON. Only the general assessment laws, Mr. Speaker, and I would like to state for the benefit of the gentleman that practically this same law has been in effect since 1949, I believe, for third and fourth class school districts. At the last session of the Legislature practically the identical bill was passed for first class townships. This is nothing new at all.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, one or two other questions.

Is there anything in this bill, Mr. Speaker, to prevent a veteran from buying a property, having settlement made and then a year later being assessed an additional sum because the assessor happened to find out at the end of that year, or a year later, a so-called improvement to the property which was made prior to settlement?

Mr. ASHTON. The answer to that is, no, because it canot be. The aditional assessment canot go back beyond the date of assessment. That is one of the things that is wrong with the present law, it can go back to the date of improvement. Under this bill it can only go back to the date of assessment.

Mr. SHERMAN. I will put it a little more plainly, Mr. Speaker. Is there anything in this bill, first of all, that prevents the assessor from making the assessment one year after the improvement is made at which time he says, "I shall levy assessment at this time?"

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the bill states just the opposite from the proposition advanced by the gentleman.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am sorry I did not get the answer.

Mr. ASHTON. The bill states just the opposite.

Mr. SHERMAN. In what way, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ASHTON. The bill states any reassessment made during the month shall be computed as having been made on the first of the month.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is answering my very first question when I started this interrogation. But does the gentleman have an answer to the question of anything preventing an assessment in 1958 dating back to the first of the month? Or I will say this, is there any wording in the bill which says when the first of the month shall be determined?

Mr. ASHTON. Does the gentleman wish me to read the entire bill?

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not, Mr. Speaker,

I would like an answer as to whether ordinarily if this were June, 1958, and this bill were passed today, and I am the assessor, do I not have the right to say, "I shall assess the improvement that was made a year ago—after settlement has been made—and assess it as of the first of the month of the date of the improvement? "Assess it now, dating back to the first of the month of the date of the improvement.

Mr. ASHTON. No, the bill states just exactly the opposite. The bill states that the property shall be taxable at the reassessed valuation for that proportionate part of the fiscal year of the taxing district remaining after the property was reassessed. It cannot go back to the date that the property was built or improved.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, if I have settlement on the 31st day of the month, and having settlement, in what manner is the purchaser protected from the improvement having been made on the 10th of the month?

Mr. ASHTON. The property will be assessed as of the day of assessment, not of the date of improvement.

Mr. SHERMAN. The date of the assessment can be at any time, can it not?

Mr. ASHTON. The date of the assessment can be at any time after the building is completed, but the proportionate part of the year remaining is calculated from the date of assessment, not from the date of completion of the building.

Mr. SHERMAN. Does it not say that it shall be computed as having been made on the first of the month rather than the date of the assessment?

Mr. ASHTON. The assessment shall be computed as having been made on the first of the month.

Mr. SHERMAN. Therefore, is it not true whether I am a veteran, or a small property owner, or otherwise, that having settlement on the 25th, 30th, or 31st, of the month, I am not protected by title insurance, or otherwise, from having an assessment made against the property that I purchase on that day and date because an improvement had been made on the 5th or 6th of the month?

Mr. ASHTON. The taxes should be apportioned on the date of settlement.

Mr. SHERMAN. Is it not sufficient that we have, Mr. Speaker, at the present time such things as little insurance, life insurance, mechanics lien insurance, mortgage premium insurance? Are we to be burdened with aditional insurance for the protection of a purchaser and the expense of such insurance to protect him against an improvement made during the month in which he buys the property?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, is that a political speech or a question?

Mr. SHERMAN. No, I assure you, Mr. Speaker, that this is not a political bill as far as I am concerned. I am asking these questions for the protection of the small property owner, for the GI and those who cannot afford additional expense and additional insurance.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the two words "major improvement" are vague and undefined, I am going to vote against the bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Ashton.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Ashton, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ASHTON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr READINGER. Mr. Speaker. I desire to ask the gentleman why the various codes, third class city codes, county codes, and so forth, were not amended rather than amending the law in this manner. Was there any particular reason?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, the answer to that question is this: at the last session of the Legislature, I introduced a bill covering merely third and fourth class school districts for some correctional amendments. It passed the House and was sent over to the Senate. In the meanwhile there were requests from a second class school district to be included in it.

In the other Chamber, it was decided to keep my bill in Committee and start a bill of their own. This Bill 130 is an exact copy of the bill which passed the Senate in place of my bill. It passed the Senate last year and came to the House in the waning days of the session and there was never any action taken on it. This Bill 130, which I cosponsored, is exactly the same bill which was in the House last year.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill, I think it is a good bill, but I would have preferred to see a series of bills amending the various codes to accomplish this purpose. It is rather difficult sometimes for a person to find out what the law is in a fourth class county, or a second class county, or a third class city, when he has to go through a group of miscellaneous laws relating to something pertaining to that county or political subdivision. Lawyers usually have no difficulty in finding a law of this kind in Purdons. But a layman looking at the County code, for example, will find in there the present law, and unless he knows about this amendment he might waste a lot of his time and do a great deal of fretting thinking that the present law is still on the books because it is still in the code, whereas this Section 2 repeals any law that is inconsistent with it.

It is a matter of procedure more than anything else, so that if it is passed and becomes a law I hope in the future the codes themselves will be amended to conform to this. I think basically this is a good idea to allow reassessment of a property after it has been built during the year or after some major improvement has been made to it. It may not be a happy situation for the taxpayer in certain cases, but it is good for the taxing authorities and it is fair as far as I can see, it is fair to everybody involved.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

YEAS—141

Adams,	Fox,	Magee,	Renwick,
Agnew,	Galley,	Mahan,	Rigby,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 288, entitled as follows:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways to construct a toll free tunnel between the Fort Pitt Bridge and the Saw Mill Run Interchange of the Parkway-West.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I assume we are passing these two bills, the last one just passed and the one we are on at the present time, as a matter of form, inasmuch as this has been taken care of by administrative action through the Department of Highways wherein the tunnel is going to be placed on the interstate system, which will, of course, afford Pennsylvania the pleasure of receiving 90 per cent of the funds from the Federal government and only expending 10 per cent of our own. So I suggest all of the Members vote for this bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr EWING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman what the status of the plans for this tunnel were on February 4th when this bill was introduced. Did the Highway Department then have plans to build this tunnel as part of the road system?

Mr. EWING. I am pretty sure they did, Mr. Speaker. They have been working on the plans for this for I do not know how many months now, but I understand it was sometime back in 1955 that they started to spend money for the engineering service.

Mr. READINGER. And may I ask the gentleman whether or not the Highway Department was going to erect a toll free tunnel at this point?

Mr. EWING. I do not think the Highway Department was going to do it. It was going to be in charge of a Tunnel Commission and they would handle it by selling bonds for the Tunnel Commission and the contract would have been let by the Tunnel Commission. That is the way I understand it.

Mr. READINGER. But on February 4th, when this bill was introduced, the Highway Department had announced, had it not, that this tunnel, toll free, was of the road system?

Mr. EWING. I do not know what the date was, but you are probably right on that. I had not followed that part of it.

Mr. READINGER. I would like to know what the reason was, if any, for the introduction of this bill if the Highway Department had already announced its plans and had drafted the necessary plans to go ahead with this? Why is it necessary that we vote on this bill at all?

Mr. EWING. I would just like to have a vote on it for a purpose.

Mr. READINGER. I did not hear the gentleman.

Mr. EWING. I think I answered Mr. Andrews on that question yesterday, to make the whole thing legal.

Mr. READINGER. To make the erection of this tunnel legal?

Mr. EWING. Right.

Mr. READINGER. Is the gentleman telling me now that the Secretary, or the Department of Highways, does not have the authority without the passage of this bill to erect this tunnel?

Mr. EWING. No, I do not mean to infer that at all.

Mr. READINGER. May I bluntly ask the gentleman whether his purpose of introducing this bill, or cosponsoring it, was purely political, so that he might get his name in the newspaper as being a great hero to get a tunnel erected which the Democratic administration was already going to erect?

Mr. EWING. For the gentleman's information, the campaign in our district was built around the Tunnel Commission and to have a toll free tunnel, so we are carrying it through to the ultimate end.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether after he campaigns for something his people want he will continue to introduce unnecessary bills and waste the taxpayers' money in this method?

Mr. EWING. I do not consider it unnecessary.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman says he considers this bill necessary?

Mr. EWING. They are companion bills.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman not to confuse the issue here. Assuming, as we have just done, passed a bill abolishing the Tunnel Commission, which changes, of course, the plans by which this tunnel was to be built, assuming that was the proper thing to do and we have done it by our vote, what is the necessity of this bill?

Mr. EWING. I did not understand the gentleman's question.

Mr. READINGER. I am still asking what necessity there is for this bill?

Mr. EWING. In carrying out our program through in that district.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask whether the gentleman made any more campaign promises on which he is going to follow through with unnecessary bills?

Mr. EWING. Yes, one more, if we do not get off of the subject here, is to turn all of the county roads over to the state in Allegheny County.

Mr. EADINGER. I assume that a change in the law would be necessary to accomplish that?

Mr. EWING. Yes, sir, and I can give you the number, if you would like to know it.

Mr. READINGER. I will probably have a chance to vote on it.

Mr. Speaker, I know that politics are played on the floor of this House as they are everywhere by Members of this House, but I do seriously object to the introduction and acting on bills which to my mind are completely unnecessary.

There is a certain cost involved in typing these things, printing them and processing them. What the cost would amount to for a bill of two pages, I do not know, but whatever it is, it is too much money to spend. If this were necessary, I would be happy to vote for it. But in my opinion, since the Highway Department has complete authority to do what it is intending to do, to build this tunnel, this is so completely unnecessary that I just cannot vote for it, as much as I want to see that tunnel in your area in the west as you do. I object strenuously to wasting money by passing unnecessary bills.

Mr. ANDEWS. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman from Allegheny has been thoughtful enough to mention my name. I must need say a word or two.

He said he wants to make it 'legal.' His reply reminds me of the time the alledged horse thief was standing under a tree, beneath a limb, with a rope around his neck and the boys around him were bent upon executing him forthwith. Then one of the cowboys interjected and he said, "Boys, let's try him before we hang him."

We have exactly that sort of legal procedure. The deed has been accomplished, Allengheny County has its toll free tunnel, but for some reason this bill and another bill, were introduced necessitating the printing of five or six hundred of the pink and five or six hundred of the white, involving an expenditure that I would estimate to be in excess of $1,000.

I humbly suggest to the gentleman in question, that it would be more in keeping with the proprieties if he would finance his political aspirations by drawing upon his own resources and the resources of his friends, rather than adopting a plan which enables him to advertise quite effectively at the expense of the taxpayers.

I appreciate the finesse of the operation, it is typical, that is the way they do things cometimes in his particular coterie in Allegheny County. It is clever. I presume there are circles in which it is deemed laudable, quite laudable, to turn a sharp corner at the expense of the poor taxpayer. Of course, it is only a few hundred dollars, but there is a great principle involved, especially in an era when we are so strenuously urged to practice economy.

I hope it will not become a precedent, that we practice economy for the furtherance of our political standing, but that we actually practice economy for the benefit of the taxpayer.

Again, I appreciate the gentleman'e finesse. I appreciate the range and extent of the campaign they made, returning them gloriously once again on account of the things they did not do and which were done for them previously. I say to them that we on this side have labored so diligently to make it possible, by reason of the legislation which has been enacted, to do these things before the gentlemen thought about it, and we see them campaign and win all of the political glory for having it done. It is clever, but I hope it will not become a precedent.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Will the Minority Leader consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is it the law of Pennsylvania that the Secretary of Highways has the authority to open a new route giving the state the right of eminent domain without legislative authority?

Mr. READINGER. To the extent that he now has authority, for example, to relocate roads, and so forth, I assume the Secretary of the Department of Highways now has authority to use the power of eminent domain by the state for that purpose. If a new road is to be added to the system, it would have to be done by legislative act. That is my understanding of it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, if the Minority Leader were advised that there is nothing but a mountain at the northern terminus and the southern terminus of the Mt. Washington hillside and that this bill will create a new highway which never existed, is not Legislative power required?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am assuming that the legislation is already on the books to enable the Secretary of the Department of Highways to build a road where this mountain is and that, therefore, a tunnel is necessary to get through the mountain to join the roads. I assume that legislation is already on the books. Am I incorrect on that?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I am not an authority on highway. I was not elected from that district, but since the gentleman is interrogating me now, my recollection is that the legislation which was repealed today, or is in the process of being repealed, provided for the construction of a tunnel with tolls, and now we are having new legislation for the construction of a tunnel without tolls, so we are proceeding ab initio. I believe this legislation is absolutely required should anyone's property be taken by eminent domain, and I congratulate Mr. Ewing for being so astute and better than some of us lawyers.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman has made a valiant effort to pull Mr. Ewing out of the tunnel into which he has crawled, but I do not think he has been very successful.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, the arguments seem to indicate that this bill is unnecessary. However, I know there is enough strength to pass this bill, so in order not to get in trouble with the people of Allegheny County, we the Democrats from Allegheny County, join in the aproval of this bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in order to be fair about this, I think I noticed I was the only "no" vote on the previous bill. Now, since all this oratory has come about, this is much more expensive than I thought it was going to be. I think personally there is no need for either one of the bills and that we should vote "no" on this one and just drop it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 322, entitled as follows:

An Act making certain bridges in the Commonwealth toll free; providing for the payment of certain bond issues; requiring the Department of Highways to sell certain property and appropriating the proceeds of sale thereof.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would it be possible to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Bower.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BOWER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, explain to us Public Law 715 of the 1949 session and tell us how many bridges were involved at the time the state purchased these bridges in the Commonwealth?

Mr. BOWER. Under the law mentioned by the gentleman there were 10 bridges acquired by the state through purchase.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the 10 bridges which were purchased under this law, did that law require that they were all to be made free at one time from the revenue of the combination of all of them.

Mr. BOWER. That is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would also like to question the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, and ask him if the reports which have been issued as early as November and December of last year and January of this year indicated that the revenue would be available to make these bridges toll free approximately in the period in which this bill states by its present content?

Mr. BOWER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the next question, of these 10 bridges in the 1949 law did it provide for the disposition of the property at the time they was purchased?

Mr. BOWER. It did not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. It did not. In other words, Mr. Speaker, House Bill 322 is required to confer the right to sell the items that deal with these toll bridges and to set a specific date in which they become toll free, which has been fixed here as May 31st?

Mr. BOWER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman from Greene, I wish to make this statement.

As one of the original sponsors of the bill and after hearing and receiving reports as to the possible date on which the bridges would be free, I consulted with attorneys who were part and parcel of the drawing of the original Act as to the necessity of a bill of this nature. In their opinion they felt it was necessary to have a bill of this kind as to termination and as to permission for the Department of Highways to sell existing property which went along with the purchases of the bridges.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the statement that the gentleman has made I appreciate very much.

The last and final question, in the releases that have come from the Secretary of Highways he has indicated that these bridges would be free approximately on this date, depending upon the revenue that would be forthcoming in the last few months. Will there be on May 31st, sufficient revenues to pay off the balance, as near as you can tell?

Mr. BOWER. From all indications in the reports and the availability of information which I have received, this is about the approximate date, that the bridges by collection of tolls will have freed themselves. In drawing the bill it was necessary to draw it in such a way that if there was an over-collection of tolls that money probably could be placed in the Motor License Fund for the use of the Highway Department. In a Supreme Court decision on the possibility of the Highway Department paying off bonded indebtedness for other than highway construction they have been rendered an opinion that they cannot use Highway funds. So, therefore, if there would be a deficiency at the time of the date we have set, it would be necessary at a later date in this session to introduce an appropriation bill to pay off what small amount may be necessary to be paid from the General Fund.

Mr. McCANN. I thank the gentleman from Northumberland.

Mr. Speaker, the last statement the gentleman made was the one item that I wanted to be absolutely clear about. In case there would be a shortage anywhere from $5,000 to $50,000 or $75,000 to pay off the balance of these 10 bridges since we have set a specific date, that date being May 31st, as in some estimates it might have had to go until around the 15th of June, or thereabouts, to bring it to the actual figure. Since the statement has been given here on the floor that if for any reason it would not come out exactly to the right figure, then we can assume that in a forthcoming session, or at the proper time in this session—since we are going to adjourn early, we would have to pass it over until the coming session—we would then have an appropriation bill to pay that balance if it would fall short.

In the light of the statements which have been made by the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, and those statements I believe to be correct since one of these bridges is in my own area between Greene to Fayette County, I ask that we go along and support this measure since it is needed and we agree to the time stated, at least, I do, in the bill.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, part of what I was going to say has already been said. However, I feel strongly about this due to the fact that two of these bridges connect my county with the great county of Cumberland. I feel I would be remiss if I did not say something in regard to this bill.

House Bill 322 calls for the freeing of 10 existing toll bridges by meeting current obligations through the sale of all buildings and properties acquired incident to the purchase of these bridges eight years ago. The project of making these bridges free to motorists has been a Republican goal since 1949 when they became the property of the public. Current indebtedness will be met through the sale of buildings, property and appurtenances acquired incident to the purchase of the bridges. The public sale of such holdings would be conducted by the Secretary of Highways.

The vision shown in the action eight years ago has paid off handsomely. It is interesting to note that the bonds due to be called under this proposal are the 1957-1961 issue and amount to $3,550,000. Had not this step been taken by the Republican party in 1949, the public today would have been faced with a continuation of these toll bridge charges indefinitely.

Bridges which would be freed of tolls by House Bill 322 are:

The Market Street Brdige in Harrisburg;

Clarks Ferry in Duncannon, which incidentally also is in my county and runs over to Perry County;

Eighth Street in Allentown;

Ellwood-Koppel in Beaver County;

Sunbury Bridge at Sunbury;

Minsi Trail in Bethlehem;

Charleroi-Monessen in Washington and Westmoreland Counties;

New Street in Bethlehem;

The Walnut Street Bridge, also in Harrisburg;

The Point Marion at Marion.

Mr. Speaker, if this bill becomes law, and I sincerely hope it will, May 30, 1957 will be one of the greatest days in the history of this Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, certainly I do not intend to make a campaign speech or follow through on a campaign promise in regard to the legislation which is before us, but I know I would be remiss were I not to remind most of the gentlemen sitting in the Hall of the House here, and enlighten the newer members of the House, about the commitments that the 1949 Members of this House made at the time of the passage of the Act on April 22, 1949, when sufficient funds and proper legislation were provided for the Commonwealth to purchase the toll bridges.

At that time my colleague from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, specifically asked the question on the floor of the House whether or not the only funds to be used in paying off the obligation for purchasing those bridges were to be gotten from the tolls collected on those same bridges. A commitment was made to him, and to the many other Members of the House who voted for this legislation at the time, that not until such time as the entire sum was paid would those bridges be released from tolls, thereby eliminating the necessity for procuring any or all of the amount of the funds to free them from tolls from other revenue sources.

I believe we have sufficient legislation on the books at the present time to free the bridges at the particular time it has occurred right in line with the Act which was passed in 1949. I believe the bill in question here has much merit as to certain of its provisos. However, when we deadline a particular date, I believe we are extending ourselves and we are bringing about a situation which we said would not occur at the time of the passage of this bill.

I may say that existing legislation provides for the freeing of these toll bridges when revenues are sufficient to retire outstanding bonds.

It is also anticipated by those who are conversant with this legislation that that position will be reached sometime this spring or summer. A great deal of legal work remains to be done prior to freeing the structures from tolls.

The Department of Highways anticipates this work will be accomplished by the time sufficient revenue to free the bridges is received. I believe it is better to free the structures the moment the revenue is sufficient, in line with what we pledged on the floor of this House at the time we passed that legislation, than to have an exact fixed time.

When they argue that in the event we do not fix a date this thing could be prolonged, I do not believe any department would take that upon themselves, inasmuch as the legislation specifically spells out that this shall be done at the given time when sufficient revenue is available to discharge those bonds.

So I would like to appeal to the sponsor of the bill, although other provisions of the bill are in good order, to consider the possibility of placing this on the final passage postponed calendar and elmiminate the fixed dates. Strengthen the bill in whatever way you may, but eliminate the fixed date so we can stand upon the commitment to those Members who voted for this legislation in 1949, and hold to the one item that was expressly stated on the floor of the House by the majority party at that time under Governor Duff's Administration. That was that every cent of revenue necessary to pay this off come from the tolls and not from any other income source of the Highway Department. I believe it will make much better legislation. I feel we could live with ourselves, inasmuch as we have fulfilled the requirement of our commitment in "49.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

RESOLUTION

Mr. CIOFFI offered a resolution which was filed with the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to call the attention of the Members to Rule 15 of the House. When non-privileged resolutions are presented it is only necessary to file them with the Clerk, the same as when introducing a bill.

If the Members will send these non-privileged resolutions to the desk, it will save a lot of time for the House. They need not be introduced by the Members from the floor of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we have received the Governor's budget and, taking a look at the budget of the Department of Welfare, the budget request, as you know, totals $232,090,000.

From time to time there are certain things in that budget we will want to point out to the Members so that you will, as our study progresses, know what is in that particular budget.

Today I want to speak to you about the $780,000 propaganda fund which the budget requests.

Mr. Shapiro wants to spend $780,000 to flood Pensylvania with propaganda to get bigger and bigger appropriations for his Department. He has notified Governor Leader and his Budget Bureau that he wants to spend $130,000 yet in this biennium to put over his gigantic budget request before May 31st, and another $631,000 on a super-duper publicity and information bureau to be staffed by 22 employes.

This information is contained in the detailed information that accompanies his budget in the Apprpriations Committee room. So what I am giving you, you can go up there and find out for yourself.

It is all part of a vast propaganda program financed out of the taxpayers' money which will be so geared and so operated that nothing will be made public about mental health except what Secretary Shapiro thinks the people should know.

I am sure that one item of information which this new Gilt-edged bureau of publicity will suppress, if it has not already done so, is the fact that during the first full year of the Leader administration, the number of deaths in our state mental hospitals increased from 2,586 deaths during the last full year under the Republican regime to 3,308 deaths for the first full year under Governor Leader. These are official figures which have never heretofore been made public.

The General Assembly will shortly be bombarded by demands for increases in the Welfare Department budget, all of them inspired and in many cases paid for by the same public funds that the Legislature appropriates for this Department.

For example, the Department of Welfare wants to spend $10,000 from its present fund to bring 1,000 people to Harrisburg, sometime soon, for the express purpose of bringing pressure on this Legislature to appropriate more money. This gathering will have the high-sounding title of a Citizens' Assembly, but will be just another cog in the Secretary's costly propaganda machine. This too is in the record on file with the Committee.

Some of the other methods the Department will use to "plaster the state with propaganda" will include:

A bi-monthly popular mafiazine with an initial circulation of 25,000 copies;

A house organ for employes and a professional quarterly which will go to 25,000 persons;

Televisions films to cost $219,000 and radio spots costing another $8,000;

Hundreds of newspaper releases, all of which must be approved by the Secretary of Welfare.

Here is another item. Salaries alone for the Bureau of Information will run $236,000 for the next biennium.

> "The Bureau also will be given the responsibility of riding herd on the Legislature and keeping the Secretary of Welfare informed on the progress of the propaganda campaign."

Those are words taken out of the budget request.

> "As the department itself has informed the Governor, 'No expense must be spared to put this over'."

My point is this, we have before us this tremendous increase in the appropriation for the Department of Welfare. Never let it be said that one person in this Hall is against the state doing a good job for the mentally ill, the mentally retarded, the handicapped, and so forth, who make up our welfare program in this state.

Here is an item of $761,000 for propaganda, not one cent of which will go to relieve a mentally ill person or a mentally retarded child.

We in this Legislature know what the problem is in this state with respect to the Department of Welfare. We certainly do not need a $761,000 propaganda department to put over on the people of Pennsylvania all the great things that supposedly are being done in the Departement of Welfare. That is one of the items that our Appropriations Committee certainly will serutinize very carefully before we pass a $223 million budget.

Mr. FILO: Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman stated there had been an increase in the number of deaths in the institutions, is that not correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. The gentleman's question is, is that statement correct?

Mr. FILO. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes. Those are official figures from the Department of Welfare which the gentleman can well obtain.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that the Committee make a check into those deaths and find out the average age, or the age, of the particular persons who are deceased. You know there is such a thing as you cannot live forever.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question I have this to say, if these figures should be sent out to the general public to show how many seniles died during that particular year, I think the public would apreciate knowing it. But when those figures are added to figures which show the fewer number of people in mental hospitals now as compared to the Republican regime, then the figures are misleading. I grant that perhaps a good many of them are seniles who died normally.

I do not want to give the impression that anything singular was done to increase the death rate in the institutions. The point of the matter is that a great deal of the decease in the number of inmates in our hospitals has been due to natural causes, and I would say not through any extraordinary, unusually great thing that has been done in a short period of time by Mr. Shapiro.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do you have there the figures of the number of patients released from the mental hospitals and the comparison of those released on January 1st with those released in previous years?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, we do not have the figures but we are requesting those figures for the purpose of comparison, with a detail of the reasons for the discharge, the age of the person, and so forth. We hope to have those figures to give on the floor here within the next several weeks.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOPRESTI asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday the Joint Committee of the House and Senate investigating the Pardon Board met in executive session to discuss the matters pertaining to that inquiry. Among other things we selected an attorney from Harrisburg, Mr. Kohn, as counsel for the Committee. At the time the selection was made a unanimous vote of the Committee was given to Mr. Kohn.

I merely want to state now, that had I realized at the time the appointment was made that Mr. Kohn was the County Treasurer of Dauphin County, I would not have voted to approve his appointment. I do not wish to cast any unfair remarks concerning the gentleman. I think he is a fine man, probably qualified in every respect and a gentleman in every sense of the word. However, I do believe that as County Treasurer of Dauphin County he owes his primary duty to the citizens of Dauphin County and should not be counsel for this particular Committee.

For that reason I want to explain that had I known or realized that at the time, I would not have voted with the remaining Members of the Committee to appoint him.

Mr. TOMPKINS. May I interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, please?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOPRESTI. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the only reason the gentleman would change his vote today is on account of the man's political office?

Mr. LOPRESTI. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The gentleman would not vote against him on account of his qualifications?

Mr. LOPRESTI. I would not, Mr. Speaker.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for the past several years, to my memory, there has been an attempt on the part of certain members of the Bar of Pennsylvania and other groups to foist on the citizens of this Commonwealth what is known as the "Pensylvania Plan." It would require a constitutional amendment and the effect would be to take the judges out of politics. I am sure that every Member of this House is familiar with the plan. The effect of the plan is to have members of the Bar Association recommend to the Governor appointments to the judiciary and from that list the Governor is to choose one and thus take away the rights the people now enjoy under our Constitution.

I have always maintained, Mr. Speaker, in my very limited experience, that the present method of selecting judges is quite a good one. It is impossible to think of a situation where you will get 100 per cent qualified men. I certainly think if such a plan were adopted we would get a situation similar to that which exists today, a situation I would like to bring to the attention of the Members of this House because of the immediacy of the problem.

What I am referring to, Mr. Speaker, is a situation which has just developed in Philadelphia. The Judiciary Committee of the Philadelphia Bar Association met last week in order to determine the qualifications and to make recommendations to the Governor to fill the vacancy in the Municipal Court created by the death of the late Judge Leonard M. Propper, of happy memory. They met, and I read in the paper last week that they recommended seven people to the Governor to fill that vacancy. I am reliably informed that the Governor intends to select from that list and I am reliably informed that one particular person on that list has, and I quote, "the inside track."

There appeared in this morning's Philadelphia paper a statement by the Chairman of the Philadelphia Republican City Committee, Councilman Wilbur Hamilton, a former Member of the House wherein Mr. Hamilton accused the Judiciary Committee of the Philadelphia Bar Association of being pressured by the ADA into naming these members and that as a result of that pressure these seven members, or a certain precentage of them, were so named.

I do not want to attack anyone's character here, it is not my purpose to do so, but if the information I have is correct and a certain person has the inside track, I think the Members of this House should know the information I have.

One of the persons, a young lady who is now a Deputy Attorney General by the name of Lois Forer, I am reliably informed again—and I have confidence in the source of my information—who was recommended by the Judiciary Committee of the Philadelphia Bar Association was in 1948 a member of the Progressive Party and as a member of that party she campaigned actively for Henry Wallace.

If I find out to the contrary, I shall certainly so state to this House, but because of the source of my information I am inclined to believe it. I want to say here and now that if it is correct, then I want no part of it.

Regardless of politics, I think the Governor should scrutinize this list and make an independent selection. There are so many fine attorneys in the City of Philadelphia, both Democratic and Republican, endorsed by both parties, and yet the Judiciary Committee named seven members of the Bar Association, all of the same political party, the Democratic Party. If that is bipartisan, then I do not fully understand the term.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. DOUGHERTY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank you, Mr. Speaker, for your kind remembrance of my birthday. I want you to know I greatly apreciate it. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman and wishes him sincere birthday greetings.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. FILO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I want to take a little bit of time to show that the Members are interested in saving money for the Commonwealth.

On numerous occasions I have presented bills to the House of Representatives regarding free licenses for residents over 65 years of age for fishing and for hunting. This year I also had bills prepared of a similar nature. However, in checking over the history I find that two pieces of legislation similar to mine were introduced by Mr. Price. They are House Bill 309 and House Bill 310.

I want to state here that I am in favor of those bills and I would urge the Committee to take favorable action on them. Since then I have found out, and I have checked with the printer, that had I introduced these two bills it would have cost the Commonwealth $2,700.

For the information of the Members of the House, and I think this is enlightening, a bill like this House Bill 309,—I believe every Member can see it, it is a page and a half long—costs $1,350 to print as soon as it is introduced. Now here are two bills that could have been introduced without looking at the House history and they would have cost the government $2,700.

In checking over today's calendar, and from the information given by the Minority Leader, I find that there are three bills on a similar nature that probably did not have to be on the calendar. Therefore, with those bills being introduced and termed as unnecessary we could have saved $8,850.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FILO. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish the gentleman would take the House History, please, and I would like to call his attention to two bills.

Mr. FILO. I think I know the nature of the two bills, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that on page 60 there is House Bill 314 introduced by Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Filo caling for medial barriers or guards, and then a similar bill on page 81, House Bill 441, by Mr. Filo and Mr. Goldstein calling for medial barriers or guards?

Mr. FILO. That is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Will the gentleman explain if there is any difference in those two bills?

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, there is a very, very great difference in the two bills if the gentleman would just care to look at them. I might say this, the one bill calls for medial barriers being built by the Highway Department and the other bill is a medial barrier bill calling for the Turnpike Commission, or any other succeeding agency, to maintain and to erect madial barriers at the rate of 20 miles per year until such time as the Turnpike is completely protected with medial barriers. There is a wide difference, sir, and I agree that the two bills look similar. However, these two bills I am referring to are of the exact nature—

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize that the law of Pennsylvania says a bill must have a oneness of subject. While the oneness of subject would be medial barriers, then could not your one bill have provided for construction by the Highway Department and then in another section construction by the Turnpike Commission?

Mr. FILO. As the gentleman well remembers, I had introduced such a bill and it was argued and debated on the floor of the House during the last session. The gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Hocker, claimed it was illegal for the Highway Department to erect and maintain such a barrier because it is in the hands of the Turnpike Commission. Therefore, that was the reason the original bill was drawn up by Mr. Goldstein, the first bill, and the second bill was drawn up by myself and Mr. Goldstein.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SCHWARTZ asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the Majority Leader evidently has some pretty good writers himself. I am sure he does not think up the information he gives to the Members of this House apropos of the Secretary of Welfare, Mr. Shapiro.

I think I can give the House a pretty good reason why he wants to scrutinize that seven hundred and some thousand dollars that he says is in the budget for the purpose of propaganda. It seems to me that one of the really good jobs that is being done in this Commonwealth is the one being done by the Department of Welfare under that Secretary.

Perhaps Mr. Johnson is a little concerned that the people of the Commonwealth will be adequately apprised of the good job that is being done and for that reason desires to scrutinize and eliminate that item from the budget. Is seems to me that $700,000 out of $223 million is about a quarter of one per cent. If you spend $223 million for that type of work, certainly the people of this Commonwealth ought to know that that kind of money is available for that particular purpose. The $700,000 might well be $600,000 or it might be $800,000 but I do not think the money is wasted.

I also do not think it is wasted if a thousand people who are interested in mental health would be gathered in our Capitol in Harrisburg to implement such a program.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TOLL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I sat here a little while ago and listened to one of my colleagues from Philadelphia refer to a fellow member of the Philadelphia Bar with reference to her non-legal, non-judicial qualifications for appointment to the Bench.

In the first place, let me say that I am a member of the Bar Association of the City of Philadelphia, one of the oldest associations of lawyers in America. It is an organization which contains Democrats and Republicans and non-partisans.

When the request for the selection of a judge to succeed the judge who passed away was issued, the Bar Association requested members of the Bar and the interested public to submit names for their consideration. I submit to you that a group of lawyers are as well qualified, if not better qualified than any other group of citizens, to make a recommendation for an appointment because they practice before these judges and they know exactly what type of person is qualified to sit on the Bench.

Names were submitted, a great many of them, and the Association recommended those names which appeared in the newspapers for some reason or other. They may have decided the others were not suitable temperamentally, or for some other reason.

I do know that Mrs. Forer ran for the State Senate from Montgomery County in 1950, when I ran for office in this House. She was defeated. Since then she has moved into the County of Philadelphia. I can also tell you that as a member of the American Bar Association, she won the Ross essay $2,500 award against competition from all over the country about three years ago. In addition to that, she has a remarkable record in the Department of Justice as one of the leading lawyers in the Department, specializing in social welfare bills. In addition to that, I can tell you that she is one of the outstanding champions of civil liberties in this Commonwealth.

I am not saying that other people should not be considered, and I believe the Governor is considering other applicants, but I call your attention to the fact that if she is not qualified to sit on the Bench, then no one is qualified.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Toll.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Toll, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOLL. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman would not want to create the erroneous impression that I questioned this girl's legal ability, although you said I did question it?

Mr. TOLL. No, Mr. Speaker, I just raised the question in reference to the fact that several candidates are being considered by the Governor and why would the question be of importance to this Body.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman said that she ran for State Senator in Montgomery County in 1950 and that she moved into the City of Philadelphia. Do you happen to know how many weeks ago or how many mouths ago she moved into the City of Philadelphia?

Mr. TOLL. I do not, Mr. Speaker. I heard she moved recently, but I do not know how long ago. But she has been a Philadelphia lawyer from way back.

Mr. McCORMACK: Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know how many names were submitted to the Judiciary Committee?

Mr. TOLL. I do not know, but there are certainly many more than those who were recommended.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know whether Mrs. Forer has ever practiced in the Municipal Court of Philadelphia County?

Mr. TOLL. I never saw Mrs. Forer practice in Municipal Court, but I have seen her in action in the Common Pleas Court. In fact, I saw her argue a case on the constitutionality of the censorship law in No. 2 Court.

Mr. McCORMACK. As a matter of fact, the Municipal Court has complete jurisdiction over domestic relations and juveniles, is that correct?

Mr. TOLL. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. Do you know the other candidates, for instance, Muray H. Shusterman?

Mr. TOLL. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Does the gentleman know whether he ever practiced in the Municipal Court of Philadelphia?

Mr. TOLL. I believe he did, he has an all-round practice. I know him very well.

Mr. McCORMACK. I do not want to go through the list.

Mr. Speaker, I did not question the legal qualifications of Mrs. Forer. I just am really disturbed by the fact that she is supposed to have been a member of the Progressive Party and I am also disturbed by the fact that these recommendations, or most of them, originated with the ADA. I certainly hope the Governor really scrutinizes the list before he makes the appointment.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, February 20, 1957

The House met at 10:30 a. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Dr. Roy E. Manne, Pastor of South Avenue Methodist Church, Wilkinsburg, Pa., guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, we thank Thee that as our wisdom increases, our sense of God increases.

Be to us like the light. Too often have we loved the darkness because our deeds are evil. Shine upon us. Give us vision and insight. May the solutions of our problems grow clearer as we hold them before Thy presence.

Be to us like the sea. Let littleness die out of us. Let meanness and partisanship, prejudice and bigotry, intolerance and smallness fall away from us.

Replace our dismay with encouragement; our fear with faith; our low meditations with high ambitions. Help us to make this God's own country by living like God's own people.

We do not always know the way we ought to take—guide us. We do not always know how we ought to behave—show us. We do not always do what we know we should do—admonish and then forgive us. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, February 19, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. CIOFFI. RESOLUTION No. 35.

In the House of Representatives, February 19, 1957.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is presently confronted with a serious problem in regard to the shortage of trained nurses available to the public. A brief observation of existing conditions on this matter leads the House of Representatives to certain startling conclusions. First, this shortage of trained nurses exists despite the fact that the General Assembly appropriates, on behalf of State-aided institutions, several millions of dollars with which student nurses tuition costs can be defrayed. Another factor which points out this shortage is that much has to be done and said via the radio and advertising, and other mass communication media in order to recruit or induce persons to pursue a vocation or avocation of nursing. Many times it is necessary for hospitals to employ students on a part-time basis or as volunteers to perform certain routine duties that will lessen the task of trained nurses. Such conditions confirm the position that the physical facilities of State and State-aided institutions are just not sufficient enough to turn out as high a number of trained nurses as would be desired; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission is hereby directed to study and investigate the matter of the trained nurses shortage in the Commonwealth and to submit its findings and recommendations on how to alleviate this shortage to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection
House Bill No. 60, Printer's No. 23 and
House Bill No. 109, Printer's No. 69
were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to file a request with the Majority Leader. The request is this:

At various times in the public print and even on the floor of this House the assertion has been made that qualified technical and professional employes have been ruthlessly separated from the payroll at various times since the beginning of the present administration and that as a consequence the administration is now frantically endeavoring to replace the trained people that have been dismissed.

I would like to have the Majority Leader supply me with a list of those who have been so ruthlessly separated from the payroll so I may file it in this House as a part of the record.

I also desire to make this brief statement. I feel that these statements should not go unchallenged. It is a part of current comment and it is a statement that can be documented or it is a statement made for publicity purposes.

If this administration has displaced trained technical employes, then it has taken an about-face endeavoring to reestablish a qualified technical staff, and that fact should be known. If it is not true that technical employes have been fired ruthlessly and without respect to their abilities to perform, that fact shuold be known.

I would like to have the Majority Leader, since he is partly responsible for those statements, compile a record that I may file it as a part of the proceedings of this House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman we certainly will try and comply with his request. Since I made the statement on the floor here on Monday, various Members on this side of the House have come to me with specific instances bearing out the very thing I have stated on the floor. I already had some instances reported to me before that.

It would be very helpful, however, if we could get the Governor's Personnel Officer downstairs to make up a list of those Republicans who have been released, it would greatly facilitate it, and then we can give you their qualifications and give you the reasons why they were discharged.

I am sure it is quite a formidable list. As the names come in I will be glad to furnish them to the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in this morning's newspaper, the Patriot, on page 3 appears an article headed, "Young Members of Legislature To Be Honored at Dinner Here." The article then goes on to describe 20 young Republicans. I was very happy to note among the 20 my most esteemed friend, the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Wargo. But I was very unhappy when I noticed that this newspaper article—I do not know why—left out the names of all of the young ladies of the House.

I think all of us are familiar with the fact that we have some very gracious lady Members on both sides of this House. I want to go on record at this time with certain of my colleagues that we do not believe any of these ladies are over 35.

Therefore, the list should be corrected.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WARGO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. WARGO. Mr. Speaker, I was going to rise to a question of personal privilege; however, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, has beaten me to it.

I will not quote the article in whole, but it says, "A Tribute to Youth." To start with, they did make one mistake. I am a young fellow of 34, not 35, although I sometimes feel 60.

In my many trips to and from this Capitol in five terms here, I have grown fond of my many Republican friends on the other side. Although it is a privilege and an honor to be so mentioned, I feel at this particular time—I just do not know how to say it, I feel that I do not choose to be written out of the Democratic party.

So I will ask some of these young Republicans who are attending this affair to convey my wishes that they all have a good time. Sometime when partisan politics will not be discussed, I will be only too happy to break bread with Mr. Shirk, who I believe is the President of the organization.

The SPEAKER. The Chair was hopeful that after all those many years of association with the Republicans the gentleman might have a change of heart.

Mrs. KOOKER. Mr. Speaker, I simply rise to say "thank you" to Representative Bell.

The poet says, "Things are not what they seem." This is surely due recognition of that fact, and on behalf of the ladies we say, "Thank you."

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. AUKER. I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, all bills on first reading, that is, in white, are supposed to be on the Members' desks before they are called up for action.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in error. The bills do not have to be on the Members' desks for first reading, according to the Rules of the House, and the Rules so state.

Mr. AUKER. All right. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. VARNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, Members of the House and Mr. Speaker, you may have seen a number of ads that have appeared in daily and weekly newspapers throughout the Commonwealth within the last week. There is a series of ads being run by the Department of Revenue called, "Sales Tax Fax." These advertisements run by the Department of Revenue are costing the Department of Revenue and the taxpayers of the Commonwealth, I am certain, thousands of dollars, because each of you know, if you ever advertised in the newspapers, it costs a lot of money.

I have here in my hand a clipping which states that these ads will appear in nearly 300 daily and weekly newspapers in the state. This statement was made by the Secretary of Revenue, Gerald A. Gleeson. The ads are appearing in various newspapers and some of you have seen them.

The point I want to make is that this again reflects the statement made by our State Chairman last week that the costs of sales tax and corporation tax collections are a lot higher than they should be. This is one aspect, one reason, why they are higher. These ads are totally unnecessary. They are supposed to point out clearly and precisely just what each person in selling or leasing taxable property must do in making sure his annual return form is submitted by February 28th. They are particularly concerned with those individuals who have not yet obtained a license.

I say to the House and the people of Pennsylvania, if they do not know a sales tax is in force by this time, they certainly are not very well informed.

RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Messrs. JOHNSON and READINGER offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 20, 1957.

February 22 marks the birthday of our beloved first president.

It is good, in these troubled times to contemplate the life of this man who suffered through years of bitter adversity, and through his great spirit lifted his nation from defeat to victory, and his people from despair to hope. Faith in the cause of liberty lived in his day, and survives today because his faith was absolute, and his resolute devotion to that cause, incapable of surrender.

The example of George Washington is an American tradition, and is more powerful today in shaping the course of world affairs than is the total of all totalitarian "isms" ever contrived.

The meaning of Washington's life is known to every person in the world who loves liberty, and the fact of it, gives hope and courage to those who want liberty; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives pay tribute to the father of our country and the principles for which he stands, and in solemn reverence, give thanks to God for his existence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOVETT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in order to be fair with the gentleman from Tioga, I listened to the gentleman's speech last week and of course, it was not the Fourth of July, it was February 12th, which happens to be Lincoln's Birthday.

I expected more a less of a political speech on Lincoln's Birthday, nevertheless, some of the things the gentleman said interested me somewhat, because I have spent many years as a Member of the Legislature. He referred to the Governor making a statement that mandatory legislation had more or less tied the hands of the Governor.

Now, let's be fair about it. Over the years I have been here mandatory legislation has been passed and sent to the Governor. How much of it has been passed and sent to the Governor under the present administration, or the present Governor, I know not. I just want to say that the Governor, in my mind, has the last say on all legislation. If the Governors over the years in this state have left mandatory legislation pass without using their power of veto when they think it is bad legislation or it should not pass, then the Governors themselves are at fault. They have that right. They have the staff over there. The Governors do not run for reelection, so they cannot be playing politics, they should veto it. Over the years I have never seen such legislation being passed which has been vetoed by the Governor. So I say again that the gentleman in his remarks on mandatory legislation should blame not only this administration, but previous administrations when the Governors themselves should have done something about it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TOLL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker in further trying to straighten the record in the case where I believe an injustice has been done to a young lady who has been mentioned for high public office, I want to call the attention of the Members of the House to the fact that very shortly I expect to receive a certificate showing that Mrs. Forer has been a member of the Democratic party, a registered member, ever since she has been in Pennsylvania. I also expect to receive an affidavit that in 1948 she campaigns for the Democratic candidates.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MERRY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, February 25, 1957 at 4:30 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11:37 a. m.) the House adjourned.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, last Tuesday, the Senate adopted a resolution relative to the proposed payment of some $250,000 by the Department of Welfare to the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation. It was stated in that resolution that the intent of the Legislature, when the original Act was passed, was that this Foundation should be a recipient of gifts or funds from other foundations and from individuals for the purpose of research in the Commonwealth. At that time, the Commonwealth had no vehicle by which this might be accomplished.

Mr. President, we are informed that the resolution apparently was not sufficiently persuasive and that the Secretary of Welfare is pressing for the payment of this money over to this Foundation.

In order to clarify the situation, Mr. President, we have drawn the following bill and a companion bill. The companion bill relates to the training and the payment of salaries while in training of certain people who have been defined, more or less, as psychiatric assistants in various educational institutions. The companion bill would restrict such training to State-owned institutions.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting the following two bills on behalf of Senator Mahany, Senator McMenamin, Senator Dent and myself.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. BERGER, MAHANY, McMENAMIN and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 265, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts, page 110, Act No. 146-A), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Department of Welfare . . .," making certain appropriations for research and training applicable only to State-owned institutions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 266, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1956 (P. L. 1642) entitled "Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation Act," further defining the powers and jurisdiction of the Foundation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. STIEFEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 267, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 18, 1937 (P. L. 654) entitled, as amended, "An act to provide for the safety and to protect the health and morals of persons while employed; . . .," requiring nurses to be on duty in certain establishments.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 268, entitled:

An Act defining and relating to installment land contracts and providing for and regulating the rights and obligations between parties to such contracts under certain terms and conditions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 269, entitled:

An Act requiring circus and carnival operators to supply drinking water and toilet facilities to patrons.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 270, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Military Affairs and Aeronautics.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, for many years, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania neglected its duty toward the mentally ill of this Commonwealth. The treatment of our mentally ill really was a national shame for this Commonwealth.

Two years ago, we elected a Governor in this State who made, as one of his greatest contributions to this Commonwealth, a program to take care of our mentally ill. I do not have to remind the Members of this Senate of the long and tedious Session which we went through in order to make sure that a mental health program, which would meet with the needs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, would be passed and properly financed. I will say that in years to come, the people of this Commonwealth, yes, the people of this Nation, will know Governor Leader because of that mental health program.

It seems since the present Session of the Legislature has commenced, there has been a gradual building up within this Senate of an opposition toward that mental health program.

Today, we witnessed the introduction of two bills which dealt with this problem, both of which were referred to the Committee on Rules. These bills were of such great importance to the Committee on Rules that they saw fit to hold a meeting and consider these bills and one of the bills was reported out. The particular bill which was reported out dealt with a situation which was published in the newspapers this present week, wherein it was stated that the Department of Welfare was providing a course of training for people interested in psychiatric work.

In order to have a proper mental health program, you need the personnel to carry out this program. I might say to you, gentlemen, sitting here today, that I wish each and every one of you would read today's issue of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. It contains a feature article written by Mr. Sprigle who, some ten years ago, made an investigation of our mental institutions and called to the attention of this Commonwealth the terrible situations which existed in our mental health institutions. In his article today he starts out by referring to one of these particular institutions, Byberry, and telling what a change has been effected at that institution in the short space of two years, since the present Governor and the present Administration has been in control.

In order to carry out that program, as I said, it is necessary to have trained personnel. This personnel cannot be just trained at any particular place. The Secretary of Welfare and the Governor of this Commonwealth have worked out a program with the State-aided hospitals, as well as with the State-owned hospitals, to conduct proper courses of training so that we may have people who are able to handle our mental health program. What is wrong with such a procedure, I do not know. However, it seems to disturb Members of this legislative body to the extent that a bill was introduced today which would take away the right to train these people in State-aided institutions. Why these institutions have been taken out of the program, I do not know. They are the finest hospitals in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. They are trained to give training to these people whom we need. Yet this bill which was hurried out of committee, passed first reading, and will appear on the Calendar tomorrow,—will say that we do not dare spend money to train personnel in these hospitals which receive State aid.

What has happened in this Senate, I do not know. The bill, Senate Bill No. 266, was introduced here in the Senate and, as I understand it, is out on the floor.

Mr. President, mental health is not a political issue. Mental health is one of the greatest issues that we have here in Pennsylvania. I do not feel that a body of this type should make it a political issue or an issue of likes or dislikes as to who may be Secretary of the Department of Welfare which is operating this mental health program. I ask you to think of this very seriously because you are dealing with people who cannot stand before you and plead their cause.

I hope that this bill will not be rushed through the Legislature and that, if there is a question in the mind of the members of the committee or the Members of the Legislature, they see fit to call in people who are properly qualified to advise the Senate and the House as to whether or not we should remove State-aided institutions from the right to train personnel which will take care of our mentally ill.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I am sorry that my good friend and distinguished colleague, the Senator from Allegheny, saw fit to give such an impassioned plea on the wrong bill.

However, I think that implicit in his remarks is a continuation of the debate that went on last week and on which we will probably hear a little bit more next week, if not again this week.

Implicit in the thinking which he represents, it seems to me, is the philosophy that the end justifies the means. The Secretary of Welfare and those who seem to be allied with him feel that because the mental health program is so worthy, any means whatsoever, whether they are legal or not, are justified to carry out what they believe to be the best possible course of action to take.

Now those of us who opposed last week and I, as one of the sponsors on the bill which has just come out of committee, feel just as strongly as the Senator from Allegheny does about the need for a fine, progressive and modern mental health program. However, we also believe that its ends should be accomplished in a legal and constitutional manner.

I want to commend the Majority Leader and the Members of the Rules Committee for taking time out from their work today to hold an immediate meeting, and to have given this bill prompt and favorable consideration in a committee meeting. We are faced with an emergency situation. That situation is brought about by an attempt on the part of the Secretary of Welfare to spend funds, we believe, in an illegal manner. We believe purely and simply the difficulty here is a flagrant, arrogant and dictatorial assumption of powers which are not conferred by law upon the Secretary of Welfare. That is the situation we are trying to cure.

We believe that when this situation is cured, the mental health program will move more smoothly and more rapidly to its goal which all of us endorse.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, Senator McMenamin has put in very fine language all the thoughts that I had when I first asked to be recognized by the Chair. Therefore, I have nothing to add to what he has already said.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, to clear the minds of those in the Senate, I will read just what the bill that was reported from committee does.

It simply says that:

"No appropriation made to the Founudation shall be available unless and until it shall have complied with section 604 of the Administrative Code in the same manner as if it were an administrative department, board or commission." I think that is all we care about here in the Senate.

There is another thought that I had in regard to the second bill, and I thought for the edification of the Members of the Senate who do not belong to the Council of State Governments or are not delegates to the Convention, that I would call to your minds what they have done.

In 1953 at the conference, they said that the States should appraise the personnel situation in the State mental hospitals and support, where necessary, the training of increased numbers of personnel. They should take steps in encouraging and increase the number of students.

In New York, the Council on Social Work Education has told us that there were thirteen States listed as offering various kinds of scholarships. I would like to name those places for you: Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, New York, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Wisconsin, which is a pretty good cross-section of our Country.

Now in Illinois presently, they have 150 nurses in training, for which the State provides the room, the board, the uniforms, the tuition and the books, plus forty to sixty dollars spending money a month. These are nurse trainees. They have twenty-five physicians and residents training in psychiatry, and twenty-eight social workers, for whom they pay full tuition and a stipend ranging up to $190 a month.

Now in New York, they have a little different system. They pay a flat rate out of which each student pays his own tuition. The pay is $2,400 a year. Forty are on that arrangement now, with a total of $70,000 in the program, and another $30,000 in another program for part time schooling.

Ohio has appropriated $115,180 for this work, and they have some psychiatrists they are paying $8,000 a year while they are going to school; four of them in number. They pay some tuitions from $135 up to $700 a year and some they pay $450 a semester. They make separate arrangements with various institutions and, as you probably know in Ohio, The state is far more generous to their State institutions than we are in Pennsylvania. I have forgotten how many, but we only help, as you know, Pitt, Penn, Temple, Penn State and a few medical schools. In Ohio they have six or eight schools, I think, which are almost completely land grant colleges and they have these various arrangements with them.

Now the reason I am saying that today is I think it is in keeping with the remarks that Senator Schmidt made, and the bill that he is so fearful about, I am sure before it comes out will have some amendments in it, and I think probably when he sees the bill it will be most satisfactory.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. I do not promise I can answer the questions, but I will be interrogated.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Barr, you read off a list of States that grant scholarship aid to students who eventually get into mental institutions in some of the States. Was this program authorized by the Legislature in those States or was it done by a directive or by an executive order?

Mr. BARR. I am afraid you will have to call those States to get their answer. I cannot answer that; I do not know. I know that we have a $500,000 appropriation, which is in the 1955-57 appropriation bill, for training and research in mental health. Therefore, I presume that we have appropriated money for this training because training means being trained by those who are proficient in mental care, etc., psychiatry and things such as that.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, since I have been a Member of this Senate, I believe starting in 1949, I introduced a bill each Session calling for the setting up of a scholarship plan for medical students and for the training of nurses, so that an adequate supply of trained personnel would be forthcoming into our mental institutions.

Unfortunately, the bills were always killed in committee; at least, they were never reported out. I was a little bit surprised to read in Sunday's Philadelphia paper, I think it was the Philadelphia Bulletin, where a number of these scholarships were set up by the Secretary of Welfare. I am not opposed to the plan. I might be opposed to the method. The story indicated that about fifty students are now attending our postgraduate schools and are having their tuition paid, together with a weekly allowance for expenses I am assuming. What I do not like about the plan—of course, I do not know too much about it because Mr. Shapiro has never submitted the plan to us—is the lack of publicity on the plan, especially the failure to inform the Legislature on the plan.

What I would like to know and, if I do not get the information, I am going to present a resolution tomorrow to find out exactly how the students are selected. Under the bill that I submitted here session after session, it called for competitive examinations and I still think that is the manner in which the students should be selected because if that method is not followed, there is the possibility of showing favoritism to students to the detriment of other students.

I believe, like Senator Schmidt and everybody else in Pennsylvania, that we need an effective mental health program, but I say that it should be done in an orderly fashion and whatever is done, I think should be made public and this Legislature should be informed so that discussions such as we have participated in here the last couple of days would not be necessary.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I would also suggest to Senator Yosko that he find out what commitments are made by those who are receiving these scholarships and this money from the State to go to these schools; as to what they are going to do after they graduate. Are they making any commitments to the State that they will be available for help in our State hospitals and if so, how are those commitments being backed up? What guarantee does the State of Pennsylvania have from these people that they will be available to the State institutions when, as and if they graduate?

It seems that those who are in favor of this mental health program are so enthusiastic over it that they want to stampede this Legislature into doing a lot of things which are unconstitutional and illegal. I am for the best possible mental health program that we can have but, with Senator McMenamin and a great many other Senators, I want it to be done in a legal and constitutional fashion.

I notice in these various newspapers—I have one in my hand called the Observer. I think that is published down in Philadelphia and it has, among other things, various tips on the horse races at Hialeah and other news relative to Harrisburg, but I note between the column on Hialeah and the "Lowdown and Inside" column here, they have an article saying that "Shapiro Wins First Round for Mental Health Program." It says in one of the paragraphs:

"Another example was when Shapiro wanted to shell out a quarter million dollars to the Mental Health Foundation, the Republican Senate steamed and ranted with the help of most Democrats. It adopted a resolution supposed to put Shapiro on notice that the hand-out was not to be made.

"But Shapiro came up with McBride's formal opinion that everything was okay. After all, the foundation was part of the government structure." So, therefore, they proved that Shapiro won the first round with us.

Well, now it is not a question of playing golf with Mr. Shapiro or being in a boxing match with him. We are just merely trying to point out to Senator Shapiro that he should do things in a legal and constitutional way.

Last week when I stated that we should vote on the resolution, which told him that we felt it was not the intent of the Legislature that he should appropriate money to this Foundation, Senator Schmidt assured me that he would see that Senator Shapiro held the status quo over there and would not put out any money until we cleared this whole thing up.

Well, Secretary Shapiro showed that Senator Schmidt was wrong, because we no more than adjourned last Tuesday than Shapiro again demanded that the Auditor General O.K. this appropriation. In other words, he had a thumb to the nose attitude as far as this Senate was concerned. If he thinks he is going to curry a great amount of favor for his pet projects by that type of attitude, I think he has certainly lost his sense of legislative process.

I want to state to the editor of this newspaper that certainly, all of us, are in favor of the best mental health program that we can achieve. We do not want any of our mentally handicapped people in the State of Pennsylvania, who are in our State institutions, to want for anything especially the best care that we can provide for them, but we intend to do what the people of Pennsylvania sent us down here for and I am not going to be stampeded by newspaper articles or editorials or anything else in the future.

I am stating to these Senators and to the newspaper editors that we are not going to give Mr. Shapiro any blank check again. If he wants to set up a certain fund for various projects which he thinks are worthy, I suggest that he put it in his budget, then submit the budget as all other department heads have to do to the Appropriation Committees of the House and Senate, and if we feel that those particular items are worthy, then we will give him the green light and give that item the green light in the budget, and then he may feel free to use the money in the way it was constitutionally intended. We do not feel that this business of trying to draw red herrings across the path by stating that all those who do not quite agree that Shapiro should do whatever he wants to do in an illegal way, that this, therefore, puts us in a class where we are against the poor mentally handicapped people. We are not going to stand for that anymore and we want the issue not to be beclouded, especially by our colleagues in the Senate, who should know better.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, it seems to me that Senator Mahany is for a scholarship plan which is properly controlled and has attached to it some rules and regulations to make sure that our mental institutions inure the benefit from the financing that we might provide for medical students.

If I am correct in that statement, I suggest that the committee that now has my bill—I think it is in the Committee on Education—call a meeting, report the bill out, amend it as they see fit and let us pass it so that we have a scholarship plan that will be under proper control, with proper rules and regulations, and at the same time guarantee a steady flow of trained personnel into our mental institutions.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, we have heard considerable discussion and debate on a bill which is not before us. We have not had the opportunity to read it. However, I am assuming that the contents of the bill have been revealed in the discussions. I have heard the comments by all the Senators with great attention.

I say, first, that Senator Schmidt is right, at least in one respect. Here is a bill, introduced today, a special meeting called and it was reported out today. Personally, I think that is a bit hasty and it certainly shows some motive which does not appear on the surface. Secondly, we heard it stated on this floor, by a Member on the Democratic side and by the Majority Leader, that what the Secretary of Welfare is doing and what the bill is intended to do is to prevent him from spending the money illegally and unconstitutionally.

Mr. President, as one of a number of lawyers here, I never knew that you needed legislation to stop an illegal act or an unconstitutional act. My thought always was that a question of constitutionality or legality is first decided by the Attorney General and if anyone in the Commonwealth is dissatisfied with his opinion on the constitutionality or illegality, then there is such a thing as a taxpayer's suit for the courts to determine. However, this is the first time I have heard a bill introduced to stop an act which they claim is illegal and unconstitutional.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am sorry that this matter has gotten so far out of hand. However, there is one thing that I want to make clear and I think that this is a good time to do it. Especially, I want to point out to Senator Schmidt, and those who think as he does, as to the personal feelings of the Members of this Senate and I am speaking now, I hope, for all of the Members and, especially, for myself.

Long before this controversy came up, I prepared for myself and for the people in my District a piece of campaign literature which I used in my campaign. I have always felt that when I stand before the people, having been a Member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, I have a right to present to them a record of my vote, a record of what I have stood for and the things for which I voted. Under the title of "Welfare Legislation," I called attention to the record that I had voted for in this Senate to all of the people in my District. I said this:

"Perhaps the most far-reaching advances made by the Administration were in the field of mental care, an area so long neglected" because of a "policy of 'custody instead of cure' that Pennsylvania ranked 45th in the nation in the percentage of mental patients discharged from mental institutions."

We add the following accomplishments to our credit in this field. I was happy to have been a small part in creating the following legislation:

"1. Appropriated $26.5 million to hire skilled personnel to speed up the cure of mental illness. (Act 1673)

"2. Reorganized the Bureau of Mental Health, placing it under a skilled and experienced mental health commissioner. (Act 255)"

The following is the one which I want you to pay particular attention to:

"3. Establishment of a mental health foundation to put private funds to work in state hospitals for research into the causes of mental illness. (Act 551)"

Mr .President, when Act No. 551 was before this Legislature, I stated on the floor and to the Rules Committee, when the question was asked whether or not this piece of legislation was going to be a State supported foundation, that I had it on the authority of the Secretary of Welfare that this Foundation was being created to receive private funds. I do not hesitate to say to all of you right now that I would never have voted for the Foundation if I thought that we were creating a Foundation over which we would have no control, and that any amount could be taken from the appropriation passed by this General Assembly and given to this Foundation to spend as it sees fit. I am not questioning how they would spend it. I am only saying that it is not the proper function of this Legislature to provide moneys to be spent in that manner.

I went on to say about the mentally retarded and handicapped children as follows:

"1. A $42 million appropriation for the construction of three hospitals for severely retarded children in the State and the renovation and enlargement of existing hospital facilities. (Act 147-A)

"2. The purchase of White Haven Hospital and diversion of Mont Alto Sanatorium for the care of mentally retarded children, with an appropriation of $5 million for the operation of these institutions. (Act 432)

"3. Setting up special training classes within our public school system to give proper schooling for the first time to all of our physically and mentally handicapped children. (Act 249, Act 451)

"4. Providing transportation to classes for mentally and physically handicapped children. (Act 673)"

Mr. President, I do not believe that any Senator in this room can accuse me or any other Senator of being opposed to the mental health program when we voted for this legislation. All of this legislation passed this Senate unanimously. All of us are aware of the problem; all of us are aware of our responsibilities. However, our responsibilities just do not stop at passing on a parcel of money and letting it go into the hands of somebody to distribute it as they please. We may be able to salve our consciences by saying, "Well, I provided the money; I voted for the money for mental health." That, however, is not our job. Our job is to ride herd upon the spending of that money.

There has been some defense made of the students who are in special training. I want to ask one qeustion. I represent a District in this State of 322,000 people. I do not know that there is one of these students who comes from that District. I do not know how they were selected. I do not know who chooses them. I have no understanding at all of the program, of whether they are committed to serve the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for a number of years after they finish their schooling or whether they may jump into another State after they have trained and work for another State for more money. I do not know these things. However, I have to know them if I am a Member of this Senate, because someone out of the 322,000 people is going to ask me those questions some day. Now since it is in the newspapers that there are fifty some students attending college under the auspices of the Department of Welfare, with all of their expenses paid and a salary besides, I will have demands from my District to find out how they can get onto this preferred list of scholarships. You cannot do it that way.

I have had legislation in, and Senator Yosko has had legislation in since he has been a Member of this Senate, trying to create a scholarship fund in this Commonwealth for the training of medical doctors, psychiatrists and those who would be needed in this program. This General Assembly has turned that program down year after year, year after year. Where do we stand? What are we doing here? I believe that that is an important enough item that the Legislature should know.

I do not say that Secretary Shapiro kept it from us deliberately. However, I do know that when I voted for the Foundation, the Mental Health Foundation in Pennsylvania, I believed them and I believe now that it was for the purpose of receiving private funds to be expended by this Foundation to aid us in our search for a cure for mental health. If you give $250,000 today to that foundation,—and they have not been able to get off of the ground in their attempts to create a workable Foundation with all of the necessary expenses that go with it—I predict that within five years you will be contributing $2,000,000 to this Foundation.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, last week a rather shocking and cruel thing happened in this Body. I do not know whether many of you Members took notice of it but if you did not. I would like to refresh your memory as to what took place.

A judge died in Philadelphia not too long ago and the Bar Association saw fit to submit a list of names to the Governor, as they have done to every Governor since I have been a Member here. On the list of seven names were persons whom the Bar Association thought were fit subjects to be appointed judge by the Governor. For some reason best known to themselves, certain persons —and I am afraid that they exist throughout our society —saw fit to give information to certain Members of this Assembly which would besmirch the name of one of the nominees. Possibly this was done because the newspaper stories carried the line at the end of the story listing the names of the persons selected to be fit subjects to be judges, that one of these persons had an inside track.

The charge was made that one of these persons, a Mrs. Forer, had leanings or tendencies which were undemocratic and that she had leanings toward the Progressive Party. These were, mind you, unsubstantiated. As a matter of fact, they were so much so that one of the gentlemen who made this charge has retracted the statement publicly and I understand will do so on the floor of the Body in which he made this charge.

I have talked on this subject before this body previously. As a matter of fact, during the last Session of the Legislature, I introduced a resolution in regard to this matter. I even wrote an article for one of the Bar publications in regard to this very matter. The newspapers did what they characteristically do. The charge is printed on page one with the full treatment. When the retraction is made or the charges are not substantiated, it will be buried somewhere back on the obituary page.

This person, whose name has been besmirched by unsubstantiated charges made against her, is a married woman who practices law in Philadelphia. Her husband also practices law in Philadelphia. They have three youngsters who go to school in Philadelphia and they are about the age where their friends who go to school read the newspapers and are quite aware of what is going on. They probably hear these discussions in their homes. There is nothing more cruel than small children are to each other.

This young lady graduated from Northwestern University with honors, both in the undergraduate school and in the law school where she took the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence. She was Editor of the Law Review for two years; she was on the legal staff of the United States Department of Labor; she served as part of the legal staff of the United States Senate Committee on Education and Labor; she served on the legal staff of the Rural Electrification Administration; and she was Law Clerk to Judge Biggs who is Chief Judge down in the Federal Circuit Court. She is now serving as Deputy Attorney General in Pennsylvania and has been serving in that post with distinction.

She has been a Lecturer at the University of Pennsylvania. She was the winner in 1953 of the National Ross Essay Contest of the American Bar Association. She has been an author of many articles in the Harvard Law Review, University of Pennsylvania Law Review, Temple Law Review, University of Pittsburgh Law Review, Columbia Law Review and many others. She was a candidate for the State Senate, from Montgomery County, in 1950. She has been a Democratic committeewoman.

Senator Propert, who is shaking his head, alas, knows her well. She ran in a county which is characteristically Republican and which has been that way for many years. She put up an excellent battle in running in that campaign. I think she ran her campaign on a high level; she engaged in no personalities; she stuck strictly to the issues.

I feel that to do that to anybody is the type of thing that we in this Country are opposed to. Many demagogues have tried that type of procedure, some of them for a time, and we know of a famous case very recently of a man who is on the National scene who has used that method and that approach to gain National prominence. He has found to his dismay that it was his own downfall, actually caused by his own acts.

I am not standing here proposing that Lois Forer be appointed judge or to any other office. I am simply stating the record of Lois Forer and other people of her type who have been besmirched for no other reason than, when somebody mentions their name, a jealous office seeker or somebody who is jealous of her prominence comes forward to cast aspersions on her character or to blacken her name publicly.

I also want to use this opportunity to let the newspapers know—most of the working press are sober, intelligent gentlemen—and have them realize that it is easy with a stroke of the pen to destroy a person's character. It is very difficult, however, because it is a somewhat nebulous thing, to build up. I would leave this message with them, as well as with the Members of this Body, that they had best use care in getting these charges and not write merely for headlines in trying to sell newspapers.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I want to say that I heartily concur with what Senator Weiner has stated here. I further want to state that Mrs. Forer's name was not mentioned on this Senate floor publicly, but it was in the House and there is a slight correction that I want to call to the attention of Senator Weiner.

I was happy to read over the week end that the retraction by the Member of the House, of the statement which he made there, was not on the inside but was prominently displayed on the front page.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The House met at 4:30 p. m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Harry A. Houseal, Pastor of Grace Evangelical United Brethren Church, Lemoyne, guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we approach Thee at the beginning of another week's sessions of this representative body, with the realization that "they labor in vain who build the house, except the Lord build it." So we would pause reverently in Thy Holy presence to ask first that each of us might be freed from all self-interest and unholy purposes.

Then we would earnestly seek Thy Divine guidance in every discussion which may ensue, in every matter which may be deliberated, and in every decision that will be made.

As these Representatives approach the tasks before them, we earnestly pray that each one will be cognizant of the truth contained in Thy Holy Word, that "there is no power but of God; that the powers are ordained of God; and that they are ministers of God for the good" of our commonwealth.

We pray that to each of them might be given the wisdom and the will, the desire and the determination, that above everything else the purposes of God for our state shall be carried out in these legislative halls.

So give us humble spirits to perform Thy will, O God, we earnestly pray in the name of Jesus Christ, Our Lord.
Amen.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McCORMACK. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCORMICK. Mr. Speaker, ever mindful of the great constitutional privilege that is afforded to Members of this General Assembly, those in the Senate and House, whereby we are immune from suit for any statement that we might make on the floor of this House and are not subject to the laws of libel and slander, I also recognize that there is a corresponding duty on the part of the Members of this House. That duty is one of fair play.

Last Tuesday on the floor of this House, Mr. Speaker, I made a statement which I now wish to retract. The statement was that a Deputy Attorney General of this Commonwealth by name of Lois Forer was a Member of the Progressive Party in 1948 and that she had actively campaigned for the election of Henry Wallace, the Progressive party candidate.

That statement was an incorrect one. It cannot be proven. I am sorry that I made the statement. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I am able to retract that statement fully.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is it proper for the post office to insert in our mail boxes anonymous statements concerning pending legislation?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's point is well taken. It is not proper for anonymous statements to be placed in the post office boxes of the Members. Anything that is put in the boxes should first be cleared by the proper officers of this House.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. It might have been cleared, but I believe the source of any statement on legislation should be stated.

An Act reenacting and amending "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" approved December 27 1951 (P. L. 1742) extending the provisions of the act for a further limited period of time.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. LOVETT offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 11), page 11, line 8, by inserting a bracket before "Section."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 11), page 11, line 14, by inserting a bracket after "act."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 12), page 11, line 15, by inserting brackets before and after "12" and inserting immediately thereafter: "11."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe the Members of the House would appreciate a very lucid explanation of this amendment. Would the gentleman care to give it, please?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would be very glad to give that information to the House.

Mr. Speaker, the amendment that I have now offered to House Bill 331 strikes out in the bill that part of the bill that will continue to give the local municipality the right to enact a property transfer tax. You Members who were here when Act No. 481 was enacted, I think that is correct, otherwise known as the "Tax Anything" law, and the Sterling Act which was passed some years ago, remember that you put in a clause stating that when the state taxed anything the municipality now taxes, the municipality must yield after a certain period of time and not tax that particular subject. We have many local municipalities and school districts now taxing real estate transfers. This amendment would compel these local municipalities after a certain period of time to cease collecting taxes from that source.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as I understand these amendments, the effect of them would be that those municipalities which are presently also putting on, or have put on, a real estate transfer tax, that particular tax as far as that municipality is concerned would be suspended by these amendments. These amendments, if that is what they purport to do, would have tremendous, far-reaching effects in this state and would certainly throw out of balance the budgets of many of our school districts and municipalities.

I would say that anything as important as these amendments should be the subject of a separate bill and should get publicity all over the state as to what is being done so that public hearings could be held on such a vital tax matter as this is to the municipalities at the present time. Therefore I am asking the House to vote down this amendment.

It seems to me that this amendment is wholly inconsistent with the tax bill as it is before us, namely a tax which gives the state the right to levy a one percent real estate transfer tax. Yet I repeat, to do this would do a great injustice to the municipalities of Pennsylvania. If the gentleman desires to put that into effect, he should introduce a bill and let it come before a committee just like any other major proposal that might come before us. I therefore ask you to vote "no" on these amendments.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I too rise to oppose these amendments and join in the thoughts expressed by the Majority Floor Leader.

In my humble opinion if we were to pass these amendments it would be tantamount to sawing the last 12 inches off a pair of crutches expecting the poor crippled person to get along with one long crutch and one short one. This is not the time or place to do this. Perhaps some day we would carry out the original intent of Act 481, and that is to prevent municipalities from staying in the tax field to which the state determines later is must go. In my opinion this is not the proper way to do it, and I ask the Members on this side to vote against these amendments.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the Majority Floor Leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman familiar with the "tax anything" law in Pennsylvania?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, just fairly familiar.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is just "fairly familiar." After all these years, he means he is just fairly familiar? Is the gentleman familiar with the clause in the Act that says when the state taxes, the local municipalities shall get out of that tax field. Is he familiar with that section of the Act?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman says that it is in the law, I would say that it is in the law.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman agree that under the provisions of that Act we also protect the municipality to the extent that they have a certain period of time in which they may balance their books and get out of the tax field. Is he familiar with that?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, that could be in the law.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I enlighten the gentleman that that is in the law and therefore we would not be putting any immediate pressure on the local municipalities, because they would have an opportunity to balance their books and get out of that particular field.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, they say that this is not the proper time. Under the original Act this is the proper time.

When the state proceeds to tax any particular thing, then the municipality should give way. That is the original intent of the Act.

I am sorry to stand here and have the Majority Floor Leader say that he "supposes" that is the law; he thinks that is the law. That is possibly true. I say again to you that there was nothing in the original "tax anything" Act that forbids the local municipalities from having a sales tax, but the local municipalities never had any sales taxes. Therefore, the one field that was left open to us to use for taxation is the sales tax. We had given the right to the local municipalities to tax anything.

We sit here Session after Session trying to find ways and means for a state-wide tax having the hands of the Legislature tied because you will not use the means at your command in order to have a state-wide tax without double taxation which you will have under this particular Act if you pass it. There are certain municipalities, certain school districts, that do not use this form of taxation. There are others that do. When you enact it state-wide you then have those municipalities paying double taxes.

I ask you to support it, and I ask for a roll call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, several weeks ago the Honorable Robert Kent, Treasurer-elect of the Commonwealth, spoke at a Republican rally in Berks County and was quoted in the local Press to the effect that the present administration has placed on the payroll of the Commonwealth 8,000 more employes than the previous Administration.

Other statements have appeared in the public Press from time to time made by various Republican orators indicating that unnecessary employes are being placed on the state's payroll. These statements are obviously being made for partisan political purposes and without adequate knowledge of the facts.

In order to set this matter straight and to establish a fair comparison between the number of employes on the state payroll under the preceding administration and the present administration.

I have had a comparison made of the payroll of November 30, 1954, and November 30, 1956. Because of seasonal variations in employment, it is necessary to use comparable months. November 30, 1954, would appear to be the last date of the preceding administration having a normal employment complement because of political employes seeking other employment after the election of November, 1954.

On November 30, 1954, the Commonwealth had a total of 66,881 employes, both salaried and per diem. Two years later during this administration the payroll of the Commonwealth totalled 68,177, an increase of 1,296.

All of this 1,296 increase, and an additional 1,750 persons who were on before, represent persons carrying out new and expanding programs initiated by this administration. There is in fact a decrease of approximately 3,000 in the number of employes carrying out the fun tions undertaken during the past administration. For instance, we have increased the number of employes in our mental institutions by approximately 1,625. This includes over 100 doctors, about 40 psychologists, in addition to nurses, psychiatric social workers and others who are bringing about a new program of cure for the mentally ill.

Another 304 employes have been added to our State Teachers' Colleges and other schools under the Department of Public Instruction. At the same time the enrollment at these schools increased by over 3,500 students. In these schools the number of employes has increased approximately 11 percent while the enrollment has increased approximately 32 percent.

In the Department of Property and Supplies 213 additional employes have been added to service a 100 percent increase in state-owned office buildings, to establish for the first time an adequate Bureau of Standards to see that the Commonwealth gets what it pays for in purchasing materials and supplies and to initiate other new programs which are reflecting savings in Commonwealth purchases.

In the Department of Forest and Waters 249 employes were added in connection with the special flood control project undertaken as a result of Hurricane "Diane." These are typical areas of activity undertaken which have involved additional personnel to provide better and more efficient services to the citizens of the Commonwealth.

I make these remarks today, Mr. Speaker, for the reason that it seems to have become a popular pastime for members of the Republican party to shout and make speeches all over the Commonwealth about Democratic administration squandering money and putting on the state payroll a lot of unnecessary employes.

I hope you will listen to these words indicating where these employes are going and what they are there for so you do not get out on the limb too far and find that it is cut off with no chance of reclaiming yourselves.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Minority Leader, Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Without having other figures in front of me, we will use the gentleman's 66,881 on the payroll in November 30, 1954, as compared with 68,177 on the payroll on the same date in 1956. Recognizing that the gentleman has done quite a bit of research on this, does the gentleman have the figures there of the dollar cost in 1954 for those employes as compared to the dollar cost of the employes in November 30, 1956?

Mr. READINGER. I do not have those figures here, but I assure the gentleman that this is only a first of a series of talks on this subject. I intend to bring in dollar figures, and every other kind of figures, to show that this administration is putting on the payroll only necessary employes and paying them a decent wage. I will furnish those figures.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know whether this list includes the special consultants at $50 and $100 a day that the Governor presently has on his payroll?

Mr. READINGER. I would not be able to answer that question definitely, but I would presume this does not include any consultants.

Mr. JOHNSON. To further interrogate the gentleman as to what we have read in the Press over the weekend does the gentleman know whether, in addition to the names and numbers of special consultants at the high salaries that Mr. Wood announced in the Press, there are other consultants and high-salaried research men, and so forth, that Mr. Wood has not disclosed?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I would say that I did not see any high-salaried consultants' fees set forth in the newspaper at any time. I do not know how many consultants are being consulted and paid by the Commonwealth or any of its agencies at the present time, nor do I know in detail what their consulting fees have been, but I say those that I have read about are anything but high or exorbitant.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say that having numerous consultants around Capital Hill and paying them anywhere from $50 to $100 or $150 a day is a resonable salary for casual employes who drop in now and then and get that big salary?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that I would say that the services I understand we are obtaining from these consultants the gentleman refers to are worth very, very much more than these men are receiving as compensation. I suppose the gentleman is familiar with the various expert witnesses who are called into court from time to time to testify on different matters. I know their fees run anywhere from $100 to $200 a day. In my opinion, all of the consultant fees I have read about in the newspapers so far represent monies well spent.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further ask the gentleman, I believe the paper said the Pennsylvania Citizens' Association, know as the PCA, received $20,000 as consultants on mental health. Did you read that in the papers over the weekend?

Mr. READINGER. I do not believe I did, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman notice that Mr. Bouterse, the Executive Director of PCA, also is a consultant at one of those high per diem salaries?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe I read the item, but I would suggest we have a field day some day on consultants so we can discuss them fully and thoroughly and find out whether they have been earning their money because it is my opinion they have been more than earning the money they have been getting.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further ask the gentleman whether he has received literature in the past year from the PCA with respect to the mental health program in Pennsylvania and the great job that is being done on the needs of the Department of Welfare?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would say, if my recollection is correct, I have been receiving literature from that Association ever since I have been a Member of this House and it has a telling effect.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say that if this lobbying bill were passed the PCA would have to register under the lobbying bill just like any other lobby?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would definitely think so. If I may amplify that statement, I think the organization the gentleman refers to has been advocating the passage or defeat of various bills over a period of years and, therefore, would definitely be in the lobbying class.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the Minority Leader permit himself to be further interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Is the gentleman from Berks aware that the erstwhile members of Governor Leader's former consultant group made a public statement that there were 5,000 too many people on the state payroll, to wit, Dr. David K. Lawrence?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, if my recollection is correct, the gentleman from Allegheny is incorrect. My recollection is that his statement was that this state might operate with a certain number less employes than it had, he did not state it the way the gentleman states it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is that not a lawyer's distinction meaning nothing?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I could not hear the question.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Berks not aware that recently the Governor of Pennsylvania, George M. Leader, in a Press conference inferred that there were many drones on the state payroll who were not working a full eight-hour day? If that be the fact, could not our payroll be reduced substantially?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, whenever or whereever a drone who is not pulling his share of the load is found, he can be eliminated and probably will have to be replaced by someone who will do the work.

The fact that somebody who is on the payroll who is not working does not mean the work should not be done. Somebody should be there doing it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GOLDSTEIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am glad the administration after two years is waking up to the fact that the people are becoming exercised about the situation of our state payroll. I am glad Mr. Readinger is concerned about the jibes concerning same, whether they come from Republican orators or from erstwhile consultants in the Leader administration.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, all of these matters are being attended to in proper order. We have been informed by His Excellency, the Governor, that in making some replacements and sealing various deserving persons into state service they are being sealed into the state service at the ratio of 50 to 51. That means we catch a Democrat drone and we kick him out, and we experiment with a Republican drone and see how he works. In the meantime we are littering the payroll with consultants.

I have a high regard for intellect, but I would like to see the philosophy of my party represented among these consultants, because I have examined the list to some extent and I'll be darned if I can find a fundamental Democrat in the whole outfit.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ascertain whether this House is going to be in session on Wednesday of this week?

The SPEAKER. The Rules Committee, after consultation with the minority, has decided there will be no session on Wednesday of this week.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The SPEAKER. I have been informed by the Chief Clerk that identification lapel buttons, a new innovation, are now available in the office of the Chief Clerk for all Members of the House. They do not replace the old membership badges which are given to the Members, they are in addition to them. They can be picked up in the Chief Clerk's office any time after the session today.

Direct us, O Lord, in all our doings with Thy most gracious favor and further us with Thy continual help that in all our works begun, continued and ended in Thee, we may glorify Thy Holy Name.

Grant, we beseech Thee, that whosoever shall draw near Thee in this place, to give Thee thanks for all the benefits received at Thy hands, may do it with such steadfastness of faith, affection and devotion of mind that Thou mayest accept their bounded duty and service, all of which we beg, through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Who hath taught us to pray unto Thee, our Father, in Thy almighty name and according to Thy word. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I would like to have the attention of the Senators to my first statement. After that, they can tune out.

This is a bill concerning public education and it will provide for a smaller amount to be withdrawn from the State Treasury. I think you should know that before I make my statement.

It has to do with something which a leading Philadelphia newspaper wrote about editorially on Sunday, entitled "Educational Bear Dance at Harrisburg," which I only agree with in part. I think this bill will remove some of the parasites that are on the bear as the bear dances. This has to do with this involved business which we derived some years ago, known as the reimbursement fraction. By this reimbursement fraction, we have tried to scientifically sort out the 2,400 school districts into the richest and poorest districts in the State. Basically, the subsidy goes to the districts on the basis of their wealth. Most of you are familiar with this. The two factors are the number of children and the taxable real estate in that particular district. Therefore, the 2,400 districts, more or less, fall in a long range according to this formula. It so happens that the scale, which the General Assembly has set up, is of such a nature that some districts seem to be too poor to operate under this scale and there are other districts, at the other end, which the scale does not apply to because they are too rich.

I see the Governor's budget this year calls for a $400,000 fund to pay the districts. I do not know the names of these districts, but using this editorial, it refers to a poor district in Coal Village in Clearfield County as being one of the poor ones. We, of course, insist, and rightfully so, that this district prove, through its audits and its tax collections, that they are unable to support public education. According to this formula, it is at the end of the scale, and I think this is right. However, at the other end of the scale, we do a very queer thing. Some districts are so rich that they spill over the other end of the scale. We do not ask to make an investigation of them. We simply say, "Here is a check. We do not know whether you need all this money. We will set the present minimum of $1,000 a district. We do not know whether you need it or not. You do not need to come to Harrisburg to ask for the money. We will send it to you; you endorse the check and put it in the bank."

This has been going on for six, eight and ten years. I am told that this year there are forty-seven such districts which are being paid at an estimated amount of about a quarter of a million dollars.

It seems to me that this proposal is long overdue. It should have been done six or eight years ago when we might have saved, perhaps over the years, a total of $8,000,000 or $10,000,000. It seems to me, with this proposal, we may still pay for the bear dancing, but these districts which have the wealth should, at least, be compelled to come to Harrisburg and say that they are needy and that they need the additional money, rather than to hand it to them without any questions.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. YOSKO, MAHANY, BERGER and McMENAMIN offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, February 26, 1957.

Resolved, that the Honorable Harry Shapiro, Secretary of Welfare, submit to the Director of the Joint State Government Commission on or before March 4, 1957, the following data relative to scholarships granted to medical students.

(1) The names and addresses of students granted such scholarships.

(2) The names of the schools where such students are attending.

(3) The financial assistance granted such students, including tuition, salary, if any, and subsistence allowances and any other financial arrangements.

(4) Terms of any agreement between such students and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the method of selecting such students.

and all other data relative to the scholarship plan.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting "no" on this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative.)

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, in relation to the last resolution, I request that the Secretary of the Senate send a copy of that resolution to Secretary Shapiro, and also a copy to the Governor.

I think a couple of weeks ago we passed a resolution asking the Superintendent of Public Instruction for certain information relative to the payment of fees to various consultants. I do not know whether that resolution was transmitted to the Superintendent or not. I notice the Secretary of the Senate is nodding his head that it was, and if it had not been, I was going to suggest that that resolution also be forwarded to him.

As yet, I understand, we have not received any response to our request for that information, and I would request the Secretary to get in touch with the Department of Public Instruction and find out when we may expect to receive the information called for in that resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will request the Secretary of the Senate to comply with the Majority Floor Leader's request.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, this is an opportune moment to make an observation.

I am glad that it was noted that I was objecting to this resolution, but I want to bring to the attention of the Membership of the Senate the haste with which this resolution was passed this morning.

Not to embarrass the sponsors of this resolution, I abstained from asking for a roll call, but in the future, I want Senator Mahany to bear the famous Golden Rule in mind, because whenever I put in a resolution, he gets up and says, "Caution, circumspection, study. What is the rush? What is the race?"

Today he just repudiated all these monitory remarks.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, the committee appointed to investigate the activities of the State Pardons Board met yesterday, and among other things, we discussed the availability of records on file with the Pardons Board.

I picked up the paper this morning, the Philadedphia Inquirer, and I find what I call a misleading headline, and it reads as follows and I quote:

"Clemency Records of Pardons Board Sealed by McBride."

I think it needs a little bit of clarification, because anybody that reads this headline would come to the conclusion that the Attorney General is attempting to withhold information from the investigating committee. I want to say here for the record, and say publicly, that this is not true, at least in so far as the investigating committee is concerned.

Mr. McBride appeared before our committee yesterday, and we discussed the subject, and he told every member of the committee that the committee members or counsel for the committee could review any records that are on file with the Pardons Board or at any institution. As a matter of fact, he was so cooperative as to tell us that if counsel or any member of the committee wanted to review these records at night, he would see to it that there was somebody in the Pardons Board office at night to assist in every way possible. It is for that reason, Mr. President, that I am on my feet. I want to clarify any distorted headlines or any misleading headlines that might appear in any of the newspapers in this Commonwealth.

Mr. McBride has been very, very cooperative, and I have every reason to believe that he will continue to be cooperative with this committee so that it can efficiently carry out the terms of the resolution under which it was appointed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, on February 12, my colleague, Senator Walker, and I enjoyed the extreme privilege and honor of delivering remarks on the occasion of Lincoln's Birthday. I read them in the Journal and I want to absolve our secretary, Miss Sayer; I know she is very capable. However, upon reading my speech in the Journal, I gathered the impression of a dog which I sent out in the morning and got back a raven. I cannot recognize my speech. It is all mixed up, lines upon lines, making my remarks sound silly.

The Legislative Journal is a very important document. It is the only document which is surviving this maze of legislation. I do not want people, in years to come, to read my speech and say, "That man is an ignoramus." Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that we should do something about it. Maybe now it will be that the only man reading the Legislative Journal at bedtime is Add B. Anderson, the Secretary of the Board of Education. I do not you see, but I guess I will have to because each time one makes a statement and then a mistake creeps in, this is very embarrassing. We will have to caution the printers to be more careful and, at the same time. I would like to have permission to have my speech reprinted, just as a matter of precaution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I am sure that the gentleman's reputation as a scholar and as a student would preclude anyone in Pennsylvania from ever thinking he was an ignoramus. I am sure that the correction will be made in the Journal so that your speech will be legible to the 11,000,000 Pennsylvanians.

RECESS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 1:00 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of awaiting communications from the House of Representatives.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, March 4, 1957, at 4:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 1:05 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, February 26, 1957.

The House met at 10:30 a. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Harry A. Houseal, Pastor of Grace Evangelical United Brethren Church, Lemoyne, guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

May I suggest before I begin the prayer that we all bow our heads for a moment of absolute silence as we wait before God.

Eternal God, reverently we wait before Thee, that we might have our hearts cleansed and our souls purged of all the unclean thoughts and unholy desires which so often motivate our decisions and our actions.

Amid the many voices clamoring to be heard, may we hear Thy voice of Divine authority and omniscience saying to us "This is the way, walk ye in it." Help these who assemble here today to decide important issues for our Commonwealth, that they will be open to Thy leading, receptive to Thy counsel, and humble enough to say "Not my will, but Thine be done," for we know, even though sometimes we do not admit it, that Thy will is wiser and better than our own.

We pray for Thy blessing upon the Speaker of this House, that he may be given the ability to properly and effectively lead in all the deliberations and discussions; we pray for the presence of Thy Spirit in the heart of every member of this House, that each one may be "not wise in his own conceits, not slothful in his work, but fervent in spirit, serving the Lord," and the Commonwealth, to the best of his God-given abilities.

Let Thy blessing be upon their families, and the people whom they represent across this great Keystone State, and help us all to so live this day that at its close we shall not be ashamed to look Thee in the face.

We pray in and through the Name of Thy Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, February 25, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 4, entitled:

An Act amending "The Administrative Code of 1929" approved April 9 1929 (P. L. 177) requiring the Auditor General to publish a monthly report of persons employed by the Commonwealth.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Messrs. AUKER and WARGO offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 603) page 4, line 4 by inserting after "Allegheny" Berks, Blair, Cambria.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 603) page 4, line 5 by inserting after "Erie" Lackawanna, Lancaster, Lehigh, Luzerne.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as the House knows, the principle of this bill is that we want to give publicity shall be say, to the state payroll.

As I understand these amendments the bill now calls for compulsory publication by the Auditor General of this information in certain counties, and I believe Mr. Auker's amendments add other counties. Is that correct, Mr. Auker?

Mr. AUKER. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. The thought has come to us overnight that whenever we say in a bill a department must publish that becomes a paid advertisement and will cost the Commonwealth money. In line with our "hold the line" policy on expenditures it was thought that perhaps the best thing to do would be to amend the bill and say that the Auditor General shall make public this information through a news release which would be disseminated state-wide to newspapers as a news item and would not cost the Commonwealth for this printed advertisement.

I am wondering whether the sponsors of the bill and the sponsor of the amendment would entertain an amendment of that character rather than compulsory advertising in a newspaper which would have to be paid for at advertising rates.

I see Mr. Goldstein is on his feet and I would like to yield to Mr. Goldstein.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I would like to make a brief statement on the purpose of the bill.

We now have legislation which provides that the information shall be given to the Auditor General and also to other governmental authorities. This information for years has been buried and has been very difficult to find. We all know that a public officer can keep records in a file or a cabinet. The sole purpose of this bill is to make certain that information which is very minor and does not cost very much money will be published in a selected group of papers scattered throughout the state. My estimate of the cost of this advertising for a year would be not in excess of 15 hundred to 2 thousand dollars. Where the state is spending 2 billion dollars a year the voters and the people have a right to know monthly how many people are on the payroll. If this information is published in newspapers by mandatory legislation, the people will get this information. I think it is sound, constructive legislation and I am sorry to disagree with my Majority Leader.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am not against the amendments nor the principle and I think the reason for this interchange is the fact that yesterday we were so pressed for time we did not have a chance to caucus on the bill. I am certainly not against the amendments and if that is all it will cost to advertise, we certainly should go along with these amendments.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AUKER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman advise me whether Berks County is one of the counties contained in his amendments?

Mr. AUKER. It is, Mr. Speaker. I certainly took good care of the Minority Floor Leader.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman who requested him to insert Berks in that amendment, if anybody?

Mr. AUKER. No one, Mr. Speaker. I merely tried, for the purpose of carrying out the real principle of the bill, to get as wide a general circulation as possible for the printing of these lists, geographically speaking, so far as metropolitan newspapers were concerned, and those that would serve surrounding counties.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman. I was just curious to know how Berks County got into that picture.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AUKER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that Blair County papers would crawl into the bill, according to this amendment?

Mr. AUKER. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Do I understand that Cambria County papers, a paper from Cambria County,—

Mr. AUKER. That is right.

Mr. ANDREWS. —would also crawl into the bill?

Mr. AUKER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, did anybody importune the gentleman from Blair to take such careful account of the Cambria County papers?

Mr. AUKER. They did not. In answer to the gentleman I will simply make the same reply as I made to the gentleman from Berks.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is sheer nonsense and waste, absolute drivel. It is all very well if we want to inform the public about certain matters to print the information in papers of general circulation. There are no papers of general circulation outside of Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and perhaps by subscription, Harrisburg. Now it is simply grab bag, petty thieving, in a way, to raid the funds of the Commonwealth to put this kind of advertising in the Johnstown paper, the Altoona paper, or even the Erie paper, or in a Berks County paper. If we want to put it in the major papers of general circulation there might possibly be a case for it, but you just cannot make out a case, and I do not think the publishers of papers in Blair or even Cambria asked to be included. I think they would recognize the absurdity of being included in this bill.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to call to the attention of the gentleman from Cambria that the primary purpose of my bill was identical with his remarks. My bill only provided for papers of general circulation in four counties, Philadelphia, Allegheny, Dauphin and Erie, and I did not intend it, and do not intend it, to be a grab bag for newspaper advertising.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I agree with Mr. Andrews that the phrase, "newspapers of general circulation in the state" should be used. I think it is simply silly to pick out certain counties. Certainly none of the weekly newspapers in the state would come under this classification. I think these amendments are unsatisfactory. I think the amendment to the original bill, where he picks out four counties, is unsatisfactory to me. There should be some other way to handle it besides this particular amendment.

Mr. AUKER. To speak briefly on the amendments, Mr. Speaker, I can hardly let the remarks of the gentleman from Cambria go unanswered when he accuses me of trying to make a newspaper grab. I assure him that was not my intention. So far as raiding the coffers of the State are concerned, I think he and his party had better look to their own skirts before they accuse anybody else.

My motive in presenting these amendments was simply to more extensively carry out what I consider a very good bill. I have no objections to having the bill amended to make it newspapers of general circulation, because practically all the newspapers in the State do carry these paid State advertisements. I believe the papers in Cambria County carry them. I know the papers in Blair County carry them. I know the papers in other counties carry them as paid advertisements.

It is immaterial to me which way you amend the bill, but I do not think four newspapers are going to get the coverage over the State that is designed to carry out the purpose of this bill.

I am not going to rest under any charge that I am trying to put amendments in a bill which are going to make a newspaper grab.

Mr. WARGO. Mr. Speaker, as cosponsor of these amendments I feel this way, if all counties are to be covered by a newspaper, it is only fair that a fellow like myself, representing the people of Lackawanna County, should also have these figures.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

On a rising vote, less than a majority having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, there was an agreement on this bill to pass it over until we caucus on it on Monday.

Mr. MOSCRIP. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman's statement, we knew of no agreement and neither did the sponsors of the bill.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I talked to Mr. Korns and also Mr. Naugle, and amendments are supposed to be prepared to take up in caucus on Monday. I am just asking for a postponement.

Mr. Speaker, I will yield to the gentleman, Mr. Naugle.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize this is a very important bill and the various school districts, particularly in the country counties, are clamoring for this legislation.

I realize we did not caucus on the bill yesterday. It was certainly hoped that if anybody had any amendments to the bill they would have been forthcoming today.

I know there are a lot of people on both sides of the House who would like to see this bill moved. If there is a real need to pass it over so that those who might want to come under the bill, like big cities, I believe it probably would be wise to pass it over until next Monday, if they will promise to have their amendments ready at that time.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. JOHNSON. I, therefore, move to place it on the Second Reading Postponed Calendar with the understanding that it will certainly be called up next Monday when we return.

The motion was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 338, entitled:

An Act amending "The Fish Law of 1925," approved May 2, 1925 (P. L. 448), authorizing fish wardens to make arrests for certain offenses.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 443, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the joint committee appointed by the Senate and the House of Representatives to investigate actions of the Board of Pardons.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, before making a motion to recommit this bill, I would like to interrogate the Chairman of the Investigating Committee, Representative Tompkins.

The SPEAKER. Whom does the gentleman from Philadelphia desire to interrogate?

Mr. McCORMACK. The Chairman of the Committee to investigate the Board of Pardons.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, how much money does this bill call for?

Mr. TOMPKINS. $20,000.

Mr. McCORMACK. Would the gentleman give us a breakdown, Mr. Speaker, of the expenditures made thus far?

Mr. TOMPKINS. The only expenditure made so far is in connection with the hiring of counsel.

Mr. McCORMACK. How much money is that?

Mr. TOMPKINS. The Committee authorized an expenditure not to exceed $5,000 for counsel, expenses and an appropriation not to exceed $600—

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I cannot hear the gentleman.

Mr. TOMPKINS. So far the Committee has authorized a sum not to exceed $5,000 for counsel and his expenses and a sum not to exceed $600 for an assistant.

Mr. McCORMACK. As I understand it, there have been no hearings held as yet, is that correct?

Mr. TOMPKINS. We had one hearing last Wednesday. We have other hearings scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Mr. McCORMACK. Have there been notes of testimony taken at the first hearing?

Mr. TOMPKINS. There were.

Mr. McCORMACK. Has there been a bill submitted for the cost of transcribing the notes?

Mr. TOMPKINS. No, there has not.

Mr. McCORMACK. Is there any reason why we should deviate from the normal practice of waiting until the investigation has been completed and a breakdown submitted of the expenditures before we pass on an appropriation bill?

Mr. TOMPKINS. We need funds with which to operate while we are engaged in the course of our investigation. I do not know who is going to advance them out of their pockets.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, are we following the same procedure as in the last session of this House in which the gentleman opposed the appropriation for the Delaware River Bridge Commission investigation?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would not say so, no.

Mr. McCANN. Would the gentleman say, Mr. Speaker, that this is a complete reversal of the position of the gentleman from Cameron in the previous session?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would not say so, no.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, in last year's session when we asked for a specific sum of money for the committee investigating at that particular time, was the gentleman aware of what the Senate did when we met in Conference Committee regarding this particular amount of money to pay the bills which had been incurred to that date?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I understood they reduced the amount for which it passed the House. But I also remember that there were two other investigating committees for which bills went through during the time the investigations were in progress.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Cameron inform us as to the figure which the House passed and the final compromise which was made with the Senate regarding bills which had been incurred up until that time? This was money which had been spent to that date.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I see no relation between the two, but my recollection is that the House bill last year called for $25,000 and my recollection is that the Senate finally approved it for $12,000.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct in the final compromise figure.

The next question, is there any agreement at this time that this bill will pass the Senate as it is written, since the previous year, or the previous session, it was understood from the Senate that they would not approve a specific sum of money unless we had spent and authorized payment in that Conference Committee?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman from Greene has been a Member of this House long enough to know that you cannot depend upon what the Senate will do with legislation we send over to them. Therefore, I am unable to answer his question.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I was one of the gentlemen of this House who supported the appropriation in the previous session on the grounds that they had spent the money at that time—over $13,000—when we were asking for a specific sum. I agree we should support this particular bill and appropriate the money, but I certainly object, and I object strenuously, to the attitude of the Senate when they laid down the policy last year—and Mr. Lopresti was a member of that Committee—and informed us that bills in the future dealing with this type of legislation would have to be approved as to the amount of expenditures.

I believe we should pass this bill, but let them know that we believe in this investigation and believe that the Committee should have the funds they need. They should speak from their side of the House to the Senate to see that no more of those commitments are laid down as we go into conference committee meetings.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, when I made this motion, I did not make it with the intention of interfering with the investigative work of this Committee.

I made it because I am opposed and the Chairman of the investigating committee is opposed to giving any committee a blank check.

What we are doing in effect, is giving this investigating committee a blank check for $20,000 without any itemization of expense. In the last session during the investigations of Laurelton and Morganza appropriation bills were introduced after detailed expenditures were submitted, the breakdown of the pages of testimony and the cost per page. I certainly am quoting the words of the Chairman of the investigating committee. I see no reason why we should deviate from the practice of making appropriations after the completion of the investigation and after this Legislature gets a list and a breakdown of the expenditures.

I, therefore, have moved that the bill be recommitted until the investigation is completed.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the motion to recommit.

This House together with the Senate has authorized that an investigation be made of the Pardons Board. Under ordinary circumstances what the gentleman from Philadelphia has said might be all right, but we must bear in mind that in this particular instance we are conducting an investigation wherein the Justice Department itself is the administrative department in charge of the Pardons Board.

Therefore, we cannot use the services of the State Police and we cannot use the services of the Attorney General in connection with this investigation. So it becomes necessary for this Commitee to employ people other than those who are already in the employ of the Commonwealth.

Therefore, I see there is a particular need for this appropriation to be made prior to the completion of the investigation.

I do not care particularly how much is appropriated. I intend to see that whatever amount is appropriated is spent judiciously. I intend to see that no money of this Commonwealth is wasted by this Committee. If I find there are any such cases, I will report them to the House.

I do believe the House and the Senate have asked for an impartial investigation, and I believe they are going to get it. I say the House and the Senate will get just the kind of an investigation that they are willing to pay for.

If this bill were to be sent back to the Appropriations Committee, the only purpose I know would be to perhaps cut the amount. If that is the kind of an investigation this House and the Senate would like to have, I, for one, am willing to give them just the investigation they are willing to pay for.

I think this House and the Senate owe a moral responsibility to any committee they appoint to see to it that the committee is allowed to function and that the funds they need to properly function are forthcoming at the time they are needed.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I also rise to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

One thing I have found as a member of this Pardons Board investigating committee is that in the past there has been difficulty with investigating committees, because to preserve the rights of those who appear in front of the committee and so we can make an adequate report to the House of Representatives and the Senate of Pennsylvania, we must have a transcript of testimony. And to transcribe testimony costs money. I do not know any court stenographer who stands ready to put out possibly $5,000 to $8,000 of his money in expenses and wait for us to pay him some time in the future.

I think when we tie the hands of a committee by restricting its funds until an investigation is finished at some time two or three months in the future, we are hurting the little people, such as the court stenographers and others, because we are restricting them in refusing expense money.

Therefore, I ask that all the Members of this House vote against Mr. McCormack's motion.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I also rise to oppose this motion, I want to commend the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, for his remarks, I think it was a very good analysis of the situation which has developed. We are learning by experience how some of these things should be done.

If there is any question in the mind of the gentleman from Philadelphia and the other Members of this House that this money is going to be squandered, I remind them of the statement of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, and the further fact that the gentleman who was Chairman of the Committee over which we had a controversy last year in connection with the appropriation is a Member of this investigating committee. If you think he is going to allow any squandering of money, then I leave it up to your judgment.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I disagree with the gentleman. I think the money is being squandered. To cite a case in point, why was there a $5,000 appointment made of the County Treasurer of Dauphin County, who is a Republican?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker. I want to correct the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The Committee has allocated the sum of $5,000 for that purpose. However, if at the completion of our investigation we find his services were worth less than that, he will be paid less.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second and third sections and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

SPECIAL ORDER ON REVENUE BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 330, Printer's No. 61, on page 4,

House Bill No. 331, Printer's No. 62,
House Bill No. 332, Printer's No. 63,
House Bill No. 333, Printer's No. 64,
House Bill No. 334, Printer's No. 65,
House Bill No. 335, Printer's No. 66,
House Bill No. 336, Printer's No. 67, and
House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 68,

on Page 5 of today's calendar be made a Special Order of Business immediately upon the adoption of this motion in their calendar order for Third Reading and Final Passage.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the first bill on the Special Order of Business, being House Bill No. 330, Printer's No. 61.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 330, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of June 1 1889 (P. L. 420) entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' * * * increasing for a further limited period of time the rate of tax imposed upon the gross receipts of certain companies limited partnerships associations joint-stock associations copartnerships and persons.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we have before us today what we hope will be the tax program of the session. As I have stated before on the floor, these bills reenact the present temporary taxes now on the books with a few exceptions which I will point out as I go over each tax.

I have stated that I would, first of all, go over each of the tax bills and indicate what we feel would be a reasonable yield from these taxes. I will comment briefly on each tax bill as we go. It will save time perhaps in the over-all picture.

House Bill 330, on page 4, reenacts the tax on the gross receipts of public utilities. As you know we have an eight mills permanent tax on the gross receipts of these utilties and this bill reenacts on a temporary basis the additional six mills, making a total of 14 mills or 1.4 percent. According to the Governor's budget message this tax, with the temporary tax, will bring in $32 million or the 6 mills that we are reenacting today will bring in $13.8 million.

On page 5, House Bill 331, is the real estate transfer tax. That was first put on in the 1951 session. It is a one percent tax on the gross selling price of certain real estate in Pennsylvania and will return approximately $41.5 million.

The next bill, House Bill 332, is the cigarette tax bill which reenacts the one cent per pack temporary cigarette tax which will bring in $22.5 million. The Governor's budget estimates that the four cents permanent tax on the books will bring in $89 million. We are going along on that figure.

The next two tax bills, 333 and 334, are the six percent taxes on the net income of corporations, both foreign and domestic, doing business in Pennsylvania. One is called the corporation income tax law, the other the corporate net income tax law. One of these tax measures is in the nature of a use tax.

The Governor's budget says that tax will bring in $314 million. We however, are estimating that tax will bring in $330 million. That is by reason of the tremendous prosperity we are enjoying and which is predicted. Further, we think we will get a yield of that much money from this corporate income tax because of the job we are all trying to do to encourage industry and bring new industry into Pennsylvania.

In answer to the inquiry yesterday from Mr. Andrews as to what we plan to do for business this session, I believe I have stated publicly, I do not know whether I have stated it on the floor here, that we certainly intend to let the manufacturers' exemption go into effect. That will as you know, go into effect on January 1, 1958 without any legislation being passed in this House. The bill we passed last session had a terminal date of January 1, 1958.

As far as we are concerned, we have not put in any bill which will continue the tax on the capital stock of manufacturing corporations employed directly in manufacturing. We have always felt that is one of the greatest business determents we have in this state.

We have always put out a welcoming hand to manufacturing corporations to come into our state but in 1936, when Governor Earle became Governor and there was a tremendous need for revenue, manufacturing corporations were denied an exemption and the corporate net income tax was put on for the first time. In the press for revenue without a broad base tax in this state, succeeding Legislatures have continued the income tax on corporations and the manufacturers' capital stock tax. In all earnestness we expect to let that manufacturers' exemption go into effect.

Now with respect to the other business taxes I believe the Governor has recommended be repealed, there is the corporate loans tax, which it is estimated brings in $3.6 million; there is the bonus tax on foreign and domestic corporations, called an excise tax, which would bring in $4.8 million, and there is the tax on capital stock transfers of corporations in the state which is estimated to bring in $500 thousand.

The bonus tax on domestic corporations is one-fifth of one percent. The tax on foreign corporations coming in is one-third of one percent. I would say that particular tax is a definite business deterrent just as much as the manufacturers' tax is.

We have legislation drawn at the present time, to be introduced, which would repeal these three taxes. We expect to have a statement with respect to those three taxes a little later in the session.

Suffice it to say the bonus tax is a business deterrent and, all three should be repealed if we expect to attract industry into this state. A bonus tax, as I say, one-third of one percent on the fixed capital installed by a foreign corporation in this state, is a tax on incentive to come into our state.

To repeat, we figure that with the tremendous business activity which will be engendered in this state in the next two years, the corporate net income tax should bring in $330 million.

The next two tax bills are the reenactment of the five-cent gasoline tax. By next week I believe we will have the Governor's estimate of the gasoline tax yield, which can be estimated very accurately, and I believe that the five cents we have on the calendar today will bring in approximately $300 million during the biennium.

The last tax bill is 337, and the most important, because it is a broad base tax and is the vehicle, you might say, by which we are now operating our state government. The Governor estimates a yield of $473 million I believe from this tax and we have estimated $480 million, taking into consideration the inflation today, the anticipated tremendous business and purchasing activity in the state in the next two years and the promised increase in the efficiency of collection of the tax.

I know Mr. Readinger, from what I have read in the Press, is going to say, "Well, why rush these taxes now?" With our estimates, this package on our calendar today, plus the permanent taxes on our books, we say should bring in $1.5 billion.

I know it is said, "Why not wait until you have your appropriations and then decide how much money you need?" I would say that in my six terms in the Legislature, this is the first time we have ever moved a major tax program through the House during the month of February. I believe some of those who have been around here for maybe half a century will say they cannot recall when a tax program moved so early in the session.

We believe if we can get this tax program on the statute books and can say to the Governor, to the Members of this House, to pressure groups all over the state and to the people generally, "Here is a fund of $1.5 billion, we in the Legislature are going to try earnestly to live within that amount of money during the next two years," we are certainly going to make a good-faith effort to balance a reasonable and fair budget within that norm.

There is nothing wrong with setting up a certain sum of money as a target at which to shoot.

As I have said here before, after our Appropriations Committee has audited the budget, has studied what has been going on, how many consultants have been on the payroll at large sums of money, how much money has been spent for propaganda, how much has been foolishly thrown away for this and that, and come up with the figures they feel are the reasonable needs for the next two years, if Norman Wood or Senator Chapman say to us, "We are going to need some more money, it must be raised," I, of all people, will certainly come before you and have the courage to ask for more.

In the meantime we are setting up this area in which we feel we can live. We hope it will be enough money. Therefore, we are doing the job expeditiously. It is part of the plan to have a short business-like session. I am appealing to each and every Member of this House, considering the needs of the Commonwealth for schools, welfare, health and running our departments, to have the courage to stand up here today and vote unanimously for each one of these tax bills on this program.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether the membership on his side of the House has at this time made a determination of the amounts of appropriations which they will vote for during this session?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I will stand on my statement that we are establishing a fund of $1.5 billion and that is the target, you might say. I do not believe our Members have any fixed notion as to any fixed amount they will vote for, but they are certainly hoping that we can do it on $1.5 billion.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell us what specific gain, if any, is made by proposing the passage of these tax bills at this time in the session when we do not have actual figures on what the deficit will be? We are simply using estimates. What will be gained by passing these bills at this time rather than in April or May when we have better information concerning the status of the Commonwealth's financial structure?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as I say, this is the first time a tax program has moved so soon. We on this side believe we have a mandate from the people to hold the line on taxes; we have a mandate from the people to hold the line on unnecessary expenditures. We believe that the psychological effect, you might say, if for no other reason, on the Governor and on the people of saying, "Here is $1.5 billion. This is what we are going to try to live within." It will have an unmistakably good effect in toning down the excessive demands which will pour in here within the next couple of months for appropriations, many of which are put forth on a selfish basis.

Another thing, I believe that by moving this tax program the effect on the business community, on the people generally, on the taxpayer, will be tremendous. I think it will start a wave of new industries in the state right now for business in the state and the people generally to know that the Legislature honestly intends to try to live on the taxes we have on the books.

Mr. READINGER. One further question.

Does the gentleman really believe that passing the taxes, which he estimates will bring in $1.5 billion for the next biennium, will have any determining effect on the decisions made by the Members of the General Assembly on the amount of total appropriations and the amount of appropriations for specific programs, or items, which the Commonwealth is carrying out, or might intend to carry out, and not the actual determination of how much money we are going to need when the decisions are made on the appropriations?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that passing this tax program now will have just the effect on everybody that I have said, not only on the Governor, on the Members and on pressure groups, but on the state generally, that we are expecting to live on this sum of money. I do not think there is anybody in this House, whether they are fair-minded or not, if the chairman of the various appropriations committees come in here several months from now and say, "We need some more money," that will not go along and have the courage to vote for taxes too. But right now we are going to try to do the job on $1.5 billion.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman what is so magic about $1.5 billion? Why did he not choose $1.2 billion, or $1.4 billion or $1.7 billion? May I inquire as to the magic of the $1.5 billion?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is the magical sum you arrive at when you reasonably compute what the taxes will bring in

Mr. READINGER. I repeat the question. If the gentleman had picked $1.3 billion, he might be able to eliminate one of these taxes, or a part of one of them. I realize that is the estimate he is using for the total yield of these taxes, but since we are passing a tax program, why $1.5 billion? Why do we not pass $1.3 billion at this time, or $1.6 billion?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I have been around here for six terms. I have studied and analyzed the Governor's budget every session I have been here. I have attended meetings of the Appropriations Committee when they brought in the various departments and different groups throughout the state to tell us what they needed. I am not so naive that I am going to stand on this floor and say we can get along on anything less than $1.5 billion. If the appropriations chairmen can do it, my hat is off to them. When you consider the mandated items and the other needs in the state, no matter how hard we try to do it, if we come up with a figure of $1.5 billion, we should all get a gold star for it in my opinion.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I am not opposing the passage of these taxes today, but I did want to get on the record whatever reasons were to be offered by the Majority Leader as the reasons for passing these bills now.

I agree with the Majority Leader that we certainly need at least $1.5 billion to finance the next biennium It is my opinion that we will probably appropriate more than the Governor's budget calls for, which is roughly $1.6 billion.

To me it is obvious that we are going to have to find some other taxes in addition to these before we wind up this session. Whether they will be amendments to these bills, or whether they will be taxes which are not now on our program, I do not know. The decision as to what additional taxes will be imposed, if any are needed, will have to be made by your side because you have the controlling votes.

I have in caucus requested as many Democrates as can see fit to do so to vote for this entire package. There are some on our side who cannot. They feel they cannot vote for some of these taxes or perhaps all of them. We have not taken a count, I do not know where the membership on this side stands, but I think we all have the responsibility to finance the needs of this Commonwealth.

Unless we have some deep, abiding reason to oppose any of these taxes, I think it is our duty to impose taxes, as much as we dislike doing so and as much as the people complain at times about having to pay this tax burden. We have learned over the years, and we know very clearly now, that if we are going to carry on our state's functions, our various programs which are designed to help our people and make this a fine state in which to live, we have to pay for it. We personally must help to pay and so must every other citizen of the Commonwealth if he wants to participate in these benefits.

I do not think there is a great deal more to be said concerning this program at this time. I think the real harsh decision will have to be made later in the session as to what is to be cut, if anything, or what is to be added. Had I had my own way, I think I would have preferred to hold this tax package until a later date when the Appropriations Committee hearings were fiinished and we had a better idea of just how far we intended to go in the matter of appropriating money.

While I appreciate the political value of the statements made by the gentleman about squandering money, and so forth, and saving money, I assure him we have just as much interest on this side to see that no money is badly spent in this Commonwealth. We have the same strong desire as the men and women do on your side.

This is a very harsh tax burden we have in Pennsylvania. All of us want to see every tax dollar collected spent wisely and spent well. When it comes to determining what the appropriations should be, we assure you also that we will examine them thoroughly and we will make sure that the money appropriated is going to be used for the purposes for which it is appropriated and that it will be a beneficial purpose.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I had not filed a request and unless I am still further prodded into a provocatory line of discussion. I shall remain asleep.

The SPEAKER, The chair had been informed that the gentleman desired to be recognized.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I have sat and listened very attentively to the remarks of the Majority Floor Leader and at this time I would like to interrogate the gentleman, if I may.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that the Senate of Pennsylvania, after this tax program will allow it to lay very quietly until they have received the necessary appropriations which we feel are needed in the state?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I have assurance from the Senate leadership that as soon as this tax program is over in the Senate they will commence immediate work on it with a view of putting in on the Governor's desk at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if he feels there will be any changes whatever by the Senate in this tax program?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the only possible change I can see that might be made in this program are some procedural amendments to the sales tax which are going to be worked out by the House and Senate leadership next week. I understand the administration has a few procedural amendments having to do with tightening up collections and matters of that kind. They will be offered and will come back here for concurrence and first will have been discussed with the House leadership.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I further ask the gentleman if he feels there will be any change at all in regard to the sales tax by putting in additional items that are not taxed now in the sales tax.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question, as I understand it, if there are any other items to be put in the sales tax bill they would be started as an original revenue raising measure in the House and referred to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. LOVETT. Do I understand by that that the Senate then would not amend the sales and tax bill to include items that are now not included in the sales tax?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe that is the situation that prevails.

Mr. LOVETT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I quarrel with your tax program and your haste in passing it over to the Senate of Pennsylvania. It is from long experience with the Senate of Pennsylvania. The Senate of Pennsylvania in my mind has ——

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not in order. He s no right to criticize the other branch of this Legisla- re. They may do what they desire with this legislation nen it reaches that body.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I realize it is an unpardon- le sin to refer to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. May I say that the "other body"—I think at has been used here. They do not refer to the Senate, ey say the "other body," in some other place, in the me state, have not been progressive. We as House Mem- rs, both Republicans and Democrats, have continually reed on progressive legislation. We did it during the st session of the Legislature, which you well remember. e passed over to the "other place" in the state of nnsylvania certain types of legislation which would ve given us the right to an equal, fair tax program Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? The gentle- an is not discussing the bills before the House. The bill fore the House is House Bill 330. The Chair is giving much leniency as possible in discussing the entire tax ogram. If the gentleman desires to continue to discuss e tax bills he may do so.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if I am not in der when I discuss the entire tax program?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order when he scusses the bills before the House.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if I have not ayed in order on that question?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman repeat his question?

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask if I have not stayed in order discussing the entire tax program?

The SPEAKER. It is the opinion of the Chair that he s not.

Mr. LOVETT. Will the Speaker please state in what ay he thinks I have not?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has referred to other gislation in past sessions and is certainly not discussing e bills before the House. The Chair is trying to be as ir as possible and will ask the gentleman to confine s remarks to the subject matter before the House.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I say that to my mind e legislation now before the House to a great extent a sales tax program. With the exception of a few bills, ery bill on this calendar before us today in some re- ects is a sales tax. The cigarette tax is a sales tax, the soline tax is a sales tax, the general sales tax is a sales x.

Yesterday I was accused of cutting the crutch out om under the limping local districts, and we continually t the crutch out from under the Legislature, the body elf, in order to enact decent, fair legislation in the terests of the people of Pennsylvania. I say to you gain that we have passed legislation in this House, agreed by both sides of this House, which I feel was legisla- on in the interest of all the people of Pennsylvania. But, e still find the crutch we are trying to operate under still there.

My friends, I feel there will be changes made in this x program. If we are going to get the revenue which I el is necessary in Pennsylvania, we are going to con- tinue to place the tax on those least able to pay. May I say to you that in looking over the lists of donations to the political parties during the last campaign, when we find wealth in the state of Pennsylvania that can con- tribute thousand of dollars to political campaigns—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is entirely out of order in that he is not discussing the bills before the House.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appreciate it if the gentleman will confine his remarks to the bills before this House.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman should try just a little harder.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I will try just as hard as I can.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. LOVETT. I still say those words which I feel the people of Pennsylvania should know as to the difficulties we as Legislators have in order to enact—

The SPEAKER. The Chair is entirely in sympathy with the gentleman's problem, but suggests that he confine his remarks to the bills.

Mr. LOVETT. The Majority Floor Leader says the sales tax in Pennsylvania is the only broad base tax we have. That is my quarrel, if that is the only broad base tax, although the property transfer tax is pretty broad based. It covers the entire state and in many places it doubles taxes, so it is pretty much a broad based tax.

My friends, we as Legislators must make up our minds that when we pass legislation in this House we then try to stay under the law in the way in which it was passed, but which we continually evade. That is the reason we find ourselves in the position we are in today and why I am discussing this tax program.

I feel that the people least able to pay in Pennsylvania are paying the taxes in Pennsylvania. We have not put ourselves in a position where we can collect the revenue on a fair basis from those best able to pay. We have come to the point where we have put the tax on those least able to pay. We have placed it on the family. The man with the small family and the young family, who should be helped under our tax program, is the one who is carrying the burden of the taxes in Pennsylvania.

So, my friends, without getting any further off the subject, I want to say to you that the haste in passing this legislation is wrong. Democracy is worth every cent you spend for it, and a short business-like session of the Legislature to my mind is not in the interests of the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I believe once again we are taking the easy way out. The easiest thing to do is to adopt all the taxes already in existence, reenact them and go home.

I also think we are abdicating one of our constitutional privileges. I believe all these bills shall originate in the House. I think we here in the House should try, in so far as possible, to eliminate all need for amendments to the bill once it has passed the House. I believe it is our constitutional obligation to discuss fully and at length every revenue-raising measure brought before us.

I think we saw here yesterday a sort of spectacle, a tax package, consisting of a number of bills, some of which we know definitely need amendment, in some of which we know definitely there are questions which should be raised and voted upon in this House. I know, too, that the leadership on both sides of the House have prevailed upon people not to offer amendments and have asked that they not be discussed in the House for the sake of brevity, for the sake of some orderly process.

I am quite certain that the sales tax as it appears on our desk today is in need of amendment and I am confident that the leadership on both sides of the aisle will agree there are questions which should be brought before this House and voted upon.

I do not believe we should abdicate those rights. I believe this House is a constitutional body where those discussions should be had at length. I feel that taking the easy way out is not the solution to our tax problems in Pennsylvania.

The gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, referred to the fact that one of these laws on corporate taxes was passed during the term of Governor Earle. Perhaps it was, but I want to point out that from that time, and for many years before and many years since, the party of which Governor Earle was then a member did not have control of the taxes of this Commonwealth.

I say today that this package, as we have it has been built up over a period of years and during that time it was not a bi-partisan package. For the benefit of the people of Pennsylvania and this Commonwealth, I believe some day we should have men from both parties big enough to sit down and discuss a program that will be fair and equitable in the matter of taxation. I am certain the day is not too far off when we will not be able to shirk it any longer.

The sales tax we are passing today will meet the needs perhaps for the next two years, but when we get beyond that we are going to need some additional taxation. I think all we are doing here is delaying the time when men will finally have to sit down and discuss some other form of taxation.

For the benefit of our Commonwealth, in order to continue to give the services we are accustomed to and entitled to receive, we will probably have to vote for this entire package. I think we are doing our duty when we do so. However, I will say that I think we are shirking our responsibility when we fail to give each one of these particular tax laws full discussion and full debate on the floor of this House.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to briefly interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say a few moments ago that it would not be possible to amend this package?

Mr. JOHNSON. Where?

Mr. MAXWELL. Well, you are not allowed to mention the Senator's name in the House.

I will make it more specific, Mr. Speaker. Would it be possible later on to amend this package to include such items as clothing and the trade-in allowance on automobiles?

Mr. JOHNSON. It would. Just one moment and I will answer your question.

If this tax passes the Senate and is placed on the statute books and later we desire to put a tax on clothing, on trade-ins or on liquor across the bar, it will take a separate bill, an amendatory Act to the present sales tax law which, as you know, is a permanent tax at the present time. So it will take a special Act of Assembly to include additional items in the sales tax bill.

Mr. MAXWELL. Thank you.

I wanted to definitely bring out the point, and I think Mr. Johnson has answered it, that there can be no items added to this tax package after we vote on it today. Am I right?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize the gentleman is referring to the question whether, once it gets into that so-called "other place," additional items can be added. There is a feeling that if additional items are added by the other body it would mean that they would be initiating revenue measures and might destroy the constitutionality of the bill. Therefore, it is felt that if any item is added it should start as an initial revenue-raising measure here in the House, come out here on the floor and be debated as to the nature of the tax and the necessity for the money.

Mr. MAXWELL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I just want to state to the Members of the House, I believe there are quite a few Members who feel the same as I do, that if the two items specifically—there may be more—of clothing and trade-in allowances on the automobiles were later added to this tax package after we voted on it today, many of the Members including myself, would vote against this tax package today. But if they do not intend to add these items to the package, then I feel I am free to vote for this tax package and in no other way.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, we seem to have been getting mixed up on certain things around this House. At least, in my humble opinion we are. There seems to be a feeling current at the moment that we cannot even mention the Senate of Pennsylvania. It is my understanding we cannot stand here and criticize the Senate of Pennsylvania, but we can certainly refer to it, and compliment it and mention bills which are there. Am I correct or am I incorrect?

The SPEAKER. The Senate may be referred to in proper discussion, but certainly, as the gentleman has stated, not in a critical manner.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the Chair.

I did not want to let this moment pass while discussing these tax bills without offering my wholehearted congratulations to the House Ways and Means Committee for its wisdom in reporting a sales tax out without the stamp plan included.

Those of you who were here during the 1955 session will recall that there was extensive debate at that time concerning the wisdom or lack of wisdom in incorporating the stamp plan. I argued vigorously against including it, but it was included anyway. I am very happy to know that the present majority membership of the House has at long last become sold on the idea that the stamp plan just is not what some people hoped it would be.

It would have been a costly thing to use. It has in the opinion of the tax administratives of Ohio been a rather bad failure in that state. We have certainly corrected a mistake which I think was made during the last session when it was put into the bill.

My congratulations to you again.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, there are just one or two more questions which are not quite clear in my mind, and, if the Majority floor leader will clear them up, I will not talk any further on this subject.

If my memory serves me correctly, during the last session of the Legislature, if I am in order in talking about the last session of the Legislature, we passed certain legislation in this House which were tax raising measures. We sent them to the Senate of Pennsylvania. They eliminated some of the tax program and sent it back to us. Now, if the Senate is in order in eliminating, if they can eliminate, why is it unconstitutional for them to add to it?

Will the gentleman please state what his reasoning is on that particular subject?

The SPEAKER: Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Ms. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, of course, when they eliminate they are not raising revenue.

I would say this in answer to the gentleman, I believe the Senate has in the past added to a tax bill, it has been signed by the Governor and the people have paid the tax. I do not believe there has been a court test on it. But I have especially requested during this session if there is anything to be added to any tax bills, that it be started in the House where we by the Constitution are required to initiate revenue raising bills, refer them to our Ways and Means Committee and have them out on the House floor first before we send them over to the Senate. Then we will be doing business in the constitutional way.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say then that he has no guarantee, that either the Democratic Senators or the Republican Senators, either one of them, could amend this bill in the Senate if they so choose? There would be nothing to stop them from offering amendments and passing them if they so choose?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, my only answer is that I have an understanding with the leadership of the Senate. Of course, a Member on the floor could offer amendments to these bills, I grant you that. That is something we cannot control over here or that the leadership could control in the Senate.

Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. LOVETT. In other words Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is saying that they could be offered and if the majority of the Senate had so changed their mind, they could do it.

Mr. JOHNSON. Why, of course. The answer to that question is obvious, I would say.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to take a great deal of time. Rather than interrogate the Majority Leader, which consumes a considerable amount of time, I, too, want to make an observation on the tax program before us.

Too many times in the past every one of us who has served in the General Assembly has been guilty of doing a disservice to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in every way of life, industrial, individual, or what have you. We find that the tax package before us is going to be used to pay off interest and to set aside monies into a sinking fund for bonded obligations of the state.

The point I want to make is this. Are we again in this biennium leading to a recurrence of what has been going on biennium after biennium in the state government? That is, are we going to operate on a deficit financing which will necessitate at some future date, when certain services are required in the state, to again pass upon some bonded obligations of the state, thereby increasing the load that business and the people of the Commonwealth have to repay in interest on those obligations?

I have always been against deficit financing, and I am against it today. I shall be for this tax program, but I firmly and honestly believe it is not sufficient in the amount of revenue it is going to raise to pay for the budget required for the coming biennium.

All you are doing is postponing until a future date heavier obligations on the people of Pennsylvania. Out of these funds it will be necessary to pay in the neighborhood of $70 million in interest on bonded obligations. How long can that continue?

I am reminded of the utterances of the Majority Leader in the days gone by as to how he cried out against further bonded indebtedness because it would become a very heavy burden in the future on the people. I too say that is so. But I say you have to cut that down by financing the state on a pay-as-you-go basis. You have to provide in the days of a high economy sufficient revenue to run the government. You cannot run on deficit budgets, because when you come to the next biennium, and if there are needs for services, in order to make up the deficit and supply the additional services you just do not raise that kind of tax money within a given two-year period of time.

Time and again I have recommended the setting up by the General Assembly—not by the administrative body, but by the General Assembly—of a non-partisan committee, a standing committee of, let us say, six Members of the House and six Members of the Senate, three of each party, with a sufficient staff to study the tax problems of this Commonwealth. Take your taxes out of politics and then you will be doing a service to business and to all the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen, I want to point out to you that I firmly believe the biggest evil we can ever get into is deficit financing, and I firmly believe that in future years it will catch up to us just the same as the $70 million which we are paying out in interest on obligations today. You continue to have that mount and I do not know where you are going to get sufficient tax revenues to pay it.

Maybe I am a disciple of Ruml, the advocate of pay-as-you-go. I think that is a good way to run your state government. We ought to pay the bills in the current biennium. Once we do that and continue to discharge the stated obligations of this Commonwealth, then we will all be happier, because in the long run we will have done a greater service to business and to the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, I implore the majority party at this time to let us stay away from deficite financing. Let us peruse the budget, go through it with a fine tooth comb, make the cuts that are necessary, but above all else provide the services and put upon the books sufficient tax revenues to pay for those services in this biennium, rather than running anywhere from a $50 to a $150 million deficit which we will have to pay and in addition, pay the interest on it in the future.

I am going to vote for the program. I firmly believe it is not sufficient to carry out the needs. I hope that the majority party will see fit to bring before this House additional revenue raising measures so that we can finance ourselves today during a high economy, on a pay-as-you-go basis.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I want to say this. I am happy to see that the Majority Leader recognizes the effect, the very apparent effect, that the Industrial Development Program has had upon the economy of our Commonwealth. I have seen it too. I have seen it through activity on the local level in invitations for industry to come into our state, grow by leaps and bounds. I, too, hope that this will bring in a greater revenue from the corporate tax bills.

I say the plan which was initiated and instituted should be enlarged upon and should be continued in this Commonwealth, because we must vie with our sister states in competing to have these industries locate within our Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for these tax bills and I say we are wrong if we move into deficit financing. I say that not only with reference to the general fund, but I also point out the two measures we have here which concern the liquid fuels tax and the highway program. We have not to date received the needs of the Highway Department in their budget, yet we are passing upon the Liquid Fuels Tax and we are curtailing the additional one cent gas tax. Rather than having it curtailed in September, we are curtailing it at the end of the biennium here.

However, I say this, with an expanded highway program, which we must recognize because we realize that industry is dependent on those arteries of transportation, we also ought to look in that direction and rather than increase our bond obligations in the future, we ought to pay as we go in that branch of state government operation as well.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NOT VOTING—5

Boory,	Musto,	Trusio,	Vaughan,
Welsh,

The majority required by the Constitution having oted in the affirmative, the question was determined in he affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate or concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the ext bill on the Special Order of Business, being House ill No. 332, Printer's No. 63.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 332, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "Cigarette Tax Act" approved une 14 1935 (P. L. 341) extending the provisions imosing an additional tax for a further limited period of me

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I have selected this bill, s a way to speak upon the entire tax package.

The extra one cent tax on cigarettes was put in as n emergency measure, just briefly to review, in the ession of 1955-1956. I voted against it at that time ecause I did not feel we needed it and we recited our easons on the floor of the House.

Doubly so, I am voting against it now because certainly do not feel it is needed for several reasons, well as the extra one percent franchise tax in the next bill coming up, and possibly also not restoring the manufacturers' exemption.

I am taking the Governor's own figures according to his present budget and the figures submitted therein. He estimates that in the next two years the three percent sales tax will bring in $473,500,000.

Now we break that down monthly and that is a simple matter of arithmetic. You simply divide it by 24 and come up with a figure of $19,729,166 per month. That is what he says he can collect every month over the next 24 months.

Now for the life of me, I cannot see why that same amount could not have been collected over the past 18 months or the succeeding three months remaining in this biennium, which is about the present number of months that the present three percent sales tax will be in force and effect.

Multiply that monthly figure by 18 and you come up with a figure of $353,124,989 which should have been collected under the three per cent sales tax as it is now on the books. Now, those are the Governors' own figures, they are not mine. They are right in the budget.

His deficit according to his own budget message, and again I quote from his budget message, his anticipated deficit is $82,242,433. If you subtract the total gross amount that it did produce, $203 million, from what it should have produced, $353 million odd, you get $150,124,988 that he should have had in excess, not a deficit, according to his own figures, in excess on these 18 months collections under the three percent sales tax. Take his deficit off that and he would have had a surplus this biennium if he would have adequately collected the three percent sales tax, which he says he can do over the next 24 months. He would have been in the black to the enormous figure of $67,982,555.

Now that is one reason why I am not going to vote for this particular cigarette tax. There are the figures. There is what he should have produced, there is what he did not produce and there is what he says he can produce using the same tax rate over the next 24 months.

So let us put the blame where it belongs. If there is not sufficient money appropriated to take care of welfare, educational purposes, retarded children the handicapped, the incompetent and so forth, let us put the blame right on the man in the front office who has not made any serious attempt to collect the present three percent sales tax until after the election was over in 1956. There is the crux of the whole matter.

I am suggesting, Mr. Speaker, to the Members of the House and to the people of Pennsylvania that he deliberately did not try to collect that particular sales tax. I am further saying that he thought he was going to have a controlled House and a controlled Senate of his own party, and he could still go back to that vicious wage income tax he so greatly loved in the 1955-1956 session. Just the minute the election was over and he found he was not going to have that control over those bodies, then he fell in love with the three percent sales tax.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield?

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I suggest that the Speaker conform to his previous rulings and place the same admonitions upon the gentleman from Blair that he placed upon the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine himself to the subject that is before the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, to preside temporarily.

Mr. LOPRESTI IN THE CHAIR

Mr. AUKER. I am trying to, Mr. Speaker.

For the edification of the gentleman from Cambria, I am trying to explain why I am not voting for this particular cigarette tax.

However, so be it. That is one reason.

The second reason and this involves some criticism of my own party and the leadership of my own party, is that I believe their estimate of $480 mililon to be collected over the next 24 months under the present tax package as we are voting on it today is way underestimated. I would say it will produce, if properly collected, $600 mililon, at least, over the next 24 months.

For these reasons. I am making a comparison with the old one percent sales tax which did not include rentals, motels and hotels and food in restaurants.

Our prosperity in the last two years, and as we see it in the next two years, is certainly going to be much better than it was during 1954 and part of 1955 when the old one percent was in effect. Wages are up. The over-all economy picture, according to national figures, is five and one-half to six percent better than it was two years ago. Taking all these facts in mind, I would say that the present three percent sales tax should produce at least $600 million over the next 24 months.

I think it is greatly under-estimated what this three percent sales tax will produce, if properly administered and properly collected.

I am not going to take up any more time of the Members of the House. (Applause)

At least, Mr. Speaker, that is one popular statement I made here today. Quite a few of the Members of the House may not have liked a lot of the other statements I made, but I guess they liked that one anyway.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I am also thinking as some of the other gentlemen have spoken, that we should walk a little carefully and a little cautiously because two years from now this House is going to have to raise $130 to $150 million more than you are now raising.

I just want to reflect also on this, that due to the change in the atmosphere of the man in the front office, the Governor of this Commonwealth, in regard to business and the impact of taxes on business, we should get a goodly influx of possibly new industry and expansion of industry in Pennsylvania, which will likewise be reflected in greatly increased revenue from this three percent sales tax.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the Majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER, Will the Majority Leader, if he can recall, tell me what the estimated yield of revenue was for the one percent sales tax passed in 1953? Was it not $135 million?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the yield was between $125 million and $135 million.

Mr. READINGER. Is that right?

Mr. JOHNSON. The estimated yield—

Mr. READINGER. The estimates when that bill was passed, as I recall, were approximately $135 million for the biennium.

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe you will find that in 1953 I stated on this floor that the one percent tax would bring in approximately $125 million for the two years that it was to operate.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Blair did not even make a good political speech, in my opinion. If you look at the same page of the budget he was referring to pefore, you will find that the actual amount collected under the one percnt sales tax of 1953 during the biennium was $99.5 million. The estimate at that time, to the best of my recollection, was $130 million to $135 million.

Of course, people with weak memories usually talk themselves into a beautiful hole, and I think the gentleman has done that. Unless my memory is incorrect, he voted for the one percent sales tax in 1953. If he only reads certain columns which this administration compiled for future reference, for future yields, and so forth, he would fall into this beautiful hole. But if he will look at that column he will see that actually the estimates were about $25 or $30 million higher than were received.

Am I supposed to infer that he is accusing himself and all of his Republican colleagues of wilfully not collecting that tax? Oh, no, he would not do that. He just accuses our administration of not collecting the tax. I have not heard anything so silly in years.

I do want to say a word in behalf of the cigarette smokers, being one of them, since we are voting on the extension for a two-year period of the cigarette tax. I intend to vote for it. I believe everybody will probably vote for it. But I do not think we should do so without saying just a word for the poor cigarette smokers, and that includes practically everybody in the Commonwealth today.

If a man smokes one carton of cigarettes a week, he contributes to the state of Pennsylvania, $26 in taxes. If his wife smokes a carton also, that is $52 a year. If I am correct in believing that the Federal tax is eight cents, that is a total of 13 cents a package on cigarettes, and if both the husband and wife smokes just one carton a week, and that is not unusual today, they jointly contribute to the Federal and state government the sum of $135.20.

Maybe smoking is a vice, I do not know, but if it is then I am afraid most of us in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania indulge in it, because I see by the budget that the actual collections for the 1953-1955 biennium from the cigarette tax was $87.5 million. Now you cannot collect that kind of money without a lot of people doing a lot of smoking.

So may I ask, does anybody have a good cigarette cure?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, just briefly to answer the Minority Floor Leader. I dot not feel what I said was ully and I do not think I put myself in a hole.

I will buy the fact that possibly the one percent sales ax was not adequately collected during the two years when it was first put into force. For one thing, it was ntirely a new experience for Pennsylvania. We did not ave the experience of any other administrations to ollow. We did not have a tax collection set-up with ffices and people on the force scattered throughout the tate.

I am using the Governors' own figures on the $203 illion as to what he collected and what he expects to ollect under the same act in the next 24 months, so I till say I am right.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NOT VOTING—5

Boory, Musto, Trusio, Vaughan, Welsh,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the next bill on the Special Order of Business, being House Bill No. 335, Printer's No. 66.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 335, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" approved May 21 1931 (P. L. 149) extending the provisions of one additional tax for a limited time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MOSCRIP. Mr. Speaker, I ask the indulgence of the Chair to have my remarks apply equally to House Bills 335 and 336.

I rise in opposition to these bills at this time. The net effect of these is to roll back the state gas tax to five cents a gallon effective June 1 1957. This is being done without any Highway budget having been submitted to this House. I was somewhat amazed to read in the Patriot this morning that it is very likely this bill may be amended back to six cents after we get the Highway budget, which I understand from the same paper is due to come out next week.

Frankly, I can see no reason for the hurry on this when the attitude of the Governor and his administration will be submitted to us probably in a week or ten days. These taxes have no relation to the General Fund budget. The General Fund budget has been submitted to us, at least, we have an outline of what our expenditures will be. I believe the House as the originator of revenue bills should be deliberate. I think we should wait for the Highway budget and consider whether the tax is to be four cents, five cents, or six cents and once we have made our decision stand upon it.

We all recognize that gas taxes must ultimately be enacted to keep our highway system going and there is plenty of time for a slow intelligent approach. If we pass these bills now, the impression is going to be given that we have made a tax reduction—a rare bird in the last few sessions of the Legislature.

If this bill should be amended back to six cents, it is very likely that it will come back to this House in the rush of final adjournment and, lo and behold, we would discover that we had concurred with little, if any, deliberation in doing away with the so-called reduction. I feel that such action is harmful to the reputation of the House. Certainly it does not increase our prestige in the eyes of the public.

At the present time I am opposed to a total gas tax six cents, but because of the reasons stated above m voting against both House Bill 335 and 336 at this ie.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the re-rks of the gentleman, but voting against the bills ll not give us the time needed to give this bill in-ligent consideration. Therefore, I would like to move t this bill be placed on the Final Postponed Calendar.
On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we have before us as was ted the bills which reenact the gasoline tax at five cents allon. What I said about the entire tax package applies ually to the gasoline tax. If after we have audited the dget of the Highway Department, have given it close utiny as to the needs, and if it is pointed out to this use, to the Ways and Means Committee and to the propriations Committee that the extra one cent gas-ne tax is necessary, I am sure that everybody in this use will be man enough to stand up and vote for the

will say this about the Highway Department, under Constitutional amendment and in our practice we give m a blank check. We in the Legislature have absolutely hing to say about how they spend the money. I want to ure you that consideration is being given to the estion in this session of adopting a budget for the Highy Department and having the Members of this House e on it. Let us allocate how much money shall go to al roads in this state. Let us make the farmers feel od in that they will get a fair share of the money. Let say how much shall be spent on the urban system, and forth. Let us try to hold down the cost of administran, and so forth, in the Highway Department. It is palpable wrong committed on the Legislature when 0 million to $350 million every two years is spent by Highway Department without any check on it.

So, we want to pass these bills today and send them the Senate as a part of our package. I therefore ask Members of this House to vote down this motion. We here today, let us pass these bills, let us give the toring public the assurance that here is a five cent soline tax that is going to go into roads.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, a discussion of the merits the bill and the tax at this particular time would obably be out of order.

Certainly no one in the House believes that we should t pass the bill, whether it be five or six cents, but no e in this House today has the information with which ey can cast an intelligent vote. We do not have a Highy budget, we have no notion whatsoever what it may Why should we pass a bill just to find out two months m now, or a month from now, that it is a totally dequate bill and then be called upon to vote another e cent additional tax. I think it involves additional ie, additional expense and not only that it makes this ticular group of Members vote on two tax bills when can just as well vote on one.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

On a rising vote, less than a maojrity having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. RAGOT filed the following reasons for his vote:

Mr. Speaker, I feel that the people of Northampton County, whom I represent, have the right to know my reasons for voting for the sales tax amendments in House Bill No. 337.

Prior to my being elected in 1953, I made public commitments to my constituency that, if elected, I would vote against a sales tax. I was not returned to the House in 1954, although I ran three thousand votes ahead of the state ticket.

In the 1955-56 Session, the Democrat controlled House voted for a 3% sales tax. In 1956, I again was a candidate for the General Assembly. Since the sales tax was then a part of the permanent tax structure of the Commonwealth and was no longer an issue, I made no commitments during the last campaign.

Due to the increased subsidies to school districts, teachers' salary increases and increased services to the health and welfare of our people, more revenue is needed.

In comparing the wage tax with the flat income tax or the sales tax . . . with either the wage tax or a flat income tax there are no exemptions, therefore, the total income of a wage earner is taxable. With the sales tax only that portion of one's income which anyone spends for miscellaneous merchandise is taxed, food and clothing are exempt. The citizen has a freedom of choice through his purchases to control how much tax he will pay.

The people of Northampton County have come to the realization that the sales tax is preferable to an income tax or a wage tax.

I am therefore voting for the amendments for the reasons above stated.

Mr. WILLARD filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote yes on House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 68 but I wish to go on record that I am for the prepaid tax receipts.

THANKS EXTENDED

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to express its appreciation to the Members of this House for the splendid way they have conducted themselves during the Special Order of Business.

The Chair does not believe he has ever seen a time when the Members were so diligent in answering to the roll calls and the House was so orderly. The Chair appreciates it and expresses its thanks.

BILLS PASSED OVER

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, all bills that have not been acted upon on today's calendar will be passed over. The Chair hears no objection, and the bills are passed over.

If there is no objection, the order of business of Resolutions will also be passed over. The Chair hears none.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. ALBERT N. ROBERTS, Rector of St. Marks Episcopal Church, Erie, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O Almighty God, Who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful and fallible men, grant unto Thy people that they may love the thing which Thou commandest, and desire that which Thou dost promise; that so, among the sundry and manifold changes of the world, our hearts may surely there be fixed where true well being and integrity are to be found.

We thank Thee for the high leadership and dedicated services which have made our governing bodies useful and effective servants of Thy people, upholding our democracy before both friends and foes.

We thank Thee for our health and faculties of mind and body, and especially today for the return of one of our Senators, Mr. DiSilvestro, who has been so ill.

May Thy blessing now rest upon the Senate of this State, here assembled in Thy presence. Save it from all error, pride and prejudice, and so guide its work as to further the happiness of our homes and the happiness and serenity of our workers in their respective daily tasks throughout our State.

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY OF WELFARE, PURSUANT TO SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 17

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

(SEAL)
PENNSYLVANIA
OFFICE OF THE
SECRETARY OF WELFARE
HARRISBURG

March 1, 1957

Honorable A. H. Letzler
Secretary of the Senate
Senate of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

My dear Mr. Letzler:

I acknowledge receipt of the resolution of the Senate dated February 26, 1957, in which I am directed to "submit to the Director of the Joint State Government Commission on or before March 4, 1957" specifically mentioned data relative to scholarships granted to Medical students.

This is to advise you that this Department has neither set up nor granted any scholarships to Medical students.

However, I assume from newspaper articles that it is quite possible that the Senate had in mind the program which this Department is carrying on in connection with the training of graduate students in the fields of psychology, social service, therapy (occupational, industrial, recreational) and nursing.

I am preparing a full and detailed statement of the program, including the names and addresses of the students, the schools, the financial assistance and the terms and conditions upon which these trainees are admitted into the program. I hope to be able to have that statement finished early next week. I trust you will bring this matter to the attention of the Senate.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

/s/ HARRY SHAPIRO
Secretary of Welfare

The PRESIDENT. This communication will be printed in the Journal.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, on Monday of last week, there appeared an article in the Philadelphia Inquirer, written by Royal H. Plenty, its Financial Editor, entitled "'Killer Brake Fluids' Imperil Millions of Motorists in Nation." This article is quite extensive, but I should like to read one or two short paragraphs from it which are quite pertinent.

"Few drivers know what kind of brake fluid is in their cars. Yet only about half of the fluid produced in this country is safe for modern cars and a good portion of it is so substandard that it makes a death trap of your car.

"Just the fact that 'killer brake fluids' are on the market imperils millions of people. But only eight States have passed laws to control the sale of these vicious fluids."

The States which have passed laws controlling the sale of brake fluids are New Jersey, Minnesota, California, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am offering this bill in the hope that our State will go along for safer driving.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSOR

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, a few moments ago, Senator Dent, Senator Mahany and I introduced a bill that I presume is identical to the one which Senator Silvert is now offering.

I think considerable expense might be saved if Senator Silvert is given an opportunity to co-sponsor the bill which we introduced just a few moments ago, if that is agreeable to Senator Silvert.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I am always willing to join in economy. However, I think those gentlemen should have made some mention of the Philadelphia Inquirer which carried that article on which the bill is based.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am sure my co-sponsors would not mind if my friend, Senator Silvert, wants to make the Philadelphia Inquirer a co-sponsor.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Silvert, will be added as a co-sponsor to Senate Bill No. 289.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE PENNSYLVANIA TURNPIKE COMMISSION TO MAKE THE EMERALD INTERCHANGE A PERMANENT PART OF THE PENNSYLVANIA TURNPIKE SYSTEM

Messrs. VAN SANT, SCOTT and YOSKO offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 4, 1957.

The present northern terminus of the Northeastern Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike is at Emerald Interchange at the convergence of Pennsylvania routes 29, 45 and 145 in Lehigh County.

The present plans of the Turnpike Commission are to eliminate this interchange after March 15 of this year, when the new section to Scranton will be opened.

The interchange at Emerald is of vital importance to all traffic approaching the turnpike from route 29, 45 and 145, because the only alternate route is over a hazardous road in extremely poor condition.

The maintenance of the Emerald interchange would promote safety for persons using our roads, convenience and expedite traffic approaching the turnpike from that area, and provide needed revenue to the Turnpike Commission; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania respectfully request the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to alter its present plans so as to make the Emerald Interchange a permanent part of the Pennsylvania Turnpike system; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to each member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President at the request of the sportsmen in my District, I am presenting the following resolution and ask that it be favorably considered by the committee to which it will be referred.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

URGING THE PENNSYLVANIA GAME COMMISSION TO POSTPONE THE OPENING OF THE 1957 SMALL GAME SEASON

Mr. YOSKO offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish:

In the Senate, March 4, 1957.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission has set tentative opening dates for the 1957 small game season which will permit the hunting of grouse, turkeys, and squirrels on October 19th and all other small game on October 26th.

A hunting season this early in the fall can cause immeasurable damage to farmers' crops which are still in the fields, and many farmers have threatened to close their land to all hunters unless the hunting of small game is postponed until later.

A postponment of the opening date until early November would not only prevent damage and loss to our farmers, but would also make thousands of additional acres of good hunting land available to our hunters; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the best interest of farmers and hunters alike the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby urges the Pennsylvania Game Commission to reconsider the tentative dates which have been set for the opening of the 1957 small game season and postpone the opening until approximately November 15th; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director and each member of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

CALENDAR

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 5, entitled:

An Act authorizing the recovery of damages from parents of children destroying property

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not intend to go into this bill or its features. I just want to say that there has been some legislation in various parts of the Country, for the past ten years, on this particular subject.

The Pittsburgh Press ran a supplement about three weeks ago, or somewhere in that neighborhood, in which it covered an analysis in history of the effectiveness of this particular type of legislation. In every instance where such legislation has been enacted, it has been found to be a dismal failure. It has not worked out according to the hopes of the sponsors. Particularly, I believe, the city of Toledo was the first city to have such legislation on its books and, as I understand it, they have discarded it.

There are many problems which can be raised by such legislation. Those of us who have raised families know that there are many peculiar problems that come up. I find that in many instances the damage is much greater than the sum stipulated in this bill as a liability on the part of the parent. In most cases where the parents are reputable citizens in a community, they without being taken before a court or a squire, work out some solution for the damages which may have been created by their children in an unguarded moment or while in the company of other children who are probably not as well trained. Then, again, you have that other group that come from parents who cannot afford to pay for any damages that their children may inflict upon private property.

You know, Mr. President, there are many cranks in this world, too. I do not know whether any of you have run into them. However, I can imagine some of them making a case against some child in a community over some incident that, in our childhood and early boyhood, would have been declared to be nothing but a boyhood prank.

None of us believe in condoning willful destruction of any property. None of us want it to happen to our property nor do we want our children to become involved in such a situation. However, in this day and age when records on everything are being kept, I would hate to see some of the extreme youth of our communities have a black mark against their records because of some foolish prank.

Of recent date I have known of one who would, under this act, have made the parents liable and responsible. Some boys were pledges to a fraternity at a certain college. They were ordered to go out, not to buy, mind you, but to steal so many Christmas trees. It was a boyhood prank, a college prank. I never had the opportunity to learn to steal Christmas trees because I never went to college. However, some of the boys had to steal some Christmas trees and they went out and stole them. Well, they were caught. Under this bill, the parents, who were miles and miles away from the scene, would have been called upon, under the act which we are now about to vote for, to be liable for this college boy prank. Certainly it was a destruction of property. However, I do not think these boys were bad boys. I know that the rest of the members of the fraternity got together and they made the damages good and that was that.

Mr. President, I am so fearful that so many children today are going to be called upon, through their parents, to be almost typified as criminals because someone scratches some Senator's car or something, or inadvertently breaks somebody's window.

I remember a story told upon this floor once by a Senator when he told about when he was a young man and a group of the boys were playing on the streets and someone batted a ball through some butcher's window. He ran home, all out of breath, and went into his father and said, "Dad, I want to tell you about a window we broke downtown. I want to explain it." His father said, "Don't explain it because when you do, it is bad already." Many little things like that would be cause for invoking this legislation.

Having fathere a few children and raised them, and having a string of grandchildren coming up, I just do not think I want to make life any more restricted or any worse than what it is now for them. For the parents who cannot afford it, it will be no help to those who have properties damaged; for the parents who can afford it, they do make good any damages created by their children. So long as we have children, we are going to have pranks. So long as we have adults we are going to have cranks.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in reading over this piece of legislation, I am wondering whether it would be applicable to a little kid on his kiddy car, probably riding down the street and upsetting on someone's flowers. I suppose then, that under the provisions of this act, this little child and his parents would be hauled into court.

It seems to me that the older generations always say that the younger groups are going to the dogs. I know when I was a small child the older people thought that we were pretty bad. I imagine that when this younger group grows up, they are going to think the same about their offsprings.

However, I cannot subscribe to this type of legislation because, number one, if we pass this bill, we might just as well repeal the Juvenile Court Act. It seems to me that it is silly and ridiculous, and I could not bring myself to even consider this because it has so many ramifications. It is so broad. It is applicable to any child under the age of eighteen years who does anything wrong, whereby it is going to be interpreted as willful or malicious. Those are terms which are always used. That is the way the suit of assumpsit will be set up, willfully and maliciously.

This little child had a bicycle or a kiddy car and he went too fast. In so doing, he destroyed somebody's flowers or roses and that poor little kid is going to be hauled into court, and his father is going to be made to pay for the damages that the little boy on the kiddy car willfully inflicted. I think it is silly.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I am not going to spend too much time in debating the merits or the demerits of this bill. I do want to say, however, in answer to Senator Lane that if that person's dog would have been on that kiddy car and would have gone into somebody's flower garden, yes, that man would have been held liable. Under this bill the child must do it willfully or maliciously, not by riding down in his kiddy car and running into somebody's flower garden. However, if a dog would be in that kiddy car, the man would be liable for the flowers which were destroyed. The bill specifically says, "maliciously and willfully."

In reply to Senator Dent, when he talked about the college boy who stole the Christmas trees, the bill also specifically says on page 1, line 5: "if he is living with his parents at the time the property is destroyed."

Senator Dent also made the statement that where a similar bill has been introduced in a Commonwealth or in a State, it has not helped. Now that is totally different from what we read in newspapers or in magazine articles. For instance, in the Reader's Digest, there appeared an article in which it stated that in May of 1953 the law was passed in Michigan. It also stated:

"In Wayne County, in Detroit, cases of macilious destruction of property dropped from 244 the year before the Parental Responsibility Act to 192 the year afterward (a decrease of about 20 per cent). Adjacent Lincoln Park reports a decrease in vandalism of about 50 percent. 'In the year preceding the enactment of this law we had 69 juveniles in for vandalism; the year following the law only 30.' So reports Police Chief Daniel O'Leary of Port Huron. In Battle Creek vandalism cases fell 55 percent, and in Pontiac 41 percent."

What prompted me to introduce this bill? I think that if the parents were made responsible and more conscious of their children's actions, then less vandalism would occur. Even though the child is only eight or nine years old, if he knows that his father and mother are going to be responsible just to the extent of $250, he is going to think twice before he walks into a church and desecrates it; upsets the pews, breaks pictures or statues that are in that church. I am sure if that child knew that his parents were partly responsible or that they were going to hold him responsible to the extent of $250 out of his allowance or make him go out and—Pop-Pop says, "His allowance?" The kind of boy whom I am talking about does not get a $250 allowance a week. I am talking about it maybe, taking a couple of years. If he is deducted two or three dollars a week over that period of time, he is going to think twice before he destroys other people's property maliciously and willfully.

Certainly, Al Pechan was just as much a prankster as you were, Bill Lane or Johnny Dent. However, I do not believe that I ever, willfully and maliciously, destroyed people's property because my parents taught me to respect other people's property.

For that reason, Mr. President, I have introduced this bill. I think it is good legislation. I believe that this softhearted, mollycoddling of youth in our juvenile courts is all wrong. I think the reason we are having this crime wave today is because the juvenile courts tell the police officer, the child will tell the police officer, "You cannot touch me; I am a juvenile." The child is defiant.

I believe that this bill will not cure it, certainly not. There are many things that are wrong. There are a lot of things wrong in our schools, in our churches and in our local governments. These wrongs are influenced a great deal by adolescent thinking, by what our young people tell us. I think a lot of this came along with what they call the healing art, psychology. I think some of the psychology which has been pushed down our throats is all wrong. We can see what happened at Morganza where the psychologists come in there and they take these young boys and girls and bribe them with cigarettes to get some sort of story out of them.

Mr. President, for instance, if you will recall Bertrand Russell, in England, some years ago set up a new school of thought when he said, "Let this child do as he pleases and we will produce geniuses." Bertrand Russell, since then, has apologized for that action many, many times.

Again, Mr. President, I prevail and ask my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support this bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator Pechan.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Pechan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PECHAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Doctor Pechan, did I understand you to state that you never in all your lifetime maliciously destroyed anyone's property?

Mr. PECHAN. Maliciously?

Mr. LANE. Yes.

Mr. PECHAN. I do not think I said that.

Mr. LANE. All right then, you never maliciously or willfully, around Halloween time, soaped anyone's windows?

Mr. PECHAN. That is not destroying property. That is a prank.

Mr. LANE. Oh, there is a difference there then. All right, you never willfully or maliciously greased any doorknobs or possibly upset any backhouses around Halloween?

Mr. PECHAN. Up in Armstrong County, practically everybody has an indoor outhouse.

Mr. LANE. I know, but when you were young, they did not.

Mr. PECHAN. How's that?

Mr. LANE. When you were young, they did not.

Mr. PECHAN. I still think I am young.

Mr. LANE. I wish to thank the gentleman.

Mr. President, the distinguished Senator from Armstrong talked about dogs riding in kiddie cars. As a matter of fact, I have never seen that happen in all my life. I reared two children, I have three beautiful grandchildren and I do not expect them to be perfect, but I do not consider them with dogs. On top of that, and even with that, Mr. President, under the dog law, a poor dog is entitled to one bite but here we are going to prosecute someone's parents just because a kid ran down the street and willfully and maliciously upset his kiddie car in somebody's flower garden. It is silly.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am very fond of Senator Pechan, despite the fact that he runs one of those crematoria where many of my bills are not only pulverized and buried, but they are cremated. However, this time I must take a side from a completely different angle. I believe this is one of the few instances when I do not follow in the footsteps of Colonel Dent. You see, I always consider myself as his disciple, but unfortunately I cannot share his views.

From one point of vantage, I do not think of the little boy or girl who caused the damage. I simply resent the hedonism, and hedonism is defined as the pursuit of pleasure, in which many of the parents indulge now days. If the parents would pay more attention to the home fires and keep them bright, there would be no need to pass legislation of this kind; but the tendency nowadays is to escape from duty, even if the duty is parental.

Now let this be a monitory finger to those arrant mothers who think more about bridge parties than they think about their children, or about fine clothes and window shopping. Let it be a reminder to them that there is a law; that if they are lax in their duties, they will have to pay for it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I do not know whether this bill will cure the evils that the Senator has outlined here. He has not introduced any evidence of that fact, but I think we had better bear in mind one important factor. The principal behind this bill is a bad one. The fact that you are going to make someone liable, other than the acting party, for what somebody else does is a bad principle, and I think it is an unconstitutional bill for that reason.

I also would like to point out to the Senator that some of the worst youngsters have grown up to be House Members and Senators, so that the purpose in this will sort of maybe deter some of the better members who might even come to this body at an early stage. I would like to point out further to the Senator that you cannot imply willfullness or intent to young children. As a matter of fact, the law will not let you imply that. They must be beyond a certain age before the law will even impugn that type of attitude on their part, so that by simply passing this act, you will not be able to do that.

We also have on the books today where a youngster shows vicious propensities their parents are automatically liable. There also are on the books today actions that you can take in trespass against parents whose children commit certain acts or actions. Therefore, I think we are just enacting into law bad legislation to try to cope with a problem which we do not know whether this will be the panacea or the nostrum to cure the ills that you have set out before us.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I am going to vote "no" on this legislation and in so doing, I am voting a vote of confidence in the teen-agers of today. I happen to live in a town where 10,000 of them are away from home, and compared to the stories the old-timers tell when there were 300 and 400 students there, they had a cow in the belfry about every week, and if these 14,000 students would take them up at that rate, the cows would be going up and down the stairway all the time.

The teen-agers of today, it seems to me, are doing constructive things. In a week or so you will find, instead of a hell week in my town, a help week, where the young people are preparing and working at university projects, community playgrounds, churches, schools, hospitals and that sort of thing.

The second reason I am going to vote "no" on this is because I am voting, I think, a vote of confidence in our present courts, and to support this I want to read first a news item and then an editorial from two Altoona newspapers. The paragraph from the news story is from the Altoona Tribune, which indicates to me that courts already have this power.

"Presiding at a session of juvenile court," and I quote, "Judge Klepser admonished the parents of defendants present in court for their apparent lack of control over their children. Judge Klepser stated that parents face the possibility of having to pay the upkeep, which averages about $100 a month at the present time."

The editorial from the Altoona Mirror is as follows:

"The parents attracted the most attention in the court for they were all assigned chairs in the jury box, ordinarily reserved for the panel of jurors. They were addressed by Judge Klepser as he severely criticized fathers and mothers for their clearly demonstrated lack of control over their children."

This it seems to me would mean, at least according to these newspaper reports, that one judge in one county thinks he already has enough legislation to cope with this type of problem.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to answer my revered friend, Senator Stiefel, because his approach to this is probably the underlying approach of many of the citizens who believe this is good legislation.

I would love to read just a few lines of the results of a study made by Jhan and June Robbins, who traveled the length and breadth of the United States, developing an answer to a question that was propounded and I read the question:

Michael Walpin, of New York City, asked this question: "'I've heard of laws which punish parents for crimes committed by their children. Do these laws help prevent juvenile delinquency?'" Do these laws help in the matter of behavior of children?

"We gave Mr. Walpin's query to Jhan and June Robbins and sent them on a "Nation-wide fact-finding tour. This is their report."

Let me read just a few excerpts, because I think this is a serious piece of legislation. It is much more serious than just taking the facts of some group or other or some newspaper that is interested in getting some legislation through because they have made it a crusade on their part. It is one that we have to answer for. We are the Legislators in this State, at least until the end of our terms of office.

"Throughout the country today more and more people are blaming parents for juvenile crime" and delinquency in action. "The sentiment seems to be: behind every delinquent youngster stands a delinquent parent!

"As a result large numbers of communities, frightened by rising juvenile" delinquency and "violence, have recently passed—or are seriously" contemplating—"new laws providing stiff fines or" in some cases "jail sentences for the mothers and fathers of our nation's children. Known generally as 'punish-the-parent' laws, the movement is described as a new 'get tough' tactic against delinquency.

"Its supporters argue: 'Give some of these parents a taste of jail or soak them with a fat fine and they will all buckle down and do a better job of bringing up their children!'"

That seems to be the premise that Senator Stiefel stands on. Now let us see what they find out, Senator. They say:

"Does it work? Are these laws a new and useful weapon against juvenile crime" and action "that all communities ought to copy?

"We believe that the answer is no!"

Listen to this:

"And in Michigan, a 10-year-old" lad "who was annoyed because his father punished him by docking his allowance smashed four glass panes in a nearby greenhouse.

"'I was sore at my father and wanted to get him in trouble,' he explained to police. He succeeded." His father was duly hailed before a squire. The record made it a fact that his father paid a fine of twenty-five dollars.

Let us go on a little further.

"Finally, and perhaps most important, is the undue amount of damage the new laws inflict upon the innocent. Most of the law officers "agree, and we have talked to many," that few families produce more than one really 'bad seed.' The other children in the family may be obedient, studious and hard-working—wholly good juvenile citizens. They are apparently being raised quite properly by the same set of parents who are fined or "in some instances," sent to jail because of the delinquency of a brother or sister."

Let us see what the advice is of these people who have made a study, and no person in this room can say he has made a complete study of this situation.

"No community should discuss this legislation without studying the 10-year-long experiment in Dayton, Ohio." I beg your pardon. I said Toledo; it is Dayton. "It is the only really sizable area in the United States where the new idea was given a lengthy, earnest, well-administered trial. It was abandoned as a "complete" failure."

Let us go further.

"Anyone who thinks the way to curb juvenile delinquency is to punish every parent of a delinquent youngster ought to read this thoughtful article. It's an eye-opener.

"The parent who contributes, through fault or neglect, to his child's delinquency may be, under existing law in most states, held liable for the child's delinquent acts. To impose a vicarious liability upon every parent whose child commits "any kind of a mischievous prank or" delinquent act, is not only repugnant to American concepts of justice and fair play; it is contrary to sound social policy.

"Punitive laws "maybe" seem the cheap and easy "to pass" way out. Actually in many cases they can do more harm than good."

I want to say to Senator Pechan—and I fully realize that he is really sincere in this matter—not in the form of criticism, but in the form of kindly and fatherly advice since he is so young, that never having had children, he cannot understand that children are peculiar little animals. They are human animals with the craziest little traits that you have ever seen. You would be surprised how stubborn a three year old can get, and you would be surprised how contrary a seven year old can be. Then as they grow a little older, you will learn that what your father told you was true: "Little children, little troubles; big children, big troubles."

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I think we have grown too sentimental in this argument when we say that this bill will punish four year olds and five year olds, or that it will inflict fines and punishment upon parents.

We seem to lose sight of the fact that damage is done by children somewhere between the ages of twelve and seventeen, and then we hear the argument about making the poor, innocent parents liable for it. Now not all people are rich and not all people are poor. Some of these acts of delinquency are performed upon people of small means. If you are going to raise a question of innocence, who should pay of two innocent parties? Should the one pay whose child is at home and is behaving himself, or the one down the street who comes through and breaks the windows and causes damage? You have two innocent parties, two parents. Why call the parent of the delinquent child so innocent and make it appear as though the parent of the well behaved child is guilty? The parent of the well behaved child has suffered the damage. He is just as innocent as the other one. As between two innocent parties, I would rather have the parent of the delinquent child pay the damage.

May I say further that I believe this Act would have a psychological effect upon parents. It would make them feel that they have some responsibility to see that their children do not create damage to other people's property. That, in itself, is sufficient argument for passage of this bill.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, as Senator Weiner said, I do not know how much good the passage of a bill such as this will do. However, as was just pointed out, if the psychological effect would cause some parents to exercise better control over their children, it will have done some good.

I just wonder how many youngsters are in Huntingdon Reformatory today because they started out by throwing stones through windows and causing damage otherwise, got away with it and did some more serious things, and finally wound up in the juvenile courts and to Huntingdon they went. I know of one case such as that right now. I have been trying to get the boy out. In the report which came back to me, it was stated that among the things he did was cause damage to property. He has been in there for ten years now. It does not seem like there is any chance of his getting out because the superintendent of Huntingdon Reformatory says that he has not sufficiently rehabilitated himself. One of these days I am going to put in a resolution to find out what sort of a program they have at Huntingdon to rehabilitate those youngsters. If they cannot do the job in ten years, then they will never do it and some of those kids will be there for the rest of their days.

However, Mr. President, this bill was considered by the city council of Bethlehem where I live. The mayor of the city is the chairman or the president of the League of Third Class Cities. They recommend and urged me to support this bill. I am not talking about two, three and four year old youngsters. Everybody knows the age group which this bill is driving at. I know of groups that run around and they think it is funny to pick up stones and throw them through windows and just run. There was a group of these youngsters who passed my window where I conduct my business, and it is a large window. They will run past it and just hammer on it. One of these days it is going to fall through. This sort of bill is aimed at children like that.

As I said before, if the psychological effect is going to cause parents to exercise more control over groups such as I mentioned and, as a result, deter that type from committing the acts which they do, we will be doing something for the younger people of this State. Since I can see no harm and can see some good in the passage of the bill, I am going to vote for it.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I dislike very much to take up the time of the Senate, but they speak about particular groups at which this bill is aimed. The legislation means no more or no less than what it says: "all children under the age of eighteen years."

The way I see this piece of legislation, I am afraid it is going to discourage this great American pastime, baseball. I am afraid that when the Little Leaguers go out to play ball, they will be afraid to put the steam on and hit home runs because they might knock a window out. Then their parents will be liable and they will be hauled into a squire's court. What they will do is concentrate on singles and doubles.

I think it is silly, because it is aimed at all children under the age of eighteen. Like I said, if you vote for this, you might just as well repeal the Juvenile Court Law.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PRAYER

Almighty God, Creator of all things and sustainer of life, create within us, we pray, thankful hearts. Make us aware of Thy goodness that we shall be neither unmindful of Thy gifts nor unworthy of Thy wise plan for our lives.

We beseech Thee in behalf of this renowned body of legislators. Grant them wisdom of mind to see the right and courage of heart to perform it. May they chart a noble course for this historic commonwealth so that the spirit of the past may live on today and tomorrow. Grant them that humility that sees life clearly, and that sincerity that will make them go the second mile to find the greater good.

O God, our Guide, grant a godly outlook to everyone engaged in the government of our land from the most exalted offices to the lowliest ones. Enlighten the citizens throughout the land's length and breadth. Give us a citizenship that will support its leaders in the right and strive earnestly to help them out when they are wrong.

May these days be days of honor, days of right thinking, days of honest labor and humble service, days of loving our neighbors as ourselves. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. LIPPINCOTT. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 36.

In the House of Representatives, February 26, 1957.

The acts of May 29, 1931, P. L. 280 and July 7, 1947, P. L. 1368 together compose the major legislation governing the tax sales of real estate. As such, they are of vital importance to the residents of Pennsylvania.

The above cited acts provide for periods of redemption of lands sold for taxes, in particular the redemption of lands purchased by the county commissioners at the tax sales and later sold by them. The provisions of the act of May 29, 1931, P. L. 280 are unfair to purchasers at the tax sales under that act, in that they encourage speculators to refrain from competitive bidding in order to purchase the property at ridiculously low prices from the former owners and then claim the property under the redemption rights. In this way it is difficult to secure good competitive bidders and fair prices; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study, investigate and compare the provisions of the two above cited acts relating to real estate tax sales with a view to correcting the evils concerning the redemption of lands which discourage competitive bidding under the act of May 29, 1931, P. L. 280, and report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its recommendations, with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. SCHWARTZ, SHIELDS, FLOYD and FINEMAN. RESOLUTION No. 37.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1957.

Philadelphia, according to newspaper accounts, has been the victim of the attempted creation of a chapter of the "Seaboard White Citizens' Council," an anti-integration group. It is reported that a person connected with John F. Kasper has already solicited some citizens of the City of Philadelphmia to induce them to join this council. This individual, John F. Kasper, is supposed to have originally created the council which has as its purpose he combating of the United States Supreme Court's rul-ng against segregation in the Nation's public schools and ehicles of public transportation. The reputation of John . Kasper's diabolical scheme to combat integration in the chools of the South has already attained the height of nfamy in the way of riots and unrest. The lamentable iots that occurred at the site of Clinton, Tennessee's pubic high school were due in no small part to the tireless fforts of Kasper in haranguing the citizens of an othervise peaceful community. Now, reputed henchmen of Kasper are attempting to recruit members for this vile rganization from among the citizenry of the City of Phila-elphia. While there is doubt that the good people of he City of Philadelphia will ever be duped into join-ng this organization, it is of the gravest concern to the General Assembly to assure itself and all the citizens of he Commonwealth that no group with the avowed pur-ose of undermining by violence and class hatred the aw of the land, ever establishes itself in the Commonvealth; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Represent-tives of Pennsylvania name a committee of four memers to conduct an immediate investigation into all matters ertaining to this attempt at creating a branch of the Seaboard White Citibens' Council in Philadelphia or any ther such unlawful organization; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its ndings together with recommendations for appropriate egislation at the earliest possible date before the adjournment of this session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. TOLL, GELFAND, FINEMAN and SCHWARTZ. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 38.

In the House of Representatives, February 26, 1957.

Whereas, The President of the United States addressed he nation on the problem surrounding Israel's refusal o remove her forces from the Gaza strip and the Gulf f Aqaba unless certain guarantees were provided for srael's security; and

Whereas, The President suggested that sanctions might e imposed upon Israel by the United Nations, although he use of the word sanctions was carefully avoided in he address; and

Whereas, the suggestion to punish Israel, the only true nd consistent friend of the United States in the Middle ast and the only Democracy in the dictator-dominated rea, without also imposing sanctions and like pressure gainst larger nations particularly Egypt which has re-eatedly attacked Israel and violated United Nations esolutions and directives, is unconscionable and not in he best interests of the United States or of the United ations; and

Whereas, it is contrary to fundamental American conepts of morality and fair play to have a double standard f morality and justice applied; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), that the United tates Senators from Pennsylvania oppose and protect ny effort by the United States or the United Nations to rce Israel to withdraw from the Gaza strip or the Gulf f Aqaba or to threaten or impose sanctions for its ilure to do so, without giving Israel firm guarantees of ecurity at the same time against continued aggression nd acts of war on the part of Egypt; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be furnished o the Honorable Edward Martin and the Honorable oseph S. Clark, Jr.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mrs. VARALLO and Mrs. MILLER.

RESOLUTION No. 39.

In the House of Representatives, February 25, 1957.

As the slipping years of paucity of action round out a ll decade of inadequacy and in some instances of abject action, the rapid completion of both the Independence all Park and the Independence Hall Mall should be a "must" of compelling urgency on the agenda of the current session of the United States Congress and the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

Acquisition of land by purchase or condemnation, for the creation of the Park and the Mall, could have been accomplished at a minimum of cost in the late forties when prices then prevailing were low compared with the inevitable increases of the land and building values resulting from inflation and other causes that are swelling current prices.

Additional delays in the completion of the Independence Hall Park and Independence Hall Mall or paucity of appropriations would further retard the development of the entire area of Old Philadelphia that could become a Mecca of Tourism and then slow up the influx of visitors from all over the United States, whose annual number now exceeds 1,300,000 and is expected by the National Park Service to exceed 2,000,000 by 1960; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania in the name of the people of Pennsylvania, memorialize the Congress of the United States to appropriate during its current session not less than the sum of seven and a quarter million dollars which is needed for the acquisition of the remaining land and buildings in the area designated for the Federal Independence Hall Park; and be it further

Resolved, That upon the passage of the instant Resolution, copies thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the President of the United States Senate and to each member of Pennsylvania's Congressional delegation, as well as the United States Senators from Pennsylvania, Edward Martin and Joseph S. Clark, Jr.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery county, Mr. Thomas H. W. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery county, Mr. Thomas H. W. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the House the reason for this bill, the need for it?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the present law is that any interested company or group of individuals or a municipality may have a night watchman appointed with the approval of the Court of Quarter Sessions, with the exception that in Philadelphia you may have the appointment made by, I believe, the Director of Public Safety.

Of late years, and particularly since World War II, in my county we have had a great suburban growth. Many super markets have been established. Many department stores have built suburban branches, and the need for watchmen has grown around those stores.

This bill results from the attorney for one of those big department stores saying to me what has happened is that to have watchmen appointed he has gone to the Court of Quarter Sessions and asked for the appointment of a watchman under the Night Watchman Act.

The only difficulty is that they need watchmen not only in the night time but also in the day time. Our Court has been using the Night Watchman Act to appoint these watchmen.

Since the gentleman is an attorney, he will realize that the question that arises is what are the powers of the night watchman in the daytime. Hence this bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further ask the gentleman whether it is not now possible for any individual or concern to employ a person to be designated as a watchman who can actually watch his property so long as he does not desire that person to have the powers of a constable or a police officer? Is it not now possible to have day watchmen without going into court?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that I might say that it is the desire of these companies and corporations not to have men who are employed as police officers but as peace officers. A police officer, of course, and the constable have power to serve warrants, and all that sort of thing, and the watchman does not. He simply has the power to make arrests slightly broader than an individual.

When I say slightly broader, if I recall correctly, it is only in the case of a felony that the powers are any broader. I believe that is correct.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether one of these day watchmen, if he were so appointed by a store, could arrest persons, who, for example, were picketing the store if he saw fit to do so?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe he would be within his rights at all if the picketing were proper.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman is not sure, is that correct?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. No. I feel certain that is the case. He could not just go up and arrest somebody who was lawfully picketing a store.

Mr. READINGER. Would this individual who is appointed watchman with these police powers have the right to make that determination for himself in the first instance?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I would say he would do so at his peril.

Mr. READINGER. But the watchman would have the power to make that arrest if in his opinion he should make it?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I think he would have the same power as the constable.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Might I have a word—

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman, but I have not yielded to him.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, has the floor.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, when I first looked at this bill I thought that it was quite normal to have a day watchman as well as night watchman, but the more I study it the more doubtful I am as to whether this is a good move or bad move.

I think that persons should be arrested if they are defacing property or destroying property, and so forth. It seems to me we have an ample number of policemen, constables and so forth in all municipalities; and if something unlawful is being done which requires an arrest, publicly elected or appointed officials should be called in to make those arrests. We may be creating a bad situation here if we allow any number of day watchmen to be appointed by the courts who might make very bad mistakes in arresting people in labor disputes.

It seems to me we are treading on dangerous ground here when we do this, even though it looks very innocuous. Unless the gentleman can convince me that that is not the case, or could not be the case, I am inclined to vote against this bill.

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I do not know how I can assure the gentleman, that a constable or peace officer of any sort, even of as minor a source will not abuse his power. I would like to assure the gentleman as a matter of fact that there has been no situation to my knowledge in my county whereby watchmen would be appointed to assist in labor disputes. There are plenty of other peace officers who take care of labor disputes and keep order, particularly the sheriffs.

The purpose of this bill is just what I said, to assist in these large stores. I might explain that these large stores which have come to our county are mostly located in second class townships where the police force, while it may be adequate to keep peace normally, nevertheless is insufficient for the owners of these stores to watch their proprety, at least in their opinion.

Lastly, I would like to say that the great safe-guard in this bill is that every watchman who is appointed must be appointed by the Court of Quarter Sessions and must receive the approval of a judge. I do not believe that our judges would be likely to abuse that power.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say just a word in support of this bill. The legislation has been attractive to me because in some of our rural counties we find that our political subdivisions are in need of watchmen during the day time who have some powers of arrest.

In our county, particularly with some of our new school biuldings, we have had difficulty with taking care of the depredations of some of our recalcitrant students. As a consequence under the Act of 1895 we have asked our court to appoint a watchman where the same situation exists that the watchman is using the powers given him under the act of the night time watchmen for watching during the day time to take care of these groups of students.

It is also true that we intend to take care of this problem by having the sheriff appoint a deputy, but that has not proven to be satisfactory.

I believe this has broader applications than it does just in the particular instance given by the gentleman from Montgomery.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery who sponsored the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the Members of this House the definition of occupying real estate?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I suppose there are many ways in which to occupy real estate. One is if you own it, I would think; another is it might be that you rent it or lease it in some way; or perhaps even if you merely have a license to use it you might be deemed to be an occupier of real estate.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, all I have heard said here on the floor is that you are interested in protecting schools in rural districts and chain stores built in the suburbs. I want to ask the gentleman this, would you consider as real estate a manufacturing plant or a coal mine?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I would, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Then I want to ask the gentleman one more question and that will be all. Would this open the door to bring back in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the old Coal and Iron Police system?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. Jones. I hope not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILLIAMS. The gentleman hopes not, but will it?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I might say that the features of the night watchmen's act about which the gentleman is complaining are the law now. I have done nothing to change the Act of 1895.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am reading on page 3: "Political Subdivisions Provided however that such watchmen shall not exercise the power of serving subpoenas or any civil or other process." But he has the power of a constable. Does he have the right to arrest on sight?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. As I recall the law, subject to correction from some of my brother attorneys, a private person and a police officer may arrest somebody for a misdemeanor committed in one's presence, they may arrest also for a felony committed in one's presence. I have not looked this up for a long time and my recollection is that only a police officer may arrest on suspicion and get away with it. If a private person arrests on suspicion and he is wrong, then he is guilty of false arrest. These people have the same powers of making arrests as a peace officer, which would include a constable.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am going to be compelled to vote against this bill for the simple reason that I am not satisfied with the explanation given here. I have seen things in any number of years whereby in different manners or procedures they have tried to bring back the old Coal and Iron Police system. I do not care whether you call them Coal and Iron Police or whether you call them watchmen, it is one and the same thing.

I am asking the Members of the House to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, actually it seems to me that this bill is a very small matter. It was introduced without any intention whatsoever of affecting the rights of labor.

It also occurred to me after I got back to my seat that picketing is apt to go on at night as well as in the day time, and under the present law it is perfectly possible to appoint watchmen to do what they will at night.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like a ruling from the Chair, if I am in order, as to whether there is a fatal variance between the title and Section 1 of this bill. The title is, and I quote, "An Act to authorize occupants of real estate in political subdivisions," and Section 1 is, ". . . for any number of persons owning or occupying real estate." In the title, Mr. Speaker, there is no mention of "owners," there is just the word "occupant," and I wondering whether or not that might be a fatal variance?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Jones. Perhaps he can clarify the question.

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, all I can say is that this bill was amended in Committee to take care of townships specifically, and the title was checked, I believe, with the Legislative Reference Bureau by one of the Committee members.

The SPEAKER. Does that properly answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. McCORMACK. No, it does not, Mr. Speaker. As I said, the title does not mention owners of real estate, but Section 1 particularly applies to owners or occupants. Since "owners" is not mentioned in the title, I think the title is defective and it should be checked before we vote on it.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Jones.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, has the floor and has raised a question which has not been disposed of by the Chair.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, this question which has been raised is a question which must be decided by the Members of this House, whether in their opinion the title is correct and constitutional.

Does the gentleman desire the Chair to lay the question before the House?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have it put before the House after the debate, but if it is in order now I will so do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, on the question of the constitutionality of the title, I would only like to say that I believe, if I understand the gentleman correctly, the questions he raises are equally as applicable to the Act in its original form as they are to this amendment. In other words, this Act has been on the books since 1895, with a title which the gentleman from Philadelphia claims is incorrect.

I am not prepared to argue the questions of constitutionality which might be raised other than that, but I think the mere fact of its longevity is sufficient reason to hold it is constitutional.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Montgomery, if a person or a corporation was in occupancy of an area of land comprising maybe 20 acres, or 15 acers, on which were built homes owned by that same individual or corporation, whether by the expediency of posting "No Trespassing" signs they would place their watchmen in a position to arrest any individual who set foot on their land?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I think probably they would.

Mr. LOPRESTI. You think probably they would?

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, that is the one feature I find particularly objectionable in this bill, having one time been the victim of such action.

I merely wanted to go into a certain town to see a friend, and I was met at the outskirts of the town and told it was private property, "Turn around and go back, or you will be arrested."

I do not think we should pass any laws which will permit that to happen in this Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman desire to discuss the constitutionality of the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to raise a constitutional question at this time. I just wanted to point out to the House that there might be a fatal variance, and as long as I have pointed it out I am satisfied.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence of, and welcomes to the Hall of the House Congressman Byrne of Philadelphia, a former Member of this House from Philadelphia.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, you have just heard reported from the Committee on Appropriations a deficiency appropriation bill, House Bill 478, which was read for the first time. The reason for it being read the first time is the urgency of getting this appropriation passed and placed on the Governor's desk.

Last week I wrote to John H. Ferguson, the Secretary of Administration, and asked for a statement of the lapses so far as this biennium is concerned, because in reading the various rulings in connection with passing deficiency appropriations, we were convinced that we would have to have new revenue in order to pass a deficiency appropriation or there must be some lapsing.

Mr. Fergusan has written to me so far as lapses are concerned, and states:

> "We do not intend to release specific identification of lapses until the allotment request for the last quarter of this biennium has been approved."

He further says,

> "The allotments are now in process of development. The last figures used in the Governor's budget message and also in the budget were necessarily estimates."

For the information of the House, there have been prepared lapsing bills. We have had to do it on our own. We have had to take the bull by the horns, as it were. In order to save time and to get the ball rolling, those bills today have been sent to the Senate. So that in the House we have released the deficiency bills and in the Senate are the lapsing bills. It is a job that had to be done, and constitutionally done. That is the only way we can see to move these bills.

I have another matter in connection with the Highway Department. You all heard the Governor has requested leave to come before us in a Joint Session tomorrow. I believe he is going to give us his budget message from the Highway Department.

One thing that we have noticed since the session started is that we have not received the biennial report of the Highway Department. Generally, we get it long before now. The Administrative Code requires that the Secretary of Highways deliver to the Governor on or before September 1 in an even-numbered year a report of his Department.

We understand that the Highway Department report was made and 2500 copies were printed. They were delivered to the Secretary of Highways, and the Governor and the Secretary of Highways have a copy of that report.

I do not know why it has not been given to us to date. I am not saying that administration expense has gone up or maintenance expense has gone up, but I would say that tomorrow in connection with the Governor's message on his Highway budget, it would be a tremendous help to the Members of this House if each and every one of us had on our desks a copy of the Highway Department report which was issued as of May 31, 1956, for the two-year period ending on that date.

I am publicly calling on the Secretary of Highways and the Governor's Office to put on our desks tomorrow a copy of this report which up to this time, I believe, is marked Classified.

That is all I have to say. Let us all be on hand tomorrow for this important Joint Session of great interest to us all.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman stated that he wrote to Mr. Ferguson asking for a statement of the expected lapses. Is that what I understood the gentleman to say?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. I believe the Governor's Budget Message spoke about estimated lapses of $29 million for the present biennium. Is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask what the total amount is of the two appropriation bills which were reported out today?

Mr. JOHNSON. The two bills that have come out today total—the Occupational Disease Deficiency Bill is $1.1 million, and the deficiency for the Department of Public Assistance is approximately $8 million.

Mr. READINGER. A total of approximately $9 million?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe that is correct.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether it has not been customary over the years to pass various deficiency appropriation bills during the regular session where such deficiencies were anticipated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I understand, Mr. Speaker, that deficiency appropriation bills were always passed on the assurance that there were sufficient lapses in order to take care of the deficiencies.

Mr. READINGER. On whose assurance?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe when we were in power we had the assurances from the Governor's office, as I recall.

Mr. READINGER. But does not the gentleman consider the Budget Message of the Governor indicating possible lapses of $29 million as assurance that there would be at least $9 million in lapsed funds?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, we do not. In view of the hazy nature of the letter I have received from the Secretary of Administration, we have felt that we must go ahead and lapse appropriations in order to justify releasing these deficiency appropriation bills to the floor.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether it would be too much trouble for him in the future when requesting such information from the Budget office, or any other office, to send me a copy of the request in order that I might see that he receives the information he has a right to expect?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would not say that request would be unreasonable. I would say it is probably a reasonable request.

Mr. READINGER. I do now request the gentleman to send me copies of such letters, and perhaps I can assist him in obtaining this information so that he need not bring the matter to the floor of the House in this manner. But I repeat, I believe the gentlemtn from McKean can well assume that the administration knows the law also and that if the law—as it probably does—requires a certain amount of lapsed funds in order to make legal the signing of an appropriation bill for a deficiency, I assume that the Governor's office would follow the law and would not sign appropriation bills without a reasonable expectancy of lapsed funds to the extent necessary to recover the deficiencies. So that whether the gentleman has these facts now or whether he does not have them now, I see no reason for hesitating to pass these deficiency appropriation bills to place the departments in a position where they can continue to function for the rest of the biennium without having any specific data at the moment on the amount of lapsed funds.

If the Budget office or the Governor's office has not estimated these lapses in the amount of approximately $29 million, I would then agree with the gentleman that we should hesitate before we pass bills which perhaps might be illegal; but in view of the facts as they exist at the moment, I think we have before us a critical appraisal of the administration for doing exactly the same thing that prior administrations have been doing for many, many years.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader, Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the Majority Leader to say that the Office of Administration had refused to comply with a request for information which he has reason to believe it has in its possession?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that I have a letter in my possession, and I read the last paragraph of it, in connection with lapses. My letter did request specific information as to specific lapses which would aid the Appropriations Committee in releasing these deficiency appropriation bills to the floor. I would say that the letter that I have here is in the nature of a general denial of the information.

Here is another thing. The custom is apparently that in the last quarter of the biennium they determine what the lapses are.

Would you say the last quarter is the last three months or a quarter of the biennium would be the last six months? Of course, it is a question of interpretation as to what would be the last quarter of a two-year period. Even if it is the last three-months period, I would say that on February 26, 1957, when I received this letter that information certainly should have been available.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, another question. The Majority Leader very well understands, does he not, that he has Committees which enjoy the power of subpoena in the event that any administrative officer declines to give either that Committee or the Majority Leader information which there is reason to believe he has?

What I am saying is, if there is information, the Majority Leader does not have to write for it. He can subpoena it through his proper committees.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, my answer to that is, one always does the courteous thing of writing a letter and requesting information, which with the expensive accounting system that has been installed, should be readily, easily and quickly available.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, might I very briefly reply to the Majority Leader and say that the kindly and courteous way, if he wants to be so kindly and courteous, would be to have taken the matter up with the Minority Leader, who I have no doubt, could furnish him with the information. Then it would not have been necessary to bring this matter out on the floor, which is a very good thing, I presume, from a political point of view, but I do not believe he did it out of the kindness of his heart.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I will not say that I have been around here a long time, but it has been quite long, and I do not ever recall when I was Floor Leader, nor do I recall when I have been pretty closely connected with other Floor Leaders, that any copies of any letter to the Chief Executive or from any Committee Chairman were ever delivered to the Majority Leader's office.

I said in reply to the Minority Leader if both sides had been doing that in the past, it probably would be the courteous thing to do, but I say it has not been the custom.

I, therefore, do not like the innuendo that I have taken any advantage of the Minority Leader for he is the last person in the world of whom I would ever take advantage. I consider him one of my very best friends.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the Majority Leader wholly misunderstands my kindly intent in this matter.

I simply want to remind him again that he has Committees endowed with the power of subpoena and he has it within this range of his power to bring into his possession, and into the possession of this House, any financial facts which the agents of this administration have in their keeping.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I am speaking today on Senate Bill No. 11, which creates an Atomic Energy Co-ordinator for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This bill was co-sponsored by Senator Dent, Senator Ruth, Senator Yosko, Senator Seyler, Senator Weiner, Senator Donolow, Senator Stiefel, Senator Mallery, Senator Wade, Senator Pechan, Senator Stevenson, Senator Camiel and myself, on January 7 of this year.

This bill was reported, as committed, on January 22, passed first reading and was recommitted to the Committee on State Government on February 4, on a motion by Senator Fleming, of Allegheny County.

Mr. President, I have here today several news items which I believe will be of interest to the Membership of the Senate, both of which appeared in the Pit'sburgh Press as of last Thursday. The first one reads as follows:

There was an announcement that Pennsylvania State University received an atomic fund grant amounting to $205,000 for the purpose of expanding the school's atomic research reactor. The grant will be used to provide auxiliaries, including a laboratory capable of handling uranium and a second set of fuel elements for the use of the reactor. The reactor itself is what they call a swimming pool type and originally was built and paid for by the University at a cost of over $1,000,000.

The Atomic Energy Commission grant is the first Federal money to go into The Pennsylvania State University. For your further information, the Pennsylvania State University and the University of North Carolina are the only universities in the Nation with atomic research reactors already in operation.

There is also another news item which appeared in the Pittsburgh Press, as of last Friday, whereby a certain Pittsburgher hits industry itself upon atomic energy lag, and I quote:

"American industry is dragging its feet on atomic energy development, a Pittsburgh scientist testified yesterday before a Joint Congressional Committee.

"This lag is due, said R. A. Brightsen, president of Nuclear Science and Engineering Corp., to two chief factors:

"1. Lack of understanding as to what uses can be made of the atom in private industry.

"2. Excessive development costs, which as of now cannot be justified from a single corporation's point of view.

"'We should like to suggest that the Atomic Energy Commission consider an industrial applications program' Mr. Brightsen said.

"He suggested the AEC should bear part of the cost of the development programs suggested by industries until they could be put on a paying basis.

"Among possible industrial uses of the atom not now being made, he suggested:

"1. Sterilization of foods and medicines.

"2. Quality control.

"3. Improvement of automatic machines.

"He also urged salvage of valuable materials from radio-active wastes, new studies on what parts of such wastes are dangerous and what antidotes can be found."

Those of you who might have read the Evening News as of yesterday will note that on page 6 there is a complete analysis of the legislation which was sponsored by the Senators that I named; an analysis going into detail as to the potential possibilities of atomic energy for civilian use, especially the advantages which Pennsylvania agriculture, itself, could receive from this particular source.

Mr. President, I might also add that in my opinion very few people fully realize and appreciate the magnitude and the possibilities of civilian use of atomic energy. In my opinion, I believe that this is the one virgin field that could provide full employment for the citizenry of our Commonwealth.

I hope the Membership realizes, too, that even if this bill were reported out today, it would be at least two years before the co-ordinator would be in a position to make definite recommendations to the Legislature. We should have this bill reported out or hold a public hearing and secure the sentiments of those who might be interested.

I know for a fact that industry in general and the people as a whole in the State of Pennsylvania are in favor of the utilization of atomic energy for peacetime purposes. I feel that we should act promptly, that we should pass legislation, have a co-ordinator appointed and provide the co-ordinator with sufficient appropriations to fulfill completely the duties and responsibilities of this position.

I might also add, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that I talked to Senator Fleming, the Chairman of the Committee on State Government, and he advised me that he plans, within the next several weeks, to hold a hearing on this particular bill in order to have the sentiment of those who might be interested. I hope that will be possible and I hope that we do something, because if we let this lag and we do pass the bill without an appropriation, we are not going to accomplish too much.

I wish to repeat and I want to emphasize that I believe if we pass the bill at this Session, it will be at least two years before we can have full knowledge as to just what can be done. I believe it will entail the amendment of our labor laws, our health laws and probably our highway laws.

I feel this is good legislation; we must not lag behind. There are seven or eight other States which have this legislation on their statute books. Pennsylvania is a great industrial State, and we should do everything we can to keep us in the forefront.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

SENATE BILL No. 216 CALLED UP

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 3 of today's Second Reading Calendar, Senate Bill No. 216 (Pink).

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 216

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 216, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" empowering the chairman of the Board of Finance and Revenue to appoint a secretary and making certain rules and regulations.

passed second reading today.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I object to reconsidering the vote by which this bill passed second reading and ask my colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, it so happened that we had amendments which we proposed to offer on this bill. We have always been extended that courtesy and we have extended that courtesy to the Majority side. We have never objected to the reconsideration of a vote, not to my knowledge. I think it is very unfair. I think it is arbitrary and it does not show any spirit of cooperation whatsoever.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, Senator Lane is arguing in his usual style. He knows that if we do not reconsider the vote it will be on tomorrow's third reading calendar. If he has amendments to present to it at that time, I will have no objection. I have never objected to anyone's right to offer amendments to a bill when it appears on third reading.

Therefore, Mr. President, if Senator Lane has some amendments which he thinks are important to this bill, he will be given an opportunity to present them tomorrow when the bill appears on the third reading calendar.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. I would like for you to advise us as to your reasoning in putting off until tomorrow what we can do today. Why can we not offer amendments today? We have the time and we may as well fight it out here and now. Tomorrow, everyone will want to go home and we will not have a full house. There is nothing wrong with offering amendments. It is only five minutes of three.

Mr. MAHANY. I understood that Senator Dent has a speech to make which will take a couple of hours. I was anticipating that, and I figured that we had completed the work on the calendar today and I did not want to go over and rehash that portion of our work.

Mr. LANE. We want to do it now anyway, and get it over with. You have the votes over there, so I cannot understand what you are worrying about.

Mr. MAHANY. Besides that, Senator Lane, I am informed by the desk that the calendar has been marked up officially now and it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to go over the target again as far as the desk is concerned.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, may I suggest to the desk that it start its erasers going. Unless you erase and correct it, we cannot go ahead with this. There is nothing wrong with offering these amendments today. That is the reason I am asking for a reconsideration of the vote.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I suggest that you put the motion and record me as voting "no."

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am happy to be informed of the arbitrary manner of the Majority Leader. I want him to remember that it is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, speaking apropos to the motion, the reason for making the motion is very important. It is a question of basic principles. It is one which should be aired before the people and it ought to be aired before the entire Membership of this Senate. If we allow this to go until tomorrow, it means that a great number of the Senators will either be home or on their way home. They, therefore, will not understand just exactly what is happening in Senate Bill No. 216. I think all of us should recognize something which, by its very action, brands each and everyone of us for what we are and not what we appear to be.

This action today, in voting for this legislation without giving us an opportunity to present—and I must apologize to the Senate. Because of the many activities over around this desk, I was unable to get to my feet before the gavel rang down on the passage of this bill on second reading. However, Mr. President, let me just give you the reason for this motion and the seriousness of voting this down.

We sometimes wonder why people have a contempt and, in many instances, an utter disregard for the welfare or the reputations of men who assume the position of leadership in politics or even who participate in it. This is another illustration of the kind of politics that led, in my opinion, to the defeat of the Republican Party in 1954. There were the same people living in Pennsylvania in 1954 as there were in 1950 and all through the years. Something happened, however, to the Republican Party which made the people discouraged with Republican leadership.

I say to you Republican Members that this is not a criticism of Republicans as such, because the only thing I have against them is that there are too darn many of them. I respect them for their opinions, their beliefs and their principles. Nevertheless there is nothing in the Republican Party's history that is as low as the attempt which is being made in this particular bill under a flimsy excuse of expediting the returns to the farmers of their claims for gasoline refunds.

You are passing in this Senate the type of legislation that every man on the Republican side stood up and argued against and condemned to the high heavens during the last two years of the Earle Administration. I want to tell you that when we, the Democrats, stood here as a solid group and voted for the legislation that you rightfully condemned at that time, we were writing the death knell of the Democratic Party in the next election.

I say to you that insignificant as this bill appears to be, there is a principle involved that goes beyond the mere content of the act itself.

What does this bill do, Mr. President? Some of you say it is a simple, little, innocent piece of legislation. Let us see what it is.

For about twelve years, the Democratic Party had the fiscal officers in this Commonwealth and the Republican Party had the administrative offices, the Chief Executive. By this combination of events, the State Board of Finance and Revenue was made up of a majority of Republicans and a minority of Democrats; two Democratic fiscal officers and three administrative officers under the Governor. Now during all these years that the Democrats were in the fiscal offices, no murmur was made; no protest was made on the Republican side that we had to shift the makeup of the Board in order to gain control. We worked along in the minority; we cooperated where we could and we functioned in the spirit of American political fair play.

We were elected in the minority position and, therefore, had no right to any other position on the Board. Lo and behold, what happened? For the first time in approximately twenty years the Democrats elected a Governor. Now the makeup of this Board is two Republican fiscal officers and three appointments from the executive staff of the Governor. So, for the first time in twenty years, the Board has become Democratic controlled.

Let us see what is behind this simple little piece of legislation. What are they doing? They are now taking away from the Board the right to promulgate rules and to name the employees. They are going to give to the chairman, who automatically is the State Treasurer, the sole right to name a secretary and any and all employees, and to promulgate and institute rules and regulations which must be in effect and can only be taken out by a majority of the Board after going into effect.

What does this do? I will show you what it does. There are seventeen employees of this department and the Democrats, working in their usual manner, have kept eleven Republicans on out of the seventeen. Probably, if we were so partisan in our politics, Mr. President, we would co-sponsor the bill because there is a possible chance that you fellows might fire some Republicans.

However, here is the key to the whole situation and I make this charge publicly and for the record. It is not the position of six jobs which is effective in this thing. Let us see what it is.

A man from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania is the counsel and a man from Wilkes-Barre is the counsel. These two men are Democrats. What does this board do? What is so important that they are changing the rules of the game in the middle of the inning to get control of a board. Now why? Because this board sets the amount of money in taxation which corporations pay when they appeal before the board on an assessment. Who is so interested in the money that is paid into the Commonwealth by certain corporations that they will drive through this Senate this ripper legislation, completely denying the processes of democratic government? Under democratic government, you do not change the rules in the middle of the game. The only reason they are doing it is so that they can again have the setup where they control the amounts paid by corporate net taxes in this Commonwealth by certain corporations. I make that charge because I know it to be true, because you have eleven of the seventeen employees.

The flimsy excuse which they are giving to the public is this. They are going to say that it is because there is such a backlog of claims by the farmers for refunds that turning the complete management over to the State Treasurer is going to cure this thing.

Mr. President, let me tell you the fallacy of that argument. The Federal Government gives one hundred per cent refunds; the State gives one hundred per cent refunds. Let us see what happens. You, as a farmer, make a claim for a refund to the Federal Government. They immediately process it and send you your check. Then they post audit your claim. What has happened in Pennsylvania? The two fiscal officers of the board, particularly Senator Heyburn, refuse to allow the claims to be paid unless there is a preaudit of the claim. Under a preaudit system, the log jam is created before payment to the farmer, whereas under a post audit system, the log jam is created after payment to the farmer.

All you need to do to answer the criticism of nonpayment to the farmers is to have your own member of this board change his position and allow the board to pay under a post audit system.

We know that we are not going to get anywhere. I am going to tell all of you men on the other side why you are acting in a foolish manner. I do not care about these employees, Mr. President. There is not one of these employees from Westmoreland County. Therefore, political patronage cannot be my motive for being on my feet. I do not know whether anybody from Westmoreland could qualify under these conditions. However, I do know this. This system was good enough while you were in control of the Board of Finance and Revenue, but it is no longer any good because for the first time in twenty years the Democrats have control. We tried that on the floor in 1937 and we ripped out more people than you could count by staying up late at night and in 1938, the people just gave us the same kind of treatment. They ripped us out lock, stock and barrel. I will say to you that if you pursue this kind of policy, this kind of legislation, you will get the same dose two years from now as we got twenty years ago.

I want to also say this to you. I do not hesitate to tell you that you can pass it; I know you have the votes. I know that your Caucus does not care about it being right or wrong; they are going to vote for it. I am going to march over to the Governor and I am going to lay before him a copy of my remarks today. Knowing him to be a fair-minded person, I am sure that he will see behind the skulduggery and chicanery that is being practiced in this bill, Senate Bill No. 216. I expect that the Governor, after all of your fuss and after all of your motions to rip these people out, will veto the bill.

Therefore, in order to save both the Commonwealth money and yourselves some political embarrassment and prestige, why not let us amend the bill at this time and then we will let the Governor sign it? There is a reform which should be made in the legislation.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I would suggest to Senator Dent that when he goes over there with a copy of his remarks to the Governor's Office, he also tell the Governor that he was out of order about ninety-nine and forty-four one hundredths per cent of the time.

Mr. President, I know that Senator Dent has been around here long enough and is smart enough to know when he is talking out of order, and I feel that when he was making all those remarks he knew that he was out of order and I refused to get up here and call a point of order on him.

Mr. DENT. I will do the same for you right now.

Mr. MAHANY. There is only one question before us, and that is on the motion as to whether we are to reconsider this bill that we passed on second reading.

I will say this to Senator Dent; that if tomorrow he finds a number of Senators absent whom he would like to have vote on these amendments, I will be happy to pass the bill over in order and we will have it before us next Monday when we come back to act on the third reading calendar. At that time, if he has some amendments which he feels would make a good bill out of this, I will have no objection whatsoever to his offering them at that time.

Therefore, I am not going to debate the bill with him now. If I do so, I would be out of order. I only hope that the newspapers will hold their fire on all this until we have an equal opportunity to answer the Senator and then we will be glad to go into the merits of the bill with him, and also, if there is anything wrong or erroneous contained in his remarks, I will be prepared to answer.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

RECESS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I request a ten-minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten-minute recess.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, it is about time that we consider the fact that when Senator Mahany gets up each time at the beginning of the Session and moves that the minutes be approved, we should bear in mind that the Legislative Journal which reflects those minutes is brimfull of mistakes simply because of the negligence of the printer.

I think it is the duty of the printer, who collects millions upon millions from the Commonwealth for printing, to make a careful examination of all the printed matter before it is released. If you read the Legislative Journal, you would be shocked by the type of mistakes, transpositions and whatnot. So, the time has arrived when I think we should take care of it.

I personally, as I pointed out last week, became a victim of the printer's devil. He took my speech on Lincoln's Birthday and he simply killed it by intermingling lines. I remember years ago I perused a speech delivered by Senator McCreesh, and it was simply a thing that baffled my imagination. I could never see how people can distort—and I am referring to the printer—a speech delivered by a Member of the Senate.

Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that I am fully justified, to preserve my self-respect, to ask that my speech be reprinted again even if the printer should not be paid for it because after a person spends time, burns his midnight oil, edits and re-edits his speech, it is ridiculous to see it killed by the printer's devil. Therefore, I ask your leave, Mr. President, to have my speech on Abraham Lincoln, delivered on February 12, reprinted, as the lawyers say, nuc pro tunc.

ADDRESS BY SENATOR ISRAEL STIEFEL TO BE REPRINTED IN LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that my speech on Abraham Lincoln be reprinted without any mistakes this time. I have it ready now.

The PRESIDENT. Did the Chair understand the gentleman to say that he wanted it printed in the Journal?

Mr. STIEFEL. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. SILVERT. I second the motion, Mr. President.

The motion was agreed to.

"LINCOLN, PENNSYLVANIA AND GETTYSBURG"

Address Delivered by Honorable Israel Stiefel, Fifth Senatorial District, In the Senate of the General Assembly, February 12, 1957.

Mr. STIEFEL. As the Centennial of the Civil War is almost around the corner, elaborate preparations are now being made by the National Government for the adequate celebration of the Preservation of the Union. I hope that Pennsylvania will take its proper place in the very vanguard of the Centennial Celebration as it was in Pennsylvania that the Union victory was finally forged. I envision a Commission created during the current Session of our General Assembly which will be entrusted with the sacred task of making elaborate preparations for the Centennial Celebration of the Union Victory as well as the Centennial of the Battle of Gettysburg. I am hopefully dreaming of a multi-volume bookshelf of imposing works covering all phases of Pennsylvania's participation in the Civil War and the role of the Keystone State played as the perennial Arsenal of America and Democracy.

Let us beware of thinking that it is too early to start now on the blue print of the Celebration as well as the marshaling of the massive historical materials covering the multi-faceted contributions of Pennsylvania to the victory of the Union.

It is now becoming more and more clear that the great Gray Fox of the Confederacy, General Robert E. Lee, undertook the invasion of Pennsylvania for the sole purpose of destroying the arsenal of the Union and thus cutting the jugular vein of the North. Lee fully realized that by occupying Pennsylvania he may turn the looming defeat of the Confederacy into a victory for the South. At the time the Battle of Gettysburg was fought the doom of Vicksburg was a matter of hours and with the Father of Waters, to use Lincoln's expression, "rolling unvexed to the sea," the Confederacy now disjointed and pulverized, had to venture on a gamble and thus Pennsylvania became the arena of the Titanic combat.

The fact that the decisive battle of the war was fought at Gettysburg where the terrain eventually contributed to the defeat of the Confederate Army, was an accident solely preciptated by a unit of Confederate soldiers who attempted to reconnoiter Gettysburg and take possession of a shoe store, thereby becoming emmeshed in a preliminary skirmish with an advanced-post of the Union Army. If the Confederate Commanders had by-passed Gettysburg, another locality of Pennsylvania would have become the scene of the clash. Thus, the choice of Gettysburg as a battlefield was an accident which eventually brought about the fall of the Confederacy.

During the trying years of the war to preserve the American Union, President Abraham Lincoln found in the people of Pennsylvania a source of support and encouragement. Pennsylvania, where the Declaration of Indepenence and the Constitution were written, did not fail the Nation in the fateful years when it was being tested in the fires of the Civil War. Lincoln took pride in saying that his ancestors had come from Pennsylvania, and his friendly feeling toward our State was reciprocated by the admiration and trust of Pennsylvanians.

To tell the story of Pennsylvania's support of Abraham Lincoln in his efforts to preserve the Union would require virtually a complete history of the Civil War. Every man who went out from Pennsylvania firesides to fight and die for the Union cause, every cannon, rifle, and implement of war manufactured in the great industrial plants of Pennsylvania, every dollar subscribed by Pennsylvania citizens toward the war effort, would be part of that story. Greatest of all, perhaps, was the fact that Lincoln felt he could depend on Pennsylvania.

On the eve of the conflict, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania passed the resolutions of January 24, 1861, calling upon the Federal government to maintain its authority and pledging "the faith and power of Pennsylvania . . . to the support of such measures, in any manner and to any extent that may be required of her by the constituted authorities of the United States." On April 18, after the attack on Fort Sumter had begun the war, the General Assembly by an unanimous vote pledged "the faith, credit, and resources of the State, in both men and money," in defense of the Union.

President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers on April 15. Pennsylvania's quota was fourteen regiments, but the popular response in the Commonwealth was so enthusiastic that there were enough men to fill twenty-five regiments. Local militia companies immediately offered to aid the Federal Government, and five of these reached Washington on April 18, to defend the capital. These companies, from Reading, Pottsville, Lewistown, and Allentown, are known as the "First Defenders."

During the War, Pennsylvania contributed 362,284 men for the Union Army and more than 14,000 men to the Navy, in addition to marines and to militia serving when the State was invaded. To train the Pennsylvania recruits, Camp Curtin was established on the outskirts of Harrisburg, and after the training of the original volunteers, the Federal Government took it over for the rest of the war. Three hundred thousand Union soldiers passed through Camp Curtin while the war continued, and it was also a supply depot, a hospital, and a prisoner detention camp. There were other camps at Easton, West Chester, Philadelphia, Chambersburg, and Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania supplied not only men, but leaders. Some of the outstanding officers of the Civil War were Pennsylvanians, including McClellan, Meade, Reynolds, Hancock, and McClure—in all, two commanders-in-chief, twelve major-generals, and forty-eight brigadier-generals. To naval leadership, the State gave Admiral David Porter, who opened the Mississippi, and three Rear-Admirals, Stewart, Dahlgren, and Godon.

Winning the war, however, was not merely a matter of military and naval engagements; it involved the problems of production, transportation, and civilian morale and leadership. Pennsylvania's contributions in these fields were of great significance. Her industrial development, engineering enterprise, and natural resources largely helped to increase the relative strength and importance of the North before the war, and to provide better transportation facilities. Now the full industrial power of the State was devoted to the Union cause, and its recently developed railroad system, its great iron and steel industry, and its agricultural wealth were major factors in the national war effort. The famous Cramp shipyards of Philadelphia, and other shipbuilders, contributed to naval strength and the marine supply system. At Pittsburgh the Fort Pitt foundry turned out a vast supply of cannon, siege mortars, and other ordnance; while in Philadelphia two firms manufactured cannon, rifles, pistols, swords, and other army supplies. Six large ironworks were established in Pittsburgh in one year, and production increased similarly throughout the State.

Civilian leadership was also provided by Pennsylvania. Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin from the state level made a marked impression on the national scene with his energetic direction of Pennsylvania's contribution of its men and resources to the national draft measures. In September, 1862, he was host at the Altoona conference of governors of the northern states, which he had helped to arrange. This conference strengthened the President's hands at a critical time by pledging support to his policies and administration of the war effort.

Throughout the war, Lincoln's War Department was managed by Pennsylvanians, first by Simon Cameron and then by Edwin A. Stanton as Secretary of War. Thomas A. Scott as Assistant Secretary of War was in charge of telegraph and railway communication services, and Frank Thomson handled troop transport. In Congress, Galusha A. Grow served as Speaker from 1861 to 1863, and Thaddeus Stevens was a prominent figure. Jay Cooke, the Philadelphia financier, placed most of the Federal Government's loans, and has been termed the "Financier of the Civil War" for his part in financing the struggle.

Shortly before he took office, Lincoln had made a tour of the loyal states, to reassure the people, and to study their feeling and reactions to the mounting crisis. He spoke in Pittsburgh on February 15, 1861, where he pointed out the artificial nature of this crisis, since there was nothing in his intentions which would justify the Southern states in seceding. From Pittsburgh, Lincoln went to Cleveland, thence through New York and New Jersey, reentering Pennsylvania on February 21, at Philadelphia. On Washington's Birthday, he sopke in Independence Hall, and gave new meaning to the Declaration of Independence by saying that it "gave promise that in due time the weights would be lifted from the shoulders of all men," and that it "gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but to all the world, for all future time."

The same day he went on to Harrisburg, where Governor Curtin pledged the support of Pennsylvania to the defense of the Union. In his reply, Lincoln stressed his faith in the people, "I feel that, under God, in the strength of the arms and the wisdoms of the heads of these masses, after all, must be my support."

Twice during the war, Abraham Lincoln came back to Pennsylvania to speak and to draw upon the rich store of faith and confidence in the hearts of her citizens, first on the memorable occasion at Gettysburg on November 19, 1863, and again on June 14, 1864, at Philadelphia, where he spoke at a Sanitary Fair, held by the prototype of the modern Red Cross. On the later occasion he called attention to the importance of voluntary organiaztions in the care of the sick and wounded, and said that they proved "The national spirit of patriotism is even firmer and stronger than at the commencement of the war."

The end of the war was not far off; Appomattox was only ten months away. But the national celebration of victory changed to mourning when Lincoln fell victim to an assassin's bullet. Abraham Lincoln in death passed through Pennsylvania for the last time. Later in April, 1865, the funeral train carrying his body went through Philadelphia, Harrisburg, and way stations on the last journey home to Springfield, Illinois. On April 22, Lincoln's body lay in state at Independence Hall, while more than 85,000 people filed past to pay their last respects. The people of Pennsylvania mourned him then as sincerely as they had welcomed him on other occasions.

Mementos of Lincoln are numerous in Pennsylvania, from the Lincoln country of Berks County whence his ancestors came, to Gettysburg where he delivered his immortal address. Even Independence Hall, Pennsylvania's first State House and the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence and the Federal Constitution, takes on added significance from the fact that Abraham Lincoln spoke there on the eve of assuming the Presidency, and that he lay there in state as a martyr to the Union which had been created within those walls.

No figure among the dramatis personae of our history has such a cosmopolitan appeal as the Martyr Saint of America, Abraham Lincoln, whom Count Leo Tolstoy called "Christ in Miniature." From the frozen tundras of the Polar Regions to the tropical jungles all over the world one can find pictures of Lincoln in rich palaces and humble huts. This irresistible appeal can be to a certain degree attributable to Lincoln's homespun phraseology that is an inexhaustible mint of philosophical values that have a universal appeal. Lincoln's aphorisms and metaphors are classics since they can withstand the test of time. And even today in our Era of the Perplexed Man one can find solace in Lincoln's phrase-coinage. To illustrate, here is a Lincoln-gem that is verdent-fresh like in the day it came from the lips of the Emancipator:

> "My countrymen, if you have been taught doctrines conflicting with the great landmarks of the Declaration of Independence; if you have listened to suggestions which would take away from its grandeur and mutilate the fair symmetry of its proportions; if you have been inclined to believe that all men are not created equal in those inalienable rights enumerated by our charter of liberty, let me entreat you to come back."

Each year the literature dealing with Lincoln is enriched by hundreds of volumes covering in extenso each facet of his rich personality. Among these books a sizeable portion deals with Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and the background of the Dedication of the Cemetery on November 19, 1863.

The immediate reaction to Lincoln's Gettysburg Address was that of depreciation far outweighing praise.

When Lincoln concluded there was applause but it was perfunctory. (Carl Sandburg, II, 469). For two hours the crowd had listened to Edward Everett, standing on its feet. This was not a demonstrative or even an appreciative audience. Moreover, the theme of the day did not invite applause. A cemetery was not the place for it. And Lincoln did not pause to receive it.

Those on the platform were decidedly unimpressed. When Lincoln had concluded, Seward asked Everett what he thought of the address. Everett: "It is not what I expected of him. I am disappointed." He then asked for Seward's opinion. Seward: "He has made a failure and I am sorry for it. His speech was not equal to him." Seward then queried Ward Hill Lamon. Lamon: "I am sorry to say that it does not impress me as one of his great speeches." (Barton, Life of Abraham Lincoln, II, 216.)

Lincoln, himself, shared this believe. Upon concluding, he said: "Lamon, that speech won't scour. It is a flat failure and the people are disappointed." (The reference to the speech not "scouring" was to his farming days. When a field was plowed, and the earth was so wet that it clung to the blade, it was said that it "didn't scour.) (Barton, II, 216). On returning to Washington, Lincoln said to Lamon: "I tell you, Hill, that speech fell on the audience like a wet blanket. I am distressed about it. I ought to have prepared it with more care." (Barton, II, 217).

The Gettysburg Address was Lincoln's first public, formal, open-air speech since his initial Inaugural Address two and a half years before. The fact has some bearing on its reception. (Barton, II, 219; Diary of George Templeton Strong, III, 204-205).

As for the public, the first reaction was to the contrast between Lincoln's great height—six feet four inches—and his thin, high-pitched voice. (Barton, II, 219; Diary of George Templeton Strong, III, 204-205).

For another thing Lincoln was addressing a Northern audience—one which had forgotten that he was a Southerner, born in Kentucky. Hence it was surprising to hear his Southern intonations and oddities of expression. For instance, he pronounced "to" as "Toe"; (Barton, II, 219; Diary of George Templeton Strong, III, 204-205), four score as "fo sco"; Mr. Chairman, as "Mr. Cheerman."

The final impression was one of astonishment at the sudden conclusion of the address. He seemed to have stopped as soon as he had begun. No one expected him to end when he did. All were prepared for much more then they hears. (Barton, II, 219; Diary of George Templeton Strong, III, 204-205).

The next day, Everett wrote Lincoln the following: "I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion in two hours, as you did in two minutes."

Sandburg says this was a sincere opinion. But Barton says it only proves that Everett knew how to pay a gracious compliment, and does not prove that he believed Lincoln had really made a great speech. (Barton, II, 220; Sandburg, II, 475).

The London Times: "The ceremony was rendered ludicrous by some of the sallies of that Poor President Lincoln. * * * Anything more dull and commonplace, it would not be easy to produce." (Sandburg, II, 474)

The Patriot & Union, of Harrisburg, Pa.: "The President succeeded on this occasion because he acted without sense and without constraint, in a panorama that was gotten up more for the benefit of his party than for the glory of the nation and the honor of the dead. * * * We pass over the silly remarks of the President; for the credit of the nation we are willing that the veil of oblivion shall be dropped over them and that they shall no more be repeated or thought of." (Sandburg, II, 472).

The Chicago Times: "The cheek of every American must tingle with shame as he reads the silly, flat and dish-watery utterance of the man who has to be pointed out to intelligent foreigners as the President of the United States." (Sandburg, II, 472).

The New York Tribune: "The dedicatory remarks were then delivered by the President." (Sandburg, II, 472).

How modern these reactions of a partisan press seem! But through the murk of abuse that every President from Washington on has had to endure in the name of democracy, there shone some rays of light.

The first to appreciate the Gettysburg Address, was the Springfield Republican, of Massachusetts. The day after the dedication it said: "Surpassingly fine as Mr. Everett's oration was in the Gettysburg consecration, the rhetorical honors of the occasion were won by President Lincoln. His little speech is a perfect gem; deep in feeling, compact in thought and expression, and tasteful and elegant in every word and comma. Then it has the merit of unexpectedness in its verbal perfection and beauty. * * * Turn back and read it over, it will repay study as a model speech." (Sandburg, II, 474; Barton, II, 222).

Then came the Cincinnati Gazette: "That this was the right thing in the right place, and a perfect thing in every respect, was the universal encomium. (Sandburg, II, 474; Barton II, 222).

And the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Thousands who would not read the elaborate oration of Mr. Everett, will read the President's few words and not many will do it without moistening of the eye and a swelling of the heart." (Sandburg, II, 474; Barton, II, 222).

The Providence Journal: "We know not where to look for a more admirable speech than the brief one which the president made at the close of Mr. Everett's oration. * * * But, could the most elaborate and splendid oration be more beautiful, more touching, more inspiring, than those thrilling words of the President? They had in our humble judgment the charm and power of the very highest eloquence." (Sandburg, II, 474; Barton, II, 222).

The Detroit Advertiser & Tribune: "Mr. Everett nobly told the story of the battle, but he who wants to take in the very spirit of the day, catch the unstudied pathos that animates a sincere but simple-minded man, will turn from the stately periods of the professed orator to the brief speech of the President." (Sandburg, II, 474; Barton, II, 222).

The laudatory notices in the press were far outnumbered by those which were openly hostile and critical, and those which, like the N. Y. Tribune, gave but cursory and casual mention of the fact that Lincoln had made yet another speech.

The only newspaper in the entire country to mak Lincoln's address the feature of its Gettysburg report was the Ohio State Journal. (Ohio State Journal, Nov. 23, 1863).

In many papers, Lincoln's address was used as a "shirt-tail" to Everett's oration. (Harper, Lincoln and the Press, 287). After taking up so much space to print the latter, they barely had room for the former. Everett's was the speech that was featured in the press, as a whole. Yet, by a strange quirk of fate, Lincoln's address got far more circulation than Everett's.

Thus in the daily newspapers Everett's oration was given the main prominence. But in the country weeklies Lincoln's address was featured. Primarily, this was due to the fact that these periodicals could neither afford to print such a lengthy speech as Everett's, nor did they have the necessary space available. Since the weeklies, in the aggregate, had far more circulation than the dailies, the result was that Lincoln's address reached and was read by vastly more people than Everett's. (Harper, Lincoln and the Press, 287).

There have been a number of adverse comments made upon the language of the Gettysburg Address by critics. For example:

The phrase "dedicated to the proposition that" is not only poor English, but it has no place in oratory.

The word "that" is used twelve times—six times in the final sentence.

The last sentence is too long, too involved. When one has reached its end, one has forgotten what it started with. (Barton, II, 223-224).

These are the words of the captious. The English-speaking world has rejected their conclusion.

A striking feature of the address is the number of short words it contains. Analysis reveals that of its 266 words there are 190 of one syllable. 56 are of two syllables. Only the remaining 20 have more than two syllables. (Sandburg, IV, 191). This is no minor accomplishment. Those who think otherwise, ought to try their own hands at the task. It will be found extremely difficult. In Lincoln's case the words that came from his mind were short and simple, for that was the nature of the man and the manner of his thought.

Regarded as literature the Gettysburg Address has received high praise as a gem of the English language. It is easy to call as witnesses to this effect American authorities of distinction. However, retributive justice demands that we turn elsewhere—to the land where the London Times in 1863 proclaimed its verdict on the Address in these words: "Anything more dull and commonplace, it would not be easy to produce."

It was Earl Curzon, the Chancellor of the University of Oxford, who on November 6th, 1913, said that there are three supreme masterpieces of the English language. One is William Pitt's toast to the victory at Trafalgar; the second, the Gettysburg Address; and the third, Lincoln's second Inaugural Address. Of these last two speeches, Earl Curzon had this to declare:

> "They were uttered by a man who had been a country farmer and a district lawyer before he became a statesman. But they are among the glories and treasures of mankind. I escape the task of deciding which is the masterpiece of modern English eloquence, by awarding the prize to an American." (Barton, II, 224-225).

Such also, is the verdict of humanity.

Abraham Lincoln still remains and will remain forever the incarnation of the spirit of Americanism and for this reason, as long as the American people will adhere to the spirit of the Declaration of Independence, that title-deed of the human race, to the high principles underlying our Constitution and to the spirit permeating our great institutions, Lincoln will remain the theme-center of American's appeal to mankind.

For this reason I respectfully submit to the members of this august body, that it is our sacred duty to constitute during this session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, a well-balanced Commission, with ample power and appropriations to proceed at once with the preparation for Pennsylvania's Centennial Commemoration of the Civil War and the evaluation of Pennsylvania's manifold contributions to the Victory of the Union. Of special interest to said Commission should be the presentation of Lincoln and his philosophies to the People of America generally and to the eitizens of our Commonwealth in particular in all their splendor. The impact of their majestic sweep will culturally and spiritually enrich our citizenry, thus adding strength to their determination to have our Country remain as the imperishable Land of the Free and Home of the Brave.

I do not know, very frankly. I do not want to be facetious.

Mr. MAHANY. Do you not think that was misleading, putting that in the communication that the man was a resident of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, when he is not a resident of Harrisburg?

Mr. DENT. I would imagine that if it is in the communique, he is a resident of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He must have established residency in this city somewhere. We can find out probably, after you are through voting.

Mr. President, I now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Would it make any difference to you where he is from in your voting?

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, I would like to have him be from Pennsylvania, but it seems impossible to get the Governor to send anybody over here to be confirmed that is from Pennsylvania, so we have to take what we get.

Mr. DENT. I do not think that is quite true. I think the Governor would be glad to send somebody over. You have a prerogative as a Senator, and if you feel that there is anything in this particular situation that demands you practice being a Senator for a few minutes, and you decide not to vote for this appointment and it is defeated, why I am sure that the Governor then would send another name and eventually you would get what you wanted.

Mr. TAYLOR. For the information of both Floor Leaders, I checked and the gentleman is not registered in Harrisburg.

Mr. DENT. Well, I think that is true because you have a residency law here in Pennsylvania for registration, and I do not think that anybody is fooled about any situation that may be construed out of this questioning going back and forth.

Mr. William Batt, as I understand it, was born and reared in the eastern part of Pennsylvania, and seven years ago, from the best knowledge I can get of him, he took a job in the Federal Government in the Department of Labor, and then later he moved to Toledo, Ohio, where he was in charge of the redevelopment program in that city, and he necessarily had to register in Ohio at that time.

I think all of you know that in all probability I personally may not vote for Mr. Batt, but I want it clearly understood that it is not because of his residency, but for matters that I think are more serious. However, Mr. Batt, or any other citizen of the United States, can cross State lines for employment under our Constitution and if the Governor feels that this man, regardless of his place of residence, is the right man for the job, I agree with Mr. Mahany that he has a right to name him. I also agree with Mr. Mahany that I would rather he would have found somebody in Pennsylvania. However, that is not the reason for my voting in the manner in which I will vote.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 32, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323) entitled "An act relating to counties of the third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes amending revising consolidating and changing the laws relating thereto" fixing the status of the law librarian and making him eligible for membership in the county employes retirement plan.

Senate Bill No. 87, entitled:

An Act reenacting certain parts of the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled * * *" clarifying provisions relating to magistrates sending notices by registered or certified mail

Whereupon,

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to make a short statement relative to a subject of grave importance to the people of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT. We are presently under the order of business of Petitions and Remonstrances.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, yesterday I promised you that I would make a few remarks today relative to a subject that I think is very important. I am happy that you all stayed to hear me.

It starts out somewhere of late date. It is a continuation of a series of speeches and incidents which have occurred since George Leader was elected Governor.

The date line is Philadelphia; the date, February 26, the day of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' dinner. I would like to read just the headlines and then carry on from there: "Economic Blight of State Deplored as Tax-Induced." This statement is credited to one, Willard F. Rockwell, Board Chairman of the Rockwell Manufacturing Company and other enterprises. I would like to quote from one of his statements in which he said this:

"Rockwell said that the slackening of industrial progress in this State in recent years has caused Pennsylvania's rate of population growth to fall off 'so sharply' since 1950 that the Commonwealth may lose two U. S. House seats after the 1960 census.

"At the same time, he said, more and more factories are standing idle and 'unnecessary unemployment' deepens—in sharp contrast to the picture elsewhere in the nation.

" 'The two most significant Pennsylvania taxes causing this economic blight,' he said, 'are the capital stock tax and the corporate net income tax. Together they make Pennsylvania's combined corporate taxes among the highest in the nation.' "

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I took a copy of the February 23 Business Week, the same week in which this statement was made in Philadelphia, and I opened it up to page 153. It shows a beautiful new plant near Pittston and a statement right beneath the picture, signed by the Celotex Corporation. Let me read the statement to you:

" 'This new plant, now nearing completion in Pittston, Pennsylvania, is the result of an intensive search along the entire eastern seaboard for a really advantageous plant site.' " This is signed by the Celotex Corporation.

Mr. President, there must be a reason why the Celotex Corporation is building 60,000 square feet of plant space in this private area of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, at my request, gave me a very quick run-down of what I think is apropos to the subject. In 1956, the industrial growth in this Commonwealth involved 448 projects and the creation of an estimated 27,817 new jobs, according to the specific records carried in the Department of Commerce. Of the 448 new projects, 140 were new manufacturing industries mostly from outside the Commonwealth. In addition, 223 represent expansions announced by established Pennsylvania manufacturers; estimated employment in these expanded facilities to be 8,615 factory jobs. Finally, of the 448 new projects, 85 represent new or expanded industrial facilities other than manufacturing facilities, such as research laboratories, engineering offices, warehouse and storage facilities, public utility and railroad expansions and they will create 3,125 new jobs for Pennsylvanians. It is estimated that new industrial construction contracts during the year 1956 came to $380,000,000, or $110,000,000 more than the $270,000,000 figure for the year 1955.

During 1955, according to the records of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, fifteen Pennsylvania manufacturing plants were lost to Pennsylvania by virtue of their having left the State. For the first six months of 1956, the figure was six plants. The Association has not, as yet, published its latest figures for 1956.

This accomplishment represents a joint effort,—these are my own statements—a combination of the activities of utility corporations, the railroads, the chamber of commerce, industrial redevelopment projects and the Department of Commerce of Pennsylvania.

Now I want to say this to you. The Department of Commerce is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to advertise the good things in Pennsylvania. However, when they do, they have to pay anywhere from $6,000 to $15,000 for a publication. When people read it, they know that it is a paid advertisement and, therefore, carries only a certain amount of weight but when Mr. Rockwell announces to the world that this is the worst State in the Union in which to do business, he gets into every newspaper in the United States of any significance. He gets front page coverage in the Wall Street Journal; he becomes the subject of great acclamation by the chambers of commerce of our competitive neighboring States. He is doing this State a great disservice, because behind all of this smoke and fury there is only one aim which Mr. Rockwell has. He wants to force into the capital stock tax the amendment, made last year in an effort to get through the necessary revenues for the State, after seventeen months of fighting, which will exempt from capital stock tax in Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania manufacturing concerns. He does not have to hurt Pennsylvania in order to do this. The Legislature has been appealed to through the years to have this exemption in the law.

However, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, for sixteen years the Republicans carried in their platform the removal of the capital stock tax from manufacturing concerns in Pennsylvania and, although they controlled both branches of the Legislature and the Governor's office, they never saw fit to remove this capital stock tax exemption from the shoulders of a few corporations in Pennsylvania. Now under a Democratic Administration, all of a sudden we hear the old cry that Pennsylvania industry is running out, that taxes are driving industry out of the Commonwealth. It reminded me of when I first came to this Senate as a young man. There were great editorials written about the goose that lays the golden egg. We were forced to pass a resolution, which I sponsored, to investigate the flight of industry in Pennsylvania. That was under another Democratic Governor, twenty years ago. I was chairman of that committee and we went all over the State of Pennsylvania and we held hearings. We made a report which, I might say, was reprinted three times. On behalf of the committee members and our counsel, the late John Fertig, an outstanding attorney and tax expert, I want to say that we are grateful for the reception that this tax report has received throughout the long twenty years. It is contained in every library, I believe, in which I have ever been and I know that I had hundreds of requests, as chairman, for copies of it.

In 1938, the Democrats lost control of the government and we were out of it for sixteen years. The same taxes were kept on the books for the sixteen years, but no one protested publicly that industry was being driven out of the State, although the taxes were the same. Now, after twenty years when the Democrats received a majority in the State, which they do every generation, all of a sudden the hue and cry is the same as it was twenty years ago. I am not wrong when I say to you that behind all of this, aside from removing the capital stock tax exemption, is the political skulduggery of a few who are trying to have the people of Pennsylvania believe that it is the Democratic Administration that is driving industry out of this State.

Now if you want to help industry, we will join hands with you. There is not a man on this side of the floor who will not help you. However, do not do it by passing a fake piece of legislation, a piece of legislation that will not help industry in so far as the over-all picture is concerned ten per cent. Why do I say that? I will tell you why I say it. We are attempting through our advertisements, through our Department of Commerce, through many outstanding chamber of commerce groups, through many redevelopment groups, through the aid of the railroads and the utilities to bring industries into Pennsylvania, particularly in those areas which have become blighted because of the fact that coal is no longer a job producing industry. You do not do that by passing the capital stock tax exemption on manufacturers in Pennsylvania. Let me give you a few facts.

The capital stock tax and foreign franchise tax, combined, bring into Pennsylvania $135,000,000 a biennium. When we relieve only the manufacturers in Pennsylvania, we relieve approximately $62,500,000 to $63,000,000 worth of these taxes. When we go to an industry out of Pennsylvania and ask them to put their branches into Pennsylvania, such as the one I read you, what do we say to them that we have done to help them to come into Pennsylvania? Do we say to them, "We are not helping you when we passed this legislation. We only help the Pennsylvania industries which are established in Pennsylvania."

Let us see who will be the beneficiaries of this legislation. About twenty top companies in this State, basic, heavy-duty industries will receive somewhere near seventy per cent of the refund. The non-manufacturing industries in this State will not receive one cent of a refund. Let us look at some facts that might be interesting to you gentlemen. I want to read you something.

Eighty-five non-manufacturing industrial facilities, such as research laboratories, garages, storage facilities, public utilities and railroad expansions and so forth, came into Pennsylvania or expanded their facilities in this State last year to employ 3,125 people. However, 223 manufacturing concerns will only employ 8,615 people. Does your legislation, which exempts Pennsylvania manufacturers, give any inducement to the non-manufacturing job-creating industries and businesses? It does not. Does this legislation give any inducement to a corporation out of this State that wants to expand in Pennsylvania? It does not.

The basic, heavy-duty industries which will be receiving the relief under this legislation are industries that are situated here for reasons other than taxation. They are situated here because of the coal, the waters, transportation facilities and the skill of our workers. Yes, a large number of companies are expanding in other States, but two reasons can be blamed for that; one, the Federal Government's attitude to give tax write-offs and special considerations to industries moving into blighted areas; and, two, the death of "King Coal." A new steel mill would not start tomorrow out on the Allegheny when it has to haul in both ore and coal.

We need, in Pennsylvania, the kind of job-giving opportunities represented in the main by light processing industries, service industries, which, in turn, create greater demand for services of utilities that, in turn, expand and also create job opportunities in the field of transportation and the service industries that always surround any payroll plant.

It has been said that if you take a thousand workers out into the middle of the desert and you create a one thousand payroll for these workers, within a very short time 7,000 people will be living in that community. It does not mater much where the jobs come from, Mr. President.

I beg of you to analyze the picture for the good of Pennsylvania. I beg of you to take the foreign franchise tax bill and the capital stock tax bill and treat them as one. First, I would suggest to you that we remove the variable base so that an industry or corporation knows exactly what the basis of taxation will be because it will be based on a stable formula, one which takes it out of the hands of a small group which could, by manipulation, cause a great deal of injustice toward some industries and give certain considerations to a privileged few.

Mr. President, I say that if we do that and by so doing, from the formula that I worked out, we will lose approximately $14,000,000 in revenue. However, we can then say to every corporation, every production facility, to those that employ one or more persons, one or two persons, and to those that employ thousands of employees, that we have done something in Pennsylvania even in the face of the great need for revenue.

I, as a person, will not, cannot, and you should not vote to give a $65,000,000 biennium cut in taxes to a small group, while at the same time you are doing nothing for that great number of facilities in Pennsylvania which are also a part of this Commonwealth's job-producing family. At the same time, I do not believe that it is fair to ask, as the Tax Commission asked, that we relieve industry of $51,000,000 worth of taxes in Pennsylvania and, at the same time, add $240,000,000 more to the consuming individual and to the public in general.

Years ago, industry paid in Pennsylvania a disproportionate share of taxes. They paid approximately eighty-two per cent of the total tax burden. However, if the Tax Commission Report were followed to the letter, industry would drop down to paying twenty-six per cent of the tax load in the Commonwealth. I say to industry's representatives in Pennsylvania, do not come to us with stories about what California does, or Ohio does or New Jersey does, because time is catching up with them. We are far ahead of them in the facilities that we have created for the mentally ill and for public institutions, in our great school building program, in our great road building program. When these neighboring States which have had such an advantage, according to Mr. Rockwell, finally reach the stage where they, too, have to—and they will have to—meet the demands for the same facilities which we in Pennsylvania can proudly say we now possess, their tax burden on industry will go away out of line to what it is in Pennsylvania.

I am a Pennsylvanian. I was born in Pennsylvania, and if God gives me my ambition, I will die in Pennsylvania. I abhor any person or any group of persons who will testify to the world that this is not the best State in the Union from every way that you look at it.

We have made many studies on taxes in this Commonwealth and I have been fortunate enough to serve on many committees that have studied them. We are not a bad place in which to do business. The Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad made a speech in Philadelphia in which he condemned Pennsylvania's taxes. We called him up before a committee of the Senate and House. He had compared us unfavorably with New Jersey. I asked him a series of questions. I said, "Do you believe that New Jersey has a more equitable tax system?" He said, "I do." I asked, "Will you tell this committee how much your company pays in taxes in New Jersey per mile of railroad?" Then, he told me. Then, I told him how much they paid in Pennsylvania. I told him that since he thought New Jersey had such a great tax program, I would be happy to sponsor legislation applying the same rate of taxation against the Pennsylvania Railroad in Pennsylvania as they pay in New Jersey. Do you know what he told me? He said, "We would be broke the day that it went into effect. In New Jersey, our tax is higher than our gross revenue." The application of the New Jersey formula to Pennsylvania, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, would give us $62,000,000 more of taxes in this Commonwealth. I said, "Never fear that we are going to do it. We try to balance things the best that we can."

I know we are condemned by many; in fact, by all. However, over the years there has been a pretty fair sense of balance created in this Commonwealth. Remember that taxes should be paid according to the services rendered, and you pay a proportionate amount in taxation for your proportionate share of government. Out in the jungles, where they live in a semi-poverished state, they do not pay any taxes. They do not have anything either. If we demand millions of dollars to be spent for a mental health program, just remember that that demand comes from the very people who stand in this Senate and condemn every action we take to raise the necessary moneys to pay for these services demanded by these selfsame people.

The Legislature never institutes any great tax-eating project. The Legislature is only the servant of the people. Senator Mahany and Senator Dent are only spokesmen on this floor for their respective groups. When we vote for tax legislation and our groups follow us, it is not because we have created the demand. Let me tell you who creates the demand.

I have received hundreds upon hundreds of letters and petitions from the P.T.A.'s, ladies' auxiliaries, federations of women's clubs, chambers of commerce groups, demanding that we increase schoolteacher's salaries, and that has gone on for twenty years of my own knowledge. The minute we try to increase the taxes to take care of the teachers' salaries that they demanded from us, I have received petitions and letters from the very same people against the taxes.

Yes, all of us want to do something in mental health. I think it is one of the bright stars of this generation in recognizing this blight upon human dignity, but we, too, must recognize the future liability. The one hope that seems to be in the offing is that perhaps a more enlightened program may eventually reduce the need. I, at this moment, am not sold on that particular theory, but I am willing to be as I believe most legislators are. So, we vote for $175,000,000 for mental health; $175,000,000 for mental health. Are we to say that Pennsylvania manufacturers do not benefit from mental health? Are we to say that Pennsylvania manufacturers do not benefit from this appropriation? Are we to say that we, the people, are the only ones who benefit from this legislation?

By 1960, we will be paying $1,000,000,000 a biennium out of the State treasury for educational purposes. Are we to say that the Pennsylvania manufacturers do not benefit from this program; that they ought not to be taxed and that the additional $300,000,000 which will be required in the near future must come out of the pockets of the people only?

You cannot put a disproportionate balance on the books. The Governor of Indiana, who incidentally is a Republican, in refusing to support or assign a sales tax made this significant statement. He said, "I am going to ask the Legislature of Indiana to increase corporate taxes in Indiana particularly upon those industries situated within this State. I am doing so because they must carry their proportionate share of the cost of government somewhere near the proportionate benefits they get from government."

Now for twenty years I have watched this shift in the tax burden. This is not a maiden speech on this subject. If you go back through the records, you will find that at least once during every biennium I have talked to this Senate about the shift in the tax burden, and how this nation-wide scheme was born in a small room in Washington, and how it started out from that room to all of the agencies of communication and prestige and pressure, and a drive was made to put upon the statute books of every State, personal taxes to remove industrial taxes.

Part of the program was good. However, I warn industry now, do not overstep the bounds of decency, and balance because if you continue what has been going on for twenty years beyond a certain point, the people will rebel and the Boston Tea Party will be an afternoon luncheon compared to what will happen. When you get to a budget of $2,000,000,000 for this Commonwealth and you lock the door and relieve industry of any more taxes in this Commonwealth, you will be taking from the people eighty-five per cent of the tax burden in this Commonwealth. When you do that, you will have a disproportionate balance and the ones that will suffer will be the very ones that think they are benefiting now.

I say this in all seriouness. I beg of you to consider the future of Pennsylvania in the light of our actions during this biennium. Let us revise the capital stock tax and foreign franchise tax so that it gives us an inducement to offer to other industries that may come in.

I know who sold this whole thing. This may interest you Senators. When the Governor named his Tax Commission, I wrote myself a letter and in this letter I predicted what the recommendations would be, and I missed it by only one item. I did not think that they would come in with a recommendation to add another three per cent to the liquor and beer industry in Pennsylvania because, as you all know, a thirty-six dollar barrel of whisky now sells for $2,054, two thousand and some odd dollars being taxes. Therefore, you get a diminishing return on any objective taxation. I did not think they would do that, but I predicted exactly what they would say on capital stock taxes. I predicted what they would say on corporation stock taxes, on corporation liens and excises, and I predicted what they would say about the sales tax. I predicted that they would ask for a tax on clothing and for a tax on the trade-in value of automobiles.

Now let us analyze all of these pictures. To you utility men, allow me to say something to you. Last week the newspapers said that the Cyclops Corporation was going to go to Ohio and that the two reasons that they had advanced for moving, as it were,—that is what the paper said—was because of taxes and high utility rates. I made an investigation. You will have to trust my memory. found that the power available to this company at its Pennsylvania site was costing eleven mills a kilowatt, but that the power across the river in Ohio was costing seven mills a kilowatt. I also discovered that this company had no particular gripe against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; that it had expanded in Bridgeville to its fullest extent; that it had gone up into Titusville and expanded to its fullest extent; and, with the complete knowledge of the citizens of that community, was expanding also in the State of Ohio.

When you search down into all of these half-truths that are being bandied about and ballooned by people who have less love for the tate of Pennsylvania than they have for the almighty dollar, you will find that in almost every instance the same story is true. We are a good State to do business in. If the utilities of this State feel that we are a bad State, then allow us to amend the sales tax and the utility tax law in this State and put it exactly where it is in Ohio. If we do, if we just change that and change the railroad rate of tax, we will catch a couple hundred million dollars a biennium.

Mr. President, you cannot relieve all of these income producing facilities from all taxation. You know the old story; people cannot carry the whole burden. My father always told the story, which I think is apropos, of the old man in Italy who had a lean mule and that was his only worldly possession, but the mule was necessary to his daily livelihood. It plowed his field, it hauled his family around and it took his produce to market. He got to thinking about it one day and he said, "You know," he said to himself, "if I could have this mule work without eating, I would have that much more for myself," and so he cut down on the mule's fodder to one straw a day. He later told an old friend that he had him down to one straw. He would have had him down to nothing, but the mule died.

Now you cannot do that in taxes. It is just as wrong for us to stand here and place the entire or the great proportion of the tax burden against industry as it is to stand here and place a disproportionate amount of the taxes against the people. The people have not the facilities to make their fight. They do not have an Economy League to work up a series of figures for them. The Economy League is a wonderful institution, but it is a self-serving institution. Let us not be clouded in our thinking. The people who pay for the expense of the Economy League expect services rendered, and if you allow the capital stock tax exemption to go into effect, you have rendered the services.

If you feel that you can cut the tax burden in this State $60,000,000 without injuring the economy and without placing any unnecessary burdens upon the shoulders of the people more than they are now carrying, do it, but do it in such a way that all employers will benefit. Do it in such a way that every employer in the State will gain some benefit, so that when we go out into the other States and ask them to come into our Commonwealth, we have something to sell them, something to give them, an inducement.

To the utility companies, I say another word and I say this as a bit of advice. Check your rates; do not drive industry out of Pennsylvania with high utility rates while we are doing everything we can to induce them to come into this State.

To Mr. Rockwell I say this. Either you quit unselling Pennsylvania or have the legislature cut out the appropriation for the Department of Commerce which is spending thousands of dollars to sell Pennsylvania. You cannot have two lines of propaganda going out. Let us get together on one line of endeavor.

I think that between the Chambers of Commerce and the utilities that have worked at it, regional groups and the Department of Commerce of the State, the fact that we have brought into Pennsylvania 27,817 new income producing jobs is an achievement that ought not to be belittled by a man who, because he enjoys a great reputation as an industrialist and a long time leader in Chamber of Commerce activities, will go out and do us more damage in one statement than we can undo with a million dollars worth of paid propaganda.

We are a good State; we are a good people; we have good roads; we have good schools; and we have a healthy religious atmosphere. We have the finest water that is obtainable in any State in the Union and greater abundance. We have men and women easy to teach the skills of modern production. We were called the Keystone State in the beginnings of this Nation. We are still the Keystone State of this democracy in every field.

I ask you to join me in trying to write some kind of tax inducement legislation that will give equal benefits to all of the job producers in Pennsylvania and not to a favored few.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (George N. Wade) in the Chair.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, last Sunday afternoon I was privileged to go down to Gettysburg with my good friend, the Senate Librarian, Charles Lathero and his wife, and we visited the cemetery down there across from the museum. We noted that there was a monument down there which was erected to a speech, and they told us it was the only monument in the world that was erected to a speech. I thought if we could ever get Senator Dent to make a speech as short as the Gettysburg Address which Abraham Lincoln made down there, I would take up a fund to have the second monument erected to the speech of Senator Dent's that would be about the same length as the Gettysburg Address.

Now, he is champing at the bit. He can hardly wait for me to get through here, so he can get into the act again.

Senator, while you are shaking your fist at me over here or your finger at me and shouting so, I feel sometimes as though I were the culprit that was guilty of many things. While you were talking, I had occasion to glance back in the House Journal of February 5, 1957, and noted that the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—and I understand that you have a speaking acquaintance with him, George Leader—stated to us on that occasion that he would urge us further that we repeal the corporation loans tax as well, and permit the manufacturer's exemption from the capital stock tax to take effect on its due date, January 1, 1958. Therefore, that is not our idea especially, although perhaps we might go along with the Governor if he urges us enough. However, it was your Governor that urged us to do now what you state we should not do.

I also understand that the Governor gave you Democrats a little preview of his speech so that you would not have to go over to the Joint Session and listen to it. He had you over in the office and went over this speech with you before he made it, and evidently you were there at that time and heard that statement, and you should have talked to the Governor the way you did to me just a little while ago and told him that he should not urge that this manufacturer's exemption go into effect, if that is the way you felt.

Now I have also listened to the Senator make speeches in which he has, I think he gave a term to these service industries or the industries which are associated in a city with the servicing of the people, such as stores and utilities and so forth in connection with the location of a manufacturing plant in the city, and I believe he termed them as parasitic industries at one time and apologized for the term because he could not find a better one. Usually these companies that now he is bleeding for go into a city because of the fact they they have a manufacturer's corporation there or a corporation engaged in manufacturing.

For instance, in the city of Titusville, we have about three manufacturing plants and we have stores there, one of which I have pride in having a certain amount of ownership, and I will state to the Senator that I, as an owner of that store, would be very pleased to pay our share of the corporate capital stock tax if we continue to have a healthy manufacturing industry in the city. If we have healthy manufacturing in the city of Titusville, then our store is going to do a pretty good business and I can afford to take part of the profit and pay it to the State of Pennsylvania in the form of a capital stock tax.

I want to say to him that I agree with him relative to his idea that we should make the basis of the assessment on which this capital stock tax is based a little bit more certain, and if he can find some State which has a more certain way of assessing the tax and get a copy of their law, and have the Legislative Reference Bureau draw it up, I will be happy to co-sponsor such a bill with him, because I agree with him that it is wrong to have these companies have to come into Harrisburg on so many occasions and try to barter with the governmental representatives as to how much their company is worth. I feel if we can make that more certain, I will be happy to join with him in such a bill.

However, Senator, until you get the Governor to change his mind a bit and get me to change my mind a bit about the advisability of giving this manufacturer's exemption, I want to tell you that I want to go along with the Governor in allowing this manufacturer's exemption to go into effect on its due date, January 1, 1958, as he asked us to do in that Budget Message.

Perhaps Mr. Rockwell is wrong in getting into the papers so much and calling this matter of tax inequities to our attention, but possibly he feels that he cannot do it in any other way.

I talked with a Mr. Stewart today, who is head of the Universal Cyclops Steel Corporation, and had quite a long talk with him, because he has a plant in Titusville, Pennsylvania. They are expanding in Titusville, Pennsylvania, Senator. They are spending a lot of money there and I am glad they are. We are helping them to expand their facilities there. Mr. Stewart tells me that they also had to go into Ohio because of some of the features which you stated; that it was a matter of power rates to some extent, and also the fact that they could find a large area there which he explained at the present time is just a corn field. They expect to build a plant on it. I pointed out to him, Senator, that when he got his plant built there and they put in the streets and the sewer lines and the schools and all of the other things that they will have to do in order to take care of the number of employees they are going to have there, no doubt the taxes will go up on his plant and maybe will exceed those that are in Pennsylvania.

I also would like to call to the attention of the editors of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette that when they write those editorials, they should get together with the fellow who also writes the editorials asking us to go all out and give Mr. Shapiro millions of dollars more for a mental health program and so forth; that those fellows who also write the editorials relative to our tax structure and the amount of taxes we are placing on corporations should get together and decide which one they want us to do. We cannot very well keep adding millions of dollars onto this budget for a mental health program, and all the other things that they would like to have us do, without getting the taxes up some. As long as they keep beseeching us to carry out their wishes in regard to adding more services we will have to continue to up the amount of the State budget.

Senator, I hope that you will get that bill ready and that Mr. Rockwell will find occasion to come down here perhaps, and maybe we can straighten him out because I know the newspapers will not carry all that you stated about Mr. Rockwell. Maybe you and I can get him down here.

We asked Mr. Stewart to come down here and tell us more about the reasons why he wanted to go to Ohio to locate this extra plant, and he told us that he would have liked to come down but, unfortunately the secretary-treasurer of the company had a heart attack yesterday or the day before and he could not come. However, he asked us to send him a list of any questions that we might have relative to their going over into Ohio to locate a part of their plant facilities and he would be happy to answer our questions in as much detail as he could. I feel as a result of his answering those questions, we are going to find out a little bit more information about it and then I hope the Pittsburgh papers will carry the true story instead of the distorted one which they have found to be a convenient way of selling newspapers by glaring headlines.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I was going to say to the Senator that the speech made by Abraham Lincoln was very short, but he was talking about dead people. I am talking about some that are still alive and it takes longer.

In so far as the Governor's recommendation is concerned, I do not think it is a secret because I see sitting with me, Senator Frank Ruth. Although you may doubt some of the things I say, you certainly would not doubt the Reverend. When the Governor read that section of his message, I told him, as I am telling you, that I would not support that feature of the program. I try all of the time to keep my word where I can. I know that consistency is the hobgoblin of small minds and sometimes I go beyond being a small minded person. However, in this instance it is not a question of going along with the Governor or being against the Governor. I think that my seventeen months leadership on this floor for his program two years ago is testimony as to where I stand on matters pertaining to this Administration and its policies. For twenty-two years I have been on this floor fighting what I think are the battles based upon my principles; that someone has to speak for those who have no organized spokesmen, the little peoples in the communities who carry the load for the school and who carry the load for all the government, and that is why my position is as it is.

I am willing to go along, and I will certainly get the legislation ready. However, I hope that you can see your way clear to give the same benefits to non-manufacturing industries as you do to the manufacturing industries, because if you are hoping to sell Pennsylvania, you are going to have to sell it to many, many, many concerns that will prove to be job makers for us and still will not be in-State manufacturers.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 5, 1957.

The House met at 1:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Mark J. Hostetter, Pastor of the Lincoln Park Community Church, Reading, Pa., guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

O God, our Father, as we stand within these majestic walls, may we hear Thee talking to us through history's continuing witness. Teach us the art of meditation. Set our souls in tune to the eternal wisdom.

We rise up to bless Thee for the faith of our fathers. May we see again the struggle of our forefathers to be free, the struggle to be true in freedom, and the struggle to be brothers in the building of a new nation. Make us see today that we have a charge to keep. In our responsibility to find a right course for the future let the past stir us to new consecration.

Take these elected representatives of the people and lead them in Thy way. May they know the truth and let that truth live in clear, unmistakable marks on the law books and at the council tables. In democracy's daring venture make us all men of a terrible fearful honesty.

O God, give us a great faith for the challenge of these times. In all things may Thy name be exalted. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BELL and Mrs. VARALLO. RESOLUTION No. 40

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1957

There presently exists discriminatory practice on behalf of the Civil Aeronautics Board against citizens of eastern Pennsylvania with respect to air travel from Philadelphia to Bermuda, Nassau, San Juan, and connecting points.

The discrimination consists of forcing the citizens of eastern Pennsylvania and their neighbors to travel to New York City in order to obtain air transportation to Bermuda, Nassau, San Juan, and connecting points. Such additional travel entails air or railroad transportation and other incidental expenses. The elapsed time required for one to travel to New York often equals the total flying time from New York to Bermuda or Nassau.

The advantages of air transportation have brought to the average citizen the availability of the vacation islands of Bermuda, Nassau, and the West Indies. Tens of thousands of citizens of eastern Pennsylvania annually spend winter vacations in these resorts. Such development has been so rapid as to cause considerable magazine comment as to the trend of American citizens to spend their vacation time in winter air vacation trips.

The discrimination being encouraged by the Civil Aeronautics Board consists of restricting air lines and prohibiting them from making non-stop air flights from Philadelphia to Bermuda, Nassau, and San Juan. There is presently under consideration a request that such discrimination against the Airport of Philadelphia and continued harassment of the citizens of eastern Pennsylvania be terminated and that direct air flights to the points in question be authorized; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Civil Aeronautics Board be memorialized to investigate fully the charges of discrimination against the Airport of Philadelphia and the continued harassment of the citizens not only of eastern Pennsylvania but of the lower Delaware Valley by reason of the refusal of the Civil Aeronautics Board to permit direct non-stop flights from Philadelphia to Bermuda, Nassau, and San Juan; and be it further

Resolved, That the action of the Civil Aeronautics Board with respect to such investigation be expeditious to give the desired relief to those aggrived; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. POST. RESOLUTION No. 41

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1957

Eberhard-Faber Pencil Company, the world's largest manufacturer of pencils and kindred writing materials is now located in Luzerne County, Pennsylvania.

Luzerne county has been designated as a distressed employment area. It is hoped that this new industry established by Eberhard-Faber Pencil Company will do much to relieve the hardship caused by unemployment in the area by the employment of up to twelve hundred persons.

The purchase of necessary material from industries located within this Commonwealth can do much to increase the prosperity and general well-being of the people of this State. Prosperous industries located in Pennsylvania can do much to attract other industrial activity to this Commonwealth by demonstrating the favorable conditions existing in the Commonwealth for the development of various industries and commercial activities; therefore be it

Resolved, That all departments, bureaus, commissions, and agencies of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the residents of this Commonwealth are urged to give priority and preference to purchases of pencils and kindred materials from the Eberhard-Faber Pencil Company, which are manufactured by that company in this Commonwealth, and to give priority to the purchase of other articles manufactured by Pennsylvania concerns.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. AMARANDO. RESOLUTION No. 42

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1957

The highways of Pennsylvania can be no safer than the drivers and the vehicles which use them.

Vehicles registered in Pennsylvania are required, through a system of compulsory State inspection to maintain at least minimum standards of mechanical safety.

Because of its industrial pre-eminence this Commonwealth is visited daily by thousands of vehicles from other States, where no such compulsory inspection exists, many of said vehicles being motor trucks in interstate commerce.

Numerous public complaints of the ineffective nature of Interstate Commerce Commission enforcement of its safety regulations have been made as a result of accidents occurring in this State involving mechanically unfit trucks from other states.

Governor George M. Leader has sent to the Interstate Commerce Commission a proposal developed by this Commonwealth's Director of Highway Safety, Mr. O. D. Shipley, suggesting the establishment by the Interstate Commerce Commission of a nationwide system of compulsory inspection for motor trucks under ICC auspices.

Such a system would most certainly bring lagging elements of the motor truck industry up to ICC standards, thus minimizing the likelihood of truck accidents due to mechanical failure; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Interstate Commerce Commission to adopt the proposal establishing ICC inspection stations for motor trucks, and the Pennsylvania's members of Congress be also memorialized to urge upon the Interstate Commerce Commission the many advantages of the proposal.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. JUMP, MUSTO and REIDENBACH.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 43

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1957

On August 7, 1956, the Congress of the United States enacted legislation known as the "Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956." The declared purpose of this act is to provide insurance protection against individual and public loss in the case of recurring natural disasters, including recurring floods. Subsidence resulting from mining operations is a natural disaster against which Congress should provide such protection, but the act does not specifically provide that this is an insurable risk; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States to amend the "Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956," to provide that subsidence resulting from mining operations shall be an insurable risk; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Refererred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SMITH. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 44

In the House of Representatives, March 4, 1957

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania desires to bring to the attention of the Post Master General of the United States what it considers to be a regrettable use of the United States mails. Attention is drawn specifically to the base, lewd and licentious drawing contained on page twenty-five of the April 1957 edition of the magazine "Manhunt," a pornographic product of Flying Eagle Publications, Inc., located at 545 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York. There is no doubt that such drawings depicting the lustful character of individuals have a detrimental effect upon the morality of all persons but the effect upon the formative minds of the youth of the nation is even more perilous. The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the legislatures of the other states of the Union have attempted to employ all the means within their Constitutional power to curb or even eliminate the mass distribution of the type of literary filth herein mentioned in this resolution. It is equally important that Federal instrumentalities assist whenever possible in this drive to stamp out the distribution of such disgusting printed matter. Close scrutiny by postal officials of the United States will do much in attaining a high degree of success in this drive, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania forward a copy of the April 1957 edition of the magazine "Manhunt" published by Flying Eagle Publications, New York, New York, to the Post Master General of the United States and be it further

Resolved, That he be urged to make a thorough and detailed investigation of subject matter sent through the mails to determine the amount of base, lewd, and licentious material passing through the mails and to employ all measures possible by law to prohibit their further distribution via the United States mails.

JOINT SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR ROY E. FURMAN PRESIDING

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF THE SENATE. Mr. President, the Committee appointed to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I have the honor of presenting His Excellency, George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR. Members of the General Assembly, I have the honor and privilege of presenting His Excellency, Honorable George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who will address you.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GEORGE M. LEADER

GOVERNOR LEADER. Lieutenant Governor Furman, Speaker Helm, and Members of the General Assembly, I am very grateful to have this second opportunity to come before you. It is only possible because the bundle was too large to deliver in one package.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the budget estimates of various special funds which, under provisions of the Constitution or of statutory law, are dedicated to public purposes apart from those provided by the General Fund budget already before you.

The Motor License Fund is, of course, of such great proportions as to dwarf the relatively modest amounts set aside for other special uses, and in fact compares in size and importance of function to the General Fund itself.

It is proper, therefore, for the Governor of the Commonwealth to comment in some detail upon the proposed uses of the Motor License Fund in the next biennium, upon its sources of revenue, and upon the highway needs and projections of the State and its communities.

It is clear that we have reached an agreed National policy that highway construction must be planned and executed on a scale far beyond our efforts of the past.

In my judgment, we will be able to do so in the next biennium in Pennsylvania on the basis of the Motor License Fund budget presently submitted.

This budget for a highway program requires no new taxes nor increases in license fees, nor does it ask for additional authorizations to incur debt.

At the same time, we will be able to plan, design, contract for, and construct the largest, most difficult, and most urgently needed program of highway expansion and modernization in the State's history.

We will necessarily concentrate on bringing to Pennsylvania in its full measure of benefit the very large amount of Federal assistance now available under the program which the Congress and the President have enacted.

On its revenue side, the Motor License Fund budget is predicated upon a liquid fuel tax of six cents per gallon, the existing rate, of which the Fund would receive five and one-half cents. The other half cent goes to the counties under existing law. The Fund will further receive the return from the existing charges for operators' and motor vehicle licenses. It will receive, if we match the monies under the various formulas provided, approximately $205,000,000 in Federal assistance.

The total revenues of the Motor License Fund will come to $713,000,000.

It would be foolhardy, in my judgment, to reduce the existing six cent tax on a gallon of liquid fuel. We are obviously faced with a flood of highway traffic which equals in its emergency pressures the emergency of Hurricane Diane itself. We cannot risk the loss of time and accomplishment which would follow our failure to participate to the fullest in the Federal aid program. We should, therefore, convert all the "temporary" liquid fuel taxes to a permanent tax base for the Motor License Fund.

We have had obvious difficulties in financing a General Fund budget which would meet the needs of Pennsylvania.

We are fortunate that we do not face such difficulties in gearing our highway program to our needs and our opportunities. Many legislatures throughout the country are struggling with their highway finance problems; ours are solved for this biennium if the Legislature will simply preserve the revenue status quo. This good fortune comes about, I would suppose, because of our wise Constitutional prohibition against the diversion of Motor License Funds to general State uses.

I have said that the total income of the Motor License Fund is estimated at $713,000,000. The Liquid Fuel Tax, plus the Fuel Use Tax will yield an estimated $316,665,000. Motor Licenses and Fees will yield $171,284,000. Federal aid will come to $205,000,000. These are the major revenue sources.

The total projected expenditures from the Motor License Fund will be $720,000,000.

Of this amount, $606,765,392 will be spent by the Department of Highways for the actual administration, engineering, maintenance and construction of the more than 40,000 miles of highways for which the State has direct responsibility.

Various disbursements are made from the Motor License Fund to other State agencies for services rendered the State's highway program. In the next biennium, the State Police will receive under this budget $21,000,000 for their work in patrolling the highways in the interest of public safety. The Department of Revenue will receive $18,570,000 for the collection of the Fund's taxes and the issuance of its licenses. The Department of State will be the recipient of payments of more than $5,000,000 as the Fund's contributon to the retirement benefits of its employes.

Because the training of young people to be good drivers is an important public service related to the use of our highway system, the Department of Public Instruction is making it possible to have driver training classes throughout our public school system in Pennsylvania. It will receive for this purpose $1,720,000 from the Motor License Fund.

The budget also provides for the repayment to farmers of the liquid fuel taxes they have paid on gasoline which is actually not used on the highway system but in agricultural production. A sum of $2,000,000 is set up for distribution of such rebates by the State Treasurer.

Taxes paid on aviation fuels go into the Motor License Fund; then go out again to the Department of Military Affairs for the administration of the Aeronautics Commission and its program of airport development. The amount is $1,213,000.

Such necessary payments for services and such legally directed disbursements take approximately $51,000,000 from the Motor License Fund above the expenditures of the Highway Department itself.

In addition, this Motor License Fund budget provides for the payment of more than $63,000,000 to the municipalities of the Commonwealth for the maintenance and improvement of township roads and borough and city streets.

This assistance to the municipalities is in addition to the one-half cent per gallon of liquid fuel tax which has been customarily returned to the counties for their own highway use or, more commonly, for distribution to constituent municipalities.

The last session of the Legislature agreed upon a formula by which the municipalities would receive twenty per cent of the yield of the liquid fuel tax, excepting always the one-half cent which is returned to the counties. This budget extends that formula to the additional one cent which it presumes will be made permanent.

The amount returnable then reaches the $63,000,000 of our estimate.

If this is not done, the local communities will receive State aid in the next biennium of only $52,000,000. I would urge that the municipalities, as well as the Commonwealth, be protected against this loss.

We have practically doubled the assistance we give the municipalities for street and road maintenance, believing that it is a measure of equity long overdue. We should not now take a backward step.

In this matter, we are the partner and associate of fifty Pennsylvania cities, seventy-five first class townships, nine hundred forty boroughs, one thousand four hundred and ninety-five second class townships, and our solitary and unique town.

We come now to the direct performance projected in this budget for the Department of Highways, to which is allotted, as I have said, the very large sum of more than $606,000,000. This is, of course, the heart of the matter.

The use of those funds by the Department, the speed at which we can achieve design, the ability of our economy to supply materials, the pace at which we can attain construction, all will dictate the rate of progress of our highway construction in Pennsylvania.

As Governor, I feel a deep sense of immediacy in this work, a feeling that time is pressing, that we must get on despite all the admitted obstacles and problems. I know that the Secretary of the Department shares my feeling, and that we can expect from him and his associates in the leadership of the Department a most determined and effective drive toward achievement. I trust that the members of the Legislature are equally determined to press forward so that Pennsylvania will be first among the states in the scope and the accomplishment of a highway program planned for our own day and the crowded future.

This is surely not a partisan matter.

There are neither Democratic nor Republican roads.

The Congress and the President agreed on that basis; as before in this Session, I would ask you to lay aside our political divisions so that the people of this State may be better served.

There is a certain amount of housekeeping which must be done on our 41,208 miles of State highway. The budget provides $28,500,000 for resurfacing 2,342 miles of this highway in the 1957-1959 biennium. It provides $70,000,000 for the maintenance of 38,142 miles of State highways in the townships; it sets up $4,500,000 for the maintenance of 2,418 miles of State highways in the boroughs; it has $2,500,000 for maintenance of the heavily travelled 648 miles of State highways which run through our Pennsylvania cities.

The Federal program has been vastly extended, as we all know.

But the Commonwealth still has the sole financial responsibility for more than 20,000 miles of State highway—the so-called 100 per cent State system. The budget provides $82,850,000 for construction and reconstruction on these totally State-supported roads, which will complete 450 miles of new or rebuilt highway—the equivalent of a highway across the State from Ohio to New Jersey, with some mileage to spare.

The Department must, of course, be administered.

The budget provides $36,699,000 for administration, a modest increase from a comparable figure of $32,529,000 in the current biennium, made necessary by rising costs and increased responsibilities.

We do have a large increase for contract engineering and design, from $14,000,000 to $24,000,000 to properly locate and effectively design the highways of our augmented program. We are employing the best skills we can find in the highly competitive market. It should be evident that great new highway system as is contemplated in the Federal program, will not design itself. There will be many thousand of man-hours at the drawing boards before the bulldozers and the scrapers shape the highway. This is another illustration of the fact which is, I hope, becoming evident—that if Pennsylvania is to accomplish its public purposes in this complex day, it cannot do so without utilizing the best talent it can find, and without paying a fair value for such talent. It will always be inexplicable to me that the same voices which applaud private enterprise for its achievements gained through research, management analysis, and special consultancies are sometimes unwilling to accept the same good methods in public service.

We are not doing this enormous amount of engineering for the exercise.

We are doing it as the necessary step in a giant program of construction, centering on the new opportunities of the Federal program

Those opportunities make it possible for us to budget for expenditures for construction and reconstruction of more than $327,000,000 in the four areas of Federal highway aid. In three categories of this program—Primary Roads, Secondary Roads, and Urban Extensions—we match dollars with the Federal Government. Each state contribution brings an equal Federal amount.

On those highway projects which are part of the Interstate system, we will receive nine dollars in Federal contribution for every dollar supplied by the State.

I submit that it would be the most irresponsible folly if we did not make every effort to take full advantage, for Pennsylvania's sake, of this unparalleled program. And we can be sure that if we do not, other states certainly will.

I cannot believe that this Legislature, nor I am certain, will this Administration commit, by failure to do our part, any such folly.

The budget recommends that we spend approximately $37,000,000 on Federal Aid Secondary Roads, approximately $61,000,000 on Federal Aid Primary Roads, and $71,000,000 on Federal Aid Urban Extensions. For construction and reconstruction of Interstate Roads in the Federal Aid System, we will have $157,500,000.

As I said earlier in this message, the total of Federal aid will come to about $205,000,000—provided we are capable of producing the matching money, the decisions, and the plans. We intend to do all three.

During the next biennium, we expect to place under construction contracts 1,197 mnles of highway on the Federal aid system—a distance greater than from Philadelphia to Kansas City. The dollar value of the work under contract for design will reach in the next biennium $539,000,000—more than half a billion dollars.

The final item of major importance in the Motor License Fund budget is $17,500,000 allocated for the payment of rentals to the Highway and Bridge Authority. This is the equivalent of debt service. While it is a large amount, it is a relatively small proportion of the whole Motor License Fund budget—about two and one-half per cent. It is an indication that Pennsylvania has for many years carried out its major capital improvements for highways on a basis which is close to pay-as-you-go. This budget asks for no increase in borrowing authorization for the Highway and Bridge Authority, although we do contemplate using the unexpended authorization of $40,000,000.

The highway program presented in this budget is, in our best judgment, workable and balanced. It is workable because it is within our income and because it is within our capacity to execute. It is balanced because it provides for every segment of our highway needs, from the farm-to-market road on the 100 per cent state system to the enormously costly and complex expressways of our metropolitan cities. It provides the highest possible measure of assistance to the local communities for the maintenance and improvement of their roads and streets.

It would be most regerettable if the Legislature, by failure to provide adequate funds, destroyed the balance which is proposed. We would then have the hard choice of refusing available Federal funds for major highways, or cutting back the 100 per cent State program to the vanishing point, or withdrawing the assistance we propose for local communities. But I cannot believe that such painful decisions are before us. Certainly, there is no need for them.

In this connection, I would point out to the members of the General Assembly that the beginning and final balance shown in the budget figures is illusory. The May 31st balances of approximately $60,000,000.00 come at a time when annual license fees have been received and before demands for summer construction and maintenance have been paid out. It is a seasonal accumulation of funds, up in the early months before construction gets into full swing, and noted because of our fiscal year date of May 31st. It rapidly vanishes and becomes a thin margin of working capital in October and November.

A budget, to be sure, is only paper.

Money is only a government's promise to pay.

Neither can build highways, nor substitute for flesh and blood, for human ingenuity and purpose.

Consequently, in addition to this budget, we shall have various legislative proposals concerning our highway system which will come before you.

1. Personnel. We must establish a career service in our Highway Department which will make it attractive and secure for the technically trained men and women who will undertake as a life work the construction and maintenance of our highways. They are entitled to selection by merit, protection in their jobs, and compensation in accordance with their skills.

2. Training. We must establish a system of scholarships in Pennsylvania engineering schools for young Pennsylvanians who will graduate into the service of the Highway Department.

3. Planning. I shall ask the Chairman of the State Planning Board to appoint a subcommittee on Highway Planning to assist the Highway Department in its consideration of the grave problems it faces and to develop community acceptance and support of a continuing highway program adequate to the needs of the State.

4. Turnpike. The turnpike system must be brought into alignment with our general program of highway construction and operation. This inevitably means the eventual elimination of its tolls. To prepare for this transition, the turnpike operation requires a new framework and a new pattern of leadership.

5. Beautification. We must not allow billboards to exploit the interstate system. We must do a better job than we have yet done in the expansion of our program of roadside rests and scenic areas.

Legislation implementing such programs should be enacted during this Session of the General Assembly.

I am sure that none of us will want this 1957 Session to be remembered as a do-nothing legislative meeting, nor do I want my administration to be remembered as one which failed to point out the areas of opportunity and obligation in State Government.

In working together to produce a good budget pattern for our highway system, and in enacting important legislation for the improvement of our highways, we can come a long way toward a memorable achievement.

I trust that you will give this Motor License Fund budget your most thoughtful and favorable consideration.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

The LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR. Governor Leader, on behalf of the Members of the General Assembly, I want to thank you for your very comprehensive and informative message.

The Committee on the part of the Senate and the House will now escort His Excellency, the Governor, to his Chambers.

The business of the Joint Session having been transacted, the session is now adjourned. The Senators will please reassemble in the Senate Chamber.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR.

PROCEEDINGS OF JOINT SESSION PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the proceedings of the Joint Session of the Senate and House of Representatives held this day be printed in full in the Legislative Journal.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker. I notice in the Legislative Journal of February 26 on House Bill No. 337, I am not recorded as voting. I wish the record to show I did vote for House Bill No. 337.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 2 of today's calendar, House Bill No. 105, Bills on Second Reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 105, entitled:

An Act amending the "World War II Veterans' compensation Act" approved June 11, 1947 (P. L. 565) extending the time during which applications may be filed for veterans' compensation.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL COMMITTED

Mr. THOMAS H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 2 of today's calendar, House Bill No. 478, Bills on Second Reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 478, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance and providing for certain allocations therefrom for the purpose of carrying out the Public Assistance Law for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of assistance and expenses accrued or incurred prior to and remaining unpaid on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. READINGER offered the following amendment:

Amend Section 1, page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out the words and figures "seven million seven hundred sixty-seven thousand seven hundred ninety-eight dollars ($7,767,798)" and inserting in lieu thereof; "eight million one hundred sixteen thousand dollars ($8,116,000)."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inform the House that I have not had an opportunity to confer concerning the amendments with the Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. When I called his office this morning he was engaged in a hearing, and I have not seen him until just now.

The Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance has informed me that the deficiency appropriation provided for in the bill without these amendments was based on a figure which was compiled at the time the budget message was prepared. Between that time and the present time the estimates of deficiency needs have increased to th point of $8,116,000 instead of seven million and whatever dollars that amount was in the bill.

Various reasons are assigned for these increases. I have in my possession a detailed breakdown of the figures which go to make up the deficiency of $8,116,000 and which I will be glad to deliver to the Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee if he does not already have a copy of it.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to have the information from the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger. I was unable to get it from the Department of Public Assistance.

It is true what the gentleman says. There is a deficiency of $8 million or more, but their answer was that the relief loads are going up. However, here is a newspaper release of March 3 which says the state relief load has declined 2.5 percent. So that just does not make sense to me. Rather than hold up the bill, it being an emergency to get through, we have decided to report it out as it is; and if they really need more money later, we can put another deficiency bill through to take care of it.

I ask the Members to vote the amendments down.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to read a memorandum from the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance to Mr. Bradley, the Budget Secretary dated February 25, 1957. She states as follows:

> "On the basis of experience to date we estimate that a deficiency appropriation of $8,116,000 will be required for the current biennium.
> "At the end of January we had used all but $16,460,000 of our appropriation. State fund expenditures during February and March will be about $12,300,000, thus leaving a balance of less than estimated state fund requirements for April. Since the Federal Government will not advance its share of estimated monthly costs unless the state is able to certify that its share is available, this means that in order to avoid a cessation in the writing of assistance checks a deficiency appropriation must be available by the first of April. To make this possible and allow time for applying for and receiving an advancement of the Federal share of expenditures for April, the deficiency bill should be finally enacted by March 13.
> "In presenting the initial budget request for this biennium, I said that I believed our estimate to be conservative. Our revised estimate based on actual practice to date shows an average total number of persons who have received assistance which is only 141 per month more than estimated. The Aid to Dependent Children rolls have been higher than estimated, but in the other categories actual experience has been below that anticipated.

"The state share of the average assistance grant per person has turned out to be eighty-five cents more per person than estimated. This is due in part to Federal matching on fewer blind pension cases than anticipated because we were required to adopt a tighter definition of a needy blind person.

"In my budget presentation two years ago I pointed out that we were faced with having to make a refund to the Federal Government for its share of assistance granted to certain persons who received aid in the Federal categories while assigned to relief work projects. This amounted to $370,000. A second claim for $208,000 resulted because the Department had received Federal matching on a number of (1) blind pension cases that did not meet the Federal conditions of eligibility and (2) other cases of incompetent adult persons who the Federal Agency held should have had court appointed guardians.

"The new compensation plan accounted for an increase of $769,340 in state funds.

"The biggest factor, of course, in the need for a deficiency appropriation results from the cut of $5 million made by the Governor in order to balance total appropriations and total estimated revenues.

"A separate appropriation of $2,150,000 covered the state share of the increase of $10 per month in the blind pension,"

"The appropriation of $3 million for the new nursing home care program turned out to be more than needed for this biennium, but there is every indication that the cost of this program will increase considerably during the next biennium.

"The net result of the above and other miscellaneous factors supported by the attached detailed schedule shows a need for a deficiency appropriation of $8,116,000."

That is the end of the memorandum.

I am not going to read this comparative analysis of estimates submitted by the Secretary of Public Assistance but I am asking the Members of the House to vote for his deficiency amendment to supply the Department with he necessary amount of finances for this biennium. If it is not required, it will of course be lapsed. I believe he Secretary of Public Assistance should know approximately how much money is necessary, and I see no reason to pass a smaller amount at this time and then introduce another bill later on to do exactly what I am asking you to do at this time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

On a rising vote, fifty-nine Members having voted in the affirmative, and ninety-eight in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second, third and fourth sections and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 29, 1957.

The present northern terminus of the Northeastern Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike is at Emerald Interchange at the convergence of Pennsylvania routes 29, 45 and 145 in Lehigh County.

The present plans of the Turnpike Commission are to eliminate this interchange after March 15 of this year, when the new section to Scranton will be opened.

The interchange at Emerald is of vital importance to all traffic approaching the turnpike from route 29, 45 or 145, because the only alternate route is over a hazardous road in extremely poor condition.

The maintenance of the Emerald interchange would promote safety for persons using our roads, convenience and expedite traffic approaching the turnpike from that area, and provide needed revenue to the Turnpike Commission; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania respectfully request the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, to alter its present plans so as to make the Emerald Interchange a permanent part of the Pennsylvania Turnpike system; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to each member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. VARNER asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Boroughs to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for the record and in answer to some of the statements made by the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, relative to the biennial report of the Department of Highways, I would like to say that the gentleman stated that a report was submitted from the Highway Department under the Administrative Code to the Governor and that there were 2,500 copies delivered to the Governor.

Mr. Speaker, this is not so. The report was compiled and one copy was transmitted to the Governor and one copy was transmitted to the Secretary of Highways.

It is not so, either, that the report was stamped "Confidential," for this report is available and open for public inspection by anyone desiring a copy of same. The report was available in the Department of Highways and up until the gentleman's remarks about it on the floor of the House there was not one single request for a copy of this biennial report.

I want to say further, Mr. Speaker, there is nothing to the matter of this not having been transmitted to the Members of the General Assembly. I understand the Highway Department intended to supply the membership with copies of it at the time of the presentation of the budget for the coming biennium.

I have sat in the House for nine consecutive terms and I have inquired of some of the older colleagues of mine on this side of the House, and we have never been favored with the presentation of this report in the fall of the year. I am assuming that the reason we have not been presented with such a report in the past is because it is put out in the fall of the even-numbered year and ordinarily we are not in session at that particular time.

So I believe the record should show that some of the inferences of the gentleman from McKean were in error and that the report was available and the report was made up in accordance with the Administrative Code. Since not one single request was received by the Department, therefore they had no reason to send it to any particular person. Under our Administrative Code that Department and the other departments are required to compile such a report, and the report is compiled by the people in the Highway Department. Under the Administrative Code they are committed to sending one to the Governor and sending one to the Secretary of Highways. The same holds true with the other departments. Any person of all the people of our Commonwealth can request the report and the same would be furnished to them. It is public, it never has been stamped "Confidential" and it is open for everybody's inspection.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman, I do not believe I said yesterday that 2,500 copies were delivered to the Governor. I do not believe I said that. I said the report had been made up during a period from May 31st to September 1st, during that interim, as required by law and that 2,500 copies were printed.

As near as I can find out, since that report was made up previous to September 1, 1916, I do not believe there is anyone in this Commonwealth who can walk in here and hold up a copy of that report and say he had received a copy of that report. So what I said yesterday still stands, that the report was made up and that it was—I will not say marked "classified," that probably is too strong a term—but I will say they sat on the report. I doubt very much, despite what has been said here today, that the report would have been in our hands even today.

I believe the report was printed between May 31st and September 1st. I will say in getting the report now, it has whiskers on it. It has been moulding in storage. We should have had it on the opening day of the Legislature, certainly, or we should have had it before then.

I have examined the report. I can see why it would not be published. For instance, the construction dollar dropped from $105.8 million in 1954-1955 to $88 million in 1955-1956. The administration costs went up in 1955-1956 over 1954-1955 from 8.57 per cent to 11.4 per cent. The cost of maintenance jumped in the last year under question from $33.2 million to $40.1 million.

I would say it is not a good report and I can see why it probably was not made public, because those figures certainly are nothing to crow about. They should be in the reverse, rather than maintenance jumping the way it does. We have shown in the figures that the construction dollar has been increasing every year, rather than decreasing. In other words, as I say, it dropped from $105 million to $88 million.

We have heard the Governor's message here today on the great things they hope to do in the next two years. I certainly hope they are able to do them, because it does present a challenging road construction program. With the absence of design engineers in the Department, the sparsity of surveying crews and the slow job that is being done by the design engineering firms, many of whom are new firms recruited to do this work, if we are able in the next ibennium to build $539 million worth of roads, I will certainly be a very surprised person. I doubt if the job can be done and I certainly want to challenge the Secretary of Highways on his ability to design, let contracts and construct that amount of highways during the next two years.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly cannot let some of the remarks of the gentleman go unanswered.

What the gentleman has stated here indicates he evidently has not made a study of the projected, expanded highway program. I have made such a study and I am not going to stand here and take the time of the House this afternoon in an endeavor to enlighten the membership upon the various facets of that program. I am going to say that the gentleman does not know what he is talking about when he read off a few figures at random from a book. At such time as the gentleman would want to debate the entirety of the projected highway program, together with the policies of the planning in past bienniums, I would do so at a future date.

I understood the gentleman was not going to discuss the budget message and he was not going to discuss the highway program. But in the event the gentleman needs more time, a week or two weeks, to get into the detailed matter of this highway program, I will be happy to wait that long. The gentleman must recognize a complete breakdown of the highway planning and designing took place between the Spring of 1954 and the February period of 1955. So in effect when the gentleman recognizes the technical problems confronting such a program, and one which is so vital to the economy of our state, he must realize those technical items take a period of anywhere from one to two years in which they enter the planning stage on the drawing boards until such time as they are let for contract. This and all of the other items in this budget I would like to discuss with the gentleman here on the floor of the House for the information of the Members, but I certainly do not think I want to take that time today. The gentleman can rest assured that with the type of program we have today it will all go well, together with our economic development program, to benefit every group in our Commonwealth.

We have found that the possibilities of inducing industry to locate in areas in our Commonwealth is contingent upon the proper planning of our highways as well. I was visited today by a former Member of this House, who is now in a key position with the Westinghouse Corporation, and we have in our immediate area in western Pennsylvania and in the immediate area of my legislative district, the possibility of an expansion of approximately a $15 million operation. It takes a little vision and foresight in the highway planning for that area in order to have that plant locate within our Commonwealth.

This and many other things have been taken into consideration by the good business administration that we now have in the Department of Highways. I know that in discussing all of these things we will be able to lay the program before the Members of the House and they will see very clearly with this detailed information that we should move in this regard, because we must consider and recognize just as the Federal Government did with a Republican President and a Democratic Congress, that your highways today are the life line of your economy, and Pennsylvania should not be behind.

GENERAL COMMUNICATION

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA
VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF THE UNITED STATES
CHARTERED BY CONGRESS

(SEAL)
Telephone CEdar 4-7927

201 N. Front St.
Harrisburg, Pa.

February 19, 1957

Honorable Roy E. Furman
Lieutenant Governor
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
The Capitol
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Lieutenant Governor Furman:

The Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, through its Council of Administration, composed of all elected state officers and commanders of our twenty-four districts in the Commonwealth, at a regular stated meeting at Steelton, Pennsylvania, February 16, 1957, unanimously opposed repealing the Pennsylvania Loyalty Act of December 2, 1951 (P. L. 1726) as proposed in Senate Bill No. 131, of 1957, introduced by Senator Harry E. Seyler of York, representing the 28th District of Pennsylvania.

It is the consensus of our organization that repeal of the Loyalty Oath would invite infiltration of our state government, our schools, tax-supported institutions in the Commonwealth and other tax-supported jobs by communists. Repeal of this law is unthinkable.

I am mandated by the Council to memorialize the General Assembly of the Commonwealth that the Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, which long urged enactment of the Loyalty Act, is unalterably opposed to its repeal.

The resolution adopted by the Council, opposing its repeal is as follows:

"Whereas Senator Harry E. Seyler, of York, has introduced a bill in the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to repeal the Pennsylvania Loyalty Act, and

"Whereas Representatives John R. Welsh and Herman Toll, both of Philadelphia, and John R. Gailey, Jr., of York, are co-sponsors of an identical bill in the House of Representatives, therefore be it

"Resolved that the Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, representing more than 150,000 members in Pennsylvania who fought for the freedom and security of our country, strongly memorialize the General Assembly of the Commonwealth its objections to repeal of the Loyalty Act, which if repealed would invite Soviet agents and other disloyal persons to infiltrate our state and local governments and all other institutions we cherish, and be it further

"Resolved that this resolution and letter of transmittal to the House of Representatives and to the Senate of the Commonwealth be made part of the Legislative Journal of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

"ADOPTED BY THE COUNCIL OF ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA, VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF THE UNITED STATES, AT STEELTON, PENNSYLVANIA, FEBRUARY 16, 1957."

Upon receipt of this letter, it is respectfully requested that it be made part of the Legislative Journal of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

With every good wish,

Sincerely,

/s/ Morton Fromm
MORTON FROMM
Department Commander

CC: Senator John H. Dent, Minority Leader of the Senate.
Senator Rowland B. Mahany, Majority Leader of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This communication will be printed in the Journal.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At this time, the Chair invites the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, to the rostrum to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (James S. Berger) in the Chair.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. KESSLER and PROPERT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 319, entitled:

An Act providing for a referendum to determine the will of the electorate on certain contracts between any political subdivision and Authorities.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, this is the so-called scholarship bill about which Senator Dent, the Minority Leader, spoke on the opening day of the Session, if you will recall.

This bill proposes to refine for the use of the Nation and the Commonwealth some of the raw materials on the farm, in the village, in the town and city which are now being wasted. The greatest resource this Commonwealth has is the brain power of its people. Because ability to pay for a college education and ability to profit from a college education do not always show a positive correlation, we are now losing too much of this most valuable resource, a resource that we may sorely seed if the race with the anti-democratic forces in the world continue in the next decade as has been true in the past.

This is a scholarship bill, a kind of companion bill or a bill that complement Senate Bill No. 256, the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Authority Bill, sponsored by Senator Mahany, Senator Dent, Senator Ehrgood and myself.

Mr. President, this proposal today was drafted prior to the report this week of the Commission on Higher Education. However, I do not think this proposal is contradictory to the scholarship proposal of that commission. This is a much shorter step than they propose with a $10,500,000 fund. However, this sponsor is quite willing to withdraw this bill in favor of the more extensive proposal of this commission, if the majority of the Senate should desire to take the giant step at this Session.

Briefly, the bill I am about to present provides for 500 competitive scholarships instead of the present eighty for the entire Commonwealth. This bill has no relationship to the so-called Senatorial Scholarships. It disturbs that situation in no way. The Senatorial Scholarship is the concern of the four universities of the State and not primarily a matter of legislation. These 500 scholarships would replace the present eighty competitive scholarships now valued at $200 each year. Even though we did increase their value at the last Session from $100 to $200, it still means that the boy or girl without any source of funds other than the $200 cannot attend a college, regardless of his brain power.

This proposal calls for a continuation of the present competitive examination conducted by the Department of Public Instruction. Instead of one award to each county or Senatorial District, as is now true, this number will be increased threefold and the number per county or district will be three. This also means that 260 additional scholarships will be available on a State-wide basis. Now, instead of the uniform value of $200 each, regardless of the need of the winner, this proposal will scale the value on a four step basis, with the lowest annual value $100, to the highest value of $800. The parent or guardian of the winner in the lowest income bracket would be awarded the $800 annually for four years, and the parent or guardian in the highest bracket or the parent or guardian of a winner who did not wish to reveal to the Department of Public Instruction his taxable income would be eligible for the minimum annual award of $100.

These scholarships, as is now true, would be valid at any approved institution of higher learning in the State. The effective date would be the 1958-1959 college year. If Pennsylvania's Senator Clark's Federal Scholarship Program should be fortunate enough to gain Congressional and Presidential approval, I still believe that this bill would be of great benefit to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I commend this proposed bill for serious consideration of the committee to which it will be referred. Let us give more of our best brains a real chance at a college education.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Kalman, Senator Ehrgood, Senator Dent, Senator Pechan and myself I offer the following bill.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. HAYS, KALMAN, PECHAN, DENT and EHRGOOD read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 320, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," changing the number and value of scholarships and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, the Legislature of Pennsylvania in recent years has recognized many of the advancements of medicine here in our Commonwealth. More recently, we have recognized, of course, the Salk vaccine. One of the forgotten groups of people in our State are the epileptics.

I, in this series of bills, suggest a repeal of some old existing laws and recognize the medical profession's advancement in controlling epilepsy here in the Commonwealth.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I am presenting the following series of bills.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. VAN SANT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 321, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 22, 1953 (P. L. 1344) entitled "The Marriage Law," further regulating the issuance of marriage licenses.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 322, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code," providing in certain cases for the licensing of epileptics and persons suffering from other impairments.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 323, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 2, 1915 (P. L. 736) entitled, as amended, "The Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Act," providing for reimbursement by the Commonwealth to employers, the State Workmen's Insurance Fund and insurance carriers for awards of compensation and expenses paid in certain cases.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. PECHAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 324, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," transferring the Farview State Hospital from the Department of Welfare to the Department of Justice.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 325, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," transferring the Laurelton State Village from the Department of Welfare to the Department of Justice.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

Mr. STEVENSON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 326, entitled:

An Act providing for the creation and incorporation as bodies corporate and politic of joint service districts by counties, cities of the third class, boroughs, towns and townships to perform certain functions; prescribing the powers and duties of such point service districts, and the duties of participating counties, cities, boroughs, towns and townships; and conferring jurisdiction on courts of quarter sessions in connection therewith.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PRAYER

Reverend Mark J. Hostetter, Pastor of Lincoln Park Community Church, Reading, Pa., guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our Heavenly Father, who willest that we should give thanks for all things, give us a deep awareness of all Thy blessings, both the pleasant experience and the tough challenges confronting us. While we thank Thee for these things, help us to withstand the temptations following close on the heels of every blessing; for comfort and pleasure tempt us to go to sleep when we should be every alert, and hardship tempts us to give up when we should look up to Thee.

O thou Sun of righteousness, evermore arising and never going down, shed abroad in our hearts the rays of Thy light; drive out the clouds of ignorance and the mists of sin and doubt.

Here we pause to thank Thee for freedom based on justice under law. So we also offer special prayer for this House of Representatives. Guide these selected ones who make our laws by a great and unfailing vision of Thee; then shall they know better and better how to perform this large work. Let all they think or speak or do, be for Thy glory and the good of the people. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we have now been in session for a considerable number of weeks. Judging by comment I would gather that the responsible leaders of this House are in high good humor and speak of the businesslike, short session which confronts us.

As a matter of fact, in our deliberations so far we have been as reckless as children playing bank with bogus money. There is yet a failure to show any indication of a desire to grapple basically with the paramount financial problems which confront this Commonwealth.

If there ever was a time when Pennsylvania's General Assembly could begin making long-range plans for a sane and sensible financial structure, that time is now. We have hurriedly concocted the beginnings of a financial program which embodies all the Democratic mistakes of the past and reaffirms a good many mistakes of the now dominant party.

We face a very peculiar situation. If ever the editors and those who write for the Press have demonstrated their incompetence to pass upon legislation, particularly passed tax legislation, that time is now. Either the Press has gone screwball, or we have failed to grapple with the problems that beset us.

We have on every hand newspaper comment. One newspaper says, "High Taxes Drive Plant Into Ohio." A man by the name of Rockwell attacks our tax structure. A very distinguished writer says, "State Losing Industry." A paper of some general circulation published in Pittsburgh comments editorially about a new steel plant for Ohio. I could go on and on. That is one side of the picture.

We have our Department of Labor and Industry sending out releases which tell of this industry that is located in Pennsylvania; this industry that is located in Pennsylvania, this industry that is located in Pennsylvania and this industry that is located in Pennsylvania and claiming there has been during the last two years such an increase in Pennsylvania industry as should be impressive.

We have framed our tax program. It really should be pending at this time in the House, instead of being committed to the other Chamber, until such time as the agency which we have designated as the agency to study the matter, the Joint State Government Commission, renders its pending report, supposed to be authentic, as to whether or not our tax structure is the reason why various industries leave Pennsylvania. I say it is a gesture of contempt directed toward our fact-finding agency that we should have formed a tax program, have dealt with our business problems as they relate to taxation and then have wholly disregarded the report of our fact-finding body, the Joint State Government Commission.

The question recurs, what do we propose to do for business? When are we going to do it?

There are pending certain developments which, come 1958 or 1959, along there somewhere, will give, or are supposed to give some relief to business. Those proposals have been pending for 20 years.

You know, in the days when Dobbin was being succeeded by the horseless carriage two sparrows were lamenting the prospect. One sparrow lamented the passing of Dobbin, the other sparrow commented upon the fact that there was a horseless carriage that went along saying, "Putt. Putt. Putt." The other sparrow said, "Yes, it says, 'Putt. Putt. Putt,' but God knows we can't live on promises." And I would say the same thing about the industry of our Commonwealth as far as taxes are concerned.

If it is true that our tax structure tends to destroy our economic structure, then we have been dealing in promises as long as I have been a Member of this House. So if there was some way within the range of proper parliamentary practice, the tax program which we have sent to the other Chamber should be recalled and placed upon the table until such time as the Joint State Government Commission has reported its belief as to whether or not our taxes are driving industries out of this Commonwealth. If they are, if that is the case, then we are confronted with the prime necessity of redrafting our tax structure and beginning to erect it on a long-range, permanent basis. We are still dealing, still adding, still giving the people, still giving business, emergency taxes which have been emergency taxes, as I have said, ever since I have been a Member of this House.

So I would say to the Majority Leader that instead of being so cocky about a short businesslike session, he and his colleagues should begin to give some evidence of what they propose to do for business now.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 82, entitled as follows:

An Act to provide for an additional law judge of the court of common pleas in the twelfth judicial district

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill No. 82 provides for an additional common pleas judge in the 12th Judicial District, which comprises Dauphin County.

This bill is before you today because Dauphin County, the 12th Judicial District, feels it needs one additional law judge to carry on the work load that is being carried on by this court. Undoubtedly that same problem exists statewide in many other judicial districts. However, in Dauphin County, as probably all of the Members know, the Dauphin County Court is the Commonwealth Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylivania. As the Commonwealth Court, the Dauphin County Court is responsible for carrying a heavy load of cases and litigation involving the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a party.

Presently, the Commonwealth Court comprises the four present judges of the Commonwealth Pleas Court and the one present judge of the Orphans' Court when they sit as the Commonwealth Court. This bill, as I said, asks for another Common Pleas judge, making the Common Pleas Court five in number and making the Commonwealth Court six in number with the Orphans' Court judge sitting as a member of the Commonwealth Court.

As I said, the problem of increasing litigation is probably prevalent throughout the state in many judicial districts. However, in the Dauphin County Court we have a particularly heavy increase of Commonwealth cases over the last five years.

For your information, the Commonwealth Court in 1951 heard 266 cases in the Commonwealth Docket. They were cases in which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania itself was a party. That went down slightly in 1952 and then continued to rise until this past year of 1956 when the Commonwealth Court had before it 497 cases in which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was a party. In other words, in a period of approximately six years the case load on the Commonwealth Docket alone has almost doubled.

For that reason we feel this is not a bill of local interest only, but is a bill which must be considered by this membership as it affects every county in this state. It affects the operation of the executive branch of the government, it affects the operation of the state government as a whole. We feel for this reason, and this reason alone, the justification for an additional judge in the 12th Judicial District is certainly basic, is certainly necessary, and we request that you support this bill and give us an additional judge here particularly, for the Commonwealth work.

I will just say one more thing. This bill has the support of the Pennsylvania Bar Association because it likewise feels this is a statewide problem.

I will close my remarks to prevent interrogation by stating that I am not a candidate for this position.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BOWMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to ask the gentleman whether it is not a fact that one of the common pleas judges who formerly sat in the Commonwealth Court has been ill for the last two years?

Mr. BOWMAN. That is correct. He is now back in his chambers and although he has not sat on the bench he is handling some work again.

Mr. READINGER. Is it the opinion of the gentleman if this judge had not been ill, the work load would still be more than the four Common Pleas and one Orphans' Court judge can handle properly?

Mr. BOWMAN. It is, Mr. Readinger.

Mr. READINGER. What is the population of Dauphin County?

Mr. BOWMAN. The last decennial census indicates approximately 197,000. It is now said to be in the vicinity of 200,000.

Mr. READINGER. In counties of that size, is it not common to have only two common pleas judges?

Mr. BOWMAN. Two or three. Cambria County, with slightly more population, has three. They have 209,000. Schuylkill County, which has 200,000 population, has four common pleas judges. They do not, of course, have any Commonwealth Court docket.

Mr. READINGER. Did the gentleman give us the figures of the number of Commonwealth cases for the year 1955?

Mr. BOWMAN. I did not specifically give the number

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman have that?

Mr. BOWMAN. He does.

Mr. READINGER. May I have that number?

Mr. BOWMAN. That number is 299.

Mr. READINGER. And the year 1954?

Mr. BOWMAN. 309.

Mr. READINGER. 1953?

Mr. BOWMAN. 243.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask whether the work of the Dauphin County Court has been unduly delayed? Does it take a long time to get decisions or to get hearings, and so forth?

Mr. BOWMAN. The gentleman is speaking of the normal common pleas work?

Mr. READINGER. I am speaking of their work generally, whether it is Commonwealth cases or whether it is county cases.

Mr. BOWMAN. On the Commonwealth side, they are of course very busy. As far as I am personally concerned, there is an extensive time element in getting a decision.

Mr. READINGER. The trial dockets, are they far behind, say six months, three months?

Mr. BOWMAN. Arbitration has considerably lessened the trial docket. However, in the last term there were 50 cases listed for trial. I would say they are approximately six months to one year behind.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I had requested that this bill go over until Monday for the reason that the Democratic Members have not had an opportunity to caucus on it, but the majority party has decided the bill should be moved today. I presume one of the reasons for wanting to move it now is the fact that if the bill does not pass quite soon, it would be too late for this additional judicial position to be filled by election this year If that happened, it could not be filled, as I understand the law, until the election of 1959, which would mean the person elected would not take office until January of 1960. Of course, the Governor could appoint someone to fill this position until that time.

I am not asking the Democratic Members to vote against this bill. I think every Democrat should consider what has been said about the need for this additional judge and should make that decision as he sees fit and vote in that way.

What I would like to state today is the fact that in past sessions we have seen some rather peculiar political voting on this matter of judges. There was a proposal made during the 1955 session to add an additional Common Pleas Court in Philadelphia, and the matter was debated quite at length. It seemed reasonably clear to me that Philadelphia needed another court and probably still needs it. So I would like to have the assurance of the majority Members that they will give fair and honest consideration to the needs of other counties for judges if those needs are proposed during this Session, and to vote not on a political basis but on a basis of need. If a county's work load requires additional judges, I think we should provide them. We should not force any county, Dauphin County included, to overwork its judges or have its court work unduly delayed because of lack of personnel.

I am asking the Democratic Members who believe Dauphin County needs an additional judge to vote for it. Those who think Dauphin County does not need it, they should vote against this request.

Mr. TOLL. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether the Minority Leader overlooked the fact that in the last session a resolution was adopted for the Joint State Government Commission to study the problem of court administration.

In connection with that study several meetings were held, and a bill is being prepared for the purpose of recommending a court administrator who will make assignments of various members of the bench to the counties which have an unusual work load. Now it is quite possible that in Dauphin County, due to the illness of Judge Smith, they slipped behind a little in the administration of their business. As a matter of fact, the gentleman from Dauphin said they are only six months to a year behind on some of their civil cases, while in Philadelphia we are two years behind. So relatively speaking they are much better off than we are.

I would say that a bill of this nature should be held up in the interests of economy and in the interests of the bill which is being prepared now by the Joint State Government Commission so that if it is necessary to have a judge assigned to Dauphin County for purposes of disposing of the extra cases, a judge could be assigned from another county. As a matter of fact, judges are now being assigned on a voluntary basis, but under this bill which is being prepared, assignments will be mandatory. That is why I feel that to hastily acquire a new judge, in view of the impending change of the judicial administration, would be unwise, and that is why I am going to vote against it.

The SPEAKER. How does the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, vote?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman votes "present".

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules the gentleman cannot be recorded as voting "present."

Article III Section 4 of the Constitution requires the vote to be taken by ayes and nays. Under the rules of the House he is required to vote for or against the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. If I have a special interest in the bill, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman states he has a special interest in the bill he may be excused from voting.

Will the House excuse the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, from voting?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, under the present circumstances I wish to be recorded as voting "aye."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

On the quesiotn recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Bradford, Mr. Moscrip.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bradford, Mr. Moscrip, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOSCRIP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to the membership the meaning of the Senate amendments in which we are asked to concur?

Mr. MOSCIRP. Mr. Speaker, this bill passed the House originally 202 to 0. This involves some rather technical situations in union districts which have already been constituted and in operation in order to preserve the staggered terms by which school directors are elected.

As you know, in fourth class districts you elect two, two and one and in the third class districts two, three and two.

It developed after the bill passed the House that there might be some bugs in it which would affect the sequence of elections as well as perhaps, the legality of the election of certain directors.

These amendments make no substantive change in the bill as it left the House, with one exception. It does provide in certain cases for the election of either two or three members at large, in addiiton to the minimum membership of one director per district.

The rest of the amendments are simply a matter of polishing the bill to make it operative and try to eliminate any ambiguities in its construction.

All parties sat in on these amendments when they were drawn, including the Department of Justice.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 140

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing representation on the board of directors of union and merged school districts.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the prsence of the House, signed the same.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 27

Mr. IDE. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 8 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 27.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 11, 1957.

Whereas, State Highway Alternate Route 22 at its eastern terminus is located in the City of Easton, extending from the western boundary of the city eastwardly by a tortuous and winding route along the Bushkill Creek to the Delaware River; and

Whereas, the speed limit on the major portion of said roadway is fixed at 35 miles per hour in view of the dangerous and hazardous conditions created by the hairpin curves of said roadway; and

Whereas, said roadway is posted against speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour but the posting does not adequately warn motorists of the inherently dangerous and hazardous conditions of the roadway with the result that motorists have, time and again, proceeded into said curves at excessive speeds and have lost control of their vehicles —crossing the medial strip and colliding with traffic proceeding in the opposite direction; and

Whereas, an exceptionally high rate of serious accidents, many involving fatalities, have resulted and have prompted repeated requests to the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to install such additional facilities as may be necessary to warn motorists of the hazardous road condition; and

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Department of Highways, despite a continuing and increasing rate of serious accidents on said roadway, has failed to adopt any remedied measures as requested;

Now, therefore, be it resolved that, in the interests of the safety of the general travelling public, the Governor be and he hereby is requested to order and direct the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to install such additional warning facilities including more adequate illumination, flashing red signals and an elevated medial strip so as to impress more forcefully upon motorists about to enter upon said roadway the extremely hazardous and dangerous condition of the same.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. IDE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend first preamble, page 1, by striking out "Alternate" in the first line.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Ordered, That the resolution as amended, lie over for printing.

ABSENT MEMBERS

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we just want it noted in the record that the reason the following Members of the House are not here this morning for voting, viz., Messrs. Tompkins, Bell and Lopresti, is because they are attending the hearing on the Pardons Board investigation. They would have come up here had it been necessary for any of them to be on the roll call.

PREMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, Philadelphia is considered the capital of Delaware Valley, United States of America, and our entire economy hinges upon a deeper channel in the Delaware, especially that part of the Delaware which lies between Trenton and Philadelphia.

It seem that in making appropriations, the Federal Government—and I am referring to the Executive Branch —disregarded the will expressed by the Congress of the United States and pursued the formula of too little and too late. Again this year, despite the recommendations of the district engineers and despite action on the part of the Congress, the amount which was ear marked for the deepening of the channel is appalling in its paucity and. furthermore, instead of referring to a channel of forty feet deep, it only speaks about the channel being thirty-five feet deep.

Mr. President, I feel that we must establish a standing committee on the part of the Senate and the House to represent the people of Pennsylvania in such a way that our will will be known to the Federal Government, especially to the Executive Branch.

About a year ago, a study was made showing that millions upon millions of dollars were spent in the West on the Colorado River with funds, of which Pennsylvanians participated to the tune of about twenty-three per cent, and yet when it comes to the Delaware River which, as I stated before, is the main factor in the rapid expansion of the Delaware Valley and embraces three States, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, there is always an attitude of reluctance and curtailment.

Accordingly, Mr. President, this resolution brings to the attention of the Executive Branch, and the Legislative Branch of the United States Government, our wish to have the Delaware Valley developed rapidly.

Now in case there will be objection to this resolution, I can foresee that it will be sent to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations. I am a great admirer of Senator Harney, but I hope for awhile that mighty crematory will stop functioning and some action will be taken.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

VOICING DISAPPROVAL OF THE DISCRIMINATORY ACTION OF THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT OF THE UNITED STATES IN JEOPARDIZING THE WELFARE AND RETARDING THE FURTHER PROGRESS OF DELAWARE VALLEY U. S. A.

Mr. STIEFEL offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations:

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has recommended an appropriation of $9 million to be expended by the Corps of Engineers in the fiscal year 1958 for the purpose of continuing the authorized improvement of the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia, Pa., to Trenton, N. J.; and

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has imposed a maximum depth of 35 feet for the authorized improvement; and

Whereas, the Congressionally-authorized improvement calls for a depth of 40 feet; and

Whereas, the Philadelphia District Engineer of the United States Army, Corps of Engineers, has stated that the sum of $16,500,000 can be economically utilized in Fiscal 1958 on deepening the Delaware River Channel Philadelphia to Trenton; now therefore be it

Resolved (The House of Reprehentatives concurring) that the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, in behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice their disapproval of the discriminatory action of the Executive Department of the United States in jeopardizing the welfare and retarding the further progress of our Delaware Valley U.S.A. three state area and by refusing to recognize the urgent need for improvement of the Delaware River by providing in sufficient funds for the effective, timely continuation of the construction of this vital project, thereby causing a undue delay, measured in years, of the economic usefulness of the project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, on behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice its disapproval of the discriminatory action of The Executive Department of the United States which has altered the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel depth to an imposed figure of 35 feet; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to amend an approve legislation during the present session of the Congress of the United States that will make available in fiscal year 1958 the economic sum of $16,500,000 so that the justified and authorized improvement of the Delaware River can be continued at an effective rate in the interests of our national defense, industry, commerce, and the welfare of all the people of the Delaware Valley; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Excutive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to strike out any reference to a 35-foot restricting depth when that figure is in conflict with the authorized 40-foot depth; and be it further

Resolved, that the President pro-tempore of the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania reconstitute three members of the Senate who together with three members of the House of Representatives, upon the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, shall serve as a Joint Committee to be known as the Delaware River Philadelphia-Trenton Deeper Channel Committee; and be it further

Resolved, that said committee shall cooperate with the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in such actions as may be desirable and necessary to achieve the required legislative action from the Congress of the United States to assure not only the construction of the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel but to assure also the earliest possible completion of this important project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Secretary of the Senate be directed upon the passage of the instant Resolution to forward copies thereof to His Excellency, the President of the United States; to the Vice President of the United States, in his capacity as presiding officer of the Senate of the United States; to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, the Honorable Edward Martin and Joseph S. Clark, Jr.; to each one of the Members of the Pennsylvania Delegation to the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget; and to the Chief of Engineers, United State Corps of Engineers.

BILLS RE-REFERRED

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 167, (Pink), on second reading, entitled:

An Act creating in Philadelphia a Court of Administrative Appeals and defining its powers and jurisdiction be re-referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to address to the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator Pechan, an innocent inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Pechan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PECHAN. On an innocent inquiry, yes, Mr. President.

Mr. STIEFEL. Is the purpose of this referral for further study or is the bill to be pulverized, cremated and buried?

Mr. PECHAN. That we have never done on this side, Mr. President. We have never cremated nor pulverized a bill. The bill belongs in the Judiciary General Committee, we feel, because it is going to create some judgeships in Philadelphia County. We feel that the Committee on Judiciary General should make a thorough study, and that august body should give the benefit of their study to this Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I have no other alternative than to yield. However, I want to remark that this bill has been carefully scrutinized and studied by the Committee on Local Government. That committee does not consist of slouchers; there are some luminaries there. If Senator Stevenson passed the bill, there is something to it. I do not see why there is a difference between the members of the Judiciary General Committee and the members of the Committee on Local Government. After all, the Chairman of the Committee on Local Government, a man renown for his fairness and thoroughness, looked into those bills. If the bill merits re-study, I have no objection. However, I had to get up and take up for the Committee on Local Government.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative.)

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 168 (Pink), on second reading, entitled:

An Act changing the name of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia to the County Court of Philadelphia.

be re-referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, Senator Pechan, who is a man of few words, is extraordinarily cryptic today. He does not finish his sentences. Usually, he mollifies his statements by saying, "For further study." Even this statement is omitted, which is very ominous.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative.)

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 183 (Pink), on second reading, entitled

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the payment of expenses incurred in continuing the development of Independence Mall in Philadelphia.

be re-referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. Taylor. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I have no objection to this bill going to the Committee on Appropriations, which is the committee I feel it should find itself in. However, I do hope that the Committee on Appropriations will make a sufficient appropriation so that this project can be completed. If we had followed the advice of Judge Lewis some years ago, we would have saved some $5,000,000 to date by completing this project.

Mr. President, I do hope that we get sufficient funds in order to finally complete this time undertaking.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with.

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 478, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance and providing for certain allocations therefrom for the purpose of carrying out the Public Assistance Law for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of assistance and expenses accrued or incurred prior to and remaining unpaid on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, there are two sets of amendments here, but I am only going to present the one set which corrects an obvious error in the bill. The bill deals with the year 1955 instead of the year 1957 in making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance. However, the bill as it appears on the Calendar is $467,000 less than the amount required by the department to meet the Federal commitments and the needs of the Department for the end of the biennium. Inasmuch as the amendments were offered before and failed of passage, it would only be a waste of time, at this time, with the vote being what it is, to offer these amendments.

Neverthless, Mr. President, I can see another deficiency appropriation some time later on in the Session. I believe it would have been proper to have amended it at this time in order to give the proper amount. When you are dealing with $8,000,000, although $467,000 is a considerable sum of money, when you are dealing with an appropriation that is spending approximately $155,000,000 a biennium, you can easily see that such an amount would not carry the Department of Public Assistance too far.

I am sorry that the amendments were turned down when they were offered to the Majority side. However, at this time, on behalf of Senator Mahany and myself, I would like to present these clarifying amendments.

Messrs. DENT and MAHANY offered the following amendment:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 12 by striking out "fifty-five" and inserting: "fifty-seven."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second, third and fourth sections were read and agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Messrs. DENT and MAHANY offered the following amendment:

Amend the title, page 1, line 7 of the title, by striking out "fifty-five" and inserting: "fifty-seven."

It was agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Which was re-referred to the Committee on Highways.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR JOHN H. DENT AND HONORABLE CHARLES L. LATHERO

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I have had an unusual responsibility bestowed upon me by quite a number of the Members of the Senate on the Democratic side.

Most of you know that we of the Senate of Pennsylvania have acquired great renown as to our generosity, as to our dignity and as to the decorum with which we conduct our affairs here on the floor of the Senate. It has been brought to my attention that we have in our midst a Member of this Senate and one of our official family, too, who is sitting up front, that we on the Democratic side—and I feel that the Republicans will agree—feel are pretty much a couple of cheapskates. I say that because it seems that last Saturday, Senator Dent and our good friend, Charlie Lathero, both had birthdays. You know, to the best of my knowledge and to the best of my memory, as long as I have been a Member of this Senate, I have never attended a birthday party that Charlie Lathero put on or Senator Dent put on, whereby they picked up the check.

Therefore, we on the Democratic side and I hope you on the Republican side will join with us when we say this; that if these two gentlemen want to stay in our good graces, we feel they should loosen up a little bit and not feel that they always should break even. I recall that around Christmas time, Senator Dent wants to figure out whether he will break even on his Christmas presents. I think Mr. Lathero is in the same boat.

We feel that it this time of the year, just because they had a birthday on Saturday, it does not mean that we are not in Session on Monday and are not still hungry. We feel that these two distinguished gentlemen should be gracious and generous enough to, at least, extend us the courtesy of inviting us to a birthday shindig. We do not mean that we want anything cheap either. We would like to have a nice fillet, with all the trimmings, down at the Penn-Harris. Of course, if you have anything which will help out as far as laughter is concerned, a little wine or something like that, I believe we will accept if you coax us a little bit. However, if you do not coax us and if you do not agree, as far as we are concerned, we feel that your tap is shut off.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, on behalf of my Republican colleagues, I wish to congratulate both these gentlemen; my good friend, Senator Dent, the orator from Westmoreland, and that honored employee and great friend of all of us, Charles Lathero.

I want to also state to Senator Lane that he was lucky that he did not get invited to the birthday party that these gentlemen had. They had a little soiree last Saturday evening, to which I was invited, and I got into the spirit of the occasion to such an extent that I invited everybody present to be my guests at dinner on Sunday. Believe me, I would have been much better off moneywise to have been with Senator Lane on Saturday night and paid for my own dinner.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS AT STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGES AND RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY OUT-OF-STATE CONSULTANTS

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. HARNEY and MADIGAN offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Education:

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, the General State Authority has adopted construction projects at several of the State Teachers Colleges of the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, the Department of Public Instruction has employed consultants from outside the Commonwealth to survey said State Teachers Colleges, and

Whereas, recommendations are being made to the Superintendent of Public Instruction which are impractical and impossible of accomplishment, and

Whereas, this has resulted in unnecessary delay in making critically needed repairs and expansions for a long period of time after money has been made available for this purpose, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a committee be appointed, three by the President pro tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House, to make a study of this matter and report to the Legislature not later than May 1, 1957, in order that this unfortunate situation may be corrected.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, what I am going to direct to this group today illustrates one cleavage of adversity. Sometimes in adversity there is a silver lining, and after suffering adversity, I am in a position to make a statement without any accusations whatever of being partial.

I want to state that during the Leader Administration I had one after another adverse decision by the Board of Pardons. Therefore, when I get up to say something about the Board of Pardons, I am not currying any favor because most all of my cases, except one, went down to defeat. Therefore, I am impartial. As a matter of fact maybe I should be called as an Exhibit No. 1, or 2 or 3 to show that this Board is impartial.

Anyway while people speak about rippers, it reminds me of the classic statement of John B. Kelley back in 1938, when the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania declared the ripper of the Municipal Court unconstitutional. Mr. Kelley then uttered that famous classical expression. He said, "They put the zippers in the rippers." Now when you hear people going around Pennsylvania talking about ripping the Board of Pardons, I may assure them that the people of Pennsylvania in due time will put the zippers in the rippers.

However, Mr. President, this is not what I am going to talk about. I am coming to the conclusion that there is some remedial action needed concering the Board of Pardons. Time and again, I observe a young district attorney coming before the Board and having the audacity and arrogance to speak about a case which may have been tried fifteen or twenty years ago. These assistant district attorneys come to the prison or to the penitentiary like Caesar, "Veni, vidi, vici," "He came, he saw, he conquered." He pays a hurried visit and then he comes before the Pardons Board and either objects or favors, but anytime the statement is superficial. Sometimes a judge, who never tried the case, ventures to pass an opinion about the fate of a prisoner, although he does not know anything about the case.

I came to the conclusion, Mr. President, that in order to bolster the standing of the Board of Pardons, it is high time to create a special branch, to be known as a group of evaluators or a committee on evaluations which would make an independent study of a prisoner's record. When they would appear before the Board, there would be no need to depend upon the district attorney or the judge. Then we would know that whatever would be presented would not be slanted one way or the other way.

For this reason, Mr. President, I serve notice that tomorrow I am going to introduce a bill which will take care of this situation.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, we object to the following revenue bills being read for the first time: House Bill No. 330, House Bill No. 331, House Bill No. 332, House Bill No. 335, House Bill No. 336, House Bill No. 333, House Bill No. 334 and House Bill No. 337.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, there is not very much we can do to prevent the objection being entered. However, I would point out to Senator Lane that this means that we will have to have a Session on Thursday. We had planned to go down to Philadelphia on Wednesday night to be the guests of Mayor Dilworth and others, and also take a little tour of the city to see what their needs are in Philadelphia on Thursday. This means that we will have to call off that particular party and be here in Session on Thursday if they insist. I cannot understand why they would insist on this, because it seems to me that between now and Wednesday they should be able to study these bills. If they have any amendments which they would like to introduce, they may do so tomorrow.

I hope they will reconsider their position because Mayor Dilworth and others in Philadelphia have gone to considerable effort and some planning in order to have us there Wednesday night and Thursday.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it is impossible for any of us to have any amendments ready by tomorrow or to make a final consideration on this package of bills by Wednesday or by Thursday, for that matter. I believe that in all honesty, waiting until next week for the final passage of the tax legislation is not going to delay this Session any longer than its final adjournment date.

Do we not find ourselves in this position? Major amendments are being made. The depth of these amendments cannot be measured from the reading across the desk nor can we wait until tomorrow morning, sometime, to get a copy of the amended bill and hope to have it in shape to offer amendments in the afternoon, unless a predetermination has been made that whatever suggestions we have to offer and whatever amendments we may suggest will be automatically defeated by the juggernaut of the votes on the other side. If that is the case, then, of course, there is no sense in holding up today, tomorrow, Wednesday or Thursday.

Mr. President, this is important legislation, dealing with the welfare and the lives of the people of Pennsylvania, yes, and the welfare and the future welfare of the industry of Pennsylvania and its businesses. Sometimes those of us who pose as friends today may end up being the enemies of tomorrow. Let us just see how big the grab is; let us just see what is happening here.

Are we further reducing to a lower minimum yet the numbers of peoples in this Commonwealth who will pay the taxes as the budget creeps higher and the expenditures go higher? Are we taking from those who have paid taxes for a period of twenty-five years or more and now suddenly, in a demand of increasing the expenditures, going to reduce taxes on some and add to others?

I cannot answer those questions tonight. It behooves every man in this Senate to answer them, at least, for himself if not for the people of the Commonwealth. I do not care whether we are here on Thursday, Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Certainly, we can wait an extra day for that important a matter.

We are not dealing with a small, insignificant piece of legislation that has no great portent on the welfare of this great Commonwealth. We are dealing with a group of tax measures that now may well measure $1,500,000,000. I have before me conflicting statements. I cannot analyze them that quickly, nor can any other student in this body analyze the amount of revenue that is expected from the new taxes as they have been amended in this committee. No committee member, outside of the chairman, has had a look at any of the committee amendments prior to the meeting which was held this afternoon during the Session of the Legislature. The most important and vital legislation that will come before this body during the entire Session was resolved in a matter of an impromptu meeting held during the Session.

There have been no meetings of the Finance Committee, as we were wont to do in years gone by, to hammer out and study between us the various problems and agreements or disagreements at which we may have arrived. This was put through today, and never have I seen steamroller tactics so well pictured as they are here this afternoon when they object to the bills being held over for one day.

I would interrogate every man on the other side and outside of perhaps one—and I do not go beyond that one—I can interrogate any one of you right at this moment and take these bills page by page, and verse by verse, and I would be willing to wager that you would not know any more about the legislation that we are pushing through at this time than any of us on this side.

You are dealing with the welfare of the Commonwealth, and an extra day or two is not going to hurt us. There have been no committee meetings, Mr. President. There have been no publications of any authenticity which would give us any of the recommendations that are embodied in these amendments. We want ot look them over. The only copy that I had a chance to see was in the hands of a newspaperman a few minutes ago, a man who represents one of the presses. He showed me the only copy of these amendments that I have had an opportunity to see. I sent Senator Weiner, a member of this committee, over and he now has a copy of the amendments which I hope to look at tonight. However, I understand that we have committeed ourselves to some kind of an open forum meeting tonight with the Chamber of Commerce, of which I am proud to say I am a member. Maybe I am a member who can criticize it once in awhile, but I am a member and I would like to attend that. I have visitors here from my home community and I would like to be with them. However, if you do not care to go, I can sit here with you until the end of the evening. We will not remove our objection for reading the bills. I am sorry if we cannot attend the affair in Philadelphia.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I did not think I would get Senator Dent into a long speech on the subject of taxation, but evidently that is what I did. If we would pass these bills on first reading today, they would be on second reading tomorrow and he would have sufficient time to look them over. If he had any objection, then we might hold the bills over until Wednesday.

I do not think there is any intention on the part of any of the Republican Senators to steamroller this tax program through. In days gone by in other sessions, we usually had meetings, such as was held by the Finance Committee today, and the bills were reported out and we gave them first reading when they were reported out.

Now if the Senator would have some objection tomorrow to any of them, why then he certainly is free to put forth that objection, and if all of us feel that we need more time for study, then we can put the bills over until Wednesday or for that matter run them over until next week. However, we would like to be in a position so that if the bills look all right tomorrow, we could roll them on Wednesday and not have to have a session on Thursday.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not know whether the Republican Majority Leader was informed the same as I was, but I was informed to have my forces here on Wednesday because the final vote was going to be taken. I believe if I understood the remarks of the gentleman when he stood up and said that any delay at this time would force a meeting on Thursday, there did not appear to be in that statement any kind of a suggestion that we would have an opportunity to study the bills after they have been printed. If it is the purpose of the statement just made—and I have always taken the word of the Republican Majority Leader—that if we allow the printing tonight by reading the first time, we have the right tomorrow, and that right will be recognized, to ask that the bills go over in order as printed tomorrow, then I would not hesitate a bit on that kind of an agreement to withdraw my objection to the reading for the first time. If the Senator will so state, I certainly will go along.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I think all of us would like to have the bills in print so that they may be available to us and our constituents and anyone else that is interested. Therefore, I will give that assurance to the Senator that if he will remove his objection and if he finds anything wrong with the bills tomorrow, we will allow them to go over in order.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, on the basis of the statement made by the Majority Leader that if any Member of the Democratic Caucus has any question as to these bills he will agree that they be passed over in order, I will withdraw my objection; on that basis and that basis alone.

I want it understood that if any Member of this Caucus has any objection to any of those bills, they will be passed over in order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 29, entitled:

An Act authorizing counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, school districts, poor districts and county institution districts to file tax and municipal claims not filed within the time specified by law and to amend such claims when the property affected is not sufficiently described and to file suggestions of nonpayment and averments of defaults or to sue out writs of scire facias on certain tax or municipal claims and to revive judgments where the lien of such claims or the judgments thereon have been lost and providing for the reinstatement of the liens of such claims and judgements.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 265, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts, page 110, Act No. 146-A), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Department of Welfare for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred fifty-five, and . . .," making certain appropriations for research and training applicable only to State-owned institutions.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Ernst N. Bauer, Pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, Hollidaysburg, guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Erb, offered the following prayer:

We thank Almighty God for the rich heritage of this good land, for the evidences of Thy favor in the past, and for the Hand that hath made and preserved us a nation.

We thank Thee for the men and women who by blood and sweet, by toil and tears, forged on the anvil of their own sacrifice all that we hold dear.

May we never lightly esteem what they obtained at great price.

Grateful for rights and privileges may we be conscious of duties and obligations.

So, O Gracious Father, we pray for the members of this body in their several responsibilities.

Help them in their offices, in committees, and above all as they meet here in legislative session.

May they never forget that what is said and done here is not done in a corner, but always under Thy all-seeing eye.

May they feel the weight of their responsibility before Thee, and remember the influence of good example, that all who come to this place may have a stronger faith in government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Lord Jesus, make Thyself real to these men and women that each may feel Thee sitting beside them giving them counsel and wisdom.

May all that they say and do win Thy divine approval.

So help them, gracious God, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. DUNN. RESOLUTION No. 45.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1957.

Strip mining operations have left many areas in the Commonwealth as eyesores and as areas stamped with the scars and symbols of the ugly and unfeeling side of modern civilization.

It is of importance that facts be presented to the General Assembly in order to show that the purposes of the strip mining laws in providing for the recovery of areas devastated by strip mining operations are being carried out; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries is requested to submit to the House of Representatives within sixty days of the adoption of this resolution a report of all monies in the Bituminous Strip Mining Fund-in Lieu of Planting the estimated area of land strip mined and lying open and not recovered by the operators of strip mining operations in both the anthracite and bituminous open pit mining fields, the estimated acreage of such areas in and near cities, boroughs, and towns that could be recovered by replanting and reforestation in order to relieve the appearance of desolution and neglect, and an estimate of the cost to the Commonwealth in order to replant and reforest the entire acreage so laid waste as well as the estimated cost of the replanting and reforesting, the strip-mined and unrehabilitated areas near cities, boroughs, and towns.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. STROUP, MOSCRIP, GIBSON and NAUGLE.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 47.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1957.

The Federal Highways Act of 1956 has stimulated the greatest road-building program in the history of the Commonwealth, by providing through additional taxation, large sums of money to be matched by State funds in the construction of highways.

This gigantic highway program in which Pennsylvania will participate as one of forty-eight states will be of immense importance to the future economic welfare of the Commonwealth, its political subdivisions and all citizens.

All areas of the Commonwealth are contributing to this program through new taxes and all vitally concerned with the fair and equitable distribution of Federal Highway Aid in Pennsylvania.

It is necessary to have definite and detailed information concerning the long-range objectives of the highway construction program in Pennsylvania in order for the General Assembly to meet its obligations and responsibilities with respect to pertinent legislation.

It is practically impossible for the General Assembly to appropriate funds or to cooperate with existing State agencies in the formulation of a long-range highway program until it is fully acquainted with plans of the Department of Highways; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Chairman of the Committee on Highways of the House of Representatives appoint seven members of said committee and the Chairman of the Committee on Highways of the Senate appoint seven members of the said committee who, together shall constitute a joint committee to make a survey of the highway construction program proposed by the State Department of Highways as it relates to the Federal Highways Act of 1956, on a continuing basis and shall:

1. Prepare and compile, from the records of the State Department of Highways, a comprehensive list of highway construction projects under consideration in Pennsylvania, together with the scheduled times for completion of the various phases of this program.

2. Formulate a sound policy for the adoption of a well-integrated highway construction program, designed to serve most fully the long-range economic interests of the entire Commonwealth and all its political subdivisions.

3. Develop a construction and improvement schedule covering the period of years of the Federal aid program, to be revised and extended each biennium, which the Legislature can use as a basis for developing its decisions on appropriations.

4. Consult with the Secretary of the Department of Highways to secure his suggestions and any information which may be available concerning immediate construction projects and those planned on a long-range basis for the future.

5. Ascertain from all available surveys and data now existing or later presented, the economic effects of extensive relocations of major arteries of travel upon the communities and areas affected, and the Commonwealth as a whole; to the end that this highway program may be carried out in a way which will not endanger or disrupt the business life of existing facilities or communities.

6. Review the proposed expansion program with particular reference to those State highways designated by the Department of Highways which shall be included in the Federal Highway System and those which shall be included in the Primary Road Construction Program; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall be authorized to use the facilities and personnel of the State Department of Highways and that the State Department of Highways shall lend its cooperation when requested to assist in the completion of the within study and in the preparation of reports; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall also be authorized to conduct hearings, if necessary, and to call upon such other departments of State government as is necessary to complete said study and that the departments called upon shall render such cooperation as is deemed necessary to assist in the successful completion of the herein project; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. Johnson.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, am I correct in considering that the bill now before the House is House Bill No. 204, Printer's No. 70?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I notice that this is a bill amending the Public Utility Law and I note that the bill was reported from the Committee on Education, I therefore move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for study and consideration.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, the bill having been referred to the Education Committee, in my considered opinion, has been referred to the proper committee.

The intent of the bill and the provisions set forth therein are concerned almost entirely with the field of education. It moves into the field of public utilities merely because of a change or restriction in the definition between omnibus and a commercial motor vehicle.

The whole purpose of the bill and the effects of the bill pertain to the educational system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, particularly to the third and fourth class school districts.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I call upon the Members of this House to vote against the motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia to recommit this bill to the Committee on Public Utilities.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. O'Brien and Taylor and were as follows:

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I rise to make a brief statement of explanation in behalf of the amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. READINGER offered the following amendment:

Amend Section 1 (Section 4308), page 2, line 14, by inserting after "time" excluding therefrom any period of time during which the member was not employed by the police force.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, should make a short explanation of these amendments.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, this bill, to which the amendments have been offered, would permit officers of police forces of third class cities to obtain from the fund money which they have contributed if they leave the service of the third class city police force prior to becoming eligible for retirement.

This bill also permits such an individual who has served for some period of time and then decides to take up another occupation to come back into the fund after a period of time by putting back into the fund the money he had withdrawn previously.

These amendments simply spell out the fact that that person does not get credit concerning his eligibility to retire at a later date for the years during which he has not been a member of the police force.

For example, a man might be on the police force for eight years, then take another job, a private job. He might be away for six years and then decide to become a policeman again with the same police force. In some cities you can retire after 20 years of service; in others, 25 years of service.

These amendments simply spell out the fact that during the six-year period the man was not working for the police force, and in that event he would not get credit against those 20 years or those 25 years.

In other words, if he works for the police force for 20 years or 25 years, whether it is continuous or broken, he would still be entitled to return and come back in the pension fund.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, from what Mr. Readinger has stated, I am in sympathy with the objects to be obtained by this amendment. However, I have not had an opportunity to review it from a technical point of view.

If this is permissive, may I ask that this be deferred for a few moments?

NOT VOTING—12

Cioffi,	Gibb,	Mihm,	Pomeroy,
Donaldson,	Limper,	Miller, W. H.,	Royer,
Floyd,	McLaughlin,	Monroe,	Schuster,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 479, entitled as follows:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Labor and Industry for payments to claimants for certain occupational diseases.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Section 1, page 1, line 1, by striking out "one" and inserting "six."

Amend Section 1, page 1, line 2, by striking out "($1,100,000)" and inserting "($1,600,000)."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOOD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether the Appropriations Committee of the House did not reduce this bill from $1.6 million to $1.1 million before reporting it out?

Mr. WOOD. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether he believes that amount will be sufficient for the balance of the biennium for the purpose for which the appropriation is intended?

Mr. WOOD. I do, Mr. Speaker. Taking their own figures, that is what we figured out it would come to.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask whose figures?

Mr. WOOD. The Department's own figures.

Mr. READINGER. The Department of Labor and Industry?

Mr. WOOD. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether he is going to support the amendments I have just offered?

Mr. WOOD. I am not, no.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I was not being facetious in asking the gentleman that last question, but I have a rather lengthy letter from the Acting Secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry bearing on this amendment, which I must read in view of the gentleman's declination of support.

This letter was written under date of March 6th by Milton Weisberg, the Acting Secretary of Labor and Industry, to me as Minority Leader. It reads as follows:

> "The request of the Department of Labor and Industry for $1,600,000 deficiency appropriation for Occupational Disease claims has the effect of being mandated monies provided for in the amendments passed by the Occupational Disease Bill in the last session of the Legislature.
> "When the budget figures for the current biennium were arrived at, it was almost impossible to determine, in advance, the amount of money which would be needed for these claims, since there was no accurate barometer for determining how many cases there would be. At the present time there are 3,131 cases actively on the rolls and 300 cases which have not been processed to total completion.
> "These occupational disease claims are claims of individuals who are totally disabled as a result of silicosis and other occupational diseases. As a result of the passage of the amended legislation in the last session of the Legislature, the Legislature undertook this obligation to these people. The following is the information regarding the present status of the Occupational Disease Fund:

"Appropriation 1955-57 $7,000,000.

"Deficiency Appropriation 1955-57 $1,600,000.

"Total Funds to be Available $8,600,000."

Expenditures from June 1, 1955, until February 28th of this year, $6,628,940;

Biweekly payments for the week of March 19, 1957—I presume he means up to March 19th of this year—$163,717;

Biweekly payments from April 2, 1957, to May 28, 1957, five payments at $178,017 each, a total of $893,585;

Initial and biweekly payments for 543 cases awarded and 160 cases awarded and in the legal department, 703 cases at $1,300, a total of $913,900; totalling, $8,600,142.

"The amendment which is presented, to restore $500,000 to this appropriation, will mean that the deficiency appropriation will amount to $1,600,000. There is absolutely no possibility, on the basis of the Department of Labor and Industry's estimates, that $1,100,000 will be sufficient to complete the biennium on May 31, 1957.

"What we have involved in this deficiency appropriation is the promise of the Legislature that silicosis and other occupational diseases will be taken care of. If this appropriation is cut to $1,100,000, the claimants can conceivably have a long period of waiting for their compensation to be paid and, because these are 100 per cent disability cases, we may be depriving them of the very basic needs for existence."

Mr. Speaker, I do not know when the figures were compiled upon which Mr. Wood is relying in saying that the Department's own figures indicate a need for only $1.1 million, but obviously the Secretary of the Department is not going to send a letter of this kind asking that the deficiency be fixed at $1.6 million if he does not have very good reason to believe he will need it, or the Department will need it.

I am pleading with you today to pass these amendments so that we do not run into a situation in Pennsylvania where some of these people whom the Department says are already entitled to money, or the cases are being processed, will be deprived of the money. I know that you do not want that, either.

Obviously, if the total amount is not necessary, or part of it is not necessary, it will not be spent. This money is only paid out to cases which have been properly adjudicated or processed, so we are not losing any money, we cannot possibly lose any money, by passing this amendment today raising the amount to what the Department says it needs.

On the other hand, if we defeat the amendment, some people may go to bed hungry, and we do not want that to happen.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, the Department is asking for a deficiency of $1,600,000, but we believe, on the basis of the Department's own figures, that $1,100,000 in additional funds will be sufficient.

Here is the reason why: first, the Department had at the end of February a balance of $371,060 from the original appropriation, which added to the deficiency appropriation of $1,100,000, would come to $1,471,000 for a total of two and one-half months. There are only two and one-half months left to pay these claims.

The Department says it will pay $1,057,302 to present and additional claimants added to its roll from now until the end of the biennium, May 31st. This will leave a balance of $414,000 to pay what is called initial claims during the next ten weeks.

The Department informed the Appropriations Committee that initial claims averaged between $600 and $800 each, and information supplied for the next biennium shows that these claims are expected to amount to no more than $95,000 in June and $100,000 a month until next December. This means that the cost of initial claims for two and one-half months will be $235,000.

In addition to this, the Department informed the Committee it has 150 cases pending since last December and has estimated the initial cost of these claims, with back payments at $1300, will amount to $195,000. Together these amounts would be $430,000. However, not all of these claims can possibly be processed in the remaining time, nor will the maximum amount of initial claims be paid in every case.

In view of these facts and the further fact that the Department, starting March 13, plans tighter screening of applications so that 98 percent of the approved claims will no longer fall entirely on the Commonwealth $1,100,000 is entirely ample. Especially is this true when we are providing the department with the same amount of money for three months as were paid in 24 months only two years ago.

For these reasons I ask the Members to vote these amendments down.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I presume I am as completely confused as the rest of the Members. I tried to follow the figures given by the gentleman from Lancaster, yet I cannot possibly reconcile them with the one statement which I have read from this letter which probably no one heard.

I will read it again.

"Initial and biweekly payments for 543 cases awarded and 160 cases awarded and in the legal department."

I have no break down on how many are in the legal department and how many of those are awarded, but the total of them is 703 cases at $1300. I believe the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, used that figure of $1300 also in connection with a smaller number of cases, but the total of those items is $913,900.

These figures are right up to March 6, 1957. I do not know to what date Mr. Wood's figures are computed but I am of the opinion that we should take the latest set of figures given by the Department as the basis upon which we decide whether we should give them this deficiency appropriation now or not. Frankly, if these amendments are voted down and some people are not paid during this biennium for cases which have been adjudicated, and to which moneys they are entitled, I know where to place the blame and I know they will know where to put the blame also.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

A division was called for, eighty-one Members having voted in the affirmative and one hundred and fifteen in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise to oppose this bill, but I would like to ask the Majority Leader a few questions which possibly pertain to this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he knows whether the State Workmen's Insurance Fund in Pennsylvania makes a profit?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe the theory back of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is that they will just charge enough premiums on the policies each year to break even on workmen's compensation.

The reason we have the fund is so it will be sort of a measure to determine what fair and reasonable workmen's compensation rates should be charged by other insurance companies doing the same business. So, technically, they do not and should not make a profit.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I further ask the gentleman, in case there is a dividend declared whether it goes back to the policyholders? Is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that is correct. In that respect it is a mutual fund insurance company, although it is controlled by our Commonwealth.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, while the gentleman's statement is true in regard to our State Workmen's Insurance Fund, I feel, since we have the burden of carrying this enormous debt in regard to disease which we cannot put under workmen's compensation, that we should have some changes in our Workmen's Compensation Act whereby we could derive a profit and possibly the state could take care of some of the responsibilities we now have under acts like this.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House reconsider the vote by which the amendments offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, were defeated.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe the motion is out of order, the gentleman not having voted on the prevailing side.

As I understand the Rule, in order to make a motion to reconsider, you must have voted on the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, vote?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that the gentleman voted for the amendments.

Mr. O'BRIEN. In what way can you prove it, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The Chair observed the gentleman standing when the vote was taken on the amendments.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, there was no record of the vote, was there?

The SPEAKER. There was not a record vote. It was a division. How did the gentleman vote?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state he had voted in the affirmative on the amendments?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I stood up and then sat down.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state whether he voted in the affirmative or in the negative on the question on the amendments?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I voted in the majority on the final vote.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman state he voted in the negative on the vote on the amendments?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman states he voted with the prevailing side on the question of adopting the amendments. Is the request for a reconsideration seconded?

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the lady from Philadelphia, Miss Duffy vote?

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I am afraid I did not vote with the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER. The lady states she did not vote with the prevailing side.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, under Rule 50 of the House entitled, "Reconsideration," I quote:

> "A motion to reconsider shall be made by two Members who voted on the prevailing side on the original question, or in case of voice vote by any Member."

Would you interpret that, Mr. Speaker, in support—

The SPEAKER. The vote on the amendments was no a voice vote, but a division, a rising vote.

Mr. McCORMACK. It was first a voice vote, was i not, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. A division was called for and that vot was taken.

Is the motion seconded? The Chair hears no second.

Mr. TAYLOR. Yes, Mr. Speaker. I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman vote?

Mr. TAYLOR. With the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state he voted i the negative? Will the gentleman take the microphon and inform the House how he voted?

Mr. TAYLOR. I voted on the "no" side.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman states that he vote "no" on the question of the amendments?

Mr. TAYLOR. That is right.

Mr. JOHNSON. I would like to interrogate the gentl man.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphi Mr. Taylor, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman s he was one of the lone persons on that side voting "n on those amendments?

Mr. TAYLOR. Yes.

Mr. JOHNSON. Are there some gentlemen around hi who will vouch for the fact that the gentleman stood up and voted "no."

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, I suppose they would if some of them noticed it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman states he voted "no."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. O'BRIEN and BOIES and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, if I am in order I feel the Chair has made an error in interpreting Rule No. 50 in light of the comment which follows that rule.

I would like to read to the Chair the comment which clearly indicates that any Member, so long as a record vote is not had, can make a motion to reconsider. I quote:

> "Comment: To old Rule 81 is added a provision, that any Member may make a motion to reconsider where there has been no record vote."

Mr. Speaker, is a division a record vote?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to read for the information of the gentleman and the Members of the House Rule 50:

> "A motion to reconsider shall be made by two Members who voted on the prevailing side on the original question, or in case of voice vote, by any Member."

The Chair has already ruled this was not a voice vote but a division. The Chair thinks that the ruling made was correct.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the Majority Leader.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, some weeks ago, the Majority Leader was shedding political tears about the deserving Republicans who had been summarily dismissed from the payroll without due process of law or anything else, and I requested at that time that the gentleman supply a list for the record of those Republicans who were eminently fitted for the jobs they had, but who were displaced.

Has the gentleman prepared such a list? Is he ready to file now, or will he be able to file it later?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I did ask the Members on our side to bring into my office the names of various persons in their districts who had been summarily dismissed and the reasons for their dismissal, if any.

We are gradually getting names from Members and we were accumulating a list. It will not be a list of all of those who have been dismissed, but it will be quite a formidable list. As soon as it is prepared we are going to have it mimeographed and released as requested.

It will probably take another two weeks before we have it ready.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

A further question. I have in my hand a copy of a newspaper story, "Unfavorable Tax Situation Costs State Big Steel Plant. Universal—Cyclops Selects Ohio After Two Years Search In State.."

Is it the opinion of the Majority Leader that the facts justify the movement of this Universal-Cyclops organization from this state to Ohio? Does the Majority Leader agree that the tax situation in Pennsylvania is unfavorable so far as corporations and industries are concerned?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe I have made my position clear on that particular subject.

I would say that if I were in charge of a large corporation intending to locate in Pennsylvania, I would thoroughly scan, first of all, the corporate net income tax, which is six percent and is figured on the same income you report to the Federal Government.

I cannot say that any corporation probably could find too much fault with that particular tax, because it is an exemption from their Federal income and, if they are in the 30 percent bracket, they are saving, of course, 30 percent of six percent.

But when a corporation, a manufacturing corporation, in addition to the tax on their earnings, must also pay the capital stock tax, which tax places them at the mercy of the taxing officials of the state in that they cannot accurately, to the satisfaction of the Department, in the first instance, compute their valuation, and then when it is figured at five mills tax on top of the other tax, the corporate net income tax, in view of the figures we get from other states I would have to say that large corporation would be justified in going elsewhere.

Mr. Speaker, I hate to say that here on the floor of this House. I mean it is a sad commentary on our state when we have a double-bitted tax program which undoubtedly has driven corporate wealth out of Pennsylvania.

I believe I have given you my answer.

Mr ANDREWS. One further question.

When does the distinguished Majority Leader and the majority party propose doing something in the way of taxation for the relief of business?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe we have said here on the floor of this House that we are going to permit the manufacturers' exemption to go into full force and effect on January 1, 1958, as planned.

In other words, there is not a bill in committee right now which denies the manufacturers that exemption as of January 1, 1958. So on January 1, 1958, the manufacturers' exemption will be restored to manufacturing corporations only in accordance with legislation presently on the books.

Today we are introducing, co-sponsored by the minority, the other recommended bills to free industry, one bill being to relieve them of the initial bonus tax on foreign and domestic corporations, relieving them of the corporate loans tax report and removing the tax on the issuance or transfer of their shares, which is a nuisance tax.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I gather from the gentleman's remarks that the answer is "yes," they propose soon to reward business in a dribble by abolishing the bonus, and in the meantime our industries are supposed to live on promises so far as tax exemption is concerned.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I did not say any such a thing.

Relieving manufacturing corporations of the capital stock tax in Pennsylvania is a monumental thing. It is taking $43 million out of this budget and, as I say, that is a tremendous boom to business.

I grant you those other three little things are small, they are just nuisance taxes, and probably if we did not do anything about it business would not care because they are so small.

But I say the capital stock tax, giving that exemption, is a tremendous bite out of our budget and that standing alone, should be an invitation for business to come into this state.

I say this, if we get back into power and are running things, we will do as President Eisenhower is doing down in Washington, we will restore confidence in Pennsylvania in the business communities. There will not be the quick decisions in government on various things such as have been going on.

Does the gentleman have any further inquiry?

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

I simply want to comment that the accomplishment he boasts about I think is inherited from the present administration.

I think the termination date of the tax he is so proudly proclaiming will end is already fixed in the law. He is simply approving something from the past and is offering nothing whatsoever for the present situation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a few minutes ago the Governor signed into law Act No. 2. This particular bill is effective immediately with respect to what we knew as House Bill No. 140, Printer's No. 83 dealing with the election of school directors and changes the 1949 law.

The reason I have come here today to speak on this is through no fault of our own. Because of the fact that it took a good many weeks for this to get to the Governor's desk, we find ourselves in a very peculiar position today. This is now law for the coming primary election even though the Election Code directs the board of elections in each county to place a legal notice as to who is entitled by office to be elected.

If you will read the election law carefully, tomorrow is the last day for legal notice to be placed by the election board in the election of these various offices within each given county.

Today we passed a law and the Governor signed it. We all concurred in the passage of this law, starting January 29. Then as the legal notices have been placed in the papers directing the election of the school board directors under the previous law, this law is not now in effect. Therefore, the legal notice in many counties is illegal.

The question I raise, which I hope the newspapers will help to disseminate to the citizens of Pennsylvania and particularly to the election boards, is that they meet tomorrow and change their legal advertisement which is required by law in the election of these various vacancies which they have placed already in the papers.

If this information should not get to them, and for some reason the legal advertisement should continue to stand—which in my county would be a complete change and in many other counties—in one particular merged school district, the people who would file their petitions seeking those positions would be illegal in the election. Should they be elected and should the notice not be legally posted, the election to those positions could be taken to court and invalidated for not having the official legal notice.

I bring this up because it is serious enough on the grounds that we consumed a little over two and a half months in getting this bill completed. We should have really completed it in a matter of about 15 days before we did. But since it is now law as of a few moments ago, I would hope the various counties who have directors to be elected under the change in the law will get in touch with their election boards and request them to call the Secretary of the Commonwealth for a clarification because I believe it would be impossible to have this printed and disseminated to the county election boards by tomorrow which is the last day for the legal filing of this notice.

REPORT OF COMMISSION ON GOVERNMENTAL REORGANIZATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House the report of the Commission on Governmental Organization dated March 11, 1957 which was read by the Clerk as follows:

The Adjutant General
Annville RD 2, Penna.

11 March 1957

To The Honorable, The President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives:

Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit for the consideration of the General Assembly, the attached report of the Commission on Governmental Reorganization, dealing with Fiscal Affairs.

Respectfully,

A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE, JR.
Chairman
Governmental Reorganization Commission

COMMISSION ON GOVERNMENTAL REORGANIZATION

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

To the Honorable the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Pursuant to the Act of 1955, July 7, P. L. 256, the Commission on Governmental Reorganization is pleased to submit for your consideration forty-three recommendations. In addition, we are making twelve recommendations to the Governor, relating to changes which can be made without legislative action.

The Commission was organized in May, 1956. Twelve members were appointed by the Governor, of whom, ten served. The names of those who participated in the deliberations of the Commission, with the officers and staff, follow:

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., Adjutant General, Chairman
George N. Wade, Senator from Cumberland County, Vice-Chairman
Genevieve Blatt, Secretary of Internal Affairs
Leonard P. Fox, Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce (now retired)
Albert W. Johnson, Representative from McKean County
William J. Keefe, Professor of Political Science, Chatham College
Henry B. Leader, Governor's Legislative Secretary
Albert S. Readinger, Representative from Berks County
John S. Rice, Secretary of Property and Supplies
Paul H. Wueller, Associate Director in charge of Research and Statistics, Joint State Government Commission

James C. Charlesworth, President, American Academy of Political & Social Science, served as Executive Director, and Stephen B. Sweeney, Director of the Institute of Local and State Government, University of Pennsylvania, acted as principal consultant.

Early in the summer of 1956 the Commission engaged the services of twelve persons having skills in the field of State government, who prepared reports during the summer months. Among these are several state employes who received no additional compensation for their services. The names of these authorities and the subjects of their reports follow:

Harold F. Alderfer—Local Governments
A. David Bouterse—Public Hospitals; Correction; Public Assistance
Robert A. Christie—Labor and Industry; Professional Licensure
James A. Crabtree—Public Health
Charles B. Cranford—Recreation
John H. Ferguson—Agriculture; Milk; Public Utilities
Roy A. Helton—Public Information
C. Herschel Jones—Personnel Administration
Albert B. Martin—Records and Secretarial Functions
M. Nelson McGeary—Public Education; Public Works
William F. Schulz, Jr.—Conservation of Natural Resources
Randall S. Stout—Fiscal Administration

Members of the Commission individually studied these reports and other materials bearing upon pertinent activities of the State government, and the Commission met from early October until March to discuss each proposal. The Commission wishes to thank the officers of the Senate for making the Conference Room available for these meetings.

The General Assembly is doubtless interested in whether the recommendations made by the Commission, if adopted, will save money. An exact estimate of savings cannot be made, but the Commission is confident that its proposals will not only improve government but reduce the total charge on the taxpayer. Savings of the magnitude of millions of dollars per year are definitely indicated in lowered interest payments, improved personnel, closer auditing practices, and elimination of administrative duplications.

Our recommendations to the General Assembly are classified under seven headings, as follows:

1. Fiscal Affairs
2. Personnel Administration
3. Administrative Organization; Public Buildings
4. Conservation of Natural Resources
5. Public Welfare
6. Public Health
7. Public Instruction; Labor

Proposals relating to these separate subjects will be submitted at short intervals. This present submittal relates to

Fiscal Affairs

1. Designate the Joint State Government Commission as the staff agency of the General Assembly for the purpose of assembling and analyzing budget information. Direct executive agencies to make available to the Commission information relative to estimated financial needs to carry on existing programs and to meet statutory mandates, during the period of the preparation of the budget and to make available to the Commission similar information on new and expanded programs after such programs have been approved by the Governor.

The fiscal problem is the Commonwealth's most pressing problem. Both the Executive and the Legislative branches must bear responsibility for its solution. But if the General Assembly is to contribute its proper share of this joint effort it must first of all be adequately informed.

In making this recommendation the Reorganization Commission does not intend to diminish the role of the Governor in preparing the budget. We believe that the executive type of budget is the best. Our purpose is to enable legislators to know in advance of the release of the printed document the general lines of its development, so that they may begin early to weigh alternatives and to plan for needed revenues.

Another reason for bringing the two branches closer together in fiscal affairs is the heavy emphasis on subsidies. If the state budget covered only the expenses of operating the executive departments, the General Assembly might well assume that the duty of accurately measuring needs could be appropriately left to the Chief Executive. But since such a large part of state expenditure consists of subsidies rather than of execution of state programs, it is proper that both of the policy making branches be equally aware of the reasons for expanding programs.

2. Create an independent tax appeal board, consisting of one lawyer, one accountant, and one member familiar with tax matters, serving full-time. This agency would resettle tax cases presently handled by the Board of Finance and Revenue, and make cash refunds. Also, time limitations now imposed by the Fiscal Code should be revised.

The Board of Finance and Revenue now labors under certain limitations, as follows:

a. It consists of part-time ex-officio members representing some departments that are not concerned with tax functions, whereas other members sit on appeals from the administrative actions of their own departments.

b. It does not codify its rulings or legal recognitions.

c. It is usually understaffed.

d. There is poor interdepartmental liaison.

e. There is no tenure, and no proper qualifications for its staff.

f. It cannot by statute grant tax cash refunds.

g. It is not an independent appellate group in the strict sense of this term.

h. Time limitations imposed by the Fiscal Code are in some instances unrealistic in terms of conditions.

3. Create a permanent tax and fiscal research agency, which would bring together pertinent activities in the Legislative and Executive branches. This agency should be composed of equal numbers of designees of the Governor and of the General Assembly, and should be adequately staffed. It should report annually and on special request to either the Governor or to the General Assembly or to both of them. For administrative purposes, the agency should be attached to the Joint State Government Commission.

An adequate fiscal research program is necessary in order that the public, the Governor, and members of the General Assembly may be properly informed concerning the nature of the tax structure, the expenditure programs, and revenue requirements for financing them. Research is essential for the formulation of a state's fiscal policies and long-term programs. In spite of recurring fiscal crises, Pennsylvania has never had adequate fiscal research facilities. Further evidence of this serious defect in the Commonwealth's fiscal programs is indicated by the numerous legislative and special emergency tax study committees which have been set up within the past decade in order to provide the General Assembly and the Governor with adequate facts. At present, the General Assembly has a special committee to "get the facts" concerning the Commonwealth's tax burdens and their effects on industrial development and migration.

The responsibility for tax research should be jointly assumed by the Executive and the Legislative branches. This inter-branch unit should be given regular budget status, should be headed by a director, and should be adequately staffed and equipped. It should carry on continuous research concerning the nature, effects, and operations of the tax system; it should prepare the official revenue estimates, and should prepare adequate annual and special reports designed to give taxpayers an understanding of the operation of the State's tax system and its needs for revenue.

4. Provide for annual sessions of the General Assembly.

The principal reason for this recommendation is the fiscal situation. In a rapidly moving economy, and with the close interrelationship between government finance and the general economic well-being of the Commonwealth, two years is now too long to project budget and tax needs.

The General Assembly may wish to restrict the session in even-numbered years to consideration of fiscal matters.

5. a. Amend the Constitution, to allow the General Assembly to fix the state debt limit for capital purposes by joint resolution passed by a two-thirds vote.

b. Abolish all state authorities and place future projects in appropriate departments of the state government. Refund authority indebtedness, at a favorable market date, with money obtained through the issue of general obligation bonds.

c. Raise constitutional school district and other local government debt limits, so that the device of local authorities need not be resorted to.

It is believed that these proposals, if adopted, will save the citizens of Pennsylvania many millions of dollars, since it is generally recognized that the interest rate on state general obligation bonds is usually lower than on authority and other "revenue" bonds.

The question readily suggests itself: If this is so, why were the authorities created in the first place? The answer is that the authority device was the most expedient one to finance improvements promptly without resorting to time-consuming procedure for submitting a constitutional amendment to popular vote.

It has been felt in certain circles that the citizens of the state are not willing to depend upon an adequate sense of restraint in the General Assembly, when it comes to incurring debt. This opinion warns against allowing the General Assembly to open the floodgates of irresponsible spending and of passing on our burdens to the next generation. But we are nonetheless incurring huge debts, in the semi-public, semi-private, financial operations of authorities. The members of the Reorganization Commission feel that the time has come to make a forthright accounting to the citizens of Pennsylvania on how much they owe, both directly through state government bonds and indirectly through authority bonds. We further believe that indirection should be avoided in the future, and that the people should be currently and fully informed on state borrowings.

The national debt limit is fixed by a vote of Congress, where an alert public opinion enforces a salutary degree of restraint. We believe that a similar arrangement will function satisfactorily in Pennsylvania.

In the case of limits on local debt, we believe that here, too, the General Assembly should be given the responsibility of fixing the ceiling for units of local government by classes.

The possibility of savings on interest payments by local school districts is an immediate concern of the General Assembly. School district subsidies need not be so large if savings can be effected in the cost of financing our school building program.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

He also presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, Pa., March 12, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

State Government in the mid-Twentieth Century has become an incredible complex instrument for serving people.

Each day it is called upon to provide hundreds upon hundreds of widely varied services—services that people want, people need, and people pay for with their tax dollars.

If we are to provide these services properly, we must have skilled men and women trained to do technical and professional jobs, and do them well.

We must have engineers of all sorts, draftsmen, architects, foresters, landscapers, biologists, nurses, business machine operators, medical administrators, physical therapists, psychiatrists, and dozens of other specialists.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, like every other state in the Union, faces this problem:

How can we attract technical and professional people to career jobs in State Government?

The only answer is to make career jobs attractive.

This is easier said than done. The Nation's supply of these skilled people is limited, and the demand for them increases every day.

The Commonwealth must, therefore, compete for their services, like any other would-be-employer. It must compete with private employers and with the governments of other states and the Federal Government.

In this competition, Pennsylvania consistently runs behind the field.

For although we offer, in a majority of cases, salaries comparable to those of the market place, we offer no job security and, therefore, no chance for the applicant to build a continuous career in government service.

As a result, we frequently fail to get the people we want, and we often lose the people we have.

Some 65,000 people are employed by the Commonwealth. For much too long a time we have depended almost exclusively on the patronage system to supply the vast majority of them.

But the patronage system fails in the very area of our greatest need: with technical and professional people, whose services are in unremitting demand all over the Country.

In our complex technological society, it is impossible to administer the Government of Pennsylvania without trained people, selected by merit and protected in their careers.

For these career public servants are the hard core of continuing good government.

At present, our Civil Service laws cover 14,000 people.

We believe they must be extended to cover approximately 10,000 more—all of them persons whose skills are in wide demand and whose services we badly need.

We do not advocate extending Civil Service coverage to State employes on the policymaking level, who are appointed under the Administrative power and must necessarily reflect the policies of succeeding Administrations.

Nor do we contemplate an extension of Civil Service to cover those whose jobs require only routine training.

Our primary concern is with the hard-to-get specialists.

Let me give you a few examples of our difficulty in recruiting them.

We employ 210 psychiatrists in the Department of Welfare, but we need 480; we have 1300 psychiatric nurses and need twice that number; we have 78 psychologists and need 120; we have 130 psychiatric social workers and need 400; we have slightly more than half the 700 activities program technicians we need.

Our Department of Highways needs 1500 professional engineers and engineering assistants. At present, we have less than a third of the men we need.

These jobs go begging because we can't hire qualified people to fill them. Yet we offer them salaries on a par with those paid by competing agencies.

Remembering that it is difficult to get these people anyway, I feel sure you can understand how that difficulty is multiplied by lack of job security. Quite understandably, these people see no reason why they should accept jobs limited to the life of an administration. Nor will they accept the uncertainty of such jobs, knowing that merit system protection is easy to get in other states or with other governmental agencies.

Furthermore, these people know that short-staffed Pennsylvania agencies, trying to do their jobs, must frequently throw away the time-clocks and settle down to chronic overwork.

If we could offer job security, along with fair salaries, we could get some of the trained people we need. But even with Civil Service protection, we will predictably recruit an insufficient number of skilled personnel.

Michigan, for example, extends Civil Service coverage to all State employes with the exception of department heads and their deputies. And Michigan has been conducting an intensive recruiting program.

Yet Michigan can only manage to hire 100 to 120 engineers a year.

Pennsylvania, offering no job security at the present time, must obviously fare worse.

We have done what we could to remedy this situation. We have conducted an aggressive recruiting program. But we have found that the absence of job tenure among most of our technical and professional Commonwealth employes has discouraged a high percentage of desirable applicants.

We are now faced with the need to place 10,000 more professional and technical jobs under Civil Service protection.

Since September 10, 1956, this Administration, by Executive Board action, brought nearly that number under our merit system.

But what one Executive Board can do, another can undo.

Consequently, this Administration now seeks legislation confirming the Executive Board's action and bringing Civil Service protection—by statute law—to the essential career personnel of the Commonwealth.

The bill we propose would accomplish that end. It would also bring a number of our eight Civil Service systems under the jurisdiction of a single act, and make several technical changes in the existing law.

We think this bill reflects an up-to-date approach to the most immediate problem confronting governmental administration: the problem of getting qualified men and women into the technical and professional slots of career government service.

By passing this measure and making it law, the General Assembly will be taking a giant stride forward in the direction of more modern, more efficient and more effective State Government.

For it is to these specialists, skilled in technology and the professions, that government must look for its hard core of competence, its unbroken continuity over the years.

I cannot urge too strongly that the General Assembly take early action on this critically important legislation!

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, yesterday I made a preliminary statement about my intention to submit a bill which deals with the Board of Pardons.

It seems that the Board of Pardons today is the theme center of what is purporting to be an investigation. To me, it smells more of the days of the inquisition. Some of these people and their methods remind me of the great inquisitor, who was known as Torquemada—T-o-r-q-u-e-m-a-d-a. Anyway, this carping criticism is not my topic today. I want to offer some constructive legislation.

Whenever I appear before the Pardons Board, my cup of gall overflows when I listen to those young district attorneys. They appear there and know nothing about the case and, yet, they have the audacity, arrogance and impudence to come and venture an opinion when we are dealing with the life of a person.

For this reason, Mr. President, I feel that the members of the Board should not depend upon opinions of the district attorneys or the judge. I do not say that they do depend on those opinions but, at least, there may be a modicum of influence. For this reason, I feel that the Board of Pardons should have an independent branch, upon which it can depend, of skillful investigators who could investigate and bring a thorough, searching report to the members of the Board.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting this bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 357, entitled:

An Act providing a method whereby mutual insurance companies, other than mutual life companies, incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, may establish and be required to maintain for a period of at least one year thereafter a minimum surplus for the purpose of qualifying as sole corporate surety on bonds and other undertakings required or permitted by the laws of the United States.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 359, entitled:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, Pa., March 12, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

By Resolution of the Senate dated February 12, 1957, you had requested that I furnish to you information pertaining to advisors engaged to counsel the Sales and Use Tax Bureau.

The report of the advisors engaged by this Administration in January 1957, pertaining to the Sales and Use Tax Bureau, has been delivered to me and is transmitted herewith. It is an objective analysis prepared at my request which analyzes—without fear or favor—the problems confronting the Commonwealth with respect to this Bureau, and the steps which have been taken, and are being taken, to enforce a difficult law effectively and to administer it efficiently.

You will recall the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act became effective March 7, 1956, the day after its passage by the Legislature. It was substantially amended on May 24, 1956, by the same Legislature and bears little similarity to other Sales and Use Tax Acts enacted by thirty-two other states. Tentative regulations were immediately prepared, and were issued in printed form, after diligent work and legal research, on July 16, 1956.

Knowing the difficulties experienced by the Department of Revenue in securing adequate personnel for this Bureau, I allowed that Department approximately 120 days for initial organization and administrative preparation. In the latter part of September, on the advice of management and tax officials of this Administration, I insisted that the organization of the Bureau and its enforcement activities be accelerated and took steps to correct many of the problems encountered.

The consultants' report clearly delineates the principal problems, namely, the need for highly skilled personnel to enforce and administer the Act, the ambiguity of many of the provisions of the Act, and the inability of the Commonwealth to do in nine months what many states have only been able to do over as many years.

My views on the technical and professional skills required by the Commonwealth are well known. Historically the Commonwealth has been compelled to operate a billion dollar business in a manner which frequently would not do credit to the operation of a small store. I requested the Legislature in the 1955-56 Session to enact a Civil Service law, covering technical and professional employes, since it was evident that few people in these categories can be expected to seek State employment without either job tenure or pay commensurate with that which they can readily obtain elsewhere.

When the Legislature failed to enact such legislation, I urged the Executive Board to establish Civil Service by resolution for the accountants, auditors, and other technical personnel required to enforce our complex and difficult Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. It is urgent that the General Assembly assure prospective applicants for these positions that the Civil Service instituted by Executive Board action will continue in effect. This can be done by amending our Civil Service Act to cover these positions.

An independent report of the Pennsylvania Economy League dated July 6, 1954, made during a prior Administration, indicated that the lack of trained auditors and accountants in the Bureau of Sales and Use Tax at that time equally impaired effective collection of the tax.

My views on tax administration and my insistence on honest, competent performance are well known to all Pennsylvanians. In many areas of taxation, the Department of Revenue has done an excellent job in both the collection and enforcement of taxes, considering the handicap of having no career service. This is particularly true with respect to corporate taxes.

The report states "progress has been made in improving the operation of the Bureau of Sales and Use Tax" in the past four months. The Bureau is currently assessing and collecting taxes in excess of those admitted by taxpayers to the extent of $350,000.00 per month. Regardless of the progress made, I know that a difficult and unique tax act such as the Selective Sales and Use Tax cannot be properly administered and enforced unless my request for Civil Service status for skilled auditors and technical employes by legislative enactment is granted.

It is significant that it is now generally agreed—on a bipartisan basis—that the original estimates of revenue yield from the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act were both high and unrealistic.

It is imperative that a method be found which will permit the General Assembly and the Governor to arrive at accurate and honest revenue estimates. An agency properly staffed with technical personnel should develop objective and realistic revenue estimates which would be binding both on the General Assembly and the Governor. Only by such a device can both branches of government avoid the perennial temptation to overstate revenue yields as a means of balancing the budget.

The consultants' report confirms enforcement targets set by officials of this Administration as early as October 1956. These difficult targets can be met only by a sustained effort and effective recruitment of trained personnel. The Legislature has a co-equal responsibility with me to provide the means and facilities to do the job. This Commonwealth has had many devoted, able employes over the years, but it has never had a continuous corps of skilled tax technicians and professional people to carry out the mandates of the Legislature.

The report transmitted herewith was prepared by McKinsey and Company, one of the two agencies which conducted the survey of the Sales and Use Tax Bureau. McKinsey and Company was paid the sum of $13,205.00 for work done to date, and will be paid an estimated additional sum not to exceed $14,000.00 for services rendered subsequent to the date of the original payment.

Cooperating with McKinsey and Company were representatives from the Institute of Public Administration. Their services during the survey cost $5,980.00. We are not committed to the Institute for any further service, although it is our hope that at least one of these experts will be available for a few days on a per diem basis in connection with the future work of McKinsey and Company.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

The PRESIDENT. This communication from the Governor will be printed in the Legislative Journal, and the report entitled "Improving the Administration of the Bureau of Sales and Use Tax, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," dated February 1957, will be printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

For the information of the Members of the Senate, copies of this communication have been placed on each Member's desk.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I would like to ask that this bill go over. I would also like to have a chance to explain to the sponsor that this bill, if passed, would absolutely conflict with the Motor Vehicle Code in the condition in which the Code now exists.

In order to avoid this confusion, I ask that this bill go over in order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 216, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" empowering the chairman of the Board of Finance and Revenue to appoint a secretary and making certain rules and regulations

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not intend to go into a long discussion or debate on Senate Bill No. 216. I believe I discussed its demerits last week when the bill was on second reading. However, I wish to discuss it enough to say that when the Calendar says "216 (Pink)," it should remove the "216" and say "27 (Pink)," because certainly there will be a slight discoloration of the normal faces of the Members of the Republican Senate when they vote for this bill.

This bill changes the make-up of the Board of Finance and Revenue. What it does is rip out the present authority of the board and turn it over to the Chairman of the Board who is automatically the State Treasurer For many years, the Democrats controlled the fiscal offices in Pennsylvania and th Republicans controlled the administrative offices and, under that setup, the administrative offices were in control of the Board. Now, by the grace of God, for the first time in some twenty years, the Democrats have the administrative offices and the Republicans have the fiscal offices and, therefore, they are going to change the rules in the middle of the game because there happen to be seventeen jobs over there which they want to take. It might interest you all to know that eleven of the seventeen jobs are holdovers. In so far as job selection is concerned, unless they want to fire their own people, they will not make much of a capital gain.

However, Mr. President, I am interested in this. Throughout the years that this act has been in existence, since 1929, now am I to believe that from that period to this, you have suddenly discovered something so radically wrong with this act that it has to be changed at this time?

In order not to carry this debate on any further, I might suggest to the Republicans that they vote softly "yes." We will vote loudly "no," and I will carry the message to the Governor and ask him to veto it.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I would say to the Senator from Westmoreland that my face is usually pink. That is my natural complexion; I cannot do very much about that. However, it is not because of the voting on this bill that would cause the color of my complexion.

It seems that for many years this Board got along very well, even though prior to eight years ago there was a Democratic Treasurer. They did not allow politics to interfere with it until quite recently when Attorney General Cohen advised the Chairman of the Board that he did not have the power of appointment. As a consequence of that ruling, on April 6, 1956, a man who had been Secretary of the Board for many years, a Mr. Elmer Graham, who had become quite expert in the affairs of the Board and the business of the Board, was discharged or was asked to resign .He was then replaced by a man by the name of Julius Brenner who, evidently, is presently acting as Secretary of the Board. Therefore, they did allow politics to creep into the business and the personnel of this Board by getting rid of Mr. Graham, who was an expert, and getting a man by the name of Julius Brenner who evidently did not know very much about it until he took over.

Why the Leader Administration is always stating for the newspapers and for public consumption that they are interested in keeping on experts and putting them under civil service and all that sort of thing, and then fire a man who was certainly an expert in his field in order to replace him by one of their own choosing is more than I can understand.

I also want to point out to Senator Dent, and also through Senator Dent to the Governor, that the personnel of this Board is paid out of the budget which we give to the State Treasurer. It seems to me that if it is paid out of the budget of the State Treasurer, then the State Treasurer should be allowed to decide who he wants as to personnel. That is no more than fair.

I feel that this bill is a very fair bill and, therefore, with a very rosy-colored complexion and also with the knowledge that I am doing right, Mr. President, I expect to vote "aye" when the roll is called.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Do you believe that every person who has been on the payroll for a number of years should always stay on the payroll?

Mr. MAHANY. It all depends on the person. I would say that if he were a good man and was doing his job propertly and if I were the fellow who was hiring him, I would keep him on the payroll.

Mr. DENT. Will you tell me whether you agree with the President of the United States when he announced in the New York Times on Sunday that he was going to ask for some 60,000 jobs to be taken from civil service in order that the right of selection be given to the party which won office? Do you agree with that?

Mr. MAHANY. I usually like to agree with my President in all things. I cannot quite understand, though, that statement, because for many years he has been of the notion that he should keep on Democratic holdovers. As a matter of fact, he even appointed Democrats. It seems that down in Washington, the President appoints Democrats and up here in Harrisburg, our Governor appoints Republicans.

Mr. DENT. I thought he was going to stutter that one out.

Senator Mahany, do you then disagree with the so-called patronage system of political government?

Mr. MAHANY. I do to a certain extent, yes. However, where you have certain career jobs that are of an expert nature, people who have worked in their jobs for many years and have gained knowledge through their experience, I do not think we should deprive the people of the State of Pennsylvania from the benefit of that experience by putting politics into it.

Mr. DENT. Then, do you believe that every Senator who served as long as you and I have should always be re-elected?

Mr. MAHANY. I have worked on that notion for the last couple of Sessions. However, ours is an elective office, as you know, and that is up to the people to decide whether they want to have the benefit of our experience. That is not the case with these employees. Where we try to get engineers and that caliber of person into Harrisburg and attract them away from private industry, and put them on the public payroll and they bring their families in here, and they buy or rent houses and make the change, I think in those cases we should give them some job security.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am happy to hear the gentleman over there endorse the Governor's civil service bill, the analysis of which is laying on your desks today. I am glad that he agrees, by his statement, with the position taken by the Governor. However, Mr. President, I cannot help but feel that political parties have a responsibility.

If you will remember in the 1954 campaign, George Leader, as a candidate, went out over the State and said that there was something wrong in this Board. He said that there was too much favoritism being displayed and that certain interests were able to get favors out of this Board which meant a great deal of money to the Commonwealth. Is it not true that as the Governor then, was he not in the position that if his administration was to control that Board, they had the right to present to the people the kind of employees who would, in the main, adhere to the so-called policies and beliefs of the Governor? Is it not true that millions upon millions of dollars have been recaptured by the action of this Board under this new setup? If that is not true, then, Mr. President, perhaps Senator Mahany's premise is right. However, I do not believe, just because a political follower of the Republican Party was appointed a few years ago, or ten years ago or twenty years ago, this makes him any better a public servant than a Democratic follower of a political party who was appointed as near as two years ago, or three years ago.

I remember, if you care to recollect with me, that in 1936, 1937, 1938, we moved quite a few Republicans from the payroll, for which we were lambasted because we were firing career people. Some of our administrative leaders at that time became very much alarmed over the criticism and, therefore, they left on the payroll thousands upon thousands of Republican Party supporters. When the Earle Administration was defeated at the polls, Governor James came into office and within thirty days this Capitol looked like the base of the exodus. Every Democrat who was put on the payroll was fired within thirty days and there was no hue and cry about that.

I refuse to believe, Mr. President, that there is a job on this Hill, or anywhere in this Commonwealth, that a Democrat cannot fill any more than I refuse to believe that there is not a job in Washington that a good Republican cannot fill. There are Democratic engineers, Democratic doctors and Domocratic psychiatrists. If you want to give job security to them, all right, give it to them. I never have seen any party hire an engineer to do a psychiatric job.

I think this Country has come a long, long way and I do not believe that we are in any danger so long as people are selected for the jobs who can do them. Certainly, you will have a couple bad ones. I remember some in your own administrations. I do not believe that this ripper can be called anything except a political ripper from A to Z.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I was about to assure Senator Dent that if this bill were passed and signed by the Governor, I would see to it that the Republicans on the Board kept Mr. Brenner on the job in order to take advantage of the experience which he has gained over the past year or so. However, I have just been handed a statement that Mr. Brenner resigned today. Therefore, we cannot take advantage of his experience.

Mr. DENT. That is right, and I can tell you why he resigned, too.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS ON SECOND READING

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I expressed yesterday to Senator Dent that if he wanted House Bill No. 330 to go over, I would go along with his request as there are certain amendments that would be offered to some of these bills. Therefore, if any of the Senators have amendments as we go through the Calendar, I would like to have them present them.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, Senator Schmidt has some amendments to offer to House Bill No. 331, at the bottom of page 5, and I have some amendments to offer to House Bill No. 334 and House Bill No. 337 on page 6.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 330, Printer's No. 61, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 331, entitled:

An Act reenacting and amending the act of December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742) entitled as amended "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" extending the provisions of the act for a further limited period of time.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. SCHMIDT, on behalf of Messrs. SILVERT and SCOTT, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 3, line 18, by inserting after "premises": "or transfer to a trustee for the express purpose of holding title in trust as security for a debt contracted at the time of the transfer and the retransfer to the grantor-borrower upon the repayment of the debt."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

An said bill having been read at length the second time, as amended,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 331, Printer's No. 62, on second reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order:

House Bill No. 332, Printer's No. 63; and

House Bill No. 333, Printer's No. 137.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 334, entitled:

An Act reenacting and amending the act of May 16, 1935 (P. L. 208) entitled as amended "Corporate Net Income Tax Act" imposing the tax permanently and amending the definition of net income.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KESSLER offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 9, line 2, by inserting after "situated": "The term "tangible property" as used in this subsection shall not include the security interest of any corporation as seller or lessor in personal property sold or leased under a conditional sale, bailment lease, chattel mortgage, or other contract providing for the retention of a lien or title as security for the sales price of the property."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 7), page 30 by inserting between lines 14 and 15: "(e) The provisions of this section shall apply to every corporation which was doing business in Pennsylvania in the year for which the Federal income has been changed, irrespective of whether or not such corporation has thereafter merged, consolidated, withdrawn or dissolved. Any clearance certificate issued by the department shall be conditioned upon the requirement that, in the event of a change in Federal income for any year for which taxes have been paid to the Commonwealth, the corporation or its successor or its officers or its directors shall file with the department a report of change and pay any additional State tax resulting therefrom."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it certainly appears from listening here that the amendments do not fit the bill—not that I want to save them—but the trouble is that it is Printer's No. 136 that is before us, and I believe the Senator happens to have an old printer's number.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I desire to withdraw these amendments in order to check the printer's number. We will hold them until tomorrow or until the bill comes up again.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I have also been informed that there are others who have amendments to offer to these bills. Therefore, in order not to go through a lot of different printings, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order:

House Bill No. 335, Printer's No. 66;

House Bill No. 336, Printer's No. 67; and

House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 138.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

House Bill No. 478, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance and providing for certain allocations therefrom for the purpose of carrying out the Public Assistance Law for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of assistance and expenses accrued or incurred prior to and remaining unpaid on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-seven.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have passed out, as far as they have been able to get around with them, a certain preliminary analysis of House Bill No. 337, which is known as the "Sales Tax," and hope that the Members who receive these copies will read them in relationship to the bill itself and try to come up with some answers between now and Monday as to the affect of the amendments placed in the bill by the Senate Committee on Finance.

One of the most serious things, and one which I think opens up a complete new record of treasury rating, is contained in the feature that now makes refunds retroactive. First we established the refund as a right, which I am not too much opposed to if a person has overpaid his tax or there has been an error in the estimate and the assessment of his tax. I think that person or taxpayer is entitled to a refund as a right. When you realize what the amendments in this bill do, you then see one of the worst types of raids over perpetrated on the public treasury. I do not say this with any sense of bitterness, but simply as a matter of criticism in government.

Here we have had a tax bill on the statute books since July 7, 1956. That tax bill had certain provisions which required the collection of certain taxes on certain items that were labeled as taxable items. Here we come along with amendments that exempt certain items from the tax bill starting May 31, 1957 and then, lo and behold, we put in the retroactive refund feature which will allow the items that are being exempted after May 31, to be exempted as of the original date of passage of the Act in March 1956.

The income and revenue for this State for this biennium was based upon a specific tax law. During the period of this tax collection, I have heard a great deal of criticism about the inability of the department to collect the taxes. I, too, probably have joined in some of the criticism. However, when I took time to make a search, I found that there was some reason for criticism and cause for criticism in the fact that regulations had as yet not been put out as rapidly as they should have been. When this retroactive feature for refund was placed in this bill, I went further into this study to find out why we have been unable to collect this tax.

I found that those who have representatives either on the scene in Harrisburg, or in law offices in the various cities, have advised their clients, throughout the taxing year, not to pay the tax; that they would be able to amend the tax bill and make retroactive the features that were in contest in so far as their interpretation of the act was concerned.

Now, I am not going to select at this time the industries, the specific taxpayers, because when I do I want to be accurate in my statements. Sufficient to say that we are now passing, when we do—and I understand that the order of the day is "rush" and to accept no Democratic amendments which I hope to have ready on Monday. The order of the day is to push the bills through as amended.

What will happen to the estimates for 1955 to 1957? We have upped the estimates beyond the known collection of the tax to $18,500,000, which was somewhere near $3,000,000 more than the Tax Study Commission estimated the return to be, because they were using the actual returns. However, the department, knowing that thousands upon thousands of taxpayers and millions upon millions of dollars had not been returned to the treasury, was, of course, of the belief that before the end of the biennium they would be able to reach out and get the taxes that were applicable under the Act of 1956, but by this amended bill, lo and behold, we are forgiving that tax on items that were already taxable under an old bill or the bill that is now in existence.

We can safely assume, without too much arithmetic, and I want to say to all of you that I have been at it pretty much all day trying to work out, with my limited capabilities and with the help that I can get from the various departments and accountants, an estimate of the loss in revenue. Sufficient to say, industry itself estimated the tax on industrial machinery. Manufacturing machinery would be, under a three per cent sales tax in a period of fourteen and one-half months, $40,000,000. Now this bill not only relieves the manufacturing machinery, which, incidentally, the Republican Party would not relieve under the Fine Tax Bill, but under the Governor Fine one cent tax bill, industrial manufacturing machinery was taxed. As a concession to industry, we took out manufacturing machinery, but what do these amendments do? These amendments now exempt any machinery whether it is used in the process of manufacturing or not, just so it is machinery that is in the hands or in the employment of that manufacturer from the time the process of manufacturing starts until the produce is ready on the platform for transmittal to a consumer. This means that the balance of the $40,000,000, which the industry spokesmen themselves gave me as their facts, will be lost to the Commonwealth. Therefore, using their own figures, this refund retroavtice feature will cost the taxpayers, the little taxpayers in Pennsylvania, this biennium $20,000,000. Going from there into the next biennium will take a little longer study, but I assure you that you are not being favorable to industry when you try this kind of legislation.

Do you know that there are more words of amendment added to this bill to protect shipbuilding and ship repairing than all of the other industries in the Commonwealth, although you may be able to get some tax in some field of manufacturing because the word "direct" is still left in the act as it pertains to manufacturing? When it comes to shipbuilding and ship repair, they have removed entirely from that particular section any possibility of collecting any tax whatsoever from anybody that is in the shipbuilding or repairing field. That means that hand tools and screwdrivers and other items that were taxable under the old act will only be taxed to people and not to anyone else.

I sat in this Senate and fought sales taxes. I fought them for many years because of this very thing. The records will show that I contended all along that if you pass a broad base tax, and you include all the people as they do in California and collect in California some $680,000,000 a year, why then perhaps you could say that you had a broad base tax. However, in Pennsylvania, because of the power and persuasion of certain individuals who represent certain interests which at times may be considered predatory—but I would not use the term as my own—these people have seen to it from the very beginning that they are exempted from the Act.

Now in this exemption, are we arguing that the exemption is good for the future, or are we saying that we are going to go back and refund to those who have already paid moneys into the Treasury under the old Act? We are going to make refunds to persons who have already paid taxes in Pennsylvania because we have an automatic retroactive feature in the Act for refunds.

Then if you go on into the administrative end of the Act, you find where you have made it very attractive for those who do not want to pay the tax and find it more convenient to file but not pay, because in the reassessment feature of the Act you have removed the requirement of a bond. So if a person is delinquent, either deliberately or even accidentally and a reassessment is made against that taxpayer, the burden is put upon the department, mind you, to specify in detail the items of delinquency.

When that reassessment is made, the taxpayer so assessed puts no bond up to require the payment but can if he so desires, and I am not afraid to assume that some will find it convenient to change the corporate entity of their particular business. This will not, of course, strike at big business because it will not change its entity, but there are those who will, and then where do their appeals go? Straight to the Board of Finance and Revenue.

Now is that tied up in any way with the bill that they are trying to pass where all of the employees and all of the powers of the Board of Finance and Revenue are going to be put in the hands of the State Treasurer, contrary to the law as it has been since 1929? Is there any connection between skipping and bypassing the department, which are the only ones who will have the facts and the only ones who will have the details, and going before a purely argumentative board which has no research department, has nothing that they can employ or no one they can employ to make a study to find out whether the findings are those of fact or the findings of argument alone, based upon persons and personalities?

These are important issues for the people. Yes, we have a broad base tax and the people are going to pay it, but let us not get to the point as to be so caustically casual as to forget our responsibilities to the people, the whole people of the Commonwealth. I do not want to sit here and overburden any industry in this Commonwealth or any business in this Commonwealth but, by the same token, I do not believe that any of you want to overburden the individual citizens of the Commonwealth, the taxpayers.

If this bill goes through as it is amended, what will be the percentage of tax paid by people and what will be the percentage of tax paid by property? A rough estimate may be made for your own analysis. A rough estimate, Mr. President, is this; that when this government had an appropriation total for its budget of $285,000,000, some eighty per cent of that was paid by industry and business. That was overbalanced and it was wrong. Today, with the budget stretching up to one billion five hundred odd millions of dollars, industry will pay about twenty-seven per cent and the people will pay seventy-three. That, too, is an overbalance, and it is wrong because the people are not the only ones who demand the refinements and services of government. I have repeated it too many times to say today that although industry is the great life-giving and job-giving asset in a community, it is also true that those who are employed mean just as much to the welfare of the community and the industry itself as the industry.

We have a great number of arguments that we could produce. However, go down the line, starting on page 3, line 18, and you will find that the exemptions include manufacturing, mining, shipbuilding and research; exemptions to include all equipment used from the first production stage until the final packaging of the item to be transferred to another.

Then go on down in the printing. We were willing to admit that we thought there was some small error in our judgment and we were willing to amend the bill to include printing of periodicals, newspapers and so forth, but what do you do now? All printing is removed; all the accessories of printing, all of the materials that they buy except the materials that little peoples buy.

Now go to page 4, line 11. The shipbuilding exemption is technically broadened by including rebuilding and every other phase of ship repair and ship rebuilding, and all of these items are completely eliminated from any of the tax.

I do not want to appear to be against all taxation for the simple purpose of being against. I think that if you will look through the records, I voted for the bill the last time. I voted for many tax bills in my position as Floor Leader, to accept the responsibility of my Party and stand up and vote for measures that I was against, but here we are now, here we are now, and I say I want you to take this analysis, from page 3 on down to line 9 on page 8, where the limitation of the productive exemption is rewritten in such a way as to exempt from tax, trailers and semi-trailers used to move materials from one corporation plant to another corporation plant. We are getting into the position where no one will pay tax except the people themselves.

If it is a broad base tax, then that is one thing, but if it is not a broad base tax then it is just as proper to say in this, mind you, it is just as proper to say if a manufacturer, an industry or a shipbuilder buys cigarettes or he buys liquor to entertain his friends and it is a cost of doing business because he is entertaining possible consumers or purchasers of his product, that you ought to exempt him from the tax on cigarettes and the tax on liquor because it is a costly item in some industries. You might as well exempt him from all sales taxes and that is what the liquor tax is; that is what the sales tax is on cigarettes or any other of these items. So, exempt him from all of the taxation and see what we will do in the manner of return.

Now people can pay taxes and people are willing to pay taxes, but we cut them out of the machinery tax in local districts. We said that industry should not pay real estate tax on machinery. That is the first big drive. Second, we come along and we are going to remove manufacturers from the capital stock tax. That is another big drive, because if the estimates are correct, anywhere near correct, then you lose $95,000,000 in the next biennium following the 1957-1959 biennium from that particular tax rebate alone to industry. If you lose the additional $40,000,000 from machinery not used in manufacturing processes, why there is another $40,000,000, or somewhere near $135,000,000, that you have reduced from the tax load. We know that we are going to require at least, and without even the hesitation of a guess, between $150,000,000 and $160,000,000 in the next biennium from mandated increases in the cost of government.

Now where are you going to get it? Will we come back again and further exempt other items that some other person want exempted? For instance, here is one. How many of you know that now you are going to exempt the foundation of buildings in manufacturing or utilities? You are going to exempt the foundations of the buildings, but is it not just as important to have the foundation or the roof or vice versa? Without a roof over the head of the machinery, the machinery would corrode and be useless in the process of manufacturing, so without the foundation, you cannot establish the machinery.

Now where do we stop? Where do we end? We will have to exempt the sides of the building next, because if you do not, the wintry winds will come in and it is necessary to manufacturing to have the sides to the building. How far can we go? Are we exempting the furnace that goes into the home of the individual that builds a house? Are we exempting the extra footers that have to go in because he may put a chimney in the place? Oh no, but he cannot put a furnace in without the chimney, without the foundation. Now where do we stop? That person who builds that home has to pay tax on every item that goes into the production of that home, and then has to pay a sales transfer tax for the home when he picks it up off of the builder.

These things are very serious. Now in exempting all of the items, they exempted as much as they could for industry, the utilities, the shipbuilders, but did they exempt the building materials for churches and schools? On no, no. If there was to be an exemption, what about churches and schools? Was that a proper exemption to ask for or was it not a proper exemption?

I am not going to take any more time going through the list. I have handed out to each of you, as far as I could, an analysis of the amendments as they appear in the bill. You can answer the analysis. If I am wrong, I certainly will take the position that I was wrong, but between now and Monday it behooves every citizen of Pennsylvania to read with care the amendments put into this Act to see who is getting hurt. In my opinion, we, the people, are being hurt.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. KESSLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, many years ago a sailing vessel, which went around the Horn to come into the Pacific Ocean, became becalmed and it was becalmed for several days. The crew began to get a little restless and, finally, this New England captain, known for his economy, became so extravagant as to take a shilling and toss it into the ocean and say, "God, give us a shilling's worth of wind." Within a few minutes, they were involved in a terrific hurricane and the ship's crew became a little disturbed. The captain remarked by saying, "If I had known wind was so cheap, I would not have bought a shilling's worth."

Mr. President, it seems to me if I would have known that these amendments were going to bring forth so much wind, perhaps I would not have introduced them. However, Mr. President, I would like to go back to last year, just for a minute. I have always had a very high regard for the memory of the Senator from Westmoreland. He amazes me with his figures and facts which he can pull out of that mind of his, and I marvel at it.

I recall very distinctly, however, in our discussions that were held, some in Senator Mahany's office and some in the Attorney General's office, a division of the manufacturing operation into four parts. The first part was the receipt of the raw materials and their storage. The second part was the manufacturing process itself, where these raw materials are compounded or fabricated. The third stage was the storage and the shipping of the finished product. The fourth section of manufacturing was that over-all administration feature, the supervision and the so-called general offices that go with manufacturing, such as record keeping.

It was agreed in our discussions that the manufacturing itself was the only portion that we wanted to exempt. There was no difference of opinion among Democrats or Republicans, or even among the Attorney General's office, that we intended to tax the storage and the handling of any equipment that might be used in connection with raw materials. We intended to exempt from the beginning of the processing to the end of the processing, and then we wanted to tax the shipping and the storage facilities again and the over-all administration expense. What has happened?

Just to give you one example as to how the intent of the General Assembly has been distorted, in the canning industry, for example, the vegetables are brought into the canning plant. After washing and blanching, which is necessary I understand to kill the bacteria that might exist, the vegetables are placed in cans or jars. The cans are then sealed and they finally go into a pasteurization process or heat treating process to preserve them. From that point, they go to the labeling machines and the carton-filling machines.

The Administration in its rulings—and I have some letters on my desk which I can show you that quote the regulations—says that the blanching of the vegetables is exempt and the machinery in connection with that, but the filling of the containers and the sealing of the containers is ruled to be not a part of the manufacturing process. You pick up the manufacturing process again as soon as you get to the pasteurization process.

Mr. President, that was not our intent and I am sure Senator Dent will have to agree with me that that was not our intent. We figured that when the vegetables get in the plant and the processing starts to the point where the cans are ready to go into the cartons, that was the manufacturing process.

Let me just clear up a few other misunderstandings that Senator Dent has mentioned.

Senator Dent talked about the shipyards. Please recognize, Senator Dent, that the ships which we are referring to are clearly spelled out as over fifty tons or more. The Administration, and all of us here, are anxious to keep industry in Pennsylvania. We have one large shipbuilding concern in this Commonwealth and that is down on the Delaware River in Marcus Hook or Chester, I believe. Right across the river, in New Jersey, is the New York Shipbuilding Yard. There is nothing which will bring ship owners to Pennsylvania to have their ships built if they can get it done better or cheaper across the river in New Jersey. We believe that the shipbuilding industry is valuable to Pennsylvania. It was our intent, and it still is our intent, to exempt that shipbuilding industry.

It is true that the tools and supplies that are used in manufacturing—and shipbuilding is considered manufacturing—are not taxed. However, just remember that the products which these people sell, with the exception of ships, are taxed when they are sold at retail.

Printing is manufacturing. It is changing the form and process of a commodity. All we are saying in these amendments is that printing is manufacturing. It is true that the printing presses, the printing supplies and so forth are exempt. However, when the printer goes to sell his product, that is a sale at retail and is taxed, except for the exemptions which we have written into the bill so far as newspapers and informational matter is not taxed.

Mr. President, there are many things which I think a study of this bill, over the week end, will bring home to you that we are not doing the drastic things which Senator Dent says we are doing.

I would just like to go back and point out to you one of the first things that Senator Dent said about the refunds. Do you, Senator Dent, realize that under the present Act, the only way a person can get a refund is if the Board of Finance and Revenue says so? If they turn him down, he has no way of appeal. All we are trying to do is to make it possible for a man to get a refund. The only way he can get a refund today is if the Department of Revenue assesses him, and if he has made an overpayment, they certainly are not going to assess him again. At least, I hope not.

Mr. President, I am sure we will have many more discussions on these proposed amendments before the week is over, but I did just want to bring some of these things to Senator Dent's attention. I am sure that if he takes time to study this bill, he will find that the charges he has made and many of the statements, as I read them here, are erroneous.

We are not trying to reduce the revenue. We are simply trying to say that this is what we intended to do when the bill was passed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, if Senator Kessler will take a look at the brief which I handed him, he will find that we just took the pages and the amendments as they appeared. The amendments are written into the Act, the page number is given, the line number is given and it changes the character of the bill. For instance, I am not objecting to the refund as a right. I think I prefaced my remarks by saying that I believe it is a fundamental right. I did say that I disagreed that refunds should be retroactive.

For instance, Senator Kessler mentioned that shipbuilding now is exempt from the tools that they use in shipbuilding, but they were not exempt in the original bill. The shipbuilding company, as Senator Kessler mentioned, has not paid a cent of tax. If it waits for this amendment to be made retroactive it will not have to pay the tax. This is a second thing that might be seriously considered.

In this bill we are now allowing contractors to be exempt from tax from what they say are the worn parts of their machinery which they use during a contract, when they have paid the tax on the machinery and its life extends beyond the contract. However, any parts that are worn out, you now have made that retroactive. We, the Pennsylvania citizens, have paid for millions of dollars of contracts on a fixed price base. If that particular contractor or a group of contractors come in and say they wore out $2,000,000 worth of tires, bulldozer blades and nippers for other equipment, will they become eligible—they are under this Act—and are they going to get a refund retroactively? Will they pay us the three per cent that they charged us on a fixed contract base, the people of Pennsylvania, plus thousands of other contracting jobs that were done in Pennsylvania?

I am saying that the retroactive feature is an unusual feature. It is one that I have never experienced, where you make the tax already paid retroactively refundable. That is the only thing that I think needs a great deal of study. If I am wrong on it, I will stand corrected. However, I did get this from the Department of Justice.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, this discussion just shows how we are in error in discussing bills when they are not before us. I hope Senator Dent does not do that in the future. The time to discuss bills is when we have them before us on the Calendar. Then each side has a chance to debate the bills.

These bills right now are in their formative stage. We only passed them on first reading and, no doubt, tomorrow if we get to them on second reading, we will have an opportunity to debate them. However, to put out one side of the thing after asking for permission to make a presentation, and then have that side get into the newspapers and have it timed so that his time is about expired at the hour of six o'clock, when we have used that hour, as a rule, to adjourn for the evening, I think is wrong. I think Senator Dent takes advantage of us, either consciously or unconsciously. I feel that he has been taking advantage of our willingness to give him the floor under this order of business. I hope that Senator Dent does not take advantage of that situation again.

Let us debate the bills when they are before us in an orderely process. Then we may hear both sides and the newspapers can report both sides of the argument. I have had several Senators here who wanted to take the floor to differ with Senator Dent on some of the statements he made. I note, however, that the hour is growing late and we have tried to adjourn here around the hour of six o'clock.

Unless Senator Dent has something else to say, I would like to proceed to the consideration of Bills on First Reading.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 68, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code," fixing an annual registration fee for public school buses.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 69, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code," further regulating the use of commercial motor vehicles.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act concerning gifts of securities to minors; providing for custodians of such gifts and their powers and duties; defining the effect of the gifts on guardians of minors or their estates; conferring jurisdiction on orphans' courts and absolving agents dealing with securities from certain responsibilities.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 227, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 16, 1836 (P. L. 715) "Reference and Arbitration Law," making awards upon approval by the court, judgments of the court and giving them the dignity of judicial proceedings.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 249, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Memoralizing Congress to provide for approval under Title 10 of the Social Security Act, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's plan for Federal financial matching for aid to the blind without regard to the existence of the Commonwealth's program of pensions to blind persons financed entirely by the State.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. YOSKO, KOPRIVER, JR., MALLERY, MAHANY, DENT and BARR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 12 1957.

Whereas, the Federal Social Security Law was amended in 1950 to permit Pennsylvania to secure Federal matching in payments made to Blind Pension cases which could be classified as "needy," and

Whereas, this amendment was extended in 1954, to expire June 30, 1957, and

Whereas, Pennsylvania has chosen to have a pension program for the blind that is more liberal than Federal regulations permit, and

Whereas, payments are made to certain blind persons who have income and resources beyond the limits approved by the Federal Government as within the scope of the Aid to the Blind Program specified in the Social Security Act, and

Whereas, at the present time there are about 17,400 persons in Pennsylvania receiving a Blind Pension and federal matching is available on about 7,500 of these cases which are classified as needy persons under the provisions of the present amendment to the Social Security Law, which results in Pennsylvania receiving about $300,000 a month in Federal funds to help finance this program, and

Whereas, the receipt of an estimated $7,200,000 in the fiscal biennium 1957-59 will be jeopardized if the amendment to the Social Security Act is not extended beyond the previously designated expiration date of June 30, 1957.

Now therefore, be it resolved, and it is hereby

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the name of the people of Pennsylvania, hereby memoralize the Congress of the United States to further amend the Social Security Law so that Pennsylvania's fine program for helping blind persons need not be jeopardized by the withdrawal of funds which the Commonwealth is accustomed to receive from the Federal Government, and be it further

Resolved, That appropriate legislation receive favorable and early consideration since the present amendment is due to expire June 30, 1957, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Chairman of the Committee on Finance of the Senate, the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, and each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, at this late hour, I am not going to hamper the efforts of the Senators, but I just want to make a casual observation.

Whenever I introduce a resolution dealing with Federal relations, Senator Mahany always says, "Why bother the Federal Government? They ahave plenty on their hands."

Now it is about time to realize that what is good for the gander is good for the goose.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, object?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I have no objection.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

DIRECTING THE DEPARTMENT OF PROPERTY AND SUPPLIES TO INSTALL AND MAINTAIN MARKERS DESIGNATING THE LOCATION OF STATE BUILDINGS IN THE CITY OF HARRISBURG

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. WALKER, MAHANY, WHALLEY and DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on State Government:

In the Senate ,March 12, 1957.

Inability to find State buildings and various State agencies located therein is the cause of much loss of time and irritation to persons on the Capitol grounds seeking to accomplish or settle official business with State officers and employes; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Property and Supplies is requested to install and maintain markers designating State buildings and departments, bureaus, and other agencies occupying the buildings, and to make vailable to the public at various places in the main Capitol building and other State buildings within the City of Harrisburg, drawngs with legends and sketches of locations of the various State buildings, departments, bureaus and agencies.

INTERROGATION

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Mahany, during the course of the discourse here today I, believe we understood you to say that we were going to debate the tax bills tomorrow. Is that statement correct and are we going to do so?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I said we would have an opportunity to debate them tomorrow. I do not know whether or not we will debate them tomorrow. If we have them passed over in order, of course, then we will not debate them. I have not as yet made out the plan as to what we are going to do definitely tomorrow. I do not expect though to have a very long Session tomorrow, if that may be any tip-off to you.

Mr. LANE. Well, I do not think that we of the Minority Party care too much about tip-offs. What we would like to know is whether or not we are expected to be prepared to have our amendments in order and ready to debate them tomorrow. If so, why we plan on working tonight.

I would like a definite answer, because I understand there are quite a few who thought possibly they could get away this evening. We do not want them to leave if we are going into a full dress affair tomorrow, even with amendments.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Lane, for your information. I discussed this somewhat with Senator Dent earlier this afternoon and we did not come to any definite conclusion, but I think there was more or less of an understanding that if he did not have his amendments ready tomorrow, we would let the bills go over until Monday.

Mr. LANE. Just a moment now. We will see about these definite conclusions, because I do not think Senator Dent is too definite about it here.

Mr. MAHANY. Well he seems to be. He is trying to tell you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, while we were talking, I also informed the gentleman from Titusville that I was going to have an analysis of the tax bill and intended to hit the floor with it this afternoon. I understood I was reprimanded a little because someone said I took advantage of the situation. I think he was fully aware of the fact that I was going to, but the choosing of the time was not mine. I cannot turn the clock ahead or forward. It just happens that when you meet at 4:00 o'clock it gets near 6:00 o'clock before you are ready to do things.

Now, Senator Mahany, I understood from you that I would have a little time on the amendments, and I thought you understood that I would not be able to have them tomorrow. However, you said we could debate them on second reading tomorrow, and I was just afraid that I would be left out in the cold with the amendments that I hope will be presented to the Senate. If we still have the same understanding as we had before you reprimanded me, let us say, why then everything is all right.

BIRTHDAY PRESENTATION TO SENATOR JOHN H. DENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I would like to say this to Senator Dent. It is a pleasure to reprimand the Senator because he comes up with a smile and so that he will not feel too bad, I have a birthday present left over from the other night that I would like to present to him, on behalf of my Republican colleagues and myself. We wish him every happy return of the day and many more to come.

I also want to say to him that every bit of that particular package has had the sales tax paid on it.

Mr. DENT. You know, you are making me ashamed for raising my voice. I think that all of us understand this,—and I want this for the record,—that when we debate here, we debate on what we believe to be the issues and that we never intend to strike a personal blow at anybody.

I am eternally and, indeed, grateful for the fine gesture on the part of the Republican Senators.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. YOSKO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong the Session, but I have before me here an address that was delivered before the National Association of Fiscal Officers of the United States, and it deals with the Federal Highway Program. It is very informative. It explains every detail of the Federal Highway Act. I am not going to take the time to read it. I talked to Senator Mahany about it and he suggested that I ask for permission to have it incorporated in the Journal of today's proceedings, and I so request.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Northampton, Mr. Yosko, requests that the article be printed in the Legislative Journal. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and orders the article to be printed in the Legislative Journal.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR HIGHWAYS

Text of talk by J. C. Allen, Deputy Commissioner for Finance and Management, Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Commerce, prepared for delivery at the Annual Convention of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers, and Treasurers, Las Vagas, Nevada, December 8, 1956, at 9 a. m.

Federal aid to the States for highway construction is not new. The first appropriation was $5 million for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917. By contrast, the amount authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 for the fiscal year 1958, beginning next July 1, is $2 billion, $550 million. There were, of course, increasing annual amounts authorized between 1917 and 1958. Following World War II the authorizations averaged approximately $500 million annually until the fiscal year 1956 when the amount was increased to $875 million. As you see, the program authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 is not a new activity, but it has grown many times larger.

FEDERAL-AID FISCAL PROCEDURES REVIEWED

Fiscal procedures developed over the past 40 years of Federal-aid operations are applicable to all Federal-aid projects, including those to be built under the provisions of the 1956 Act. Following congressional authorization and apportionment by the Secretary of Commerce of the authorized funds to the States, the funds are available for commitment to individual projects. The States initiate Federal-aid projects and submit them for approval to Public Roads. The States make the surveys and prepare the detailed plans, specifications, and estimates. They also advertise for bids, award contracts, and supervise the construction. As Federal-aid projects are advanced through these stages they are reviewed and approved by Bureau of Public Roads district office representatives who cooperate closely with the State highway departments in supervising the Federal-aid program. As construction progresses the State makes progress payments to the contractor and vouchers the Bureau for reimbursement of the Federal share of the cost of this work. Upon completion of a project, the State submits a final voucher requesting payment of the balance of any Federal funds not yet paid. A detailed audit is made of the State's claim and final payment is made.

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF FEDERAL-AID CONTINUED

The Congress, in adopting in 1916 the policy of aiding the States in highway development, laid down certain wise principles that have withstood the test of time. The first of these was that each State must have a highway department, with adequate powers, and suitably equipped and organized to direct and supervise the highway activities in the State. This provision has permitted the Bureau to deal with one single agency of a State rather than with the many counties, municipalities and other political subdivisions of a State. The cooperation through the years of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and the State highway departments has been an outstanding example of good Federal-State relationships.

The second principle, that came in 1921 after previous experience had shown the need, was that Federal funds should be expended only in the improvement of selected systems of highways. Everyone has his own idea of the most important road in the world—it is probably the one that passes his front door. The vast mileage of roads in existence and the limited funds available for their improvement made it imperative that the most important roads be identified and efforts concentrated on improving them first. This principle of giving priority to the most important roads now channels the Federal funds into the improvement of two principal Federal-aid highway systems: the primary system which includes the Interstate System and the secondary system. All are selected by the State highway departments in cooperation with the Bureau of Public Roads.

The primary system consists of the principal interstate and intrastate highways. Initially limited to rural sections of the system, Federal aid was extended during the 1930's to cover improvements in urban areas as well.

Also in the 1930's the Congress extended Federal aid to the improvement of a limited number of secondary roads. This led to the establishment of the secondary system which consists of principal secondary and feeder roads following in importance those roads in the primary system.

The Interstate System was established pursuant to the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1944. It is a network of the most important interstate portions of the primary system limited by law to 41,000 miles. The National System of Interstate and Defense Highways is so located as to connect, by routes as direct as practicable, the principal metropolitan areas, cities, and industrial centers, to serve the National Defense, and to connect at suitable border points with routes of continental importance in the Dominion of Canada and the Republic of Mexico. When completed, it is estimated that this system (designated Intersetate System, for short) will carry 20 percent of all traffic, although it comprises only 1.2 percent of the total road and street mileage. It serves 90 percent of all cities of over 50,000 population and 42 of our State capitals. (A map showing the approximate location of approved Interstate System routes is attached.)

Still another principle of Federal-aid is that the States shall maintain with their own funds highways constructed with Federal aid. Thus, it is seen that Federal-aid funds are available only for construction.

As an acknowledgment of the States' interest in Federal-aid work, the Congress set Federal participation at 50 percent, with the States paying the balance. This has been the normal participating ratio through the years. The 50-50 ratio has been continued in the 1956 Act for the continuing regular Federal-aid funds; i.e., primary, secondary and urban funds. However, because of its importance to the national defense and in view of the Federal interest in the standards and the desirability of early and systematic completion of the Interstate System, Congress raised the Federal participation of Interstate System funds from 50 to 90 percent.

APPORTIONMENT FORMULAS

Another aspect of Federal-aid that has withstood the test of time has been the formulas used in apportioning funds between the States. The three factors used are: area, population, and mileage of rural delivery and star mail routes in each State. These factors are used either singly or in combination in apportioning the various classes of funds. Specifically, the formulas used in apportioning or allocating Federal-aid funds are as follows for each class of fund:

Primary—one-third according to area, one-third according to total population, and one-third according to mileage of rural delivery and star routes;

Secondary—one-third according to area, one-third according to rural population, and one-third according to mileage of rural delivery and star routes;

Urban—according to the population of municipalities and other urban places of 5,000 or more.

Urban funds, like primary funds, may be expended on sections of the 41,000-mile portion of the primary system that is designated the Interstate System. However, because of the less favorable matching ratio, it is anticipated that regular Federal-aid funds will seldom be used on the Interstate System as long as Interstate funds are available to pay 90 percent of the cost.

Interstate. In general terms, the Interstate System funds are apportioned on the basis of two-thirds population, one-sixth area, and one-sixth rural delivery and star routes. Specifically, the Federal legislation provides two formulas for apportioning these funds. One-half of the funds are apportioned according to the same formulas used for primary funds; that is, one-third according to area, one-third according to total population, and one-third according to mileage of rural delivery and star routes. The other half of the interstate funds is apportioned according to total population.

These formulas for interstate apportionments apply to the funds authorized by the 1956 Act for the fiscal years 1957 through 1959. Interstate funds authorized for the fiscal years 1960 through 1969 are to be apportioned among the States according to the estimated cost of completing the Interstate System as determined by studies that will be reported to Congress in subsequent years.

1956 ACT PROVIDES LONG-TERM PROGRAM

The Federal-Air Highway Act of 1956 charts a new course in the Federal-State cooperative highway program. It departs from the practice of authorizing specific amounts for a 2- or 3-year period by providing a 13-year program aimed at completing the Interstate Highway System to standards adequate for traffic estimated in 1975. Federal authorizations for improvement of the Interstate System start with $1.175 billion for the fiscal year 1957 and go to $1.7 billion for 1958, $2 billion for 1959, and $2.2 billion for each of the fiscal years 1960 through 1967, ending with authorizations of $1.5 billion for 1968 and $1.025 billion for 1969. Thus, a total of $24.825 billion of Federal funds are authorized over the coming 13 years.

Continuation of the regular Federal-aid program is also provided by the 1956 Act for the fiscal years 1957 through 1959, with authorizations for these three years of $825 million, $850 million, and $875 million, respectively. These funds are divided among the three programs in the usual proportions of 45 percent primary, 30 percent secondary, and 25 percent urban.

(A statement is attached showing in detail by States the apportionments for the fiscal years 1957 and 1958.)

The 1956 Act continued the programs for Federal domain roads in amounts that are increased over the amounts for prior years. For each of the fiscal years 1958 and 1959 the Federal domain authorizations are $30 million for forest highways, $27 million for forest development roads, $16 million for park roads and trails, $16 million for parkways, $12 million for Indian reservation roads and $2 million for public lands highways, making a total annual program of $103 million.

The Federal-aid highway funds for any given fiscal year become available immediately upon apportionment and remain available through the fiscal year for which authorized and the two following fiscal years. Thus, the authorizations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, became available upon their apportionment on August 1, 1956, and will remain available for contracting through June 30, 1960, or a total of 47 months.

ADVANCE OF FUNDS

In order to facilitate the acquisition of right-of-way for projects on the Interstate System, the 1956 Act provides for advance of Federal funds to the States for purchase of right-of-way for projects for future construction. Previous legislation authorized advance of Federal funds to the States but only for the purpose of expediting actual construction. Since the 1956 Act increases Federal highway authorizations fourfold and Federal participation on Interstate System projects to 90 percent, it is expected that the States will find it necessary to make more use of this provision of the legislation.

Federal funds are advanced upon application by the State highway department and approval by the Commissioner of Public Roads. Since the advance is treated as a revolving trust fund, the amount of the advance is limited to the anticipated obligations which will mature during a period of two months. The funds are advanced to the order of the State official designated as Custodian of Funds who deposits the funds in a special account in a financial institution within the State. Prior to acceptance of deposit, the institution must have agreed to accept the account and to furnish the Bureau certification of balance whenever requested, and to permit audit of the account by the Bureau. It is understandable that in the operation of a trust account of this nature the Federal advance cannot be deposited to any existing State fund account or otherwise comingled with funds of the State. The funds in the trust account may be disbursed solely upon vouchers approved by the State highway department for rights-of-way which have been or are being acquired, and for construction which has been performed. Reimbursement to the revolving trust account is made upon presentation of vouchers to Public Roads covering rights-of-way or construction disbursements from the trust account.

HIGH DESIGN STANDARDS PROVIDED FOR INTERSTATE ROUTES

Since design standards directly affect both highway capacity and the safety and efficiency of traffic movement, high standards have been adopted for the Interstate System, as required by the 1956 Act. They were formulated by the American Association of State Highway Officials and approved by the Bureau of Public Roads. They call for incorporation of all known safety features to provide for safe, relaxed driving and maximum economy of vehicle operation. The designs will be based on requirements for estimated 1975 traffic volumes, almost 20 years hence. The rights-of-way width will be from 150 to 300 feet wide, depending upon the terrain, the type of country, and the number of lanes involved. Traffic lanes will have a minimum width of 12 feet, and all-weather shoulders will be from 6 to 10 feet wide. Medians on the multilane sections will be at least 36 feet in rural areas and no less than 4 feet wide in built-up urban areas. Current estimates indicate that 28,000 miles of the new system will be 4 lanes and that 5,000 to 6,000 will be more than 4 lanes. Only 7,000 miles, in sparsely settled rural areas, will be 2 lanes.

Control of access is one of the most important features that will distinguish the Interstate Highway System from most of our present-day roads. Control of access means planned access whereby every vehicle entering or leaving the highway will do so on facilities designed for safe and efficient merging with and emerging from the through traffic streams. Studies have shown that the accident rate can be reduced about two-thirds by controlling access.

Widespread economic benefits are expected to follow in the wake of controlled access roads. Even though the New York Thruway, a controlled access highway is not yet fully completed and portions have not been opened to traffic for very long, more than $150 million worth of new industrial plants have been erected along this route. These plants are estimated to employ 30,000 persons, with an annual payroll exceeding $100 million. Expressways in many other localities tell a similar story.

There are many other provisions of the 1956 Act which should be mentioned. The Act specifies that provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act are made applicable to projects financed from the new interstate funds. This involves a predetermination of prevailing wage rates for similar work in the immediate locality, determined by the Secretary of Labor in advance of advertising for bids. The wage rates so determined are made applicable to interstate projects.

For the first time Alaska is made eligible for Federal-aid for highways—primary, secondary, and urban. Only one-third of its land area is used in applying the regular formulas to calculate Alaska's apportionments.

Section 111 of the 1956 Act makes provisions for Federal funds to participate with State funds in the cost of relocation of utility facilities necessitated by the construction of a Federal-aid improvement. This provision merely reaffirms our present practices in this regard.

HIGHWAY TRUST FUND CREATED

Title II of the 1956 Act is known as the Highway Revenue Act of 1956. It places the Federal share of this vast work program on a pay-as-you-go basis. It provides for earmarking and channeling into a special trust fund revenues estimated to reach $38.5 billion in the 16-year period beginning July 1, 1956. About two-thirds of this amount are estimated to come from highway-user taxes that already were in effect and one-third will come from new taxes and increases provided by the new legislation.

STATE ACCOUNTING PROCEDURES OUTLINED FOR FEDERAL-AID PROJECTS

There may be some question with respect to the accounts and records which should be maintained for the accounting of costs of the expanded Federal-aid highway construction program. As a general rule, it is not expected that Public Roads would require the maintenance of such accounts beyond the scope which the State itself would maintain under established and accepted accounting procedures. The recording of costs by distribution of charges to project accounts is standard practice and is necessary for fiscal management and control purposes as well as for the determination of claims made against Federal funds. The accounts themselves are, of course, only one record of interest to both the State and Public Roads, with a second primary interest being the records maintained in support of costs recorded in the accounts. Here again Public Roads will ask for no more in the way of records than could be expected to be maintained in the normal course of operating a large business, such as the highway construction program.

MODERNIZED ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS NEEDED

The sudden expansion in the highway construction program will produce many problems, some of which will affect auditors and accountants. Vigilance by all public officials will be required to insure proper expenditure of public funds. I have one suggestion to make: review carefully your accounting systems to see if they provide you with adequate controls for the greatest public works project ever undertaken by a Nation in recorded history.

It has been estimated that expenditures for the construction of Federal-aid highways over the next 15 years will equal the cost of 29 Panama Canals, plus 29 Grand Coulee Dams, plus 29 St. Lawrence Seaways. When it was apparent that the Congress would authorize huge sums for highway purposes we, in the Bureau, asked the accounting staff of the Department of Commerce and the Accounting Systems Division of the General Accounting Office to cooperate with us in making a comprehensive survey of our accounting system. The Bureau has expended over $8 billion since 1916 without a breath of scandal, but we did not believe it advisable to rest on our laurels. Rather, with expenditures being increased fourfold, we considered it imperative to have the best accounting system that could be devised. I recommend such action by each of you.

Gracious God, our Heavenly Father we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection, and that Thou wilt incline the hearts of our citizens to cultivate the spirit of obedience to Thy holy laws.

Bless this commonwealth that it may be a blessing to our Country and to the world. Grant that our ideals and aspirations may be in accordance with Thy will. Help us to see ourselves as others see us. Grant us sound government and simplicity and justice in all our relations to one another. Above all we ask Thee, dear Lord, to grant us a spirit of servcie which will abolish all pride of place and inequality of opportunity.

Gracious God, endow all the members of this House of Representatives with right understanding, pure purpose, and sound speech. Enable them to rise above self seeking and party zeal into the larger sentiments of public good and human brotherhood.

Bless these Thy servants with good health and the good sense to preserve it. Bless their loved ones, the members of their families. May they commit all to Thy care that no leaden anxiety keep any one from doing his best work.

Help us to be good men and women that we may become good leaders. As we are confronted with decisions make us willing to ask, "What would Jesus do?" Then give us the courage and the grace so to act. We ask it in His precious name. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BROWN. RESOLUTION No. 48.

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1957.

The Lutheran Church of Our Saviour, Coatesville, Pennsylvania was established on May 5, 1907, with a mere fifty members. On this year of its Fiftieth Anniversary the church membership numbers in excess of 600 persons, having more than doubled itself in size within the past six years. Through the untiring efforts of the pastor and the congregation it has now become evident that the existing edifice will not accommodate the increasing throngs of people seeking out the Lutheran Church of Our Saviour to worship God and plans are now materializing for the erection of a new and larger church.

The benefit to mankind which flows forth from this place of worship is indeed immeasurable, for who can say how many souls have been saved and how many deeds of kindness and charity have been instigated by the word of God and the fellowship and communion derived from the sanctuary.

The celebration of this half century of progress which will be held for a full week beginning on May 5, 1957, has deep significance, and even though we cannot all be present we wish to join with the Church in celebrating this milestone; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulate Reverend Robert S. Nagle, his predecessors and all the parishioners of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Our Saviour on their Fiftieth Anniversary and for their faithful and industrious service in the name of God, and be it further.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to The Reverend Robert S. Nagle, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Our Saviour, Coatesville, Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. UJOBAI. RESOLUTION No. 49.

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1957.

The following comments, made over a century ago in a publisher's preface to a study of the 1848 Hungarian Revolution, offer a startling parallel to sentiments recently expressed throughout an indignant free world:

"The narrative of the Hungarian war and its heroes is demanded by the American people. They sympathize with the noble band, which strove for freedom and national independence, and expressed their enthusiastic admiration of its leaders. When Hungary lay prostrate . . . a feeling of sorrow and indignation was universal . . ."

The equally inspiring crusade for freedom waged only a few months ago by the Hungarian people has created a new wave of indignation in the hearts and minds of free men everywhere and lends renewed significance to the sentiments quoted above, which appeared in 1851.

Eminent among the leaders of the 1848 Hungarian Revolution was Lajos Kossuth, a brilliant writer, fervent patriot, adroit politician and resourceful military leader.

March 20th will mark the 63rd anniversary of the death of Lajos Kossuth, mentor of the 1848 Revolution against the Hapsburg Monarchy which bears an almost identical resemblance to the recent struggle waged by 1956's Freedom Fighters.

Facing overpowering odds, Kossuth's freedom fighters defeated the Austrian oppressors and invoked a short-lived sovereignty for their country. On April 19, 1849, Lajos Kossuth issued the Hungarian Declaration of Indepence.

Intervention by Russian armies, however, ended Hungary's independence. Kossuth and other principals were forced to leave Hungary.

Kossuth, acclaimed throughout the world for his courageous leadership of the uprising, made a lecture tour of the United States and England. In this country he received hundreds of tributes from national and State officials. He remained in exile for the remainder of his life, and died March 20, 1894 in Turin, Italy.

Long revered by freedom-starved Hungarians, Lajos Kossuth, dead for over half a century, served his country once again as a posthumous stimulus for the recent uprisings. A national hero, his memory nurtured the beginnings of the 1956 revolt. The national monument in Budapest which marks his grave served as a rallying point for Freedom Fighters in the early days of the revolution.

The characteristics of the 1848 and 1956 uprisings were soon manifested on another parallel course. Once again Hungary gained brief freedom, then succumbed under intervention by Russian forces. A mass exodus, much like Kossuth's, was necessitated.

Kossuth's exile voyage to this country had been repeated twenty thousand-fold in the recent exodus of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters. But each Hungarian arriving in the United States has been welcomed with warmth and admiration equal to that accorded Kossuth.

Reception and resettlement of the thousands of exiles has presented a ponderous challenge to the multitude of private and public agencies involved.

At the Joyce Kilmer Reception Center, formerly Camp Kilmer, New Jersey more than twenty-two thousand refugees had been processed and assimilated into American communities as of February 7. Facing formidable restrictions of time and space, the workers, military and civilian, at the New Jersey site have labored with huge success.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by the nature of its economic and industrial activities and potential, has become a major terminus for resettlement of the Freedom Fighters. Pennsylvania's individuals, churches, groups and organizations have contributed magnificently toward the expeditious rehabilitation of their new neighbors. A sense of pride in the indomitable courage, valor and fortitudinous achievements of the exiles has transcended emotions prompted merely by compassion; therefore be it

Resolved, That on this day, the 63rd anniversary of the death of Lajos Kossuth, the members of the House of Representatives register commemorative tribute to the memory of this champion of freedom and human dignity; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1957.

In the House of Representatives, March 11, 1957.

On Wednesday, February 20, 1957, Henry Pleasants, Jr., M. D., was notified of his dismissal as the State Department of Health's District Medical Director of Chester County.

February 20, 1957 was the last possible day the State authorities could act before Dr. Pleasants' Civil Service status became permanent.

The only reason given for his dismissal was that "he had not met the standards which the department requires."

The record of Dr. Pleasants in the First World War, as Chief of Sanitation, advanced Section A.E.F., is an enviable one, and probably surpasses that of anyone in the State Public Health Service. His services as Lieutenant Colonel, U. S. A. (retired) included those of Battalion Surgeon 308th Infantry, 77th Division; Division Sanitary Inspector, 77th Division; and Chief of Sanitation, Staff of Chief Surgeon Advance Section A.E.F., France, in recognition of which he was awarded the Meritorious Service Citation (Order of the Purple Heart Medal).

It is common knowledge, among the people of Chester County, of Dr. Pleasants' devotion to his duties as the State Department of Health's District Medical Director for Chester County, and of his untiring efforts in behalf of the State and the residents of Chester County.

Dr. Pleasants has on repeated occasions endeavored to obtain from his superior officers in the Department of Health of Pennsylvania a specific statement as to the evidence of "unsatisfactory" performance of his duties as District Medical Director during the past eight years of his incumbency and has been absolutely unable to secure this information.

In March, 1956, he complied with the requirements of the Department of Health of Pennsylvania by taking and passing the Civil Service examination for evidence of ability to occupy the position of District Medical Director, and since the time of notification of the satisfactory result of this examination, he has received official notification of his performance of his duties being "satisfactory" on each of the six-month periods ending June 30th and December 31st, the statement of the Secretary of Health, in his letter received February 20th, appears entirely at variance with facts.

Dr. Pleasants has, within the past four months, been examined by the specialists on the Staff of the Chester County Hospital on two occasions and found physically able to perform the duties of his office.

Dr. Pleasants has, on innumerable occasions during the past three years, experienced deliberate and unprofessional as well as highly embarrassing and insulting treatment by certain of his superiors in the Department of Health.

According to the statement of an official of the Health Department, the second "D" rating covered the period July 1, 1954 to January 1, 1955, it is clearly apparent that two disqualifying ratings of "D" were given by his superiors for professional services of Dr. Pleasants in only one six-month period, such duplication was clearly illegal; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby order a full and complete investigation of the activities of the Department of Health of Pennsylvania, with special reference to evidence of willful and deliberate discrimination against and unjust and unwarranted penalization of Henry Pleasants, Jr., M. D.; and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of five members of the House of Representatives be appointed by the Speaker of the House to carry out this investigation and to make a report of its findings to the General Assembly as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

CAREER JOBS

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 12, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

State Government in the mid-Twentieth Century has become an incredibly complex instrument for serving people.

Each day it is called upon to provide hundreds upon hundreds of widely varied services—services that people want, people need, and people pay for with their tax dollars.

If we are to provide these services properly, we must have skilled men and women trained to do technical and professional jobs, and do them well.

We must have engineers of all sorts, draftsmen, architects, foresters, landscapers, biologists, nurses, business machine operators, medical administrators, physical therapists, psychiatrists, and dozens of other specialists.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, like every other state in the Union, faces this problem:

How can we attract technical and professional people to career jobs in State Government?

The only answer is to make career jobs attractive.

This is easier said than done. The Nation's supply of these skilled people is limited, and the demand for them increases every day.

The Commonwealth must, therefore, compete for their services, like any other would-be-employer. It must compete with private employers and with the governments of other states and the Federal Government.

In this competition, Pennsylvania consistently runs behind the field.

For although we offer, in a majority of cases, salaries comparable to those of the market place, we offer no job security and, therefore, no chance for the applicant to build a continuous career in government service.

As a result, we frequently fail to get the people we want, and we often lose the people we have.

Some 65,000 people are employed by the Commonwealth. For much too long a time we have depended almost exclusively on the patronge system to supply the vast majority of them.

But the patronage system fails in the very area of our greatest need: with technical and professional people, whose services are in unremitting demand all over the Country.

In our complex technological society, it is impossible to administer the Government of Pennsylvania without trained people, selected by merit and protected in their careers.

For these career public servants are the hard core of continuing good government.

At present, our Civil Service laws cover 14,000 people.

We believe they must be extended to cover approximately 10,000 more—all of them persons whose skills are in wide demand and whose services we badly need.

We do not advocate extending Civil Service coverage to State employes on the policymaking level, who are appointed under the Administrative power and must necessarily reflect the policies of succeeding Administrations.

Nor do we contemplate an extension of Civil Service to cover those whose jobs require only routine training.

Our primary concern is with the hard-to-get specialists.

Let me give you a few examples of our difficulty in recruiting them.

We employ 210 psychiatrists in the Department of Welfare, but we need 480; we have 1300 psychiatric nurses and need twice that number; we have 78 psychologists and need 120; we have 130 psychiatric social workers and need 400; we have slightly more than half the 700 activities program technicians we need.

Our Department of Highways needs 1500 professional engineers and engineering assistants. At present, we have less than a third of the men we need.

These jobs go begging because we can't hire qualified people to fill them. Yet we offer them salaries on a par with those paid by competing agencies.

Remembering that it is difficult to get these people anyway, I feel sure you can understand how that difficulty is multiplied by lack of job security. Quite understandably, these people see no reason why they should accept jobs limited to the life of an administration. Nor will they accept the uncertainty of such jobs, knowing that merit system protection is easy to get in other states or with other governmental agencies.

Furthermore, these people know that short-staffed Pennsylvania agencies, trying to do their jobs, must frequently throw away the time-clocks and settle down to chronic overwork.

If we could offer job security, along with fair salaries, we could get some of the trained people we need. But even with Civil Service protection, we will predictably recruit an insufficient number of skilled personnel.

Michigan, for example, extends Civil Service coverage to all State employes with the exception of department heads and their deputies. And Michigan has been conducting an intensive recruiting program.

Yet Michigan can only manage to hire 100 to 120 engineers a year.

Pennsylvania, offering no job security at the present time, must obviously fare worse.

We have done what we could to remedy this situation. We have conducted an aggressive recruiting program. But we have found that the absence of job tenure among most of our technical and professional Commonwealth employes has discouraged a high percentage of desirable applicants.

We are now faced with the need to place 10,000 more professional and technical jobs under Civil Service protection.

Since September 10, 1956, this Administration, by Executive Board action, brought nearly that number under our merit system.

But what one Executive Board can do, another can undo.

Consequently, this Administration now seeks legislation confirming the Executive Board's action and bringing Civil Service protection—by statute law—to the essential career personnel of the Commonwealth.

The bill we propose would accomplish that end. It would also bring a number of our eight Civil Service systems under the jurisdiction of a single act, and make several technical changes in the existing law.

We think this bill reflects an up-to-date approach to the most immediate problem confronting governmental administration: the problem of getting qualified men and women into the technical and professional slots of career government service.

By passing this measure and making it law, the General Assembly will be taking a giant stride forward in the direction of more modern, more efficient and more effective State Government.

For it is to these specialists, skilled in technology and the professions, that government must look for its hard core of competence, its unbroken continuity over the years.

I cannot urge too strongly that the General Assembly take early action on this critically important legislation!

GEORGE M. LEADER.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. AGNEW asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman for withholding making the statement yesterday.

Mr. AGNEW. The Speaker is quite welcome.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday in co-sponsorship with Mr. Adams, the gentleman from Berks, and Mr. Seltzer, the gentleman from Lebanon, I submitted in this House a package of labor bills for the consideration of the Members of this House.

These bills, I believe, are numbered conscutively beginning with 769 and ending with 772. The declaration of policy contained in these legislative proposals reads in part, as follows: it is hereby declared to be the policy of the Commonwealth that because of the inherent powers of labor organizations it has become necessary and proper to establish by statute the rights of the individual member of labor organizations in order that he may fully enjoy all the benefits accruing from his status, not only of the union member but also as a citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

These four bills are designed to accomplish the following purposes.

Bill No. 1, to define the civil rights of members of labor organizations and to protect such rights.

No. 2, to regulate unions by requiring the filing of copies of union constitution and by-laws with the Labor Relations Board as public records, and the filing of annual financial statements of all funds received and expended; and requiring unions to submit such records and reports to members.

No. 3, to regulate union welfare and pension funds.

No. 4, to make a misdemeanor an agreement between management and a union to deny to any member any right as defined."

I expect these bills will get some public reaction. I expect that many Members of this House and many groups and persons throughout the Commonwealth may suggest proposed amendments. Every suggested amendment to these bills, whether from a Member of this House or from a group within the Commonwealth, will receive serious consideration. We are in no hurry to move these bills too fast and will stay in committee at least for a while until we get the reaction of the public and all suggested amendments.

I call these bills the Bill of Rights for labor's rank and file. I hope that they will be known as such.

An Act amending the act of December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742) entitled as amended * * * requiring the Department of Revenue to appoint the recorder of deeds in each county as an agent for the sale of tax stamps.

passed second reading and was ordered transcribed for third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. JOHNSON. I second the motion.

Mr. T. H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which the title of the bill was agreed to be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. T. H. W. JONES. Mr .Speaker, I move that the vote by which the various sections to this bill were agreed to be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. THOS. H. W. JONES offered the following amendment·

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 6), page 3, line 4, by inserting after "act." This section shall not be construed to require any recorder of deeds to accept appointment or serve as such agent.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. READINGER. I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the amendment.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. T. H. W. Jones. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr .Speaker, I desire to ask the Chair whether this amendment has already been adopted?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed by the Official Reporter that the amendment has not been officially adopted. The amendment is now before the House.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to ask the gentleman from Montgomery to explain the purpose of this amendment?

Mr. T. H. W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the amendment is designed to permit the recorders of deeds to refuse to accept an appointment as agents of the Secretary of Revenue for the sale of tax stamps for the realty transfer tax.

The bill to which it is an amendment requires the Secretary of Revenue to appoint the recorders of deeds in each county as his agent for the sale of these tax stamps.

This amendment permits, in effect, the recorder to disclaim, if he does not for some reason wish to accept the appointment.

I might add that I am introducing this amendment at the request of one of the sponsors of the bill in the Senate, who stated he had a conversation with the Secretary of Revenue and the Secretary of Revenue had requested this amendment because apparently even under present law some of the recorders of deeds in various counties do not care to handle these tax stamps.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I oppose the adoption of this amendment for the reason that if this House intends to pass a bill requiring the Secretary of Revenue to appoint the recorder of deeds as the agent to sell these stamps, then the recorder of deeds should accept that responsibility and not be given a choice as to whether he will or will not do it.

I think we should not be passing a bill requiring the Secretary of Revenue to appoint all recorders of deeds in the first place, but if we are going to require him to do so, then we certainly should not leave it to the whim or choice of the recorders of deeds to decide whether they are going to perform a duty which we are telling the Secretary of Revenue to impose upon them.

I would like to see the House vote these amendments down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER declared the "ayes" appear to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, ninety-eight Members having voted in the affirmative and seventy-six in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

An Act amending the "Second Class County Code" approved July 28, 1953 (P. L. 723), permitting certain county offices to be closed on Saturday

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, how many offices are affected by this bill?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that question, it takes in the prothonotary's office and the county court offices that are dealing with desertion and non-support.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is not the right of the clerk of courts, the prothonotary and the recorder of deeds entirely discretionary under this bill?

Mr. VAUGHAN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is not possible for the clerk of courts to decide that his office shall be open and the other officers to decide that their offices shall be closed?

Mr. VAUGHAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Now, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Allegheny cannot answer this question, he can get the assistance perhaps of a lawyer or some other person who is familiar with the operations of the prothonotary, and this is the question:

If the recorder of deeds is closed on Saturday and the prothonotary is open on Saturday, what rights will be affected where two individuals are trying to place a mortgage and place a judgment against the same property?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, I have affidavits from the prothonotary and others concerned with this stating that as of now the law says they must have a full crew. They are working with a skeleton crew and intend to continue with a skeleton crew, and later on I will show you the reason why they should not have a full crew and that a skeleton crew will do.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me, in case the prothonotary's office is closed and the recorder's office is open, how the legal rights of individuals cannot be harmed?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Personally I cannot see where they can be harmed.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, under the terms of this bill, the clerk of courts could close his office on Saturday, and is it not true that an individual who has been held for court on Friday, at least, in Allegheny County, where a felony is charged would have to remain in jail until Monday because the clerk of courts is not available?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, that is not so, for the simple reason that I know of a case where the prothonotary was at a ball game on Sunday afternoon and they came out to the ball game and he accepted the papers.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I know the prothonotary—whose name I cannot recall—is a very busy man, but what jurisdiction does he have over the quarter sessions court?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Same political party, I would say, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, are we dealing with parties or are we dealing with the rights of individuals?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Both, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me, if he can, on whose behalf he has sponsored this bill?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker, I can tell the gentleman that. I sponsored this bill on behalf of fairness to the people who work in that office, to the prothonotary who has the office and the other officers whom this bill includes. If they are forced to live up to the law which insists that they have a full crew, that is, they are supposed to have a full crew, but they work with a skeleton crew, what they want to do is make it legal.

To give you an illustration, our desertion and nonsupport cases they hear for the whole month of January and the first two weeks in February. Not one case did they have on a Saturday, yet they have a skeleton crew there.

Getting to the prothonotary's office, Saturday, January 5th, they had four cases, January 19th they had four cases, January 26th they had 14 cases. On those four specific dates all they needed was a skeleton crew at work.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Allegheny talking about primary actions only, by that I mean, the initiation of litigation? Does he mean that when he is referring to four cases?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I am talking about, in the one instance civil cases, in the other instance, the number of cases filed and indexed.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman from Allegheny know that the prothonotary's office is used for searching titles by scores of lawyers on Saturday?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker, and they will continue to have their skeleton crew just like they do in Philadelphia. Philadelphia has the same type of legislation, and they continue to keep a skeleton crew there if anyone wants to search a title.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. It is now true today that the employes of the prothonotary's office, especially, work only every second Saturday?

Mr. VAUGHAN. That is where the skeleton crew comes in in this bill, to make it legal.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. To make what legal?

Mr. VAUGHAN. That he can use a skeleton crew.

Here is an illustration, Mr. Speaker. Last Saturday 300 or 400 cases came into the office on a Saturday morning which were filed by the government. Under this bill those cases could have been held and yet the date of that particular Saturday would have been marked on these bills. What happened, they had to work through until 11:00 o'clock Saturday night to finish up those bills so they would have them filed on that particular date.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, if the Federal government would have brought down 300 liens on Thursday at a quarter to 4:00, would not the same thing have happened on Thursday?

Mr. VAUGHAN. No, I would not say that.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. When would those liens have been filed on Thursday?

Mr. VAUGHAN. They would have had a full crew there and they would have finished them.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the gentleman one final question. How many men are engaged in recording the lien dockets in the prothonotary's office, if he knows?

Mr. VAUGHAN. How many what?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. How many men are engaged in entering liens in the prothonotary's office out of a staff of 138?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I would say about four.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Four? That is all Mr. Vaughan, thank you.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the passage of this bill.

Firstly, I have in my possession the resolutions from the Allegheny County Bar Association from the Executive Committee, from the Judiciary Committee and from the Legislative Committee, all of whom are opposed to closing these court house offices on Saturday.

In addition, I have interrogated scores of lawyers in Allegheny County and asked their opinion as to this bill which warrants and permits the prothonotary recorder of deeds and clerk of courts to close their respective offices. They are all opposed to this particular bill.

I call to your particular attention there are scores of people who work daily in the mills and who must go to the court house on Saturday. To compel them to take a day off during the week is unsound.

The Courts of Allegheny County and the offices thereof should be open every secular day. Under this bill the prothonotary or the recorder of deeds or the clerk of courts could, at his own discretion, during the month of September say that their respective offices shall be closed and during the month of October say these offices shall be open.

I say to you when the prothonotary, the record of deeds and the clerk of courts went before the people of Allegheny County, they made an implied contract with them to keep their offices open every day of the week except Sunday. I say there are four individuals in Allegheny County who want to avail themselves of the "row offices," as they are called, and they should have that right. I am not concerned about the fact that these men have to work only three hours on Saturday in alternate weeks because I do not believe these men are overworked. Their schedule reads from nine to four. They work 30 hours during the week when they are not employed on Saturday, and 33 hours during the alternate week.

We say to you to open the door and allow the courts of Allegheny County to be closed on Saturday is unsound and not in the public interest. I wish to call to the attention of the proponents of this bill that I took the same stand when similar bills were before the House insofar as they concerned the County of Philadelphia.

A public office is a public trust. We say let us keep the court house in Allegheny County open because if bills of this character are passed, then the door will be open and every court house in Allegheny County will be closed on Saturday.

I ask every Member on both sides of the House to vote against this legislation because it serves no useful purpose but will serve some detrimental purpose.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind Mr. Goldstein that we only have one court house in Allegheny County. However, House Bill No. 97 contains the same provisions as the Act which now applies to Philadelphia.

The purpose of this bill, Mr. Speaker, is to provide adequate service for Saturdays without the necessity of calling out the whole work force. Ordinarily, a skeleton force can handle the day's requirements since there is no court on Saturday, and hence small need for the prothonotary's services. There is no allowance in the present law for permitting employes of the prothonotary's office to have Saturday off. That is the point I am trying to bring out. In other words, according to the law he is supposed to have a full crew there for that half day. It is not the intention of the prothonotary to close up on Saturday. He wants the authority to use a skeleton force together with the authority to carry over the entry date, whenever possible, to the next calendar business day. That is very important. In other words, you can carry it over until Monday. This is requested to avoid the congestion which already has arisen with municipalities which have flooded the prothonotary's office with delinquent tax liens late Friday, or Saturday morning, and have demanded the liens be entered on the docket as of the following date. The result has been that 35 or 40 employes have had to work through on Saturday on those occasions, and parts of Sunday, to keep the docket current. The Saturday closing authority, together with permission to carry over the dates of entry from Saturday to Monday, precludes congestion without inconvenience to lawyers and plaintiffs who want to use the office on Saturday.

Mr. Speaker, I have two certificates sworn to by the desertion and non-support court, and also the prothonotary's office, showing the amount of work they do on Saturdays. I would like permission to file these with the Clerk.

(For certificates see file in Chief Clerk's office).

In closing, I would like every Member of this House to give Allegheny County what Philadelphia has and the right to use a skeleton crew on Saturdays.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, so that the Members of the House are not confused with the issues in this particular case, I would like to ask the gentleman this question. Does this affect the office of county clerk of courts which is presently headed by Thomas Barrett in Allegheny County? Does this bill affect him or his office?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Yes sir.

Mr. FILO. In other words, the clerk of courts of Allegheny County will also be closed.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Not be closed, no, but he may close. In other words, it will be legal for him to have a skelton crew there.

Mr. FILO. According to the way the bill reads, it says the office of prothonotary, clerk of county court, clerk of juvenile court and recorder of deeds.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Is the gentleman talking about the elected clerk of courts?

Mr. FILO. That is right.

Mr. VAUGHAN. No, this does not affect his office.

Mr. FILO. That is what I wanted to bring out, Mr. Speaker. This does not affect the present clerk of courts.

Mr. VAUGHAN. No, it does not affect his office.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to make it clear that in my opinion there is no law which requires the prothonotary, recorder of deeds and clerk of courts to have a full staff. If the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, is worried about having a skeleton crew, a skeleton crew has existed in Allegheny County for many years, and I am certain that the men who are in charge of that office would not knowingly or intentionally violate any law. We have had a skeleton crew admittedly for a long period of time. If a skeleton crew is doing its job in the interest of the public, those individuals who want to get off Saturday will be able to do so.

This bill serves no useful purpose whatsoever.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence in the Hall of the House today of a distinguished former Speaker of this House. It is his first visit to the Hall of the House since the last Session. He is also the Auditor general-elect of the Commonwealth.

Without objection, the Chair will appoint the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, and the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger as a Committee to escort the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, to the rostrum.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. Speaker, I have the honor to present to the House the Auditor General-elect, the Honorable Charles C. Smith of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the Committee and welcomes to the rostrum the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, the Auditor General-elect of the Commonwealth.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE CHARLES C. SMITH

HONORABLE CHARLES C. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, friends, you do not know how wonderful it is to be home, believe me. I know there have been a lot of people who have said I wonder what has happened to Charlie Smith. He does not come around the House any more since he has been elected.

I want to tell you a story, and believe me it is very true. I believe one of the hardest jobs that I ever had to do when I was Speaker was to drop this gavel on the day of sine die, adjournment, a lump really came up and it stayed up.

When I walked through this House today and you Members were not in your seats, I detoured the House purposely because I honestly felt so bad about it. Being kicked upstairs sometimes is not as nice as it might seem.

I can remember the gentleman from Cambria, Speaker Andrews, one time years ago when I had a little bit more hair, at which time we had another Speaker in the Chair by the name of Mr. Lichtenwalter. He was going to go to Congress, and Speaker Andrews said that he was being kicked upstairs but that there was only one House of Representatives, and that there was only one Speaker and that it would never be the same. Well, I sat on those seats at that time and thought it was just one of Mr. Andrews' good bits of oratory. But as usual, the gentleman knew a lot more about those things than I did.

Believe me, Mr. Andrews, you were 100 percent right. there is nothing like this House of Representatives. There is nothing like it for loyalty and for friendship. I hope that you will not forget me when I am hidden away here in a paneled office, believe me.

To you Members on the Republican side, my friends, I want to say to you please come over to see me because the doors will always be open; and to you gentlemen and ladies on the minority side, who are also my friends and to whom I owe an awful lot for courtesy and graciousness, the door will be open to you just as much. Please come to see me.

It is a privilege to be here. You gentlemen and ladies who are sitting in the House should take full advantage of it because being kicked upstairs is not as nice as it seems. I would like to be back right here or down in that spot down there. I have experienced more fun, more pleasure, more loyalty and more friendship here, and the Members of the House have given me the happiest memories of my life. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman and hopes he enjoys his visit with us today.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 98, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "Second Class County Code" approved July 28, 1953 (P. L. 723) permitting the prothonotary to appoint a solicitor and prescribing a means for paying the cost of prothonotary's litigation.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 165, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "1937 Magistrates' Court Act" approved June 15, 1937 (P. L. 1743) establishing a Traffic Court of Philadelphia and prescribing its powers and duties and jurisdiction and the magistrates assigned thereto * * *.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to move at this time to recommit this bill and make a few remarks with respect to that motion.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order to make that motion.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill commonly known as the—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? Will the gentleman make his motion?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill 165, Printer's No. 89, on page 5 of the calendar be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary for further study.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill amending the 1937 Magistrates Court Act and the intended effect of it is to legalize the Traffic Court in the City of Philadelphia.

The Mayor of the City of Philadelphia has been very much interested in this bill because he recognizes that the present existing setup in Philadelphia with respect to the Traffic Court is not legally constituted. We are all, I think, especially the lawyers, aware of this problem.

In furtherance of the Mayor's interest he recently appointed a non-partisan citizens committee to examine into the matter and to prepare a bill which would be acceptable to both parties and to the people of the City of Philadelphia, in particular.

This non-partisan committee consisted of the Vice Chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar Association who was named Chairman of the Committee, that is, Walter Alessandroni, the Chief Magistrate of the City of Philadelphia, a member of the Keystone Automobile Club, a member of the Committee of Seventy, and I believe there are some other members. They have been meeting and dealing with this problem. The latest report was that within a period of a month they would some up with a bill which would be constitutional and would satisfy the needs of the city.

There was an agreement between the Members of the Judiciary Committee of this House—and I am a Member of the Committee—that we would await the outcome of this meeting, we would wait and see what kind of a bill this citizens committee would come up with.

For some unknown reason, Tuesday afternoon we were called off the floor of this House and without any prior notice whatsoever this particular bill was reported out of Committee. It was a very unusual and irregular thing to call out at this time the bill, when we knew all along that this citizens committee was contemplating a bill which would remove the objections of both parties.

I certainly think because of the fact that there are serious questions of law, constitutional questions, involved, we ought to wait at this time until we hear from that citizens committee.

If there is any suggestion that they are not going to come up with a suitable bill, or that they are dilatory, and that they should have prepared and submitted a bill to this House up until this time, I certainly think that fact should be made known.

But with fairness to all, at the present time I think it would be wise and prudent on the part of this House to postpone action on this bill and to recommit it until we do get a report from that committee.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the motion to recommit the bill, and would like to offer some of the objections there are to the bill as it is written.

Our Pennsylvania State Constitution, Article III, Section 6, says, that you cannot amend a law by reference—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? The gentleman understands that we are speaking on a motion to recommit the bill and not on the merits of the bill?

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I am supplementing reasons for the motion to recommit. I feel that the bill requires further study.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wanted the gentleman to understand that the motion was to recommit and his remarks should be confined to that question. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, the bill requires further study because it is unconstitutional. Article II, Section 6, says that a law cannot be amended by reference, but so much as is amended or revived must be reenacted and published in full.

House Bill 165 before us amends the Magistrates Court Act of 1937 and on pages 2 and 3 attempts to amend the Vehicle Code by reference. It is the Vehicle Code which prescribes in summary offenses that the violator must be taken to the nearest available Magistrate. House Bill 165 amends the Vehicle Code, or attempts to, by putting jurisdiction in the Traffic Court, and this simply cannot be done without properly amending the Vehicle Code.

The Mayors non-partisan committee which was just referred to by the last speaker recognizes this, and, to bring him up to date and the House up to date, that committee did come up with two bills, one bill amending the Vehicle Code to meet the objection I have just stated and the other bill describing the operation of the Magistrates Court and amending the Magistrates Court Act.

Therefore, the Mayor's non-partisan committee headed by Walter Alessandroni, Vice Chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar Association, is not in favor of House Bill 165. I can say that with further authority because I attended the meeting of the Cicil Legislation Committee of the Philadelphia Bar Association last Friday afternoon. At that time a report was made by Mr. Alessandroni in accordance with the facts I have just indicated, and it was agreed by that committee to appoint a subcommittee to review the whole situation further.

A further constitutional reason why the bill would be invalid and why I am in favor of recommitting the bill is that Article V, Section 12, of our Constitution says that there shall be one court in Philadelphia for each 30,000 population. That section goes on to describe the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the Magistrates Courts.

House Bill 165 removes some of the criminal jurisdiction from each of the 28 courts throughout the city and places it in one court. The question is, can this be done constitutionally.

In the case of Rutenberg vs. Philadelphia, a case decided by the Supreme Court in 1938, the Supreme Court had before it the Magistrates Court Act of 1937. The Magistrates Court Act of 1937 attempted in Sections 21 and 30, I believe, to set up one civil court for magistrates in the city so that all civil matters would be heard in that one court en banc in City Hall, Philadelphia.

The Supreme Court decided that the attempt to do this was in violation of the Constitution, that the attempt to remove the civil jurisdiction from all the Magistrates Courts throughout the city and placing it in one court was in violation of Article V, Section 12.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that the attempt in this bill to remove some criminal jurisdiction from all the Magistrates Courts and place it in one central court is also violating the Constitution. It can be directly analyzed to Rutenberg vs. Philadelphia and I feel there is a serious constitutional question involved there.

Viewing those two constitutional objections which I have just stated—and these were discussed last Friday afternoon by the Philadelphia Bar Association Civil Legislation Committee—that committee decided that the whole subject had to be reviewed further, even though the Mayor's non-partisan committee had presented two bills to that Committee. I have those two bills in my hand at the present time.

I would say further, Mr. Speaker, that there are further reasons why the bill should be recommitted.

The question is, does House Bill 165 go far enough? There has been a great deal of discussion in the City of Philadelphia that improper records and dockets have been kept.

There is nothing in House Bill 165 regulating dockets and records of the Traffic Court. I might say that one of two bills offered by the Mayor's non-partisan committee specifically prescribes and regulates the keeping of dockets, records and entries, and it would seem that this might be a desirable feature to be added. Why it was not added to House Bill 165, I do not know.

Also, the bill does not go far enough because it does not provide or insist that no case shall be disposed of without a hearing. One of the big criticisms that exists with the present system is that some cases reportedly are disposed of without a hearing. If the sponsors of the bill are really interested in a proper bill, why do they not insist upon a provision in the bill requiring a hearing?

I might say in this connection that the bill of the Mayor's non-partisan committee amending the Magistrates Court Act cases to be tied with hearings only.

For those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I think the bill should be recommitted.

Mr. AUSTIN M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak briefly on House Bill 165 and in support of the reasons which have been cited in support of this motion to recommit.

I would like to say at the outset that I am opposed to the recommittal of this particular bill. For the information of the Members of the House, in the City of Philadelpoia we have 28 magistrates who have general jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases.

Most of you are familiar with the fact that in violations of the Motor Vehicle Code the Code requires that violators be taken to the nearest available magistrate. In the City of Philadelphia there has been established by ordnance a Central Traffic Court and in all summons for traffic violations the offender is summoned to that central court.

It is obvious that if a man is apprehended out in the outer regions of the city and brought into the center of town to the Central Traffic Court he passes a number of these 28 magistrates on the way. As a result of that, approximately 90 percent of the violation summons issued are invalid and illegal. The Chief Magistrate in Philadelphia uses that excuse for the purpose of cutting the amount of fine or discharging these tickets. For the information of the House, in only about 16 percent of the violations are the penalties actually paid in full.

House Bill 165 is designed for the purpose of correcting this particular situation.

I would like to deal first with the legal and constitutional questions which were raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

I have read over House Bill 165 with the utmost care. I have considered very carefully all of the objections which he raises. I have discussed these matters with lawyers in whom I have the greatest confidence and trust as to their ability.

I can say to you, Mr. Speaker, that in my opinion there is no basis for any of these objections.

With reference to Article III, Section 6, which says you cannot amend a bill by reference. This particular bill, House Bill No. 165, amends the 1937 Magistrates Court Act. The provisions in the Vehicle Code referring to the nearest available magistrate as it applies to the City of Philadelphia would be repealed by implication if this particular bill is signed into law, and as a result of which there is no basis for that constitutional objection.

The question was raised with me yesterday as to whether a companion bill might be needed to cure this situation, because the gentleman will admit that even if we assume we cannot amend the Vehicle Code in this particular bill it would require a separate bill I am having such a bill prepared and I will consider the matter further if I feel, as a matter of good housekeeping, the bill is required, at which time it will be introduced with the same sponsors who are on this particular bill.

The gentleman also referred to the removal of criminal jurisdiction under Article V, Section 12. I do not think there is anything to that question and I would like to point out to the gentleman that the 1937 Magistrates Court Act sets up a central police court in Philadelphia. If what he says is true, the central police court is also an unconstitutional court, which I doubt very seriously and which I do not believe is true.

The question of dockets is covered in the 1937 Magistrates Court Act, because in that Act it provides that dockets should be kept. If this amendment is made to that Magistrates Court Act, the other provisions of the Magistrates Court Act referring to dockets will apply to the central traffic court.

Regarding the other provisions of the Magistrates Court Act with reference to disposing of cases without a hearing, I would like to say on the question of the so-called Mayor's non-partisan committee that those gentlemen were appointed sometime ago and they have been study-this bill. I can say here, Mr. Speaker, that as I stand here today—and I know that I speak for the other co-sponsors on this bill—we did not to this instant receive any communication from the gentlemen on that committee in any way, shape or form. We have never at any time had any request of any kind to hold up consideration or the passage of this bill by this committee.

I might go further and say that I talked, about two weeks go, with the chairman of that committee, and he indicated to me in this conversation that there was no reason as to why House Bill No. 165 should not be moved and passed by this particular House.

As a result of this, Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Members of this House to vote against this motion to recommitt House Bill No. 165.

Mr. TOLL. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, while it may be true that there was no direct communication made to Representative Lee with respect to having this particular bill amended to put it in proper form, I can support the information given to you by Representative Eilberg. He and I attended a meeting on Friday afternoon of the Committee on Civil Legislation of the Philadelphia Bar Association, which was one of the groups cooperating in the problem of producing a suitable bill to correct the Traffic Court situation.

We are all for a traffic court in Philadelphia, but we want one which is preesnted by a bill which is constitutional and properly prepared.

Mr. Lee has just admitted he may need a companion bill to cure a problem which is right in this House Bill 165. If you look at it you wil see they tried to amend two laws, the Magistrates Court Act of 1937 and the Vehicle Code, Section 1201. How can you do it in one bill? It seems to me if you recommit this bill to the committee, that little problem will be ironed out, and you will get at least some kind of a bill, which at least in that aspect will be good.

The constitutional question is a serious one. Lawyers may differ. Mr. Lee has a view which might be supported in view of the advice he has received from constitutional lawyers: on the other hand, it is possible from the advice we have received, including advice from the front office which I have on my desk, there is a serious constitutional question by reason of the Supreme Court decision which was made in the Magistrates Court Act of 1937.

I therefore feel in all fairness to the bill and to the amendments which could be made and a week's delay or two weeks' delay would do no harm, you should support the motion to recommit so that we do get a bill which we can all vote for in confidence which would be a correct bill from the scrivener angle and a good bill from the constitutional angle. Therefore, I ask you to support the motion that the bill be recommitted.

Mr. AUSTIN M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, just two brief remarks: First, for what it is worth, in my opinion House Bill No. 165 is in perfectly proper legal and constitutional form. In the second place, I have in my hand House Bill No. 1108 of the Session of 1955 which is, with two slight exceptions, the identical bill to House Bill No. 165, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Toll, was one of the sponsors of this bill.

Mr. TOLL. Mr. Speaker, the Members of the House who served in the last Session will remember—and I believe our friend from The Bulletin will remember—that bill was sent back to committee for revision and correction and a new bill came out, House Bill No. 1769, which was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. If the gentleman will examine his records he will see that it is a fact. House Bill No. 1108 was just as defective as this one. It went back. You then prepared a new bill which passed the House. Those of you who were here remember it was well debated and we passed it.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I would first like to state that these microphones are very similar to cuspidors. Unless you hit them just right, they are no good at all.

Apropos the motion, I have to disagree with my colleague, Mr. Lee of Philadelphia, that this bill in his opinion is entirely constitutional. I do not see how you can by innuendo amend two laws at the same time.

If you examine this bill very carefully in this section it says "The Traffic Court of Philadelphia. The Court hereby created, notwithstanding any provisions of the Act of May 1, 1929, P. L. 905, known as the Vehicle Code or any other law to the contrary shall have jurisdiction in all prosecution," and so on. You cannot take out of a law by innuendo what is being attempted to do here. I am no constitutional lawyer, but in my humble opinion this bill when passed by this House will definitely be unconstitutional.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have a roll call on this motion.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman be satisfied with a division?

Mr. McCORMACK. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

On a division, seventy-eight Members having voted in the affirmative and one hundred eighteen in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say that the reason I voted "no" on this bill—I did not have a chance to file my reasons in writing—was because I clearly believe it is unconstitutional and I cannot in good conscience vote for it.

The last time I voted "no," or I opposed a resolution, I was accused by the newspapers of handcuffing the Darcy probe because I thought the expenditures should be submitted before an appropriation given. I would not want to be misconstrued on this bill. Although I believe we should have a good bill, I think this as clearly unconstitutional.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 204, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "Public Utility Law" of May 28, 1937 (P. L. 1053) excluding buses owned by or under contract with school districts private or parochial schools for the transportation of school children to and from school sponsored extra curricular activities from the definition of common carrier by motor vehicle and contract carrier by motor vehicle.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 205, entitled as follows:

An Act repealing section 502.1 act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), removing limitations upon the operation of commercial motor vehicles for carriage of passengers.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to suggest, perhaps if someone would explain this bill so many Members might not be in a quandary as to what the significance of the bill is.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup, desire to explain the bill?

Mr. STROUP. I will attempt to explain House Bill 205, Mr. Speaker.

Act 629 passed by the 1955 Legislature amended the Vehicle Code to restrict the application of the definition of a commercial motor vehicle in accordance with Act 630, which required school bus contract operators to secure permission from the Public Utility Commission in order to haul students on extra-curricular activities, that is, participating in games with other schools, or hauling students on scientific expenditures, field studies, and so forth.

The amendment to the Motor Vehicle Code passed by this session, therefore, placed a school bus contract operator into a situation whereby he must comply with the Public Utility Commission's demand for a Public Utility Commission certificate of public convenience.

House Bill 205 has repealed that section and returns the public school bus contract operator to the position which he enjoyed prior to the action of this Legislature in 1955. In other words, the definition of a commercial motor vehicle remains as it was prior to our amendment in that session, and a school bus contract operator now does not need to secure a certificate of public convenience from the Public Utility Commission in order to secure contracts and operate in such a way that he can haul students under contract on extra-curricular activities.

I hope that makes it clear. I have tried to make it clear.

Mr. ANDREWS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. It is a proper conclusion that having passed 204 the enactment of 205 would logically follow? Is that the situation?

Mr. STROUP. Yes, Mr. Speaker, it is essential. The two bills are companion bills. 204 having been passed by the House, it would be necessary to make it possible for the school bus contract operator to be able to operate his vehicle as a commercial vehicle rather than as an omnibus.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman. 204 having passed, I find it necessary to vote for 205.

On the question recurring,

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Mr. DENNISON. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 4 of today's calendar, Bill on Final Passage Postponed, House Bill No. 144.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. Dennison.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 144, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), reducing annual registration fee for certain two-wheeled semi-trailers.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was first called up Mr. Andrews said he would be in favor of reducing these license tags if the utilities would reduce their rates. I have a sincere belief that the utility companies could reduce their rates. The state needs this money and, as far as the utilities are concerned, this would be only a saving of peanuts.

I ask that this bill be turned down.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, at the time this bill was before the House previously, I believe the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, said he was going to make a study to determine the categories of use and of ownership of these respective trailers. That is one of the essential factors in this situation.

I do not see Mr. McCann in the House. The last time this bill was before the House he was the leader of the opposition. I do not know whether the sponsor of this bill has reached an understanding with Mr. McCann or whether he has adroitly noticed his absence, but perhaps the gentleman who sponsors the bill can give us the categories of ownership and of use and tell us just how many vehicles of the various classifications would be affected by this measure. That is a matter which has not been brought clearly before this House. Figures have been tossed around, guesses have been made, but there has been no accurate information. I think the sponsors of the bill should present the facts to the House and state exactly what the loss in revenue will be and also the categories of ownership of these various vehicles.

I do not know where Mr. McCann is. I do not know whether if he were in the House he would debate the bill, but I wish someone would hunt him and find out whether he wants to debate this bill.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, has just arrived on the floor of the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. The Minority Leader tells me the gentleman from Greene does not want to be interrogated. Since he does not want to be interrogated, I will not interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has stated he will be interrogated.

Mr. ANDREWS. All right. Were we or were we not mistaken in our estimates as to the number of vehicles in various classifications which would be affected by this bill? Has the gentleman from Greene made the study and were our initial impressions in error or were they in line with the facts?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I did make a very careful study of the figures dealing with the Class A trailers which this particular bill has bearing upon, and some of the statements made were in error and some were correct, depending upon what the gentleman from Cambria had in mind.

Most of the figures and items dealing with that bill have been turned over to one particular House Member for debate. I, in turn, made a complete study, but do not have the itemization at this time, since I have turned over to that gentleman the complete facts and figures dealing with this particular bill.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be something mysterious here. I would like to clear up some of the mystery, if I might. Who is the gentleman who has the figures?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I turned the figures over to the gentleman who is not sitting in his seat in the House and I do not know where he is, I cannot say, unless some of the other Members who sit by him would know. I turned over my entire report to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

I would now like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill if I may, Mr. Dennison.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Dennison, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENNISON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr Dennison, inform us as to how many rental trailers—and I mean by that people who rent out these trailers—fall within this classification?

Mr. DENNISON. You mean for the registration year of 1956?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Yes, sir.

Mr. DENNISON. 1,600, or slightly over two percent.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Two percent are trailers which are rented for hire?

Mr. DENNISON. That is correct. However, those rental companies do pay the Pennsylvania sales tax on their rentals.

Mr. LOPRESTI. But on the license they would be reduced from what to what?

Mr. DENNISON. They would be reduced from $10 to $5.

Mr. LOPRESTI. $10 to $5? As I understood the debate at the prior time this bill was called up, the prime motive seemed to be to help the individual farmer and perhaps some fishermen. Who would benefit most, the individual farmer or the owners of these trailers, from the passage of this bill?

Mr. DENNISON. Is that question addressed to me?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DENNISON. There are presently on the 1956 registration 54,185 vehicles registered in the names of individuals.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Each individual, of course, would benefit to the extent of $5?

Mr. DENNISON. That is correct.

Mr. LOPRESTI. If he had one trailer?

Mr. DENNISON. That is right.

Mr. LOPRESTI. To what extent does the operator of the commercial trailers benefit?

Mr. DENNISON. At the same ratio.

Mr. LOPRESTI. $5 for each vehicle?

Mr. DENNISON. For each vehicle.

Mr. LOPRESTI. How many do they ordinarily have?

Mr. DENNISON. You mean each individual or each rental company?

Mr. LOPRESTI. Yes.

Mr. DENNISON. I have no statistics. However, there are a total of 1,600 such vehicles registered in fleets in Pennsylvania, or, as I stated previously, slightly over two percent.

Mr. LOPRESTI. These individuals, if they own a large number of trailers, would secure a substantial reduction in their tax, would they not? If they owned 100, it could be $500 a year.

Mr. DENNISON. It could be.

Mr. LOPRESTI. If they owned 50, it could be $250 a year?

Mr. DENNISON. The gentleman's deduction is correct.

Mr. LOPRESTI. So actually these individuals would be the prime beneficiaries of this legislation?

Mr. DENNISON. No, the prime beneficiaries would be the individuals who represent 98 percent of the owners. They would be the beneficiaries.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I would like to ask the gentleman from Jefferson, if his heart is bleeding for the fisherman and the farmer who uses the small trailer, why he did not add a new classification and make a $5 license for trailers up to 1,000 pounds, instead of reducing the 3,000 pound trailer to $5? Would you not have accomplished your purpose by adding a new classification?

Mr. DENNISON. Certainly, we could have added classifications at any time to those vehicles in the Vehicle Code, but there are already plenty of classifications and the variations are not too great.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I think we added a large number of extra classifications to the truck law, did we not, in this session?

Mr. DENNISON. We did in an Act which expires on May 31st.

Mr. LOPRESTI. In this particular instance, in order to eliminate what might be termed an exorbitant license fee for the man who has the small trailer, could we not have added a new classification and given relief to those men who have small fishing trailers, or agricultural trailers, those whom we are bleeding about? Could we not have amended and given them a classification without including the other categories which perhaps are not entitled to relief?

Mr. DENNISON. It is always possible to amend the Vehicle Code.

Mr. LOPRESTI. In view of the fact that relief can be granted to the people who need relief by a different type of bill, does the gentleman still feel that this is the proper type of bill to pass if it gives relief to those who perhaps are not entitled to it?

Mr. DENNISON. Well, it is hard to get any legislation that is strictly equitable from top to bottom. This legislation which is equitable for 98 percent of the people would seem to me to be about as close to the target as you will ever get.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Could you not also by the method I have suggested get equity for those 98 percent and still have kept the inequity from occurring in the other two percent.

Mr. DENNISON. As I have said, the Vehicle Code can always be amended.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill not because I do not think there are individuals who are entitled to relief, but I rise because this is the improper way, in my opinion, of giving that relief. This is so because while we are giving relief to those who are entitled to it, we are giving a windfall to some who are not entitled to it.

For that reason I am opposed to it and I am going to vote against it.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to get back again to what Mr. Andrews said. I think we are running all around the clock. I would like to ask Mr. Dennison what percentage of the total do the utilities have.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Dennison, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENNISON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEAVEY. I would like to know what percentage of the total do the utilities have of these vehicles?

Mr. DENNISON. I do not have that figure broken down. I just have the numbers which are fleet-owned. That is 1600 vehicles or just slightly over 2 percent. Those belong to fleet owners and I presume the utilities would fall in that category.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was first brought up, we only heard about some fellow who wanted to take his boat up to Canada until Mr. Andrews brought out the fact that these vehicles are used by the utilities. Now nobody seems to know how many vehicles the utilities use. What I am trying to bring out is that this is only a peanut saving for the utilities as most of these vehicles are used by the utilities, and that state needs this money.

Mr. DENNISON. May I correct the gentleman? There are only 2 percent of the vehicles which are used by fleet owners in Pennsylvania. If that is a majority, it does not seem that way to me.

Mr. HEAVEY. Well, I still would like to have it voted down.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Dennison.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Dennison, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENNISON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to ask the gentleman whether this will not cost the highway fund about $700,000 a biennium in loss of revenue?

Mr. DENNISON. In answer to the gentleman's question, there is no accurate estimate of how much this will cost the Highway Department, but I will give the gentleman these figures to substantiate my argument.

In the year of 1954 there were registered in Pennsylvania in this class a total of 66,464 vehicles. In 1955, there were 70,968 registered. In 1956, there were 59,511, or a loss in registration of 11,457 vehicles due, we believe, to the increase in licenses.

Now there is no telling how much further the drop will be in registrations.

Mr. READINGER. Using the 1956 figures, it would amount to roughly, $300,000 per year, would it not? The figure is close to 60,000 registrations?

Mr. DENNISON. My mathematics are not quite that accurate, but there are 11,000 vehicles which did not pay any license fee in 1956 but which paid a fee in 1955.

Mr. READINGER. No, but the difference between the 1955 and 1956 figures is about 10,000 registrations, is it not?

Mr. DENNISON. Close to 11,500.

Mr. READINGER. Roughly 60,000 instead of 70-some thousand?

Mr. DENNISON. That is right.

Mr. READINGER. And if $5 for each of those were taken away, it would be about $300,000 a year, is that roughly correct?

Mr. DENNISON. If the trend remains the same, that would be an accurate figure. However, if the trend continues to go down, there is no accurate estimate of what the loss in revenue would be.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether he was familiar with the bill which was passed in 1955 which made the change from $5 to $10? Was the gentleman actively engaged in the preparation or the passage of that bill?

Mr. DENNISON. In a consulting capacity, yes.

Mr. READINGER. I would advise the gentleman not to use that word "consultant" at the moment.

Mr. DENNISON. I use it advisedly.

Mr. READINGER. I ask the gentleman this question: Was it an oversight that led to the change from $5 to $10 at that time, or what was the reason for doing it? If it was right then, why is it wrong now?

Mr. DENNISON. There is nobody, I believe, who will agree that a 100 percent raise in fees is right at any time. It was not right then and it is not right now.

Mr. READINGER. Then may I ask the gentleman why it was raised 100 percent at that time and why nobody raised the question when that bill passed?

Mr. DENNISON. At that time I had no interest in this type of vehicle. And a man here says also it was after fishing season.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman if he was not just as much interested in the people who owned those vehicles at that time as he is today?

Mr. DENNISON. So far as I know, there was no complaint. It was one of those things which was put over on them without proper information being gotten to them.

Mr. READINGER. I am speaking now of the people who drafted the changes in the 1955 Act. Were they not aware of the fact that it would be doubling the registration fee for the owners of this type of vehicles?

Mr. DENNISON. I never consulted with them on that particular phase of the bill.

Mr. DENNISON. May I ask the gentleman whether in his opinion making this change would not precipitate a movement on the part of those who were in other categories to have their fees reduced likewise?

Mr. DENNISON. I have no reason to believe that that would be true because in scarcely any other case was the fee increased 100 percent.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman not believe that if somebody's fee was raised from $25 to $37.50 he would feel he is entitled now to a reduction proportionate to this reduction?

Mr. DENNISON. No doubt, he would feel that, but I do not think he could come to this body in good grace and ask for it.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman support such a movement, if those who are in the higher categories came to this body and asked for a proportionate reduction? Would he support such a movement?

Mr. DENNISON. It has always been my policy never to commit myself on legislation not presently before the House.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank the cagey gentleman.

I am going to vote against this bill for the reason that this could easily start a general movement on the part of all persons whose vehicles have had an increase in registration fees to seek a reduction.

Perhaps there is a lot to be said about relief for these small trailer owners, but we are still talking about the small sum of $5.00 a year. Certainly anyone who is able to own an automobile or a truck to pull one of these trailers around is not going to go broke for another biennium if we continue this registration charge of $10.

The loss in revenue, it seems to me, is rather serious. I think a lot of people have questioned the wisdom of this Legislature in keeping passenger car license registrations at $10 a year. There is a great deal of sentiment in favor of doing what other states have done, that is to place the registration of cars on a horsepower basis and not have a flat $10 registration fee.

So I am very fearful this might lead to a general drive to get all these registration fees for this type of vehicle and other trailers reduced. If you want to start finding other revenues to supplant what we are losing this way, I think you better start looking because we are probably opening Pandora's box with this bill.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit to the Members of the House, as my colleague from Westmoreland said last week, that anybody who can own a trailer and a boat and take trips to Canada certainly is able to pay the $5. Anyone who owns one of these trailers and operates it in any sort of hilly territory where they louse up the traffic and cause the other drivers to lose what little religion they may have and raise their blood pressure to a dangerous point certainly ought to be willing to pay that $5.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak on behalf of the Berks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, which is an organization of approximately 15,000 organized sportsmen in Berks County, one of the largest, if not the largest, in the state of Pennsylvania.

The Chairman of the Legislative Committee of that group and the Secretary of that organization have personally contacted me and advised me that the Federation has taken a strong stand in favor of this bill.

They request that I support it and I am going to vote for this bill.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I too represent a number of sportsmen and I happen to be one myself.

In a telephone conversation with Larry P. Starr, Secretary of the Southwestern Division of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, two weeks ago he advised me to support this piece of legislation.

However, I have a letter dated March 9, 1957, from the same gentleman designating bills they oppose and bills they favor. This letter does not refer to today's legislation.

Therefore, I am assuming that the Sportsmen of this Southwestern Division are not in favor of this bill.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, today you cannot buy a new car for less than $2,500. You have the use of new highways for $10 license tags. The state has a program to build millions of dollars worth of roads and I think it is an awful cheap bargain to be able to use those roads for only $10. I think it is a terrible situation for somebody to come in here and ask to reduce the $10 to $5, in view of the program the state has to build these roads.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, in order to be fair about this thing, when this bill was before us previously I voted for the bill because I figured a 100 percent increase was wrong, and you cannot make it right.

I said the gentleman might not have brought it back to the $5.00, he could have brought it down to $6.00, or something, but that is not the case.

Therefore, under the circumstances, and being fair, I will have to vote for this bill.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, in reference to the terrible situation that was referred to, I feel the terrible situation was created in the previous session when it was raised from $5.00 to $10, which it had been for a number of years.

I call upon the Members of the House to rectify this situation and put it back where it was.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I have a leter here dated March 7, 1957, from the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Berks County in which they are requesting support of House Bill 144 reducing the registration fee for boat trailers from the present $10 rate to the previous fee of $5.00.

It is felt that this bill is unfair to a boat owner who uses a trailer but a few times a year, compared to a trailer which is used daily for business purposes.

I would like the Members of the House to vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Floyd,	Miller, W. H.,	Monroe,	Pomeroy,
Mihm,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mrs. Henzel filed the following reason for her vote on House Bill No. 282.

A negative vote is cast on House Bill 282, Printer's No. 108, on the theory that this is not the proper nor most far reaching approach to the problem which this bill should intend to correct.

Certainly it should be our aim to facilitate and implement to the best of our ability the opportunity for citizens in good standing to exercise their franchise. In view of this it would seem feasible, rather, to support drafted legislation dealing first with the confining stipulation of the Constitution regarding 60 day residence and then enact enabling legislation to permit voting in the district to which one has moved.

It is in protest of this lack of vision in consideration to the greatest number of people that this negative vote is cast.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 301, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Fourth to Eighth Class Assessment Law," approved May 21, 1943 (P. L. 571), increasing compensation and providing for travel expenses of assessors.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GRAMLICH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 505), page 2, line 5, by striking out the brackets before and after "twelve."

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 505), page 2, line 5, by striking out "fifteen."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 317, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1913 (P. L. 155) entitled "An act regulating the letting of certain contracts for the erection construction and alteration of public buildings" further regulating the letting of such contracts.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, this bill undoubtedly will be debated at considerable length.

The House has been very patient, very diligent, in its attention to business this afternoon. It stood up under a considerable amount of oratory, good and bad, and I presume many of the Members are weary and looking forward to the time this House will adjourn.

So if there are no objections, if there is no reason on the part of the majority why this bill should not go over, I would suggest that this bill go over until tomorrow. (Applause).

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that that procedure is agreeable to the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 317, Printer's No. 60,

was passed over at the request of Mr. ANDREWS.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I hope that the Members are properly thankful to me for saving them from oratory at this time.

The SPEAKER. I think the gentleman can tell from the applause that the House is very appreciative.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to inquire whether the gentleman from Cambria thinks we will have any more energy tomorrow morning than we have right now?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to inquire of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, whether the Chair properly understood him. Did he say "we"?

Mr. READINGER. We.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

There being no objection,

House Bill No. 369, Printer's No. 110,

House Bill No. 370, Printer's No. 111 and

House Bill No. 371, Printer's No. 112,

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 444, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Third Class City Code" approved June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932) authorizing council to provide for the closing of city offices on Saturday.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BOWMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, is it true that this bill does exactly the same thing as House Bill 97 was to do?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, this bill does not pertain to county offices whatsoever.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not ask that question. I said, does this bill do practically the same thing as House Bill 97 would have done?

Mr. BOWMAN. This bill pertains to city offices, not county offices. It permits the city government of third class cities if it sees fit to close city offices on Saturdays.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, how did the gentleman vote on House Bill 97?

Mr. BOWMAN. I voted against House Bill 97.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman that we are now discussing House Bill 444, Printer's No. 118. The interrogation is not proper.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That will be all, Mr. Bowman.

Mr. Speaker, I have a little scratch pad here—I think a lot of the Members have seen it around here—it is a little thing and it says, "A Scratch Pad for Narrow-Minded Bedfellows."

However, I have faith in our elected public officials. Whether they are Democrats or Republicans, when they state they would like to have a bill like this particular bill for the city of Harrisburg, I believe the members of city council in Harrisburg are sincere when they say that if they are given the right to close on Saturdays if they see fit, see that it is necessary, they will keep a skeleton crew. I believe they will do that.

I want you to know that I still feel the same way about his type of legislation. I intend to vote "yes" on this bill nd I hope the rest of the Members of this House will ote "yes" on it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I presume in the interest f keeping members of city councils in third class cities onest we ought to pass this bill. I do not know whether he council in Harrisburg operates the way councils do in ome of the other third class cities. You cannot find them nywhere around city hall on Saturday anyway. I won- ered whether the gentleman from Dauphin is introduc- ng this bill just to keep them honest or to give them the rivilege of doing something that they are not in the abit of doing.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. owman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BOWMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. I have asked the question.

Mr. BOWMAN. The answer to the question is that the ity offices in the City of Harrisburg have always been pen on Saturday and we are not trying to legalize some- ing that we have been doing in the past.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 124, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of July 13, 1953 (P. L. 431), entitled "An act relating to support of dependents providing a procedure for enforcement thereof including attachment of property and earnings conferring powers and imposing duties upon courts district attorneys and probation officers" further providing a procedure for enforcement of the act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 9), page 2, line 16, by striking out the bracket before and after "2%".

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 9), page 2, line 16, by striking out "5%".

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, these amendments return this bill to the 2 percent which is in the present law and which is the amount to be paid to an employer who is made to pay money into a support office in an attachment proceeding.

The law has been fixed at 2 percent, I think, since 1953 when this Act was put on the books.

I am asking these amendments be supported because I do not think it is warranted to raise it to 5 percent.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader or anyone whom he designates.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I understand the young lady is a lawyer. So as they say, no lawyers' questions.

The SPEAKER. The lady will proceed.

Mr. JOHNSON. I think her questions will have a feminine slant however, because it involves desertion and non-support.

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, you are aware that under the present law where there is an outstanding order for support and the husband or father defies this court order and defaults, the court can, if the family is destitute or if his payments have been so irregular as to cause the family hardship, order immediate attachment.

This bill provides that the destitute family must wait thirty days before setting in motion the wheels of attachment.

Can you tell me what is the purpose for forcing a needy family to wait thirty days before they can obtain support?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the lady, I could be wrong on existing law, but it seems to me under existing law once a support order has been issued, regardless of whether the father is in default on the order or not an attachment can be had on his wages.

I believe it is one of the few garnishee instances in our law in Pennsylvania, if I am correct in that. I understand the practice in numerous jurisdictions is that upon an order being made, an immediate garnishee is had.

In other words, it might make an innocent fellow who would pay his support order put his employer to the inconvenience of deducting this support order from his pay.

I think the purpose of this bill was to give the average fellow an opportunity to pay the support order without the inconvenience of having his wages garnisheed. If he is in default for 30 days, then the garnishee or attachment would ensue.

I think as the bill has been explained to me it is for the purpose of giving the average fellow who has a support order around his neck an opportunity to pay that voluntarily without having his wages garnisheed when he is not in default.

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, is it the gentleman's position that some of the courts have made the attachment before he has defaulted? Would not a bill simply stating the court has the right to do it after he has defaulted satisfy the requirement? What is the purpose for forcing people to wait 30 days? Why 30 days?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, someone here said that a dog is entitled to his first bite, I suppose that is as good an answer as any.

Personally, in answer to the lady's question, I have had quite a lot of experience in the courts with desertion and non-support cases. I say there are scarcely two more vicious things in the law today than a landlord's warrant and an order for desertion and non-support.

I personally cannot see anything wrong with this particular law giving a fellow the right to be 30 days in default before his wages are garnisheed. I personally cannot see anything wrong with it. I realize from a feminine standpoint the lady would probably feel a garnishment should ensue immediately on default. I have my view on it and apparently, Mr. Speaker, Miss Duffy has her view.

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, where a husband or father has refused voluntarily to support his family, the family can apply to the court for an order for support. The court in entering its order takes into consideration all the legitimate needs and obligations of the husband and father because it takes the position that if you take too much away from him, you will not leave him any incentive to work. Therefore, they leave him enough to maintain himself according to his proper standard of living.

Furthermore, the court does not make the order again until after the first pay day. I am telling you this so that you can understand the court gives every consideration to the husband and father.

If the dependent's husband or father subsequently defaults—and the court at the present time can attach his wages—the court will ordinarly only do this where the family is destitute and is in dire need or where the payments have been so irregular as to cause the family great hardship. If the family is not destitute and if the defendant's former payments have been made with a reasonable degree of regularity, it has been my experience that the court will not enter an attachment. An attachment is one of the hardest things to get.

This proposed legislation which we are now considering provides that the court, regardless of the need of the family, cannot attach the defendant's wages until after he has been in default 30 days.

In my opinion the provisions of Senate Bill No. 24, are immoral, cruel and outrageous.

Just what is the destitute family supposed to do during this 30-day period. If the family is on DPA, they can continue for 30 more days on DPA. That simply means that the taxpayer is assuming a burden which is rightfully the husband's and father's.

What if the family is not on DPA? It has been my experience that it takes at least three weeks to get emergency assistance from the DPA. Therefore, this family is left without anything. Must they go to the Salvation Army; must they be reduced to begging during this 30-day period?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, will the lady yield for a question?

Miss DUFFY. Certainly.

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe, Miss Duffy, the question before the House is whether we shall agree to the bill on third reading as amended with the 5 percent commission reduced to 2 percent, and then the bill will be laid over for third reading tomorrow. We will then debate the bill fully on third reading tomorrow.

Am I correct, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not correct. The bill will be on final passage with the amendments printed in the bill.

Mr. JOHNSON. The bill will be on final passage and up for debate tomorrow on final passage?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe we would be glad to debate the merits of the bill with the lady tomorrow. We will be glad to hear the lady today, but we would just have to repeat it again tomorrow.

Miss DUFFY. I will withhold and debate the bill tomorrow.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 140, entitled as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the committee appointed by the Senate to investigate activities of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GRANVILLE E. JONES. I rise in opposition to this bill and I will present to the House my reasons for the opposition. I would first like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, owing to the lateness of the hour, I am wondering if we should not pass this bill over today and the gentleman could reserve his question and his remarks on the bill until tomorrow.

Mr. GRANVILLE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry, but I will have to leave and I will be absent from tomorrow's session. Unfortunately, last week I would have raised the same objections and this is why I am here today, Mr. Speaker, asking to interrogate the Majority Leader. I will not be long.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that we place this bill on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the bill will be placed on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar, and the chair understands from the Majority Leader it will not be called up until Monday.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 27

Mr. IDE. Mr. Speeaker, I call up on page 8 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 27.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 11, 1957.

Whereas, State Highway Route 22 at its eastern terminus is located in the City of Easton, extending from the western boundary of the city eastwardly by a tortuous and winding route along the Bushkill Creek to the Delaware River; and

Whereas, the speed limit on the major portion of said roadway is fixed at 35 miles per hour in view of the dangerous and hazardous conditions created by the hairpin curves of said roadway; and

Whereas, said roadway is posted against speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour but the posting does not adequately warn motorists of the inherently dangerous and hazardous conditions of the roadway with the result that motorists have, time and again, proceeded into said curves at excessive speeds and have lost control of their vehicles —crossing the medial strip and colliding with traffic proceeding in the opposite direction; and

Whereas, an exceptionally high rate of serious accidents, many involving fatalities, have resulted and have prompted repeated requests to the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to install such additional facilities as may be necessary to warn motorists of the hazardous road condition; and

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Department of Highways, despite a continuing and increasing rate of serious accidents on said roadway, has failed to adopt any remedied measures as requested;

Now, therefore, be it resolved that, in the interests of the safety of the general travelling public, the Governor be and he hereby is requested to order and direct the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to install such additional warning facilities including more adequate illumination, flashing red signals and an elevated medial strip so as to impress more forcefully upon motorists about to enter upon said roadway the extremely hazardous and dangerous condition of the same.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the Resolution at this time. I oppose the resolution principally because we have had quite a few items of this nature in this particular session which I believe were primarily, proposed and set for passage, taking the time of the House, for purpose of political expendiency.

This highway was completed sometime ago and this Resolution would request the Governor to order and direct the Department of Highways to install such additional warning facilities, illumination and elevated medial strip on a State Highway Alternate Route 22 in the city of Easton so as to impress motorists more forcefully with the hazardous and dangerous conditions of such section of the highway.

The Department of Highways is cognizant of the hazardous and dangerous conditions of the alternate route which was finished in 1954. It has had meetings with appropriate officials of the area and has taken preliminary steps to reduce the hazard. Although appropriate warning signs are posted, apparently many motorists fail to heed these warnings. The enforcement of the posted speed limits is primarily a function of the local municipality, augmented by the State Police; and strict enforcement could materially lower the accident rate.

Meanwhile the Highway Department has undertaken and is now completing a study as to how this hazard can best be adequately eliminated. The Department of Highways will effectuate such recommendations as may be made immediately upon the completion of the study which is now in progress.

This is another matter in which, as I stated before on the floor of this House, you now have systematic planning. You do not have a haphazard way of developing a highway program in Pennsylvania such as we had in the past. You can rest assured, with the type of program development that we have in our Highway Department, that this any many other hazards which were created in the past will be eliminated in the future without the necessity for this type of resolution.

Therefore, I am opposed to it on the basis of thinking that we should eliminate this type of action and should consider the proper and ordinary business that comes before the Members of the House, rather than taking up time with political items of this nature.

Mr. IDE. Mr. Speaker, it was not political expediency that killed four people on Cemetery Curve in December. They did not know anything about political expediency, they did not know a thing about systematic planning or systematic murder.

The fact remains that the building of this pike at the east end of Route 22 approaching the bridge and from there westward for roughly 13 to 15 blocks was a colossal error on the part of the Highway Department, and they have made no effort to correct this error or to save the lives of people.

They did erect miniature signs reading 35 miles an hour. But this is a terrific curve. There are two curves. I do not know that the truck drivers, or any drivers, heed these signs unless there is police protection, and it is only in the past six or eight weeks that we have had any kind of police supervision.

If we are to have proper driving on this section of the pike for a distance of 13 blocks, we must have adequate safety measures taken on this pike. What you have just heard sounds to me like something coming from the Highway Department. I ask you if there is one man in this House who does not know of a dangerous piece of pike somewhere in Pennsylvania. This particular piece of pike in Easton, I am telling you, is the worst on Route 22, as told to me by truck owners. The Easton police have little or no jurisdiction on this piece of pike. It has been patrolled the past six or eight weeks by the Highway Police, and they did a fine job. We had 100 arrests in about four days, 100 arrests in four days in 13 blocks on this pike. Now that in itself tells you the story.

The people who have been murdered on this pike should not have been murdered. They should be living. They should be driving. They should be with us today. They were innocent people. They were killed primarily by trucks that ran over this so-called medial strip which is not there. There is a strip that rises about four inches, it is no barrier to any piece of motor equipment.

The trucks up to about six weeks ago started around these curves 50, 55, 60, 65 and some 70, but they did not get around. There was no police protection at that time.

The only way this can be corrected is by placing the medial strip, proper lighting and proper signs and, if this is not done, there will be more murders. Let me assure you of that.

Members of the House, I urge that you think as I do so that these innocent people who travel that pike will not be killed.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman misunderstood me. I am in total agreement with him when he states that the building of this pike was a colossal error, and I want to point specifically that this pike was built in 1954 under the prior administration. I want to go further and say this: He says the information is coming from the Highway Department. That is true.

The Resolution was sponsored February 12th, the additional State Police patrol was put on over six weeks ago. Now that was prior to the introduction of the Resolution. The survey by engineers which is being conducted now is leveled at rectifying the error on this highway construction which was made by prior administrators in the Highway Departments. They are proceeding now to develop ways to rectify the situations so that the massacre of motorists does not continue in the future.

However, we must of a necessity say to you that since there has been a colossal error it will take engineering skill to rectify this condition. It will be corrected when the survey is completed and the necessary technical obstructions are removed in order to accomplish the same.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to back up the gentleman from Northampton County on this matter. It seems to me there is no excuse for permitting a condition of this type to exist for two years. Let us remember that the present administration has had control of the State Highway Department for two years.

Further, I do not think it is proper to charge someone like the gentleman from Northampton, who is trying to put an end to mass murder, with politics because, if I in my district, or if any of you in your district, run into a situation like this and you cannot get anything done about it, this is the proper place to come.

I defend the right of the gentleman from Northampton and I condemn the practice of permitting a death trap to continue for two years whether it is in Northampton County or any other district.

Mr. IDE. Mr. Speaker, we have heard it said here that the Highway Department would take care of this. Well, they probably will some day, but the reason I am on my feet, the reason I placed the Resolution before the House, is because of these facts.

About two months ago I talked to the gentleman in charge of the Highway Department in our district and I had him, and members of the City Council, and the members of the County Commissioners, as well as the representatives from the county, to go over this pike with a representative of the Highway Department. At the close of the tour I asked the gentleman when we could expect some relief on this particular piece of pike, and he told me, and I quote, "Within 30 days."

I believed the gentleman, I still believe him, and I believe he would have done something if he had had the support which was rightfully his.

At another time the Mayor of Easton called Allentown, about a month ago, and he talked to the No. 3 man, as they termed him. He said it would be corrected immediately, and the corrections made were some reffecting posts leading to one of the exits from the pike at 25th street, I think—either 15th or 25th.

With these promises from the Highway Department, it leads me to believe but one thing, that—may I use this expression—the Republicans of Northampton County cannot expect relief. If we could, why have we not received it?

Again, I urge the Members of this House to think as I do and stop this murder, and it can be stopped.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform the House that I am going to vote for this Resolution. And I hope I have the support of the two gentlemen on the other side when the bill regarding medial strips for the Turnpike will be brought before this House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SHIELDS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. SPEAKER, as a resort to our American Constitution receiving its full implementation in the epic decision handed down by the United States Supreme Court in May 1954, we have observed—incidentally, that decision was a decision to end segregation in schools—that throughout the Southland many subversive, un-American groups have been active. We did not pay too much attention to it because it was not within our jurisdiction. Today we find from the newspaper reports that these organizations have expanded into our Commonwealth.

The purpose of these organizations is to meet our honored Constitution with force and violence. One such organization is reported by the newspapers to have a cell in Philadelphia. The name of this organization is The Seaboard White Citizens Council. Most of you will recall this Council was organized by a noted race baiter by the name of John Casper who has created quite a bit of strife throughout the South. I understand the cell within Philadelphia is headed by one Theodore Thesing.

We have had leaders who have been outspoken against the un-American activities of this organization. Congressman Earl Chudoff has exposed this vicious organization in Washington and has requested that it be placed on the subversive activities list.

The District Attorney Victor A. Blanc, of Philadelphia, is also investigating the activities of this organization. The State Attorney General, Thomas D. McBride, has also spoken out and denounced the activities of such groups. As a result of these bold people having the courage to speak out against this subversive group, they have attempted to silence them by smearing them.

I have in my possession a letter that I request permission to read which was written by one Theodore Thesing to the American Veterans of Foreign Wars regarding the gentlemen I have mentioned. The letter reads as follows:

"Feb. 23, 1957.
"Dept. Commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Dear Sir:

"Rep. Earl Chudoff—D-of Phila. is causing Racial Hatred among the Armed Forces of the United States. Phila. Inquirer Feb. 23, 1957 Atty. Gen. blasted Brownell on Racial Issue. We know Rep. Earl Chudoff is a Communist and a Tool of Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride another Communist. We have Wire Tappings on Mr. McBride. The Communist paid the Expenses of the Cold-Blooded murder of the Darcy Trial To break down the Powers of the Supreme Court. We have sworn affidavits. We know McBride will put Communist in the Vital Defense positions of Penna. We also know this Race Hatred is the Issue of the Communist Party, and not accused White Citizens Seaboard Council.

Did the W. C. S. C. Coach the Bad Risk Communist on Unemployment Insurance? Who did it? Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride, I ask you to Petition the Department of Justice to Investigate the Loyalty of Rep. Earl Chudoff—D-Phila. and the Penna. Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride.

"Yours truly, Theodore Thesing, The White Citizens Seaboard Council, Phila., Pa."

Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen whose names were mentioned in this letter are well known to most of us. As a matter of fact, Congressman Chudoff was a former Member of this House. I think he served four terms. After leaving this House he was elected to the United States Congress and he has an enviable record in the Congress. He has always had the courage of his convictions and has been against any organization or any "ism" which was not true Americanism.

As far as the Attorney General is concerned, he is the Chairman of the Committee of Teachers of the Fellowship Commission and he has shown by his past actions that he does not approve of such activities.

The purpose of reading this letter, was to inform the people to what depths this organization will stoop to carry on their un-American activities.

As a result of trying to smear honorable Members of the United States Congress and the Honorable Attorney General of this state, a resolution is in the process of being prepared by some of my colleagues and me which will be introduced immediately. We will have to meet this challenge head-on. We must decide whether we, the elected Members of this House, the Representatives who stand for the United State Constitution, will remain silent in an hour in which courage is needed. The resolution that we plan to introduce to this body provides, (1) that this House contact the Justice Department urging that this group be placed on the subversive activities list, and, (2) that a copy of said Resolution be sent to each United States Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania.

I appeal to you in this Hall to support this resolution, to support law and order by supporting this resolution, because it is incumbent upon us to stand up against such activities. I appeal to you to support this, and your conscience can find no other decision. I paraphrase the words of Lincoln when I say, The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what we do here."

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEES TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. KELLER asked and obtained permission for the Committee on State Government to meet during the session of the House.

Mr. ROYER asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Elections and Apportionment to meet during the session of the House.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 12, 1957.

To the Honorable the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Inasmuch as education plays such an important part in our budget thinking, it occurred to me that the attached copy of a Report from the Governor's Commission on Higher Education may be of extreme interest to you.

As you probably know, the Commission has been conducting its research for well over a year and has come up with important findings and recommendations. In order that you might study them for yourself, I have asked that a copy be made available to each member of the Legislature.

At the present time these recommendations are receiving full consideration by this Administration. I have said that I think the report can be the basis for meeting the anticipated expanded need for higher education in the Commonwealth.

It is my hope that you will find in the pages of this report a basis for legislative action in this field.

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE M. LEADER.

REPORT FROM THE SECRETARY OF WELFARE IN RE SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 17

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

Honorable A. H. Letzler
Secretary of the Senate
Senate of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

March 13, 1957.

My dear Mr. Letzler:

On February 26, 1957, I received a certified copy of a resolution adopted by the Senate requesting me to submit to the Director of the Joint State Government Commission certain details concerning "scholarships granted to medical students". On March 1, 1957, I wrote advising you that this Department does not have any program under which scholarships are granted to medical students. A copy of that letter is attached as Exhibit I.

I am glad to send you now the full and detailed statement promised in that letter. I would appreciate your bringing the contents of this statement to the attention of the Members of the Senate.

The program for the training of professional and technical personnel is not new in the Department of Welfare.

As far back as 1943, the Department engaged in a program of training social workers, psychiatric nurses, and patient activity therapists (occupational, industrial, and recreational therapists) and carried this program on through 1954. The program in the Department previous to my advent here was carried out through the State mental hospitals; and a total of only 24 psychiatrists, social workers, nurses, and therapists were engaged in that program throughout the 12 years preceding this administration. In the first two years of this administration we have been able to induce a total of 54 trainees to enter the program and have extended the program to include psychologists.

In the years previous to this administration the students were paid stipends directly, but out of institution funds. The payments ranged from $150.00 per month up to a sum equal to 75% of the salary fixed for the position which the particular trainee was then occupying in the institution. It was paid to the students during the full year of the training period in the university. The students were selected or recommended by the superintendent of the particular state hospitals.

In the beginning of my tenure this system was continued, but, however, it was restricted to college graduates and the trainees were selected by the universities which they would attend subject to the approval of this Department; and the university recommended the student having the highest qualifications. In April, 1955, in view of the great need for psychologists, (we then had only a total of 26 psychologists in our 22 institutions) we engaged the services of Dr. Bernruther, Director of Psychology at the Pennsylvania State University, on a full time basis for the period of three months at a salary of $1,000 per month to develop a unified program for training in psychology. Dr. Bernruther was selected because of his eminent qualifications and his experience in developing a similar program for the Veterans' Administration.

Under his guidance, we obtained 21 clinical psychologis trainees for academic training in three of our universities.

The success of this program brought about numerous conferences by the Department with representatives of the major universities throughout the State and under their guidance and with their cooperation the program was expanded to include social workers, psychiatric nurses, therapists and the field of vocational rehabilitation. As a result, we were able to obtain a total of 32 trainees who were or are receiving their academic training in seven universities. The selection of these students is on the same basis as the selection of the psychologists.

Under the plan of the Department the tuition fee of all these trainees up to $750 is paid to the university and a fixed stipend is now being paid to the student ranging from $84 bi-weekly in the first year to $143 bi-weekly in the third year.

On December 9, 1955, the Auditor General questioned the right of the Department to pay the universities these tuition fees and returned the vouchers.

On December 12, 1955, we forwarded to the Auditor General a full and complete statement of the program. A copy of the letter to the Auditor General is attached and marked Exhibit II.

On January 20, 1956, the matter was discussed with the Department of Justice by the Department of Welfare, and a letter setting forth the arrangements and statutory authority upon which the Department acted was sent to the Attorney General. Full details of the program were set forth in the letter. A copy of the letter is attached marked Exhibit III. Thereafter, these payments were apparently approved by the Auditor General since they were continued.

Under the program adopted in 1955 the Department entered into written agreements with each of the universities and with trainees. Copies of the contracts now in force are attached marked Exhibits IV and V respectively.

During the recruitment program for the scholastic year 1956 many of the trainees indicated their desire to acquire "retirement" privileges since under the contract they were required to work in our State mental institutions both during their academic training and thereafter, fulfilling one year of work for each academic year of training. At the same time some questions were raised by the Internal Revenue Service of the Federal Government with respect to the obligation of the Commonwealth to deduct withholding taxes from the monies paid to the students.

In an atempt to answer and resolve these questions after additional conferences with representatives of the universities involved, our program was revised in June and July of 1956; each trainee was then placed on a bi-weekly salary basis paid out of the Department Budget from the funds provided by the last Legislature for research and training.

On August 1, 1956, a detailed statement of the revised program was prepared and widely circulated to all universities, trainees, and prospective trainees. The program was given further publicity through the press and by mail. Copies were sent to the Auditor General's Office. Attached and marked Exhibit VI is a copy of this revised program.

Payments to these students and to the universities were approved by the Department and the Auditor General and paid up to January 4, 1957. Shortly thereafter the Auditor General refused to make further payments to the trainees on the grounds that they were not authorized by law, and none have been made since January 4, 1957. As a result, chaos and uncertainty has been created and the continuance of this vital program is threatened. It seems obvious that there is nothing morally wrong with such a program and, in my opinion the program is not in contrevention of any of the laws of the Commonwealth. If there is, then in the interest of this very vital program the objections should be removed by the necessary legislation immediately.

It should be noted that under the original and revised program of the Department since January, 1955, each trainee is bound to work for the Commonwealth in a state owned or state aided institution for a period of at least one year for each year of academic training received, and during the period of the academic training the student agrees to receive his clinical experience by working in these institutions. Under the program existing prior to the time this Administration took office, there were no such requirements.

There are now employed in our institutions 74 psychologists, 43 of whom have received their doctorate degrees. In 1955, when I took office, there were only 26 phychologists in our institutions, as I have pointed out, and only one held a doctor's degree; the numbers of social workers, phychiatric nurses, and occupational therapists have increased in proportion. Much of this can be attributed to the character and the reputation which the Department and the Commonwealth have earned through this enlightened program, without which we were not on a competitive basis with most of the other states engaged in similar training programs.

I am enclosing a list of the names of all trainees, the amounts paid, and the universities which they are attending. Most of these students are presently receiving their clinical experience in our institutions and, therefore, are in fact working for the Commonwealth. The list is attached and marked Exhibit VII.

I should like to refer also to the stories in the press of the discussion in the Senate involving the transfer of the sum of $250,000 by the Department of Welfare to the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation created by the last Legislature.

(a) The Appropriation Act of 1955-57 authorizes the Department to use a portion of the appropriated funds "for research and training in existing state owned and state aided institutions under the regulations of the Department . . ."

(b) The Foundation under the act is declared to be "a body corporate and politic constituting a public corporation and governmental instrumentality . . ."

(c) The Foundation is authorized to conduct training programs in the field of mental health in state owned institutions under the jurisdiction of the Department of Welfare.

(d) The Foundation is also authorized to accept donations from private individuals, corporations, and foundations.

(e) The act provides that the Foundation shall be administered by a board of eleven trustees consisting of the Governor and the Secretary of Welfare and nine trustees appointed by the Governor. The Governor has already appointed nine outstanding public spirited citizens and under the law the Secretary is required to appoint a Research Advisory Committee, six of whom shall be selected from six named medical schools, colleges, or mental institutions having an active research department in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(f) When the Foundation was created I spoke to four members of the Senate in connection with the act. I told them that no additional funds would be required if the act was passed. I did not say no funds appropriated for the purposes of research and training would be used. It seems obvious that before the public could be asked to make contributions to the Foundation, the Commonwealth should indicate its own interest.

(g) On February 19, 1957, the Department of Justice published an opinion stating that this transfer was authorized by law.

(h) In addition, a press release was issued by the Governor's Office on April 3, 1956, clearly stating that the Foundation would depend upon two sources of revenue for its support—"funds already ear marked for research and alloted to the Department of Welfare and grants from outside sources." A copy of the Governors' press release is attached and marked Exhibit VIII.

I am pleased to have been able to provide you with the above information for transmittal to the Members of the Senate. I sincerely hope that such information will aid the Senate in its understanding of our program for the training of professional and technical personnel who are working with the Department of Welfare in an effort to improve the mental health and welfare programs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. If the Members of the Senate desire additional information on this subject, I will be happy to place such information at their disposal.

Sincerely yours,

HARRY SHAPIRO, (Signed)
Secretary of Welfare.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This communication will be noted in the Legislative Journal, and the exhibits attached thereto will be printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I have received a copy of the communication which was addressed to the Secretary of the Senate, the Honorable A. H. Letzler, and sent by the Secretary of Welfare, Mr. Shapiro. I have not had an opportunity of going through it in full and complete detail. However, I notice that one of the exhibits which Senator Shapiro sent is an agreement between the Department of Welfare and one, Donald Armsby. It agrees to pay Mr. Armsby $124 biweekly, from September 17, 1956 to June 7, 1957, in preparation for employment by the Department of Welfare. In addition, tuition as agreed upon will be paid on his behalf.

It is my understanding, Mr. President, that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania cannot pay anyone who is not an employee of the Commonwealth. This definitely states that Mr. Armsby is not an employee of any department of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It says that he is in preparation for employment with the Department of Welfare.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would like to have someone on the other side—I notice this morning that our good friend, Senator Seyler, seems to be in command of the ship on the other side—submit this form of agreement to our Attorney General, Tom McBride, and report next Monday to us as to whether our Attorney General feels that this agreement is legal under the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I will, of course, be very happy to carry out the request of the Majority Leader just as soon as I am clear in my mind as to what he wants to know. Is it his point that the Commonwealth does not have the right to grant moneys for any purpose to individuals who are not employees of the Commonwealth?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, that is my understanding. I just want Senator Seyler to rip off this one page from this communication. I understand that he has on his desk the same communication as I have. He will find, under Exhibit No. 5, a form of agreement. I just want Senator Seyler to take that one page over to your friend and my friend, the Attorney General, Mr. McBride, and ask him if it is his opinion that that agreement can be legally entered into between Mr. Armsby and the Department of Welfare under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and under the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, and report his answer back to us next Monday.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his elementary type of explanation. I understood that.

What I am trying to ask the gentleman is, is it the point of the gentleman from Crawford that the Commonwealth does not have the right to grant moneys to any person who is not an employee of the Commonwealth? I ask the question, Mr. President, because, as the gentleman very well knows, the Commonwealth does have scholarship agreements and other types of grants to people who are not employees, as I understand it, of the Commonwealth.

I want to know what the gentleman's contention is. Is it that the Commonwealth cannot advance moneys of any sort to persons who are not employees of the Commonwealth?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, that is my contention. My main contention, however, is that this particular agreement cannot be legally entered into. All I want Senator Seyler to do is to take it over and ask the Attorney General if he agrees with me. I might send it over with a Page, but I wanted to have Senator Seyler do it.

Mr. SEYLER. The Majority Leader is getting high-priced service here. However, Mr. President, I will attempt to carry out his mission.

VISITING STUDENTS WELCOMED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, at this time, would like to welcome the visiting group of students. The Chair does not know where they are from, but we are always happy in the Senate of Pennsylvania to have the classes of the high schools come and view the Senate. I know all of the Senators join me in welcoming you people.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I wish to present to the Members of the Senate, 137 ninth grade students from the Conrad Weiser Area Joint Schools in Berks County.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is doubly happy to recognize the guests of Senator Ruth.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

An Act making an appropriation to the Williamson Free School of Mechanical Trades, for maintenance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 107, REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE AND LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARNEY, from the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations, to which was referred resolution offered by Messrs. WAGNER, WALKER, KROMER, SCOTT, MALLERY, WHALLEY, FLACK and VAN SANT on February 11, 1957, reported the same without amendment as follows:

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE SAFEGUARDS IN TARIFF AND TRADE LEGISLATION

In the Senate, February 11, 1957.

The increased importation of numerous products that come into competition with the output of factories, farms and mines of Pennsylvania, replacing the products of Pennsylvania's industries, is a constant menace to the State's continuing economic stability.

The lower wages paid abroad make it impossible for many of our smaller and medium-sized producers to compete with imports without resorting to ruinous price cutting, which in turn would result either in financial losses or heavy pressure for wage reductions and outright unemployment.

Our National obligations have reached such extreme proportions that the National income must be maintained at its present unprecedented high level, or close thereto, lest we become insolvent.

Unemployment caused by the imports of residual oil, which represented 3.43 times the average of 45 million barrels imported in 1946, to approximately 154 million barrels in 1956, or the yearly equivalent of 36,640,000 tons of coal; and unemployment caused by imports of crude oil; various types of glass, steel, aluminum, brass and zinc products; pottery and chinaware; granite, tiles, cement, hardboard, plywood, hardware, plumbing, flat glass and other building supplies, lace, carpets and all kinds of woolen, cotton and synthetic fibre manufactured goods; leather and fabric gloves; bicycles; hydraulic turbines; machine tools and other machinery; heavy electrical equipment and other electrical industry products and electronics; watches, clocks and parts; optical industry products; cutlery; scientific apparatus; pencils and pens; pins, clips and fasteners; soft fibre; insulation board and manufactured cork products; chemicals; toys; mushrooms; farm, dairy and dried milk products, wallpaper, hats and millinery, printing industry products; ladies hand bags and leather goods; nails, wire, screws, bolts and nuts and many other commodities; will render the upholding of the economy at its high levels cost uncertain and difficult unless all import trade is placed on a fair competitive basis and the potential injury therefrom thus eliminated.

Agricultural products such as wheat, wheat flour, cotton, butter, cheese and peanuts enjoy the protection of import quotas.

A maximum of satisfactory trade results from a prosperous domestic economy freed from the threat of a breakdown resulting from unfair import competition; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to provide adequate safeguards in tariff and trade legislation, including import quotas and an effective prohibition against dumping of imports in the United States: against the destruction or lowering of our American standard of living, the labor standard of our workmen, and the stability of our economy by unfair import competition and that the existing trade agreements legislation be amended accordingly; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Laid over for one day under the Rules.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 111,

REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE AND LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. HARNEY, from the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations, to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Stiefel on March 11, 1957, reported the same without amendment as follows:

VOICING DISAPPROVAL OF THE DISCRIMINATORY ACTION OF THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT OF THE UNITED STATES IN JEOPARDIZING THE WELFARE AND RETARDING THE FURTHER PROGRESS OF DELAWARE VALLEY U. S. A.

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has recommended an appropriation of $9 million to be expended by the Corps of Engineers in the fiscal year 1958 for the purpose of continuing the authorized improvement of the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia, Pa., to Trenton, N. J.; and

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has imposed a maximum depth of 35 feet for the authorized improvement; and

Whereas, the Congressionally-authorized improvement calls for a depth of 40 feet; and

Whereas, the Philadelphia District Engineer of the United States Army, Corps of Engineers, has stated that the sum of $16,500,000 can be economically utilized in Fiscal 1958 on deepening the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia to Trenton; now therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), that the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, in behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice their disapproval of the discriminatory action of the Executive Department of the United States in jeopardizing the welfare and retarding the further progress of our Delaware Valley, U.S.A. three-state area and by refusing to recognize the urgent need for improvement of the Delaware River by providing insufficient funds for the effective, timely continuation of the construction of this vital project, thereby causing an undue delay, measured in years, of the economic usefulness of the project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, on behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice its disapproval of the discriminatory action of The Executive Department of the United States which has altered the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel depth to an imposed figure of 35 feet; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to amend and approve legislation during the present session of the Congress of the United States that will make available in fiscal year 1958 the economic sum of $16,500,000 so that the justified and authorized improvement of the Delaware River can be continued at an effective rate in the interests of our national defense, industry, commerce, and the welfare of all of the people of the Delaware Valley; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to strike out any reference to a 35-foot restricting depth when that figure is in conflict with the authorized 40-foot depth; and be it further

PRAYER

Reverend Ernest N. Bauer, Pastor the Zion Lutheran Church, Hollidaysburg, guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, of Whose righteous will all things are and were created, we thank Thee that Thou hast gathered our people into a great Nation, and the people of this Commonwealth into a great State. Deepen the root of the life our citizens in everlasting righteousness. Make us equal to our trusts; reverent in the use of our freedom; just in the exercise of power; generous in the protection of weakness.

Do Thou of Thine infinite goodness direct the hearts and minds of these Thy servants assembled here in the House of Representatives. Help them with the power of Thy Holy Spirit to make laws in accordance with Thy will and for the advancement of righteousness. Protect them from the snares of the Evil One and the deceits of this world. Let no pride of power betray them into the rejection of Thy commandments.

Give these, Thy servants, the willingness to take time to listen to Thy voice, knowing that as they follow Thy voice all the people will be served fairly and all groups will get what they deserve. May the love of God, which is broader than the measure of man's mind; the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is sufficient for all our needs; and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit, Who shall lead us into all truth, be with us this day. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. WEIDNER, ADAMS and PIPER.

RESOLUTION No. 52.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

On Wednesday, February 6, 1957, it was publicly reported that sometime during the first week in February, narcotics of a value of about $500 had been stolen from the vault of the Charles H. Miner State Hospital at Hamburg, Berks County, Pennsylvania. The missing narcotics were reported to consist mainly of cocaine-hydrochlorid, quantities of morphine, nembutal and codine, in tablet, and capsule and bulk powder form which drugs were used in the hospital's surgical department as local anesthetics. The circumstances surrounding the reported theft were peculiar in that the above mentioned narcotics were stored in a vault with double doors which bore no signs of forcible entry.

Circumstances such as these indeed reflect unfavorably upon the administration of the hospital and considering the grave problem that police authorities normally face with the illegal traffic in narcortics, and its attendant circumstances in the perpetration of crimes, in the community, the House of Representatives expresses its deep concern over the entire matter, therefore be it

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania is requested to investigate the theft of narcotics from the Charles H. Miner State Hospital, and to investigate other irregularities in the administration of the hospital, and be it further

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, is requested to make a report of his findings, together with recommendations for measures necessary and appropriate for the correction of the irregularities to this session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Messrs. WORLEY, VAUGHAN, JOHNSTON and JUMP. RESOLUTION No. 53.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

The race for supremacy in armaments which exists today generates a condition of continual unrest among nations. It also requires enormous expenditures of funds which could accomplish much if directed into peaceful channels.

Now the Soviet Union has advocated partial reduction in armaments which are grossly inadequate; therefore be it

Resolved, That in order to make conflicts among nations less probable and to enable the use of funds for the happiness and advancement of mankind and not for its destruction, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania advocates the total disarmament down to police level of all nations of the world with free and unhampered inspection by the United States General Assembly to insure compliance therewith; and be it further

Resolved, That Francis Worley be directed to bring the contents of this Resolution to the attention of the proper authorities with a view to its communication to all the nations of the world.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Messrs. ERB and H. G. MILLER.

RESOLUTION No. 54.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

One-tenth of a mile west of the Borough of Duncansville, Pennsylvania, in the Township of Allegheny, County of Blair, there exists a highway intersection, said intersection consisting of highways known and numbered as State Highway Routes 22, 220 and 764.

Said intersection is located and serves a geographical area of some two hundred thousand residents of which the City of Altoona, Pennsylvania, is the principal area, said city in the proximity of six miles from said intersection.

Said intersection is located on the principal route from East to West (Routes 22 and 220) across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (excepting only the Pennsylvania Turnpike), and on a principal route from North to South (Route 764), and is, therefore, heavily traversed by not only local residents, but all persons using the facilities of the Commonwealth.

Said intersection, as constructed, has been in existence since August 9, 1955, and in the eigheten-month period to date, there have been twenty-seven (27) motor vehicle accidents, resulting in forty-three (43) persons injured and five (5) deaths.

It is the unanimous opinion of the citizens of the area that said accidents were due, for the most part, not to the negligence of the motorists, but to confusion caused by the physical plot itself.

The citizens of the area of said intersection, being shocked and appalled at the conditions there existing, have repeatedly requested the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to either correct the inherent dangerousness of the intersection or to provide additional facilities to warn motorists of the intersection's dangerous propensities.

The Pennsylvania Department of Highways has failed to take the remedial measures as requested by the citizens.

The citizens themselves raised funds and purchased and installed signal lights on June 1, 1956, but said efforts on the part of the citizens, though helpful, have proved inadequate.

The citizens are deeply shocked and appalled by the accidents at said intersection and the failure of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to adopt remedial measures in the interest of public welfare; therefore, be it

Resolved, That, in the interest of the public welfare and in the interest of the good name and reputation of the citizens of this area in particular, and in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania generally, for the regard of human life and property, that the Governor be requested to order and direct the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to study and observe the said dangerous intersection, and to eliminate the hazards to life and property there existing, either by reconstruction or by the installation of adequate safety devices.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. AUKER and OGILVIE.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 55.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

The National Cemeteries located at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania and at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, have been closed to additional interments due to reported exhaustion of burial space.

The cemetery located near Philadelphia has long been associated with the deceased of the Revolutionary War and the area is now considered a National hospital for the living rather than the dead, and the cemetery at Gettysburg has long been associated with the Civil War and more recently as a tourist attraction to an historical shrine, and therefore neither place can now be considered appropriate nor do they have sufficient facilities for a site of a last resting place for those who will die today, or who will leave us in the future.

It is the opinion of veterans in Pennsylvania that a new National Cemetery should be established within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at an entirely new location, and that cemetery be associated with the present and future requirements from the wars of modern times.

It is known, from official sources, that there is available within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a tract of one hundred acres to three hundred and fifty acres situated at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, and this could be made available to the United States Department of the Army, for the purpose of establishing a new National Cemetery. Bills to accomplish this purpose have been introduced in the House of Representatives and the Senate of the Eighty-fourth United States Congress, and are designated respectively as House Bill No. 1096 and Senate Bill No. 580; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to support and enact into legislation the measures establishing a new National Cemetery in Pennsylvania, and to take favorable action on House Bill No. 1096 and Senate Bill No. 580; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. POST and CURWOOD.

RESOLUTION No. 56.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

Legislative route 40033 in Luzerne County, a highway starting at Dewey Park in Nanticoke City and terminating at Franklin Brewery Hill in Hanover Township, was built five years ago. During those five years it has been the scene of forty automobile accidents, seven of them involving fatalities.

It is obvious that the safety conditions of this highway require study and improvement; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Highways is hereby requested to investigate into the safety conditions and traffic hazards of Legislative route 40033, and take such actions as the investigation indicates are needed, and in addition to any other action the Secretary of Highways is specifically requested to remove the mushroom type medial dividers on the highway and replace them with solid medial divider and to erect additional guard rails along the route; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Secretary of Highways.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WALL. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 57.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

The importance of milk and milk products to the health of young and old alike is a scientific fact which should be made known to everyone. Milk the most perfect food known to man is vitally essential to the growth and development of strong teeth and sturdy bones and the proper supply of milk in a person's diet is one of the most effective natural combatants of disease. The milk industry is important not only to the health but also to the economy of our Commonwealth as thousands of persons are engaged therein for a livelihood. In recent years however the use of milk and milk products has not kept pace with the population growth; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Department of Agriculture of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania undertake a campaign of advertising by the use of billboards, posters, newspapers and other media of communication to advance the sale and use of Pennsylvania milk and milk products; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. UJOBAI, ASHTON, BROWN and WILLAREDT.

RESOLUTION No. 58.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be the honored host to over 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers, and Scouters as they assemble for their Fourth National Jamboree between July 12 and 18, 1957.

These young future citizens represent the highest type of young American boyhood, led by dedicated volunteer leaders who practically exemplify the character embodied in the respected Scout Oath and Law.

These 50,000 Scouts and Scouters do represent the 4,500,000 boys and leaders now active in the Boy Scouts of America and are typical of the 26,000,000 active members who have passed through the ranks of Scouting during these forty-seven years, they have been an effective force in American life.

They have chosen as their jamboree symbol the illustration of George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge, thereby graphically demonstrating the strength of their slogan for their Four-Year Program, "Onward for God and My Country," and through camping on the hallowed ground of the Valley Forge State Park they are proving that today's youth respect the traditions and sacrifices of their forebears.

These Scouts do come from the forty-eight states of our nation, from its possessions, and from its neighbors both near and far, bringing with them the fire of youth and the determination of a generation of citizens of character in the making.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is proud of the accomplishments of Scouting and proud that it has chosen this State for its great national convocation; therfore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives does extend a warm welcome to the Scouts and Scouters who will assemble at Valley Forge in July; that we officially commend the hundreds of volunteer leaders who will direct their activities; that we especially commend the hundreds of dedicated Pennsylvanians who give of their time, effort, and resources in the furtherance of the Scouting program; and that we salute the national leadership of this great movement for what they are doing in leading boyhood "Onward for God and My Country;" and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be spread upon the records of this body and that copies of it be sent to each local Boy Scout Council in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and to the national leaders of this great youth program.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. SHIELDS, FLOYD, Miss DUFFY and Mr. GELFAND.

RESOLUTION No. 59.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

It has been called to the public's attention that numerous hate and subversive groups have been recently organized in Philadelphia and other places within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and that the purposes of such groups is to cause or engender hatred and violence among the heterogeneous racial and religious groups in our great Commonwealth.

It has been noted that the aforementioned hate and subversive groups, such as the White Citizens Council and the Seaboard White Citizens Council, and others operate on a multistate and national basis sending literature and personnel from state to state to conduct their undemocratic hate programs and hereby creating a national as well as a local problem.

We, the Members of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives are unequivocally committed and dedicated to the Federal and State constitutional provisions which prohibit racial and religious discrimination and the opinions of the Unted States Supreme Court which prohibit racial and religious discrimination in public schools and public transportation.

The democratic principles of our Commonwealth could possibly be weakened and the welfare of our citizens as they traveled through the various states could be adversely affected by the aforementioned undemocratic and unconstitutional practices in other states by hate groups which have sanctioned and encouraged personal violence in opposition to the laws of the land, which hate groups send literature from other states into our State; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Attorney General of the United States is hereby urged to place hate and subversive groups such as the White Citizens Council and the Seaboard Citizens Council on his list of subversive organizations; and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House of Representatives is hereby directed to forward a copy of this resolution to each United States Senator and Representative from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania so that they may urge enactment of national legislation which will guarantee to all citizens of our nation that their constitutional rights of freedom from discrimination and segregation will be protected and effectively enforced by our National Government; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Department of Justice, attention of Attorney General Brownell and J. Edgar Hoover, that they use their offices to investigate all illegal groups whose programs are conducted to encourage violence against Negroes and others who are merely attempting to exercise their constitutional rights as guaranteed to them by the Federal Constitution and the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORT OF COMMISSION ON HIGHER EDUCATION

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

To the Honorable the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Inasmuch as education plays such an important part in our budget thinking, it occurred to me that the attached copy of a Report from the Governor's Commission on Higher Education may be of extreme interest to you.

As you probably know, the Commission has been conducting its research for well over a year and has come up with important findings and recommendations. In order that you might study them for yourself, I have asked that a copy be made available to each member of the Legislature.

At the present time these recommendations are receiving full consideration by this Administration. I have said that I think the report can be the basis for meeting the anticipated expanded need for higher education in the Commonwealth.

It is my hope that you will find in the pages of this report a basis for legislative action in this field.

An Act amending "The Third Class City Code" approved June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932) requiring repayment of pension fund contributions to members of the police department or fire department who leave the service prior to eligibility for a pension.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered an agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 369, Printer's No. 110
House Bill No. 370, Printer's No. 111 and
House Bill No. 371, Printer's No. 112
House Bill No. 384, Printer's No. 128 and
House Bill No. 448, Printer's No. 119

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 553, entitled as follows:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways with the approval of the Governor to erect and maintain a high level bridge over the Clarion River * * *.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clarion, Mr. Varner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clarion, Mr. Varner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VARNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell the House whether this bill will order and direct the Highway Department to construct a high level bridge over the Clarion River?

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, it would merely authorize the Highway Department to construct a bridge.

Mr. READINGER. And I believe $3 million is estimated as the maximum cost of this.

Mr. VARNER. That is written in the bill.

Mr. READINGER. Limiting the Highway Department to not more than $3 mililon, is that correct?

Mr. VARNER. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether he has consulted with the Highway Department to find out whether this bridge is on the plan or any plan of the Highway Department for future construction?

Mr. VARNER. Yes, I have had some correspondence with Mr. Lawler concerning this bridge.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell the House whether any decision has been made by the Highway Department or whether he has been encouraged to believe this bridge will be built?

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I have been encouraged to believe there would be a new bridge built at this point on Route 322 for many years, not only this year but many past years.

Mr. READINGER. How many past years?

Mr. VARNER. Since about 1949, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether he knows if any decision has been made by the Highway Department, the present Secretary of Highways, as to whether this bridge should or should not be built at the present time?

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know just what their feelings are at the present time.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman believe we should pass a bill authorizing the Highway Department to do this with the approval of the Governor?

Mr. VARNER. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I believe that.

Mr. READINGER. In other words, does the gentleman want us as a House of Representatives to indicate that we desire the Highway Department to build this bridge and we desire the Governor to authorize and approve it? Is that the intent of this bill?

Mr. VARNER. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. This does not, by law, make them do it?

Mr. VARNER. That would be correct.

Mr. READINGER. This, in effect then, is a resolution expressing the sentiment of the House that something should be done?

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, that is what the gentleman is saying.

Mr. READINGER. Is that correct?

Mr. VARNER. I do not know, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me we had better go slowly on some of these expressions of sentiment here in the House until we get a better idea as to what the Highway Department has been planning for the next biennium, as it appears clear the Highway Department is not going to have the six cents per gallon, but only the five.

We might be setting forth some expressions of intention here which mean that more necessary construction by the Highway Department could not be undertaken, or would not be undertaken, within the amount of money we are giving to the Department.

I think it would be wise to defer action on bills of this kind until we have a clearer picture of what the present plans of the Highway Department are and how much money they are going to get.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced to try to spur the Highway Department into action by persuasion. I have never had much success with the present administration or past administrations.

I might cite the figures that I received yesterday from Colonel E. J. Henry, Commissioner of the State Police, in regards to accidents at this point on the U. S. Route 322, which is near Clarion. This bridge, incidentally, would replace one which is now posted to a 15-ton weight limit. It is approached by 90 degree curves from either end, from the west approach and the east approach. Some of you no doubt have passed over at that point. In fact, some of my colleagues commute over it each week.

In 1947 there were 16 bad accidents at this point on this highway. In 1948 there were 12; in 1949, 9. State Police records are rather inconclusive in that they skip the figures for about four years. In 1953 there were 12 accidents; 1954, 12; 1955, 16 and in 1956, 13. A number of these accidents have been fatal accidents. In 1951 a car went over the bridge. It went into the river. The river, incidentally, at this point is about 50 feet deep. Two persons were drowned at this point. It is recognized in northwestern Pennsylvania as one of the worst traffic hazards in that area. By this legislation I am planning to get the Highway Department to do something about a pressing need.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise specifically to either oppose or support this measure but simply for the purpose of calling attention to the precedent we are creating.

There is not a Member of this House who cannot bring into this chamber bills or resolutions for highway improvements in his county, running into five, six, eight or ten million dollars.

We have in my County of Cambria several situations similar to the one complained of by the gentleman from Clarion. In one instance there are a series of underpasses under the Pennsylvania Railroad on Route 53. It would require at least $18 million to remedy that situation.

I would have as much right, and any other Member would have as much right to bring in bills or resolutions which would in their total intent represent the entire amount of money which could be expended by the Highway Department.

The proposition we face is whether we intend to continue operating under the Highway Code passed by this House some years ago, a Code which was designed to end piece-meal construction on the part of the Legislative branches of this government, to attempt to actually administer the Department of Highways, whether we should continue that or whether we should place responsibility for the program in the keeping of the Highway Department for the purpose of promoting continuity and seeing to it that the roads constructed link up one with another instead of having piecemeal construction.

We are making a basic decision. Either we want to administer in this House the operations of the Highway Department, place ourselves in the place of administrators, or we want to continue operating under the Highway Code which vests compelling authority in the Highway Department.

I believe we are creating a bad precedent. If we are going to get into the grab bag, I want to come across with bills for the things we need in Cambria County because when I go back home they say to me, "Well the gentleman from Clarion, the gentleman from this county, the gentleman from the other county, got a bill through the House for improvements in their counties, what is the matter with you? Are you not at Harrisburg, too?" It will be a matter of political expendency on the one hand or an effort to get something that is not in the Highway Department's plan, and I think it is a bad precedent. If that is the precedent we are going to create, then I advise every Member of this House to come forth with the bills outlining the needed highway improvements in his county. As I say, I can present bills for desirable road improvements in Cambria County totalling $40 million. I would not have any right to get the $40 million, but if the gentleman from Clarion can get $3 million for a danger point in his county, I ought to have $3 million for my county, and you ought to have $3 million for your county.

I say to you, gentleman, we are creating a bad, bad precedent.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in connection with this bill up for consideration today, we have had in past sessions that I have been here numerous bridge bills of this character and of a similar character.

I would not say we are establishing any precedent here today if we pass this bill. I realize our House Rules do say we cannot have a special highway bill, as such on the calendar. But we can have special bridge bills, and it has been the custom in the past to have quite a number of bills of this kind.

I understand from one of the Members on this side that a bridge bill was passed in 1949 having to do with Lancaster and Dauphin counties. The bridges have never been built, but the authorization is there in the Highway Department.

I can hearken back to last session. When the classified income tax bill passed, the words were still ringing here that the Clerk should transmit the bill to the Senate for concurrence—which by the way was not done—when an immediate committee meeting was called and out popped a bridge bill for Beaver County. We all said it was a pay-off. I do not know whether it was or was not, but it is in the record that it happened, so there is precedent for it, ample precedent.

I would say to all of you, if you want bridge bills, put them into committee, give us evidence like Mr. Varner did of a critical situation existing, of extreme hazard to the traveling public, numerous accidents, many of them fatal, and I believe that we will give it due consideration. So I would say, "Move this bill."

I have been at this very bridge. To get across that bridge on that important highway you must make a complete 90 degree turn. There is a restaurant right at the dead-end you might say and many, many a car has ended up right inside that restaurant at the end of that bridge.

It is a very dangerous condition there, and I am asking the membership in the House to please vote "aye" on the bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I also ask the Members of the House to vote "aye" on this bill and to come back next week with similar measures to preent for the consideration of the committee.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, since the bridge bill of 1949 has come into the picture, I think we should clarify the record.

Those of us who were interested in the two bridges which were mentioned in that bill insisted that we write into the bill the fact that they were to be toll bridges. That is the way I think all bridges should be built, and the bill of 1949 specifies that.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I am at a loss to understand the logic of my friends on the other side. One day they deprive the Highway Department of money by reducing license fees, the next day they want the Highway Department to build a new bridge. That is something I cannot understand.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, just a word or two on this measure to clarify a situation.

We have a number of these bills appearing on the calendar. However, let us recognize the import of these bills and the value of them. Right now you can find over in the Highway Department's musty files approximately 2,000 to 2,500 bills of a like nature which are just gathering dust there.

You have to recognize that practically all of these ridges which we authorize the Department to build are eing built on Federal Aid primary, Federal Aid secondry or Federal Aid interstate highways. You must reognize, too, that these must be approved by the United tates Bureau of Public Roads.

There comes into the picture whether we should change he administration of the Highway Department. If any ody here wants to create a Frankenstein, it is perfectly ll right with me, but recognize the fact that you cannot eceive Federal funds by sitting here and passing legisation which would make it mandatory for the Highay Department to build certain projects when those rojects would not be approved. I dare say for the amount hich would be necessary for projects in each individual egislative district of the membership of this House, there ould not be 106 people here who would have the courge to vote sufficient revenues to build the projects ey would request for their respective districts.

Let's face it. Let's be honest about it. There is no use ringing in a flurry of bills of this nature, because if ou do it on the basis of changing the method by which he Highway fund is administered then you are going to ave to sit here and pass sufficient revenue to take care f at least 107 men and their individual districts, and the otals of that would be tremendous.

Take the $3 million figure in this bill, a high level idge at $3 million. I said two years ago when I was hairman of the Highways Committee that the legislaon we pass on these various bridges is nothing more an paper. They are not worth any more than the paper ey are written on. A high level bridge on an interate system, which is contemplated to be built on U. S. between Fayette and Washington counties, is estimated cost $16.5 million. All we have to do is just keep nning around in circles and thinking about the idea changing the administration of that fund and legise projects to be built, then recognize that you will rtake of very little of the Federal allocation.

Recognize, too, that you will have to raise the revenues ght here to pay for those individual projects. Let us t build a Frankenstein. Let us have an orderly, wellnned and well-designed administration of the highway ogram to meet the needs of all the people and to enance the welfare of the Commonwealth in moving ahead th its sister states on this most vital problem that connts us today, the construction of needed highways.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 161, Printer's No. 75 was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 50

Mr. BOWER. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 8 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 50.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

Resolved That the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint a committee composed of three members of the House who shall review consider and report upon all bills which have as their subject matter or deal with any phase of pensions or retirement with respect to any system of employment in the Commonwealth.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to House Resolution No. 50 just adopted, the Chair appoints Messrs. Bower, Wood and Mihm, as a committee to deal with any phase of pensions or retirement with respect to employment in the Commonwealth.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SCHWARTZ asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we who read the newspapers see that there is great concern in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania about our educational system and about whether the schools we have at the present time, the colleges we have at the present time, will be sufficient to meet the need in future years.

This is especially true concerning colleges in the state of Pennsylvania. I am sure all of the Members are familiar with the fact that this year tuition rates have been increased, especially at one institution in the City of Philadelphia. So today for a boy or girl to matriculate and receive a college education the tuition is about $1,000, roughly $22 per week, certainly more than the average family in this Commonwealth can afford to pay for the education of its young.

In reading the Bulletin yesterday, I came across a very interesting editorial which I would like to read for the record. It is entitled: "Worth a Trial."

> Superintendent of Public Instruction Boehm has come up with an idea that seems worth a speedy, though perhaps limited, trial.
> He suggests that modern high school buildings be used afternoons and evenings as junior colleges, which could be staffed with high school faculty members competent to teach college groups.
>
> Dr. Boehm believes this would permit the needed expansion of Pennsylvania Colleges with a minimum of expense, and would have the added advantage of providing the schools in localities where pupils can reach them easily. It would permit attendance by persons who are holding full time jobs.
>
> Students who prove incapable of completing college work or whose interest lags could be screened out in these junior schools. Existing college facilities could be devoted more largely to work in the junior and senior years.
> Not only would this plan reduce greatly the need for construction of costly facilities, but it would also make the junior colleges self-supporting, or nearly so, through tuition fees. Legislation to permit local districts to collect the tuition would be the principal need to allow a trial in a number of communities."

As far back as I can remember, Legislators from the city of Philadelphia have introduced bills every session for a free city college. Those bills have laid in committee, there has been no action taken upon them. It is just as serious in other sections of the Commonwealth as it is in the city of Philadelphia.

I intend to introduce legislation next week to try to bring about what the Superintendent of Public Instruction speaks of in this particular editorial and see if this system would not be feasible. Slight fees could be charged to the students to bear part of the cost. It seems to me that it is a pretty good idea. At that time I am going to invite co-sponsorship from the other side of the House to see if we cannot get such a program enacted.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. CLEVELAND. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, March 18, 1957 at 4:30 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11:55 a. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

He also presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, Pa., March 18, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I transmit herewith for consideration of your Honorable Body legislation in regard to the Pennsylvania Turnpike system which may well be the most important matter to come before you in this session.

We have ample reason in the mismanagement and corruption which unfortunately characterized the administration of the Turnpike system to take a hard and serious look at its operations and its prospects. The results of the special Grand Jury investigation initiated by the Department of Justice of this Administration, indicate to date that a former Chairman of the Commission and his relatives did indeed plan and participate in what I was forced to call "the greatest public swindle of all time." While such misconduct in office and abuse of trust is a matter primarily of individual and political responsibility, it is also an indicaton of weaknesses n the law itself and the methods which the Legislature had previously devised for the management of the Turnpike system.

Nevertheless, shocking as such abuses may be, they are not in themselves the primary reason why this comprehensive legislation is submitted. We are not looking backward to lock doors from which millions of dollars were stolen; we are looking forward to the future of the Turnpike system and all that it means to the economy and convenience of the people of Pennsylvania.

Operating efficiency can be accomplished by the simple process of appointing dedicated administrators, and by doing what should have been done long ago—requiring the Turnpike Commission to obey the same laws as to competitive bidding which are applied to all other State operations under the Administrative Code.

But we must go much further, if we are to meet our responsibilities in adjusting the Turnpike system to the new circumstances which now confront us.

That is the essence of this legislation.

Briefly, it is based upon the supposition that we cannot have a system of superhighways that is half toll and half free. The passage of the Federal Highways Act of 1956 has made the concept of toll highways obsolete and unworkable. The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is thereby freed of its responsibility to extend, as economic feasibility made possible, the Turnpike system. It is finished. We cannot anticipate the construction of another mile of new toll road in Pennsylvania.

Accordingly, we need conservators for the existing Turnpike system as provided in this legislation. The obsolete authorizations to build toll roads are repealed, and the Department of Highways will undertake the responsibility of constructing equivalent free highways in cooperation with the Federal program.

The conservators will have the duty of fulfilling the contractural obligations and indentures which were entered into by the Turnpike Commission. The legislation now submitted has been most carefully prepared by the Department of Justice. It has been reviewed by eminent bond counsel who generously volunteered, without compensation, to assist in the drafting of the bill. We have no doubt that the contractural rights of the bondholders are fully preserved.

The conservators will have, in addition to their responsibility to the bondholders, a responsibility to the people of the Commonwealth. That responsibility will be the efficient and economical operation of the Turnpike system; its reasonable and gradual integration with the regular state highways system; and the very difficult and most important duty of developing a plan for freeing the Turnpike system of tolls at the earliest possible date.

The conservators will not have an easy job.

The original Turnpike system was brilliantly conceived and economically sound. There is grave doubt that more recent extensions were so wisely planned, and based on present prospects, it is touch-and-go as to whether the Northeast extension will truly pay its way. Present default is prevented by what are in effect payments out of principal—the excess construction funds—which in itself is a scandalous evidence of miscalculation and mismanagement.

It must be our hope that the future administrators of the Turnpike system will be able to cope with the mistakes of past administrations. So that they may be better prepared to do so, this legislation proposes a new concept in management. The old way has diffuse responsibility. No one is the real chief executive. A strong chairman seizes the power. A weak chairman scatters it into the hands of a staff that has no central direction. The legal officer is independent of the attorney general.

In frankness, we must all admit that the job of Turnpike Commissioner, well paid and with 10 years of tenure, was used for political reward. It was a questionable system.

It is now proposed, under this legislation, that the members of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Board, the conservators whom I have mentioned, will serve without pay. There should be no political contention for the place. Instead, the Governor will be able to appoint six citizens of Pennsylvania with special abilities in such fields as finance, public administration, industrial management, personnel and labor policy, civil engineering—the skills which the directors of such an enterprise should have. They must be evenly divided in their party membership. The Secretary of Highways will be the seventh member, ex officio.

One additional and compelling reason for a nonsalaried Board is this: no member of the Turnpike Board should have a personal interest in prolonging its life by a single day. The member should be dedicated to their own abolition. The Board will name an Executive Director, who will be responsible for executing the policies it sets.

It may be pointed out that the proposal is similar to the system we have long accepted for the operation of Penn State University, the school districts of the State, and many successful public authorities.

The Board will be responsible for the salary schedules and personnel policies of the system; it will contract for maintenance services with the Department of Highways; it may let major repair and reconstruction contracts under competitive bidding! and, as long as tolls are in effect, it will set the rates, collect the money, and make its proper payments for operating costs and debt service.

It is not solely for the benefit of users of the present Turnpike system that we should press for the elimination of tolls and the use of the Turnpike as a free highway. That it would be desirable in itself goes without saying, but the great pressure to free the system comes from the fact that it cannot economically survive as a toll road without doing a grave injustice to the people of Pennsylvania. The continuance of tolls on the Turnpike system indefinitely will mean:

I. In the years to come, the great majority of the Nation's express highways will be free. They will be equal to or superior to the Pennsylvania Turnpike, which will be toll. We will be the victims of discrimination in the Nation's highway system.

2. Future highway planning and construction in Pennsylvania will be seriously hampered by the considerations which must be given the Turnpike's economic stability. If we protect the Turnpike from free highway competition from other cross-state routes, our industrial development and transportation opportunities will suffer. If we do not so protect the Turnpike, and build our highway system according to our true needs, the Turnpike itself may deteriorate to a dangerous degree due to lack of funds for maintaining its surface, adding to its lanes, and doubling its tunnels.

The dilemma is such that we must prepare ourselves for a course of action which will make free and equal all the major limited access highways in the Commonwealth.

This legislation opens two methods for that accomplishment.

The first is the best. It is the development of such a conclusive case as to the points I have enumerated that we, and the other states with toll roads, will prevail on the Congress to bring them into the interstate system as free roads. Under such a plan, the outstanding bonds would be called in and paid off from the proceeds of Federal appropriations for 90 per cent and State appropriations for 10 per cent made available for the purpose.

In the event that such Federal action cannot be achieved, there is a second method which might be acceptable. Under this proposal, the Commonwealth's own Motor License Fund could finance the retirement of Turnpike debt under a lease agreement between the Highways Department and the Turnpike Board. The Turnpike system would then become, in effect, a freeway financed as a long-range capital improvement of the State's general highway program.

I do not think that we can allow this problem to drift much longer. It would seem to me that the General Assembly will appreciate its importance equally with the executive branch.

To sum it up, this carefully drawn and thoughtful legislation will:

1. Provide the Turnpike system with better management during the period of its remaining life as a toll road.

2. Give the system the benefit of nonpolitical direction.

3. Install a program of competitive bidding for the purchases and construction contracts of the system.

4. Build proper defenses now against the possibility of future defaults on Turnpike bonds.

5. Make the Turnpike free of tolls at the eariest practicable date, so that it can achieve its maximum usefulness as part of an integrated interstate highway system for use of the people of our Commonwealth and of the United States.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE APPOINTED ON SENATE BILL No. 77

The PRESIDENT. The Chair announces, on behalf of the President pro tempore, the appointment of Messrs. FLEMING, WHALLEY and DENT, as a committee of conference on the part of the Senate to confer with a similar committee of the House (if the House shall appoint such committee) to consider the difference existing between the two houses in relation to Senate Bill No. 77.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RULE 2 SUSPENDED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Rule No. 2 be suspended, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of today's calendar.

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

CALENDAR

HOUSE BILL No. 337 CALLED UP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 4 of today's Third Reading Calendar, House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 160.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 337, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 6 1956 (P. L. 1228) entitled as amended "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act" eliminating provisions which would reduce the rate of the tax and the use of prepaid tax receipts changing and clarifying certain definitions making further exemptions changing the procedure for the collection of the tax and the administration of the act and providing appeals.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Do you know of any amendments that will be offered from your side to this legislation?

Mr. MAHANY. There are not any presently contemplated, Senator.

Mr. DENT. Do you have any intention to object to amendments offered by this side?

Mr. MAHANY. I do not have any intention to object to the offering of amendments, Senator.

Mr. DENT. Thank you.

Mr. President, I do not know whether it will serve any purpose to go through the necessary motions to revert this bill back to second reading in order to put it into position for amendment. I believe the same purpose will be fulfilled if you allow the introduction of the amendments and, inasmuch as the merits of the amendments will not be considered in the final outcome of the vote, we believe it will expedite matters and make the record clear if we offer the amendments that we have and the vote be taken on the amendments as they come in.

Therefore, Mr. President, before I introduce the few amendments which I have, I would like to preface the introduction of these amendments with some remarks which may be apropos to the situation in which we find ourselves.

First of all, I know that my remarks will not make me any friends. So having already, in my own mind, resolved that position, I must of a necessity carry forth the duties as I see them to be mine at this time. I regret very much that over the week end a Member of the Senate decided to answer debate given on the floor by going to the newspapers with arguments that would have been better said and expressed here on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I believe that I have always tried to carry to the Senate the impressions, as I gather them, from my Democratic colleagues who have elected me their Leader for quite a number of years. I have often stated on the floor that it is not a matter of personal feeling; it is a matter of party principle. Our two parties stand for government in their own peculiar ways. I believe my party has always stood for the principles of government which guarantee an equality to all, in both the benefits which come from government as well as the taxation that must be placed upon all of us to pay for the benefits of government.

I am sure, Mr. President, that the people are willing and have been willing to pay their proportionate share of the taxes. However, when a deliberate action is taken to make a disproportionate base for revenue-raising in Pennsylvania, as the spokesman for the Democratic Party and for the people as I see it, I must object as strenuously as I can. I am very sorry that my good friend and colleague, Senator Kessler, found it necessary to become a little personal in his remarks concerning the Minority Leader. However, that is neither here nor there in so far as the welfare of the people is concerned.

Mr. President, I have taken the presentation that I presented to the Senate last week and I have studied it carefully. I find that in this presentation, I have tried to pick out the chapters and verse of the Act, itself, and give you the benefit of the study which was made. However, in referring to this—and I want this in the record because I believe in things appearing in the record—my good colleague had this to say. He said that Senator Dent's presentation "from the desk of the Minority Leader was a sneering piece, full of hit-and-run arguments, distortions of sense and out-and-out misquotation."

Senator Kessler further stated as follows:

"Its author writes much in the vein of the men whose cynical and capricious decisions have made sales tax administrations up to this time a burden on the Commonwealth and taxpayer alike. The author is a very smart fellow,"—and I thank him for that statement—"no doubt, and certainly a propagandist of no mean abilities."

Mr. President and Members of this Senate, I find a great deal to criticize in that statement, but I will not; particularly to that section of it. What Senator Kessler thinks of me is of little importance. What this bill does to the people of Pennsylvania is of great importance.

In one of the statements made by Senator Kessler he said, and I quote:

"This has been an honest effort, and one into which I, personally, and many members of the Committee and other Senators, have put a great deal of time and careful study."

Mr. President, I went to the Members of the Senate from the Democratic side, who are on this committee, Senator Barr, Senator Lane, Senator Seyler, Senator Silvert and Senator Weiner. I asked them if they ever attended any meetings whatsoever of that committee. I asked them if they had ever been called to attend any meetings of that committee relative to amending the sales tax. I asked them if they had ever been consulted or had ever been talked to about the amendments. Lo and behold, as members of that committee, they have had no invitation to meet with Senator Kessler, or any other member of that committee, to work upon this legislation. They told me that the only, and the first, information they had concerning the amendments was given to them at a meeting held back in the "Love Nest," the day that the bill was presented to the floor. It was a meeting which lasted between eight and ten minutes. A shaft of amendments was given not to each member, but strictly to the desk and that was their only knowledge of any work being done on the bill.

Mr. President, to say today that no amendments can be offered does not give consideration to the duties of the Membership of this Senate. There are many amendments needed, aside from the revenue-raising angle. There are many amendments needed to clarify the situation. There are many amendments required in this bill to make the collection of this tax at least as easy as it can be made. After the amendments which have been introduced by the Republican Membership of this Senate, it will be almost impossible to collect and audit this tax measure. I say that because I have studied it and I know whereof I speak. I have talked to the department. Too much emphasis has been put on personnel, and blame upon personnel, in so far as this bill is concerned and the Act which is now upon the books.

Let us look into the reasons for the noncollection of the tax. I have listened to all kinds of arguments about the inability of the Department of Revenue to perform its proper functions. I have read in the newspapers of the damaging evidence that has been pressed against this department because it has not been able to collect the tax. However, let us look and see who the real culprits were in the matter. Is it because of the fact that they were out collecting the tax? A great number of people in this Commonwealth, either associated together in business or associated together in principle, have refused to pay the tax under any conditions, waiting for the amendments that were promised to them and, therefore, they would not have to pay the tax. That was proven by the fact that they had placed into this Act an amendment, making retroactive all of the exemptions now placed into the bill, back to the date of the original inception of the Act, March 7, 1956.

Mr. President, even after they argued on the floor that I was wrong, they came to the floor the very next day and amended that particular retroactive feature out of the Act. However, they did not go far enough. There has been no saving clause put into the bill. An interpretation of this Act, taken to court, could very well resolve into a retroactive feature being placed into the Act by a determination of the court. Therefore, if no other amendment is acceptable by this Senate, they must accept, if they believe in the inequity of a retroactive feature of the bill, a saving clause contained in the amendment which I shall offer when I offer the remainder of the amendments that I have before me today.

Mr. President, let us go into just a few of the features of the act. While they were taking out the clause that took the retroactive feature out of the Act, there was another amendment inserted. Naturally, when the amendments go across the desk, it is difficult to analyze exactly what they do until the bill is printed. So, we left the next day before a copy of the act was in our hands. I waited and when I received a copy of the bill, I read it. I was very much surprised, Mr. President, because I found that there had been an amendment inserted that does something in Pennsylvania that is not allowed in any other State in the Union. When the act was first and originally conceived, we discussed certain features of the act having to do with fabricators and processors. Somehow or other, the final copy of the bill did not have the restrictive covenant in it that we had agreed upon.

As I look at the clock, I want it clearly understood that it is just as hard for me to say these things and to stand here as it is for you to listen. I hope you will withhold your criticism of the time I take because when there is a job to be done, someone has to do it and in this instance, I feel it my duty to do it.

This particular amendment, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, in effect, would do this. We have a tax which we believe is on building materials. Now with the amendment inserted on Wednesday, this is a practical demonstration of what will happen. A big contractor may need 500,000 or 1,000,000 cinder or cement blocks—

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Dent, it would help us all, when you refer to these amendments, if you would give us the page on which the amendments appear in order for us to follow your remarks more closely.

Mr. DENT. I will be glad to do it.

On page 7 of House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 160, up until the amendment was introduced, this is the way the section read:

" 'Sale at retail' shall include the producing fabricating processing printing or imprinting of tangible personal property for a consideration for persons who furnish either directly or indirectly the materials used in the producing fabricating prosessing" and so forth.

However, Mr. President, what happened on Wednesday was that an amendment was inserted which struck out the words "producing fabricating processing."

To go back to my example of what will happen under this amendment, all contractors, when they take out the prints to put in a bid, will take the blueprints and send to some steel fabricating company the blueprints and ask for a price on steel. They will get a price; they will get two prices. They will get a price on steel delivered and erected, and they will get a price on steel fabricated as to the specifications contained within the plans of the building.

Under this amendment, Mr. President, instead of paying the sales tax on the steel as a fabricated, finished, manufactured product, they can go into the steel company and buy the steel by the ton or weight, as raw steel, and then subcontract to the processor for the fabricating of that steel to meet the specifications of the contract. Now that is what they can do. They can go out and order thousands of cement block, buy the materials going into the block, pay for the materials and subcontract for the manufacture of the block. We had, we thought, a bill which taxed building material. We thought that when a man, who owns a little home, goes out to buy a lintel for over a window, or a piece of steel for a clothesline post or anything else for which he might need steel, that he would pay for the steel when he purchases it. He does do that and he will do it, but certain persons who will be exempted under this act will pay for the steel but will not pay for the product.

Mr. President, what are we getting into? We say that we have a tax bill. We want a broad base tax. I have listened for years to the cries for a broad base tax. However, every time that we have ever had a bill, starting from the first one per cent tax passed under Governor Fine, until this moment, after we pass a broad base tax, we start narrowing the base and narrowing the base by exemptions until we get to the point where the only individual paying the tax is the individual person back at the retail level, and I spell retail in capital letters. By doing that, you cannot get enough money. History has proven that in every State which has ever passed a broad base tax.

If you want to have a sales tax, and it appears that the Republican Party has committed itself to nothing except a sales tax, then let us have a sales tax. I assure you that we on this side will join you if you will pass a tax that falls equally upon the shoulders of all the peoples of the Commonwealth and not upon certain peoples because of the use.

This tax bill, in my opinion—and I am not a lawyer, so it is only a layman's opinion—is as unconstitutional as any piece of legislation that was ever presented to the floor of this Senate. If I go out and buy a screwdriver, I have to pay a tax on it. However, if any of the steel companies or a shipbuilding company or any manufacturer goes out to buy a screwdriver, they do not pay a tax on it. Where is the tax? Is the tax upon the consumer or is the tax upon the article? Is this a retail tax upon the consumer or is this a retail tax based upon the article which is being taxed?

In every other State in the Union where they do have a tax of this kind, they do not go down into the fine points and relieve from the tax people such as the shipbuilding companies. Let us take what happened in the shipbuilding amendment.

The shipbuilding amendment, according to the figures received from the Department of Revenue, will cost $12,000,000 in the next biennium. Why? Because, under the amendments allowed to the shipbuilding companies in this State, they are set upon a pedestal of their own. Although we cry about manufacturers, we are not going to exempt manufacturers to the same extent that we are exempting ship repair outfits or shipbuilding companies, because in their amendments, I doubt whether you could tax them for the pencils, pens or inkwells or anything else that they buy throughout the entire operation of their company, although there is some reason to believe that we could tax some of the other companies for these simple items. I cannot get through my mind, Mr. President, why the major shipbuilding company in this State, cannot pay taxes on pencils and pens and stationery, but can contribute $216,000 to the Republican Campaign Committee in the year of 1956. I am wondering how many pencils could be bought with $216,000.

We can go on and on and on with the inequities in this bill, and it will not make a bit of difference because the rules are to push it through, regardless of what happens on the entire tax bill. If you want a sales tax and you will pass a general sales tax, I will stand up on this floor and fight with you but when you do, let us do it right. Let us take a sales tax in Pennsylvania and tax every item, no matter who uses it. Let us not make fish out of some and fowl out of others. When we do that, Mr. President, we can give industry the kind of a lift which would be the only kind of a reduction that would be understood outside the borders of this State. If we do it and do it right, Mr. President, we can say to the people in the surrounding States, "We have a broad base tax and that is the only tax that we have upon industry."

Let me tell you that if you will pass the type of tax which is now in vogue in the State of California, we can immediately wipe from the books the capital stock tax in toto, the franchise tax, the excise tax, the nuisance taxes, and we can reduce the corporate net income tax in Pennsylvania two per cent. If you want to do something for industry, then let us do it that way. We will then have a bill which is workable, one which is collectible and one which is auditable. That is the right kind of legislation and not the kind of legislation which makes fish out of some and fowl out of others.

I have had men come to see me over the week end and they said, "Now look, we did not complain about paying the tax. However, why should we be put into the position where when we go home—we represent our clients in the halls of the Senate and in the halls of the House. Some representatives, representing certain clients, have been able to take care of their clients and have them exempted from the tax bill, but I cannot get my people out."

Now they tell me that the door is closed. There will not be any more amendments; they will not let anybody else out. Was it only to take care of a certain few? You cannot have an exemption type tax in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in my humble opinion, because if you exempt, you exempt only in a category. That is why I fought for a categorical tax. I said that if a pencil or a pen is taxed to an individual, it should be taxed to whoever buys it. If another item is taxed, whatever it is, it should be taxed to whoever buys the article. We should not say that it is taxed to this person and not taxed to that person.

Under some of these amendments, when you get into some of these amendments, Mr. President, I do not know how any person is going to be able to regulate this Act, and the most important thing is that I do not know how they can possibly audit the Act. You have gone so far in these amendments that under no conditions can you possibly ever have good administration. I know what is going to happen. I am not a clairvoyant, a fortuneteller, and I cannot see too much into the future, but I know exactly what is going to happen. Here is what is going to happen, Mr. President. I want to put it into the record in order that it will not come as a surprise to those of my colleagues who hear me.

This bill will make the next biennium short by probably somewhere between $100,000,000 and $140,000,000. It is difficult to estimate correctly because of the fact that we had so many who paid nothing. Although they were taxed under the law, they paid nothing into the till. Therefore, you have no way of figuring exactly how you are going to tax or how much you are going to lose. For instance, the yields have been estimated by three different persons. We have gone from $472,000,000 to $480,000,000 and now we are up to $500,000,000. How can any person honestly say that this bill, which further exempts many taxable items, is going to produce more money than the bill is producing now when it taxes the items that will be exempted? They will say, "Well, the reason for that is that you do not know how to collect it. Therefore, you ought to elect the Republican Party because they are such great administrators and they know how to collect the tax."

Of course, every person knows what is happening in tax collections. For instance, in the month of April, the first month of the tax collection itself, there were three weeks of the month of March collected and the tax collection for those particular three weeks, as they were reported at the end of the month of April, showed to be about four and three-quarter million dollars. However, as of January 1, 1957, in the related collection which was collected through the next nine months and had to be credited to the month of March because it came in in dribbles over the next nine month period, the collection for the three weeks in the month of March has reached a total of $9,000,000. So it is throughout this thing.

It is a cumulative tax and it will be collected over the coming months rather than immediately in the month of the payment of the tax. Although we are going to have a monthly collection of the tax, we are still going to have a quarterly report and a yearly report. I say to you if you stand before the people and say that the money can be collected, but it just is not being collected because they do not know how to collect it, that will not be true and it cannot be true if you do not have the items to tax. For instance, Mr. President, throughout this whole piece of legislation, you find hundreds of articles that were taxed before, but which are no longer taxed now. If you exempt items from taxation, how do you expect to accumulate revenue? Let me give you an illustration.

In Senator Kessler's analysis, he said that I was all wrong; perhaps I am. However, what I did with my statement was I took it both to the Department of Revenue and to the Department of Justice. They analyzed it and they came back with approval, saying that my analysis of the Act and your amendments was exactly what they would say would be the correct analysis. If I am wrong, so is the Department of Revenue which is charged with the responsibility, and so is the Department of Justice because they, too, agreed that my analysis of the bill is right.

Let us go a little further in this tax bill. This morning, I read a very interesting item. It said that industry pays thirty-nine per cent of the taxes in Pennsylvania and that the broad base tax only collects five per cent. Of course, I cannot read that into the figures. It is put out by my good friends of the Chamber of Commerce, but let us take a good look at this thing. Here are the revenue sources right out of the budget. What does it say? It says the following: "1957-1959, Corporate Net Taxes in Pennsylvania will total $314,000,000." Let us go across and see what other direct tax there is on industry. "Capital Stock and Franchise Taxes. In 1957-1959, there will be $140,000,000 collected from the industries in Pennsylvania and those who do business in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Now if you add those two figures together, you would have $140,000,000 and $314,000,000 which amounts to $454,000,000. You would have $454,000,000 as related to tax program estimated to yield $1,504,000,000. This does not amount to thirty-nine per cent, no matter how you figure.

Mr. President, let us take a look at the utility situation. When I said something on the floor about the Cyclops Corporation going into Ohio,—I am happy to say that Senator Mahany immediately followed and more or less corroborated what I said—I was condemned because they said I did not know what I was talking about. On my birthday, which was March 10, an article appeared in the Pittsburgh Press. Let me read you the title of it:

"Towns Here Starve Atop 'Bread Pile' Due to Old Tax Rule." The subheading reads as follows: "Supreme Court's Verdict Century Ago Putting on New Financial Pinch Today."

I would like for you to read this article; those of you who would like to read it. I will spare you my reading because I am rather tired today. I am not feeling too good.

What the article deals with, Mr. President, is the fact that in Pennsylvania, the communities cannot place any real estate tax on utilities. Everytime we have ever tried to talk any kind of tax on utilities in this State, we have been told that that kind of a tax is a foolish tax because it is only reverted back to the people anyway. Let us see if that is true. Let us just see how that affects other States. I think it is important that we do this. Remember, what I am saying today is not said for the purpose of trying to have a tax bill passed on utilities or anybody else. I am only saying that it is unfair. It is unfair to increase the admission price on the bleachers and reduce the admission price on the box seats. I say that this is no time to reduce taxes on industry and the utilities when you turn right around and increase the tax on people. Let us just see what happens.

Pennsylvania, the State that is heralded by certain people in this State as the worst State in the Union in which to do business,—I deny that and say it is the best State in the Union to do business—charges the railroads $1,378 per mile of tax which is all inclusive, State, local and otherwise. Ohio charges $2,211 per mile; New York charges $5,344 per mile; New Jersey charges $10,083 per mile; Maryland charges $3,517 per mile.

Let us go into another situation, Mr. President, into all of the State and local taxes in the United States, paid by the telephone companies. In Pennsylvania, they pay 2.72 of the entire national tax burden, and in Pennsylvania they have 6.75 miles of wire, as against the low total. In Ohio, the great State they are talking about in which to do business, the taxes are 4.25 against 5.57 miles of poles; in New York, 20.93 of the national total, against 13.94 miles; in New Jersey, 4.92 per cent as against 4.41 per cent of the mileage of wire. Even little Maryland, where they only have 1.94 per cent of the mileage of wire, they pay 1.78 per cent.

Resident telephones in Pennsylvania pay $7.41; resident telephones in Ohio, $6.03; resident telephones in New Jersey, $4.63; and in Maryland, $1.94.

Mr. President, these utilities have to get the taxes they receive out of the rates they charge. Although they are paying from two to ten times as high a tax in other States as they are paying in Pennsylvania, their rates are lower than in the State of Pennsylvania.

Now, Mr. President, let us go to the real issue at stake, the real issue at stake on why many of the industries are leaving Pennsylvania. I am not going to be the authority on this. I am going to let others speak, men who know a great deal more than I ever hope to know about the subject. Let us take the utility powers, the electric light companies. This is illuminating to those of us who are not seeking to place more taxes on utilities. We are just seeking to keep more taxes from being placed upon the shoulders of the little people of the Commonwealth. I am not a demagogue when I talk about the little people, because I come from the little people and I know their problems. I know them inside and out. I know it is just as tough for a man who has ten children to buy a fountain pen as it is for Republic Steel to buy a fountain pen. I think it is.

Let us see this. In Pennsylvania, mind you, the State and local taxes on power companies is seventy-five cents per thousand kilowatt hours, and the revenue per thousand kilowatt hours is $18.42. In Ohio, the State and local taxes on a thousand kilowatt hours is $1.32 and the operating revenue received in Ohio is $16.86. Now if the taxes are related to the charges made to the consumer, why is it that in Ohio, where they have sixty-six per cent more tax, they have twelve and one-half per cent less charge upon the consumer for the power? Let us go into the State of New York where they have $2.64 State and local taxes paid on every thousand kilowatt hours of power, as compared to seventy-five cents in Pennsylvania and on down the line. New Jersey is the highest of all; New Jersey has $2.87 per thousand kilowatt hours.

You must recognize that if you are not going to tax utilities, if you are not going to tax manufacturers, if you are not going to tax shipbuilding companies and you are not going to tax all of the other people whom you have exempted under the sales tax, then that burden will fall upon the people. If the direct burden of taxation in this State falls to the tune of three-quarter per cent or, rather, seventy-two per cent of the total, the best figures we can come up with if this bill passes,—and this was before the fabricating and processing amendment went in—we came up with a figure of twenty-seven per cent business and industrial taxes and seventy-two per cent personal taxes. If that is true, then if you pass this budget of $1,500,000,000, are we then going to take approximately $1,100,000,000 out of the payrolls of Pennsylvania? That is what you are doing. This is an income tax in reverse. We are giving the money to the individual and then we say we are going to take it back from you to pay the expense of government. If governments were only created to protect the people, then, of course, you could say, "You are the only one receiving the benefits of government and you shall pay for them." However, governments are not created only for that purpose. Governments are created for all, regardless of whether they are in industry, whether they are a business or whether they are persons. They are created and we have to pay a proportionate share of the tax. I know this is not going to have any effect upon the vote. I know that they are going to say that I am wrong in my estimates. However, let us see what happens on this power situation.

In an argument placed before the United States Senate, by Robert Moses of the State of New York, who I believe is known to all as the head of the Public Power Authority, the Port Authority, the Redevelopment Authority and every other Authority in the city of New York. He is recognized all over the world as an authority. This is what he said about Pennsylvania and Ohio. This is very important because I think we are being misled. I think we are being led astray from our duties to protect the people of this Commonwealth by propaganda, the very word that Senator Kessler accuses me of using. Remember that I have no way of disseminating my propaganda. I might talk for an hour and get two lines in a newspaper. That does not interest me. What does interest me is that we place upon the record, for the future to see, exactly where we stood when it came to the position of voting on taxes affecting the people of this Commonwealth. Let me quote from Mr. Moses:

"Pennsylvania has lots of coal. Burning coal produces steam. Steam produces power. The cost of coal is the largest component in the cost of power. The cost of transportation is often the greater part of the cost of coal. In Pennsylvania coal can be used to produce power without substantial transportation costs.

"I am sure you are also familiar with the Ohio Valley." This is the point I want you to get. "This valley, because of the availability of coal, has become a great center for industries like aluminum and others, where the cost of power is an important factor in doing business. Power plants, on top of coal mines, produce power as cheap as, or cheaper, than any hydroelectric plant that can be built today."

Mr. President, when they put the word "coal" in there, they put exactly one-half of the reason for the movement to Ohio. The second big reason is water. I know what I am talking about. A few years ago, we created in Westmoreland County, the Westmoreland County Water Authority. It now has probably the second best water system in the entire United States. Yet, having that water system, they have found that it is insufficient, inadequate. Why? Because twelve new industries have moved into Westmoreland County, twelve new industries and expansions of great proportion. Right now, they have five more asking for admission, based upon the water resources that we have.

What are we doing about it? We are not coming down here screaming for lower taxes on industry. We are doing something about it on a local base. This Authority is building a $200,000,000 water viaduct, which will carry water from the hills down into the communities and we will be able to feed water to Fayette, Westmoreland, Washington Counties and even Allegheny County when we are finished with that water authority.

We found that the greatest attraction that we can offer today is water and power. You give us cheap power in Pennsylvania, you give us a good water supply and we will not need to worry about Ohio, West Virginia or anywhere else. Why did your Aluminum Company move to West Virginia? Did they move because of our tax structure? Their tax structure is worse. Why do most of the companies that are moving, move into Ohio? They are moving because of cheap power, they are moving because of the water and they are moving also because of the rolling flat land which is conducive to cheap construction of new industry. These are important things and we should realize them. We should not make the mistake today of exempting taxpayers from a just tax, if there can be anything just in taxation.

Two years from now, four years from now, in the increasing economy of our State, where are we going to go to get the money, back to the people? You do not mean to tell me that you will ever be able to muster strength enough in this Senate and in the House of Representatives to bring back under the tax bill those which you are exempting today. Are you going to be able to open it up and say, "Well, from now on, we are going to tax the trucks and the automobiles used to repair utilities?" You are going to be able to tax the foundations and, incidentally, as a builder, I wonder where the foundation stops and where the structure starts. I wonder how much exemption is going to come under that foundation. I wonder where such an argument can be raised. I wonder how many auditors and investigators we are going to have to put on to enforce that simple little feature. It can cost—according to this little list made up by the Department of Revenue, just as a simple figure, not knowing themselves where they are going because there has been, as you know, you could almost call it a conspiracy in keeping from paying the tax in Pennsylvania—but just as a small reminder, that item alone, insignificant as it is, can cost us $13,000,000. There is no measurement by which you can say how much went into the foundation and how much went into structure.

For instance, Mr. President, you are now going to say to me that the manufacturing and shipbuilding, how much will it cost? They do not know but, based upon the meager collections that they have made to date, in the twenty-four months ahead of us, it will cost approximately $18,800,000, based upon the collections as they are to date. The utilities will save $8,579,000. If they are going to save $8,579,000, are we to assume then that Pennsylvania's utilities will come down in price to the consumer? Are we saying that any savings we put in here, the cost of materials manufactured in Pennsylvania will be reflected in a lower cost to the consumer in this State?

Mr. President, I do not believe anybody wants to do more to make this a better State to live in than what it is. It is just a question in my mind as to how you make it a better State. I do not know how many of you are thinking of the future of this State. I do not know how many of you are thinking of the great weight that public servants will have to carry when automation reaches its near final point of perfection. We have removed from the taxing field everything that deals with not only machinery in the process of manufacturing, but machinery and tools, mind you, from the time the process starts until the process is finished. As we go along, we all know that automation has been coming in stronger every year and in greater volume in a greater number of industries, and we find ourselves in this period of readjustment between the time that men are left out of their jobs until the increased production takes up and gives more employment.

That was true in the old days because so many people had so little. So many people had practically nothing of a mechanical nature, of a manufactured nature in their possession, and so, when a new machine was invented that produced goods that was put out on a mass production base, the distribution was great because no one had these items. However, we have reached the stage where the 170,000,000 of our peoples, and almost everybody who can afford either on a long-term debt or by cash purchase, has almost every item that you can think of. Now we are almost a one and one-half car family now. We might get to be two car families, but I cannot conceive that we will get to be three car families. We are a one refrigerator family now. We may go to one and one-half or two refrigerators. We might all buy two or three television sets. We all may have a half dozen radios; I do not know. However, I do know this; that there comes a point where there is a saturation not only in the ability to buy the article, but in the ability to use the article. Automation will not stop. Automation will not stop, because right here is the answer to that. I do not intend to read this for you, but as you know I try my best to get some information about what I am talking about. So, being the year end when dividends are being paid, and the year end reports are going out from the various corporations, I happen to have a few, borrowed from some of my Republican friends. I have Bethlehem Steel and I have quite a few others here; Bethlehem, St. Regis Paper Company and a couple that my good friend, Mr. Mahany, thinks are good.

Now if any of you want to review and see whether I am telling the truth or not about the future, I want you to read these particular statements from these companies and then tell me whether or not we are justified, as representatives of the people in this State, to exempt from taxation under this bill and to exempt under the capital stock tax exemption, and to exempt under the excise tax elimination and further, in every effort that we make, to say that we must exempt all manufacturing, shipbuilding, utilities and all other income producing corporate institutions and put it upon the shoulders of payroll-receiving individuals. When you take $1,000,000,000 out of the peoples' pockets, whether you take it in pennies or you take it in dollar bills or you take it in $100 notes, you are removing $1,000,000,000 worth of purchasing power in the common market. When you do that, you are going to eliminate the very markets that these people depend upon. You cannot shift this tax burden any further. It has gone too far already.

For twenty years I have said on the floor of the Senate, and the record will prove, that a movement was started to shift the tax base from the corporate stock dividend producing companies to the shoulders of the people, and after twenty years we have come a full cycle. We are now in a position where the people pay seventy-two per cent and corporate dividend producing companies pay twenty-seven per cent. Twenty years ago, corporate companies paid eighty per cent and the people paid twenty per cent. You have come a complete full cycle.

Now where do we go from there? You say, "Why are you so distrubed over a man walking in and buying a fountain pen? Why, the tax is only maybe three cents or six cents, and he will not miss it." If you take $600,000,000 or $500,000,000 in three cent and six cent and nine cent bites, you have that much money that is not there to buy fountain pens with or anything else.

I know what the next move is. When we come in two years from now, after being roundly condemned because we could not administer the bill, we will be short. There will be mandated increases. They are already on the books. You will have a shortage of $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 in the next biennium. What will you do? You will look around for more items to tax. You may put the sales tax up another per cent or two. You will tax clothing, you will tax shoes and then you will have somebody coming in here and exempt from the clothing tax, any clothing bought by manufacturers. It sounds silly, does it not? However, you will see that they will ask for safety shoes to be exempted, I know, and they will ask for all other items that in any conceivable way can be withdrawn from the tax field to be exempted.

Now somewhere along the line, somewhere along the way, somebody has to speak up, and I say to you Republican Senators that it does not matter much how long any of us are here, but this is an injustice that should not at this time be foisted upon the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I want to tell you that I am tired, very tired; tired physically, mentally, politically and getting tired morally.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. On page 7 when you were talking about this fabricating business, I remember a few months ago there were bids taken, and I think the Fort Pitt Bridge got a contract of four million and some dollars and U. S. Steel got six million and some dollars for a new bridge to join the tunnel. I know at that time they figured the three per cent sales tax, but now a great portion of that will be relieved from them under this bill, and that will be another bite out of the taxpayers' pocket. Is that right?

Mr. DENT. That is exactly the point I was trying to make. They got a contract for $10,000,000 for the bridge. That means there will be $300,000, if my arithmetic is right, that the State of Pennsylvania will not receive from that tax item.

Mr. BARR. They will get the money?

Mr. DENT. Yes, if they have a contract, they will get the money.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I do not often arise to take issue with my colleague from Westmoreland County, but I find today that it is just impossible to sit still and listen to him travel up and down the State, and with every breath he brings out the word shipyard.

For the information of the gentlemen of the Senate, there is only one large shipyard in the State of Pennsylvania to by knowledge, that being the Sun Ship Building and Dry Dock Company located in Chester, Pennsylvania, in the county of Delaware, which I represent.

I am a little amazed at the Senator, and I know that if his father had talked this thing over with him, the great gentleman—and I have the greatest respect for his father—would have certainly told the gentleman that in order for people to work and earn a living to practice anything, they must have a place to work in.

Here is a shipyard which I can remember at one time had 33,000 people working there. At the present time there are only 2,900 people working in this shipyard and I cannot understand just why the shipyard is still operating. Personally, from a financial standpoint, I can not see any reason whatsoever for it being there.

Then the gentleman slides along to attack a man by the name of Pew, of the good family of Pew, in the State of Pennsylvania. That does not pertain to this bill and I do not know why the gentleman had the privilege to bring the name of Pew into this thing.

I would like to say to the gentleman that the Pews are honorable people, decent people, industrialists that have invested their money in the State of Pennsylvania. They have supplied labor and have supplied the highest type of jobs that men could ever demand from any State. They have supplied those positions to Pennsylvanians; they have supplied the wages to them. They have kept the family and built a fine county. At least they have played their part in building up one of the finest counties in the State of Pennsylvania. Yes, that belongs to the Pew family in some way or other. Their contribution and the money, which they have spent, has helped that situation along, Senator Dent.

At the present time, as I said before, they have 2,900 people working there. Would the good Senator who always represents labor—and I hear the cry over on the other side—want this shipyard to close and lay off 2,900 union men? How would that set with him? Is that what he wants? Does he want this industry to close? Does he want this shipyard down there in Delaware County—which I judge that he knows the Delaware River flows along side—to move up to Westmoreland County? Is there enough water running down in those hills that we could ship this plant from the Delaware River up to Westmoreland, where business conditions are better and more inviting?

I think that you have hit a new low, Senator, when you stood upon this floor and tried to drag the name of Pew down into politics. I do not see any politics in this bill. It is a sales tax bill. I do not see anybody saying anything about McCloskey or the Kellys or the Greenfields, who poured their money into the coffers of the Democratic Party. I do not hear a word murmured about those gentlemen. Would the good Senator from Westmoreland not like to have the Pew's contribute to the Democratic Party? Certainly he would, and he would be just as :aken if they contributed. However, they happen to be Republicans. There must be Republicans, you know; we :annot all be Democrats.

I resent very much to think that this has happened. I vould like the gentlemen in the Senate to just realize hat here is an industry that is faced with competition cross the river at Camden, where they have no sales tax, n Boston, in New York, in Newport News, in New Orleans, in Japan and in every foreign country in the world hat is underbidding American shipbuilders, and just not nink that the Senator is doing such a great favor for the 'ew industry when he talks about the great shipbuilding iat is being exempted.

I say to you, Mr. President, in keeping this shipyard pen and operating, they are doing a great service to the eople of Delaware County, Philadelphia County, Chester ounty, and Montgomery and Bucks Counties. Maybe a w Westmoreland people are working there. I hope they e, because I have never met anybody from Westmorend that I did not think was all right. I have met people ho come up and pull figures out of the air which I nnot find in the books and do not know where to look ir them but, nevertheless, he has got them somewhere er there, I guess. I do not know.

Now to make fish out of some and fowl out of others, es the good Senator want to protect an industry that is ffering and no longer in a position to make a profit? Des he want to drive this industry from the State of Pnnsylvania? Does he want to lay off these 2,900 men? I vould like to know how he feels about that.

I would like to call to his attention, too, that the Gove nor of the State of Pennsylvania is doing everything t t he can to encourage industry here, so I am told, and I m told that things are so good that he will do most a ything to get them here. I remember last year there ws no complaint from the gentleman when we set up sme 40,000 acres of land for the Curtis airplane people at $1.00 an acre a year or some figure of that sort.

May I say to him just this? It is not fair to tax this industry called shipbuilding. It is not fair to tax this one shipbuilding company that we have. Instead of taxing them, we should help them, and that is just exactly what we are trying to do. I think we would readily agree to help not only the shipbiulding industry but any industry in Pennsylvania, any industry that we could find that was failing due to the fact that competition from the other States was driving their business from the State.

Now the Senator did not mention one thing and I know it will come, so I will answer it very quickly and try to give Senator Mahany a chance to answer these other long, fabulous stories. I would just like to say this to him. Yes, there is an exemption for products that are sold to the ships, the food supplies that the ships handle and serve. If Senator Dent does not want that business, it would be very easy for them to put their stores on at many other ports, Baltimore or some of the others that I have already named. They would all be very happy to get that business. Now if he does not want that business in Pennsylvania, let him put up a strong argument and maybe he will convince somebody that we should tax that, too.

I say to you, Senator Dent, be yourself, and stand for what you know is right and what is not crippling to any industry which you know needs help.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I think most of us know that Senator Watkins comes from Delaware County, and it is perfectly all right for him to make sure that the contributions go to the right places.

I do not believe that the Senator quite understood what I was talking about. I was not objecting to the exemptions to the shipbuilding companies as they were contained in the bill that was passed two years ago. I voted for it. We exempted the shipbuilding and ship repairing, but they were not satisfied with that, Senator, and I think you ought to know this. They have now asked for an exemption and are receiving the exemptions on every item that they might use in their company; their trucks, personnel cars. No other company is getting that.

I know that they had 33,000 people working for them. You know, we used to have 18,000 coal miners out where I live, but there are only about 800 or 1,000 now. Do not tell me that if we pass this bill, you are going to get 33,000 people working in the Sun Ship Building Company. I do not think that is true because if they left there, they left there long before Governor Leader became Governor and I did not see you standing on this floor nor hear you crying then for relief for the Sun Ship Building Company. I never heard of you introducing any legislation to remove the capital stock tax from industry or from the manufacturers or the shipbuilders in the sixteen years that the Republicans were in power. However, all of a sudden, now that we are in power for two years and invoking the same taxes that were on the books during those sixteen years, we have suddenly become the ogre that is chasing industry out of Pennsylvania. I just do not believe that. I have lived through that. It is a myth that started in 1937 when I was a Member of this Senate, and it was blown apart then and it will be blown apart now. Industry will go where industry can best do business.

I do not think that I made any attack upon Mr. Pew. To say that he is not political is, of course, the furthest stretch of imagination that we ever had on this floor. I only made the comment, Senator, that if the family could give $216,000 to the Republican Party in 1956 and if the Sun Oil officials could give $140,000 to the Republican Party in 1956, they could pay the three per cent sales tax the same as a man with ten kids could pay it in Pennsylvania.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, may I remark at the start that if the Senator from Westmoreland is tired, he certainly does not show it?

Last summer, for the first time in our lives, Mrs. Kessler and I took a trip West. It was not political. It was not atending any of the State functions. It was simply a vacation. While in Los Angeles, we took one of the bus trips around the town to see the sights and all the homes of the movie people. As we went along, the guide on the bus called out various places. When we got to one house, he said, "Now this is the Davis home." A young lady in the bus said, "Oh, you mean Marion Davies?" He said, "No, Henry Davis."

We went a little further and the guide pointed out a house that he said was the Roger's home and this lady said, "Do you mean Buddy Rogers?" "No," said the guide with disgust, "Will Rogers."

As we got back down toward town, we passed a church and the guide said, "Here is the First Church of Christ Scientist." The little lady was kind of cowed by that time. She did not say anything, but one of the other men in the bus said, "Go ahead and ask him, Miss, you cannot be wrong all the time; ask him whether it is Jesus Christ."

I feel a little bit as though I cannot be wrong all of the time on this tax proposition. I just cannot understand, in fact I cannot believe that this analysis of House Bill No. 337, which Senator Dent presented to us last week, is his. If it is his, then I offer him an apology. When I made my rebutal statement, I was assuming that this was written by someone else. It is full of errors and I feel if what Senator Dent has said is correct, that the Department of Revenue has checked over his analysis and said it is correct, then I can see why the Department of Revenue is having difficulty collecting revenue under this sales tax. To become a little more specific, from reading the amendment on page 7, which says that the "'sale at retail' shall include the printing or imprinting of tangible personal property for a consideration for persons who furnish either directly or indirectly the materials used in the printing or imprinting," how in the world you can infer that that is going to be used for steel or cinder blocks is just beyond by imagination, Senator, and further how you can say that it is going to cost revenue. In fact, the purpose of putting this thing into the bill was to increase the revenue.

Now there are many people who take paper, tags, and various kinds of cards and have them imprinted to their own design, their own wording, by a printer. They avoid the sales tax by buying the paper, and all that they pay the tax on is the small amount of print ing charge. We are trying in this bill to collect some additional revenue from that source.

The retroactive feature that we originally put in the bill has been withdrawn and should not be a subject of further debate, but let me just say this. The interpretation of this bill, under the regulations issued by the Department of Revenue, is such that they simply destroy the original intent of what we passed.

Senator Dent was a member of the committee that worked in drafting this bill. In fact, credit for the categorical classification I believe can be given to Senator Dent. I do not like that today any more than you do, Senator Dent. I would much rather have a general sales tax. Nevertheless, we have this tax and we have to live with it. I believe it will produce the revenue which you said it would last year and, as evidence of that, let me say that in November and December of 1956 the reports indicated that 20,000,000 was collected in each of those months. The report from McKinsey and Company indicates also that twenty per cent of the returns, or $40,000 roughly, had been set aside by the Department of Revenue for internal audit, and the checks which accompanied those returns were not made available to the State. If that is the case, then we certainly should collect more than $20,000,000 a month.

I agree with you that as we proceed with this tax, the revenue is going to increase and with the monthly transmittal reports which have been provided for in this bill, we should collect in the next biennium which is twenty-five months of collection, if I can figure correctly, $20,000,000 a month times twenty-five months will bring you up to $500,000,000, which is the last estimate that I have released on the collection from this tax.

Senator Dent has a very effective and powerful way of speaking. You cannot help but admire his plea for the little man. I think we all are sympathetic with the little man, but we cannot overlook the fact that all of us are going to have to pay taxes. I think someone, in writing about the Internal Revenue Code, said that you have got to go where the money is, and the bulk of the money, the bulk of it, rests with the little people because God made so many of them.

I would like to refresh the Senator's memory a little bit, if I can. I do not have the figures, but I wish you would refer to page 5 (a) of the Governor's Tax Study Committee Report which was issued last fall. They have comparative figures on the effect in Pennsylvania of a sales tax and also of an income tax. It was agreed by all of the members of that committee, including the labor members, that the sales tax was better by far for the average citizen of Pennsylvania than any other form of tax. That is why the Tax Study Commission recommended that if we needed additional revenue this year, the sales tax should be expanded or enlarged.

I would like to offer, Mr. President, the statement that Senator Dent distributed to each Senator last week and my rebuttal to that, for printing in the Journal. I would like to request that that be done.

The PRESIDENT. The statements will be made a part of the remarks of the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. KESSLER, and printed in the Legislative Journal.

PRELIMINARY ANALYSIS OF HOUSE BILL No. 337 PRINTER'S No. 138

Refund is made a matter of right without filling in various loopholes presently existing and exemptions introduced by this Bill are made retroactive to May 24, 1956. As a result many persons who legally paid taxes on transactions which are exempted by this bill would be entitled to refunds which will in effect be bonanzas. Furthermore, the provisions regarding a monthly transmittal return do not become effective until July 1, 1957. As a result April, 1957 revenues will not come in this biennium.

p3 L18 This extends the manufacturing, mining, ship building and research exemptions to include all equipmnet used from the first production stage (whatever that may be) to the final packaging of the item to be transferred to another.

p4 L4 Printing equipment, supplies and materials are exempted from tax.

p4 L11 The ship building exemption is technically broadened by including rebuilding. p21 L14—No "Direct" requirements and all limitation applicable to manufacturing are not applicable to ship building.

p8 L2 Foundations for productive machinery and equipment are exempted. This would include possibly even for foundations of manufacturing buildings and certainly the heavy bases of productive units such as blast furnaces, chemical distillation columns, etc.

p8 L9 The limitation of the productive (manufacutring, farming, utility) exemption is rewritten in such a way as to exempt from tax, trailers and semi-trailers used to move material-in-production from one manufacturing unit to another. Also, equipment used in the construction repair or maintenance of public utility facilities is exempt from tax even though such equipment is used or owned by an independent construction contractor. (p9 L5) The proposals may even be interpreted by a Court so as to exempt all materials and equipment used to construct manufacturing, farming, and utility buildings. (p9 L8) In addition, it clearly exempts all utility real estate other than buildings. As a result, all utility real estate of any type and character and supplies and equipment used in the construction of such real estate may be exempt from tax.

p10 L15 Under the present law the manufacturing and farm exemption did not extend to "property used or consumed in connection with maintenance facilities." The proposal taxes only the actual maintenance facilities and not the property used in connection therewith. For instance, under the present law both the paint and the paint brush used to paint a factory machine are subject to tax. The amendments exempt the paint from tax.

p10 L18 The present law taxes all property used in connection with administrative facilities. The amendments eliminate this limitation on the productive exemptions and substitute a tax on all property used or consumed in "managerial sales or other non operational activities." This eliminates from tax a great many administrative functions which cannot be considered to be "managerial other than operational." (What ever that is) p11 L5 A new concept of Predominate use is introduced to broaden substantially the productive and utility exemptions. Under the present law an item is subject to tax when substantially or regularly used in a taxable function even though on occasion it may be used for an exempt activity. The amendments would entirely exempt all property purchased for the "purpose" of 51% or more use in an exempt activity. (This creates difficult if not impossible auditing and enforcement problems.)

p12 L14 Under the prosposals a caterer need not collect tax when catering on the premises of a school, church, or hospital even though the catering is in conjuction with a private social affair.

p16 L9 Use of words "any of the operations of" is a legal gimmick which may broaden the manufacturing, farm, and utility exemptions.

p20 L2 A contractor having a pre-March 7th fixed price construction contract is afforded an extended exemption on repair parts purchased to be partially used or consumed in the fulfillment of such contracts. Only supplies and materials used in the fulfillment of such contracts are now exempt. The amendments make supplies and materials "partially used" or "purchased for use" also exempt.

p22 L3 Exemp ion for sale of ship's stores to vessels operated principally outside the limit of the Commonwealth.

p22 L18 A new exemption is provided for false teeth and materials used by a dentist in dental treatment. The balance of this section merely particularizes exemptions presently afforded by regulation.

p29 L 7 Authority to establish effective rates is eliminated.

p29 L 17 Requirement that notice of assessment shall set forth "explicitedly and in detail the amount of the assessment or estimated assessment and grounds for making such assessment or estimated assessment." Legal problems will inevitably arise as to what is suffiiciently explicit and detailed. This will create many technical legal defenses against otherwise proper and valid assessments. The principal of a estimated assessment is that the taxpayer should demonstrate his actual tax liability to overcome the assessment. This section is written so as to create legal technicalities by which an estimated assessment could be contested on the grounds not that the estimate is inacurate or that the actual tax liability is less than that estimated but that the basis of estimation is defective.

p30 L10 This eliminates the power of the Department to prescribe the form of exemption certificate.

p31 L11 Refund is made a matter of right with petition being filed directly with Board of Finance and Revenue rather than the Department. The principal of refund as a matter of right although a substantial departure from historical Conmmonwealth practice is desirable. Refund procedures should be the same as reassessment procedures. It is essential that all the many loopholes in the present Act be corrected in order to preclude substantial refund obligations accruing and that refunds under the new procedures should be made only with respect to transactions occurring after the effective date of the amending Act.

p34 L10 5% penalty for negligence may not be imposed by reason of a mere existence of a deficiency. This will create substantial problems of proof on the part of the Department where there is an understatement of tax but the Department cannot establish the reason for the understatement. It will thus hinder enforcement by destroying an incentive for the taxpayer to file an accurate return.

p35 L14 The penalty for an attempt to evade or defeat the tax is eliminated.

p36 L12 Inserted language would, in effect, enable a taxpayer and his accountant to give the Department a run-around by the taxpayer claiming that the information regarding his financial transactions is not within his knowledge. Thus he can legally rationalize an inaccurate return.

p38 L19 These provisions will permit methods which in the case of a substantial taxpayer are open invitations to fraud and improper practices. The Act should not detail these methods but rather should merely state after the word "method" on page 38, line 19, "that clearly sets forth the segregation of tax receipts from other receipts all in accord with good accounting and business practices."

—31 L1 The requirement of a bond on the filing of a reassessment petition is eliminated thus permitting a taxpayer to use a reassessment petition as an instrument of delay and jeopardize the eventual receipt of revenues by the Comomnwealth.

STATEMENT OF SENATOR EDWARD J. KESSLER

In May of 1956, the Pennsylvania a Legislature passed a Selective Sales and Use Tax Act.

Today, March 15, 1957, the Legislature is considering a bill making extensive amendments to the 1956 Act.

We are under the necessity of passing House Bill 337 in order to insure that the people of this Commonwealth will be taxed in accordance with the intentions of their elected representatives, and not according to the whim or fancy of bureaucrats operating on the policy that "the taxpayer is always wrong."

Almost from the day that the Sales Tax became effective, taxpayers big and little have been plagued by burdensome and capricious rulings and interpretations by the men chosen by Governor Leader to administer and enforce the act.

But did these taxpayer harassments result in bringing in more revenue? If the report of the Governor's special consultants on operation of the Sales Tax Bureau is to be believed, the efforts of the men charged with this responsibility were very far from successful. The money didn't come in.

Thus, when the 1957 Session convened, we faced a situation where our intentions expressed in the Sales Tax Act of 1956 had been misinterpreted and ignored and where the revenue from the act had fallen short.

Therefore, the Republican majority of this Legislature set to work to repair the damage, so far as possible, and to set the tax once more on a proper course, designed to produce budget-balancing revenues for the Commonwealth.

The House found it necessary to continue the rate at three percent in order to meet higher Administration spending. The Senate Finance Committee has endeavored to do two important things: First, to hold the line against new exemptions, and unwarranted broadening of existing ones; Second, to write into the bill such language as will leave the Governor's bureaucrats no room for freakish interpretations, costly to taxpayer and Commonwealth alike.

This has been an honest effort, and one into which I, personally, and many members of the Committee and other Senators, have put a great deal of time and careful study. We have probed into the actual operations of a great many businesses to see the taxpayer's prbolems at first hand. Big and little taxpayers have come to my office and told me their troubles. In a good many cases, we had to say, regretfully, "You have a good case, we know you're telling the truth, but it's clear to us that the way the act is written, you're taxable, and we are duty bound not to open up the law for new exemptions." In some cases, we saw manifest misinterpretation of the intent of the Legislature, and we set about it to make amends—to make such amends, that is, as we could without sacrificing either revenue to the Commonwealth, or the principle upon which we had set our course.

Conscientious though this hardworking Committee's efforts were, it was inevitable that we would meet some opposition in the Senate to the amended bill. I anticipated the sort of direct, honest opposition we have come to expect from the Minority Leader of this Senate. But the unsigned document distributed at his request to the members of this Senate on Tuesday, and orally presented by Senator Dent from the desk of the Minority Leader, was a sneering piece, full of hit-and-run arguments, distortions of sense, and out-and-out mis-quotation. Its author writes much in the vein of the men whose cynical and capricious decisions have made sales tax administration up to this time a burden on Commonwealth and taxpayer alike. The author is a very smart fellow, no doubt, and certainly a propagandist of no mean abilities.

There is sometimes a pretty narrow line between propaganda and fact, but as the propaganda line develops, it diverges more and more from the line of fact, and it lures the brain with come-ons in the form of labels, and imaginative concepts.

On the ensuing pages, I have attempted to draw clearly the line between the truth of House Bill 337, and the propaganda and distortion that screams from every paragraph of the document transmitted to this Senate through Senator Dent this week.

CORRECT ANALYSIS OF HOUSE BILL NO. 337

Any illusion that bonanzas had been conceived for the overburdened Pennsylvania taxpayer by enactment of a retroactive refund provision has been dissipated by an amendment on March 13th to H. B. 337 so this baseless assertion no longer exists as a possibility.

The obvious right of refund for erroneous tax payments is still recognized in H. B. 337 as a matter of common justice.

It was never thought that April, 1957, revenues would come in this biennium so this should provide no surprise.

p3 L18 This definitely establishes that manufacturing is to include only the production activities of a manufacturer, and that the shipping, receiving and other aspects of the manufacturer's business (other than research) are in the taxable area. The amendment merely clarifies what was originally intended. It extends no exemption.

p4 L4 The background of proposed amendments which specifically make printing a form of manufacturing provides an excellent example of the necessity for making the amendments to the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. On July 16, 1956, the Department of Revenue issued a Regulation "No. 230-Printers," which provided that printers were manufacturers and were, therefore, entitled to the manufacturing exemption. On August 11, 1956, this Regulation was modified to provide that printing, other than printing of newspapers, was not manufacturing, and therefore the printing industry was not entitled to the manufacturing exemption. On February 14, 1957, a new Regulation 230 was issued holding that printing is a form of manufacturing. When the Department of Revenue within one year changes its mind three times as to whether or not printing is or is not manufacturing, it is little wonder that this Session of the General Assembly finds it necessary to make clarifying amendments to the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. It is true that printers are now accorded the exemption for manufacturers, but who knows what the Department of Revenue will decide next week. If the Department of Revenue cannot or will not properly interpret the statutes passed by this General Assembly, the General Assembly must put its manifest intent beyond administrative misconstruction.

p 4 LII "Rebuilding" is within the scope of the present law, but was inserted as clarification to forestall a strained interpretation that rebuilding is not an exempt activity. The additional change was made to avoid placing the ship building industry along the Delaware River at a serious competitive disadvantage with the ship building industry across the river in New Jersey, all in the spirit of the Tax Advisory Committee Report of December, 1956.

p8 L2 Foundations of a type specially constructed for machinery and equipment are certainly part of the machinery and equipment and were always intended to be exempt. Despite this logical analysis of the machinery and equipment exemption, the Department of Revenue treated foundations for machinery and equipment as taxable. No further exemption than that originally intended is granted. The Administration is conveniently loose or strict in its interpretation of the law, as necessity dictates, and by no stretch of the imagination can the words "machinery and equipment and parts and foundations therefor" be construed to include the foundation of a building as an exempt item.

p8 L9 There is absolutely no true basis for the statement that the material on page 8, line 9, has been rewritten to exempt trailers and semi-trailers from tax. The sole purpose in the changes made was to simplify the otherwise complicated language of the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. Existing law provides that there shall not be excluded from tax the transfer of any motor vehicle, trailer, semi-trailer or tractor required to be registered under the Vehicle Code or the Tractor Code. The amending language merely says that any vehicle required to be registered under the Vehicle Code or the Tractor Code shall be taxable. "Vehicle" is defined in Section 2 of the Vehicle Code to include motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers.

p9 L5 There is no more basis for reading an exemption for an independent contractors' equipment used in maintining the facilities of a public utility into the amendments to the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act than there is to make such an argument under the existing law. No change is made or intended, and it must be concluded that the objections raised are imaginary. The proposition that the language of the amendments to Section 2 (j) may be construed to exempt the materials and equipment used to construct manufacturing, farming and utility buildings is absolutely ridiculous. The amendments specifically state "that the exclusions provided in paragraphs 1 and 2 shall not apply to materials and supplies to be used or consumed in any construction, etc. of real estate other than machinery, equipment or parts or foundations therefor that may be affixed to such real estate." The public utility exemption in Subsection 3 of Section 2(j) is, of necessity, broader than the exemption for farmers and manufacturers since most of the facilities used by a public utility constitute real estate. This amendment was made necessary by the fantastic proposals of the Administration to the effect that the property purchased by a public utility which becomes real estate under local law will not be entitled to the exemption provided in the sales tax law. It was, of course, never the intention of the Legislature to exempt the buildings of a public utility or the materials used in erecting such buildings, and these items are specifically taxed. If there is any loss of revenue in this amendment, it is revenue which the General Assembly did not intend to collect when it passed the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. These items were specifically discussed in many instances by the Conference Committee which reported the Conference Committee Report on the original Act. Because the Administration has refused to recognize the express intention of the Legislature, it is necessary to reaffirm that original intent.

P10 L15 This objection is also totally groundless. The basic exemption is given to tangible personal property used or consumed in manufacturing, farming and rendering of a public utility service. The language on page 10 clearly makes taxable materials constituting maintenance facilities or tangible personal property to be used or consumed in managerial, sales or other non-operational activities. Obviously, painting is part of "other non-operational activities" and is subject to tax.

P10 L18 This objection does not make sense. The present law taxes property used in connection with administration facilities. The amendments limit any exemption to operational activities and the amendments tax all non-operatonal activities. The quotation "managerial other than operational" in the material submitted to the Senate by Senator Dent nowhere appears in the law. Any fair reading of the present bill will indicate that the amendments define the taxable areas to a greater extent than the existing law. The burden would rest upon the taxpayer claiming exemption to show that the activities are operational activities.

P11 L 5 Of all the objections raised to the proposed amendments to the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act, this objection is indeed the most hypocritical. In Printer's No. 1703 of H. B. 2101 of the 1955-56 Session of the General Assembly, the predominant use language was used. In the conference committee meetings and report the language was removed at the request of the Administration because of doubts expressed as to what it would do to other areas of the law. It was represented, however, that the predominant use concept expressed in these amendments would be utilized in issuing regulations under the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act. The present amendment is an attempt to restore good faith and original intent to their proper places.

It is no answer to say that the making of exemptions creates auditing problems. Other states are able to meet these problems and a competent sales tax administration should be able to do so in Pennsylvania.

P12 L14 Again Senator Dent's informants are tilting at windmills. "A private social affair" is hardly within the ordinary course of the activities of a school, church or hospital. The true purpose of this amendment is to require drive-in restaurants to collect the tax and to make clear that a church need not distinguish between the sales to its members and sales to its non-members when it holds a church dinner. The latter has been the distorted interpretation of the Department of Revenue.

P16 L9 To attribute the use of "a legal gimmick" to the Senate Finance Committee is most reprehensible. These words are abusive and unwarranted. They are plainly insulting. They are harmful to the cordial relations which ordinarily obtain on the part of the Senate, its Finance Committee, and the Administration. There is no attempt to broaden this exemption beyond that which was originally intended in May of 1956. The Department has construed "directly" so narrowly as to practically deprive industry in this Commonwealth of the exemptions for the activities vital to it.

I cite, for example, legal unit ruling No. 148—in which it is held that filling, packing or otherwise placing a manufactured product into a container is not a direct production activity.

If these operations are not directly a part of manufacturing, then there is little left of the exemption.

p22 L3 Section 203(k) exempts the purchaser of ships stores in Pennsylvania from the tax. This was deemed necessary to place the ports of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in a competitive position. Why this deserves comment is beyond imagination.

p22 L18 Section 203 (1) is substantially the same exemption found in the 1953 Consumer's Sales Tax, for crutches, artificial limbs false teeth, eye glasses, braces and supports. These items being of the same category, it was considered they should be treated similarly.

p29 L7 It is not true that effective rates have been eliminated. Section 541 has been amended by removing the sole authority of the Department of Revenue to establish effective rates and make arbitrary assessments. This power can be the subject of grave abuse. At the same time Section 581 is amended to allow the Department of Revenue and the vendor by mutual agreement to reach effective rates which can be applied to the total gross receipts of the vendors, thereby simplifying the auditing procedures and collection problems of both parties.

p29 L17 The amendments to Section 541 merely place in the statute a fundamental rule of fair play. The Administration should have adhered to this principle without the necessity of legislation.

It has come to the attention of the Senate Finance Committee that the Department of Revenue has made assessments and has refused to supply the taxpayer with the reasons and the basis for the making of the assessment. I quote from Senator Dent's informant, "The principal (sic) of a estimated assessment is that the taxpayer should demonstrate his actual tax liability to overcome the assessment." Thus the Department of Revenue would require the taxpayer to reconstruct his entire operation involving, in many cases, hundreds of thousand of invoices and transactions, before the taxpayer can overcome what well may be an arbitrary and unconscionable assessment. Furthermore, Section 542 which allows the taxpayer to file a petition for reassessment requires the taxpayer to "set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that the assessment is erroneous or unlawful." May I ask how the taxpayer is to set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the assessment is erroneous or unlawful if the Department of Revenue refuses to inform the taxpayer of the nature of the underpayment?

p30 L10 Senator Dent's informant again makes a conveniently erroneous statement. The Department of Revenue has the general authority to prescribe forms and returns in the administration of taxing statutes. It is the purpose of this amendment to eliminate the possibility that the Department of Revenue may invalidate an exemption certificate if it fails to comply with an unessential requirement of the Department.

The Department of Revenue has already issued no less than 13 forms of exemption certificates and the end is not yet in sight because in some instances the Department has still to issue certificates to cover particular types of transactions.

It is submitted that slight deviations from the required form should not be made the basis for the invalidation of an exemption certificate. Is it any wonder there is general consternation and confusion on the part of the public?

P34 L10 Section 571 (b) is amended to make it clear that the 5% penalty provided therein should be added to the deficiency only in the case of negligence or intentional disregard of rules and regulations and that the mere existence of a deficiency does not constitute negligence or intentional disregard of rules and regulations. It has come to the attention of the Senate Finance Committee that the Department of Revenue is adding the penalty to all deficiencies. If the Legislature had intended a 5% penalty for all deficiencies, it obviously would not have put in the words "negligence or intentional disregard of rules and regulations." This Section would not have been changed had it been intelligently administered. For example, a case has come to the attention of the Committee where a 5% penalty was added to a deficiency for the period from March 7 through June 30, 1956. Since the regulations were not issued until after July 16, 1956, there were no regulations to disregard and if anyone was negligent, it was the Department of Revenue and not the taxpayer.

P35 L14 Section 572 (b) is amended to remove the 100% penalty against any person who wilfully attempts to evade or defeat the tax. The Department of Revenue in Regulation 420 (f) erroneously interprets Section 572 (b) as imposing a fraud penalty on accountants, attorneys, and others who advise taxpayers as to the non-taxability of transactions under the Act and who then do not disclose such transactions on the return of the taxpayer. The Act, as amended, preserves a 50% fraud penalty as to taxpayers.

P36 L12 This amendment was made because it has come to the attention of the Committee that taxpayers and their agents are, in some cases, being required to take an affidavit as to information which is not within the personal knowledge of the person required to take the affidavit.

P38 L19 These provisions are adopted substantially from the present regulation TRa-502. Any "open invitations to fraud and improper practices," therefore, must be those of the Department of Revenue.

P31 L11 Within the last several days, the Department of Revenue has issued regulation TRa-601 which would require every taxpayer petitioning the Department of Revenue for reassessment, to file a bond in the amount of the assessment plus 10%, with a surety. This questionable requirement is based on Section 585 (a), which says that the taxpayer may be required to file a bond on such occasion. Section 585 contemplates such a bond only when the Department has reason to believe that the taxpayer is filing a petition for reassessment to delay the payment of the tax and when such a delay will pace the ultimate collection of the tax in jeopardy.

It was never the intention to require such a bond in the case of all petitions for reassessment. Such a requirement imposes a severe hardship in the case of small taxpayers who will be required to go to the expense of filing bonds with their petitions for reassessment. Section 585 has been amended to remove the authority of the Department of Revenue to require bonds in the case of petitions for reassessment. This is another instance in which the Department of Revenue has demonstrated its inability to use intelligently an enforcement provision given to it by the General Assembly.

In summary, it has been demonstrated, item for item, that the Senate has been presented through Senator Dent, perhaps unintentionally on his part, with an entirely misleading and inaccurate analysis of H. B. 337.

It is submitted that any fair reading of the amendments establishes their justification.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Kessler.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. KESSLER, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KESSLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Why did you leave out the fact that you amended out of the bill the words "fabricating and producing"?
